Hartwell Is Facing Six Weeks in Hospital

EDMONTON (CP) — Four to six weeks in hospital still lie ahead of Martin Hartwell, the northern pilot who survived an air crash and 32 days in the Arctic wilderness.

Hospital spokesmen say the 46-year-old West German will have to undergo corrective surgery to his left knee and right ankle. The knee surgery would have to be done within two weeks.

Mr. Hartwell suffered two broken ankles, a broken knee and a smashed nose when the Beechcraft 18 he was piloting crashed Nov. 8 during a medical mercy mission. Three passengers, being flown from Cambridge Bay in the Arctic to Yellowknife, N.W.T., hospital, were dead when Mr. Hartwell was found Saturday.

One of Mr. Hartwell's doctors has said one of the broken ankles is in proper alignment, but the other, and the knee, started to heal out of alignment.

Hospital dieticians are bringing Mr. Hartwell back to a normal diet to build his strength for the surgery. He had been fed liquids, then semi-solids because his stomach had shrunk during the ordeal, in which he had nothing but melted snow and lichen to eat toward the end.

New Phone Services Offered

DETROIT (AP) — If the wrong party answers, don't hang up.

And if a mysterious tone sounds while you're talking, it's not someone hugging your line, but another caller.

Michigan Bell has introduced four new services over the last few months and has notified 6,800 business customers and 7,250 residential customers, mostly in the downtown area, that the services now are available to them.

One of the most popular services is called "call waiting."

A customer already talking is notified of an incoming call by a short tone. The caller hears one ring instead of a busy signal.

By clicking the receiver, the first caller can be put on hold and the customer can talk to the second party. Another click and he's back with the first party.

Another service is "call forwarding." The customer dials a code and the phone number to which he wants calls forwarded. He cancels the order when he returns home.

Mick McDonnell, Michigan Bell business office manager, said there have been 250 orders for the services so far, with call forwarding and call waiting each representing about 45 per cent of the orders.

He said the new services now are being tested in 11 of the 23 different Bell Systems throughout the U.S. The prices of the services vary according to use, either residential or business.

Veterinarian's Life Not Without Problems

ROCKFORD, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Lloyd Miller has more trouble with people than the animals he deals with.

A case in point:

A frantic woman banged on his door and there was a bleeding dog cradled in her arms.

The part collie was whimpering and his paws and legs were torn and mangled.

Dr. Miller abandoned his dinner and took the dog in.

"She told me her husband had tied the family pet to the car and she accidentally drove off a few blocks before she heard it," he said.

"I didn't ask for more details."

Dr. Miller injected a pain-killing drug and when he started to operate, he asked his assistant, his daughter Marlene, to leave when she started to cry.

The heave of life in the dog's chest stopped and Dr. Miller gave adrenalin and blew air into the dog's lungs.

Two minutes later, the heaving was back.

Dr. Miller sewed up the bleeding limbs. The dog recovered.

Dr. Miller does not lose many patients and the veterinarian in this little community just south of Owen Sound is loved and respected by his clientele.

"Rural practice is hard work and the overhead is big when a vet starting out can expect to earn about $12,000," said the 37-year-old 1961 graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph.

In many ways, Dr. Miller, a plaid-shirted farmer born in Fiesherton, likes the rural scene.

Besides his dedication to animal care, he has 40 Herefords and a 63-acre farm.

But few people know he's more than a farmer.

Since returning from a two-year course at the University of Maryland, his green radio-dispatched truck has been a familiar sight to farmers.

Dr. Miller and his three veterinarian associates operate in a $75,000 clinic at Rockford.

The new clinic has an 85-foot radio tower that works with two-way control and with three trucks, the clinic has a good working radius of 35 miles.

"All of this has given us a chance to get into preventive medicine for the first time," said Dr. Miller.

That program alone now has 12 herds registered for regular visits to check udder infections and pregnancy tests.

But Mr. Miller spends most of his time answering house calls.

On the way home one night —supper was already in the oven—he got an emergency call from a farmer who had a cow with birth problems for more than a week.

"Why do they always wait until the weekend to call a vet?" he asked under his breath.

When he got there, he inserted his arm into the cow's birth canal and strained to pull the calf, about to be born, backwards.

After awhile, he inserted a small chain around the calf's neck and winched it out.

Both animals lived.

Doomsday Prophets Deplored

NEW YORK (AP) — A leading British scientist blames "doomsday prophets" in the ecology movement for scaring people with exaggerated predictions and for diverting interest from the big problems: poverty, disease and avoidable death and misery.

"They see the day when we'll breed, starve or poison ourselves to death," said John Maddox, author of The Doomsday Syndrome and editor of the 105-year-old Nature magazine. "I think it's absurd to say that, unless we do something, we'll all be dead."

"The de m a g r a p h i c catastrophes which are prominent in the doomsday movement are unreal threats," he wrote in his book, published recently.

Maddox examines the problems of population, pollution and use of natural resources. He acknowledges these are issues to be dealt with in a pragmatic, non-hysterical way.

However, he does not see the popular environment issue as a threat to life on earth. Instead, it's a question of the quality of life and how much money people can afford to pay for it.

Stavanger and Aberdeen Rivals as Oil Capitals

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — A tug of war is in full swing across the turbulent North Sea between two cities both claiming to be the oil capital of Northern Europe.

So far, this western Norwegian city and Aberdeen in Scotland—both deep-water harbors well suited for servicing and supplying the oil rigs and production platforms operating in the North Sea—seem to be locked in a tie.

The cities, main jump-off ports for oilmen working in the North Sea, are watching each other closely as each plans ambitious projects to meet the oil companies' needs.

An 11-man delegation from Aberdeen city council visited Stavanger recently to find out how the Norwegians are handling p r o b l e m s arising from North Sea oil.

Arne Rettedal, the mayor of Stavanger, says it is a good idea to discuss common problems. But he admits that there is "a certain competition" between Stavanger and Aberdeen over North Sea oil.

"We feel our position is good; we are not particularly worried," Rettedal says.

Both Stavanger and Aberdeen seem sure to reap a bonanza.

The oil giants are expected to plunge billions of dollars into the highly promising North Sea area during the next decade.

The giant Ekofisk field in the N o r w e g i a n off-shore sector some 200 miles southwest of Stavanger, now is producing 40,000 barrels of crude oil daily on a test basis.

When completed next fall, the so-called Ekofisk City will produce an estimated 300,000 barrels of oil daily from a total of 30 wells.

An internationally-known oil expert estimated that the North Sea could produce some 40 per cent of Western Europe's total needs for oil and gas by the middle of the 1980s. Prof. Peter R. Odell of Rotterdam's School of Commerce said oil production might well reach 10 million barrels a day by the beginning of the 1980s.

Stavanger, an 800-y e a r - o l d city with 82,000 people, has already become Norway's official "oil capital." The oil activity has created some 1,000 new jobs in the Stavanger area.

But oil has brought problems too. Stavanger has become one of the most expensive cities in Norway and there is a housing shortage.

However, city officials say they intend to solve the problems.

CP News Roundup

Parliament Hill Pie Now Costs 15 Cents

OTTAWA (CP) — Inflation hit Wednesday in what probably was one of the final holdouts in the country.

Prices jumped at the two cafeterias on Parliament Hill. Worse, they may go up at the Centre Block restaurant, the dining place of MPs, senators and assorted hangers-on, when the new Parliament sits Jan. 4.

But food prices on Parliament Hill are still rock bottom because the House of Commons pays the staff of more than 100 and prices are geared merely to return the basic costs of the food, plus a small "profit."

So W. E. Pentecost, who manages the three eating establishments, didn't feel too guilty Wednesday when he boosted the price of pie a nickel to 15 cents and raised the take on a standard dinner, meat and two vegetables, to 85 cents from 45. Tea, coffee and large-sized fruit juices remain just 10 cents.

It's not yet clear whether inflation will also make its presence felt at the Parliament Restaurant, the most privileged enough to get in have a choice of five full-course dishes for a standard price of $1.50, or $2 if they want a carafe of wine.

Mr. Pentecost said a decision on restaurant prices will be made before the House sits Jan. 4.

The cafeterias are open to pretty well everyone who happens to work in the Parliament Buildings but the restaurant, open only when the House sits, is more restricted, used mainly by MPs, senators and their guests, plus members of the press gallery and a handful of senior civil servants.

Mutchmor Ill

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. James Mutchmor, former moderator of the United Church of Canada, is recovering in hospital from a prostate operation a month ago.

The 80-year-old churchman, who held the church's top post from 1963 to 1965, re-entered Toronto Western Hospital three weeks ago when he had a relapse after the operation.

Wins Medal

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Bruce Rankin of Canada was awarded a UN medal of excellence Wednesday for getting his meetings started on time. Rankin, Canada's counsel-general in New York, has served as chairman of the General Assembly's economic and financial committee during this year's assembly session. Most of the assembly's seven main committee meetings begin 15 to 30 minutes after the appointed time.

Probe Asked

HAMILTON (CP) — Federal transport department spokesman said Wednesday the department has asked the RCMP to investigate the Hamilton Harbor Commission before the department acts on a request from the city for a judicial inquiry into the activities of the commissioners.

"We're awaiting a report from the RCMP before we make any recommendation," the official said. Any recommendation would be made to Transport Minister Jean Marchand.

Seek Women

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The St. John's RCMP detachment has undertaken an investigation to find two women who may have information about a 15-year-old Kleinburg, Ont., girl missing from her home since Aug. 16.

Constable John Greer told a news conference Wednesday that Ingrid Bauer left her home to hitch-hike to a friend's house a short distance away but has not been seen since.

He said two women were seen in a St. John's shopping centre Aug. 18 talking with a girl answering Miss Bauer's description.

Compensated

TORONTO (CP) — Paul Emile Carriere of Cayuga has been awarded $400 for pain and suffering and $134 for legal expenses incurred after he was beaten by three fellow-prisoners in jail.

Woman Freed

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's supreme military court overturned Wednesday a lower military tribunal decision and found Tanya Charlers Chao of Vancouver not guilty of subversion against the Brazilian government.

Mrs. Chao, 27, was sentenced in May to one year in prison for collaborating with an underground Communist guerrilla organization that wanted to overthrow this country's military-run regime. She proclaimed her innocence throughout the case.

Mrs. Chao spent nearly eight months in prison in 1970 and 1971 awaiting trial. She testified later that she was tortured with electric shocks and that interrogators once threw a live alligator into her cell. The next Mrs. Chao spent in jail before the original conviction was discounted from the sentence.

Defence lawyers said Mrs. Chao planned to leave Brazil Wednesday night on a flight bound for Los Angeles.

Death Quick

TORONTO (CP) — Only five per cent of game animals caught by hunters in Ontario "do not die instantly," Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier told the legislature Wednesday.

He was commenting on a bill term given Ted Snake for tampering with seven animal traps he found near his animal preserve at Manitouwadge near Geraldton.

Mr. Bernier said Mr. Stokoe "has been warned by my conservation officers on several occasions in the last 18 months" respect to his tampering with traps, which are set mainly to protect his property, and he has been very antagonistic of conservation officers in this area."

Name Changed

TOBONTO (CP) — Dennis McDermott, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers, said Wednesday a Toronto firm which folded Aug. 30 when its employees went on strike has reopened with a new name and is hiring non-union employees.

The firm, Canadian Acme Screw and Gear Co. Ltd., had refused its 250 workers separation pay on the grounds that the strike had forced it to close.

Mr. McDermott said the firm, now called Canac Ltd., a subsidiary of Leery Industries Ltd., will start producing shock absorbers Monday.

Not Examined

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury, investigating the death of a prisoner at nearby Millbrook Correctional Centre, recommended Wednesday that all persons admitted to the prison system be examined by a doctor.

The jury was inquiring into the death of Donald Durant, 30, in a Peterborough hospital Sept. 24 after three operations.

David Wadell, a clerk at the institution, said records showed that Durant did not have a medical examination when he entered the prison June 20 to serve a sentence of two years less one day, on 10 charges of uttering, attempted fraud and false pretences.

Many Bilingual

OTTAWA (CP) — Nearly one-third of Ontario's Grade 13 high-school students and about 20 per cent of Grade 12 students in other provinces report they are sufficiently bilingual to carry on a conversation in either English or French.

Plan Preserve

HAMILTON (CP) — The Spectator says the Ontario natural resources ministry has proposed a wildlife preserve in the midst of a residential district in north Toronto.

However, the newspaper quotes William Creighton, an ornithologist with the ministry's wildlife branch, as saying:

Pay Withheld

TORONTO (CP) — The salary of a Toronto alderman who initiated a lawsuit against the city has been withheld, city clerk Gordon Batchelor said Wednesday.

He said Ben Grys's aldermanic pay for the first half of December was held up on instructions of city solicitor William Callow.

Mr. Callow said the decision resulted from a ruling by the Ontario Court of Appeal two weeks ago which stated that Mr. Grys ceased to be an alderman in July when he initiated the lawsuit.

Farm Union Split With NDP Evident

WINNIPEG (CP) — An estrangement may be in the cards for the love affair between the National Farmers Union and the Manitoba government.

Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba and his agriculture minister, Sam Uskiw, who as a practising farmer holds a membership in the union, agreed with President Roy Atkinson that the net income of farmers must be improved.

But they failed to agree on at least one method of how this should be done.

Mr. Uskiw said he was aware of the policy direction of the union had changed during the last 10 years on the role of agricultural product marketing boards. "with some degree of credibility."

He said there were benefits to producers from the marketing boards although they may not be as fully realized as some in would like to see."

Mr. Atkinson said the union wanted Mr. Schreyer and Mr. Uskiw to "rethink this whole proposition" and adopt a leadership position for all Canadian farmers.

He said the union's experience has shown marketing boards are a "trap" for producers and this led to the change in policy.

Queen Wants to Sign Diplomats' Credentials

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has had an exchange of views with the Queen regarding a possible overhaul of the Royal Prerogative in The Area of Diplomacy, Prime Minister Trudeau's office disclosed Wednesday.

The Queen opposed a suggestion that she might discontinue signing letters of credence of Canadian envoys to other countries, turning the responsibility over to Canada's Governor-General instead.

The Canadian government will abide by her wishes on this point, said the prime minister's office.

However, the sovereign said she had no serious objection to four other changes which Ottawa proposed.

These provide that the Governor-General be vested with responsibility for granting agreement to appointments of foreign ambassadors and ministers to Canada; acceptance of letters of recall of the same foreign personnel; and appointment and recall of Canadian ambassadors and ministers, except for signing their credentials.

All these functions are currently exercised by the Queen.

A spokesman for Mr. Trudeau emphasized that the exchange, which took place earlier this year, was exploratory only. It had not yet been decided whether to put into effect the changes which the Queen agreed to.

The changes were proposed with a view to "simplifying some of the procedures," it was explained.

On the question of signing letters of credence of Canadian ambassadors, the Queen is said to have argued that since they are addressed by one head of state to another, foreign heads of state might misunderstand the presence of any signature but her own on the credentials of Canadian envoys.

Queen's Stand Backed

MONTREAL (CP) — John Almers, president of the Monarchist League of Canada, said Wednesday he supported the Queen's decision to keep signing letters of credence of Canadian eyeys to other countries.

Mr. Almers said in a statement that the league "welcomes this assertion of the royal prerogative."

USSR Will Buy Food

WINNIPEG (CP) — Russia intends to continue purchases of Canadian foodstuffs under plans covering the short, intermediate and long terms, Premier Ed Schreyer said Wednesday.

Mr. Schreyer told delegates to the National Farmers Union annual meeting shortly after his return from an eight-day tour of the Soviet Union that he was told of the plans during a lengthy discussion with Russia's agriculture minister.

"This is a message I think you will want to accept with a positive feeling."

Unilingual Will Get Assurance

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is expected to lower the heat on its controversial bilingualism program today by giving new reassurances to unilingual public servants.

Treasury Board President Charles M. Drury said Wednesday he would be making a statement of "clarification" on the bilingualism program—but Liberal MPs who heard an outline on the statement said it will be much more than a clarification.

The method of implementing the program has been the core of the controversy. Opposition MPs, along with some Ottawa-area Liberals, have charged that unilingual public servants have been discriminated against as the government presses toward its target date of 1975 for a functional bilingual public service.

Transfers Protested

CN Firemen Booking Off

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A meeting between Canadian National management and firemen protesting proposed transfer to Toronto today was reported to have ended inconclusively.

The meeting followed work book-offs by firemen last night, an action which climaxed apparent deadlock of negotiation over terms of the transfers.

Details on the dispute from both management and labor sources have been scanty.

But, firemen apparently fear the transfers — to work as engineers in Toronto — will result in lower seniority status, reduced pay and higher living costs, since the firemen are resident in Belleville.

This morning's meeting with management lasted about three hours and firemen were scheduled to hold discussions among themselves at 1 p.m. in the city's Engineer's Hall.

"The gist of the situation right now is that this morning's meeting was inconclusive," said a labor source. "There was no agreement with management."

The spokesman stressed that the booking-off protest did not have official union backing.

He described it as "a rank-and-file action."

Numbers involved were not known, but the firemen were said to have received support from engineers working at the Belleville CN yards.

There were some conflicting reports of the effects of the protest move.

The firemen's spokesman said "some shortage" of workers had been created, but didn't know to what extent. He said supervisory personnel were being used to help maintain services.

The CN spokesman last night said there still were sufficient men to fill work assignments and he did not anticipate any immediate disruptions of services.

Later today, another railroad official said there has "been no disruptions at all. Everything is moving. . ."

Boy Says His Award Was Unfair to Girls

Richard has accepted a $30-award for being top male Grade 10 student at his school last year, but not without speaking his mind about the fairness of the award.

"No one in the world measures you according to sex like that," he said in a letter to the Toronto board of education.

He said such awards should not be classified by sex. An award such as the one he collected was "crummy," he wrote.

Richard actually finished third academically in the Grade 10 ratings. The top finisher, a girl, received a $30 scholarship for being top girl in Grade 10.

But the second finisher, another girl, received nothing. That, Richard said, was unfair.

Vietnam Ceasefire No Closer

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Agreement on a Vietnam ceasefire seems headed for a further delay, possibly for weeks, while the White House tries to find the formula for an acceptable peace settlement.

President Nixon met twice Thursday with his chief foreign policy adviser, Henry Kissinger, who returned late Wednesday night from Paris after 10 days of talks with Hanoi's principal negotiator, Le Duc Tho.

The White House maintained its refusal to comment on how the talks were progressing—or why they might be stalled—but occasional clues that emerged seemed to signify that much of the difficulty still lies with Saigon.

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam has been insisting that all North Vietnamese troops must leave the South before he will sign an agreement and that his country must be assured its sovereignty and integrity.

The Columbia Broadcasting System quoted President Nixon as telling friends that a fundamental issue still remained unsolved and that peace still seemed a long way off.

United Again, 3 Astronauts Orbiting Moon

HOUSTON (AP) — Three American astronauts, united again after the Apollo program's final and most bountiful moon-landing expedition, lingered in lunar orbit today surveying the surface below for still more knowledge.

Gone was the landing ship Challenger, which had carried Apollo 17's Eugene Cernan and Harrison Jack Schmitt to the surface for 75 hours and then returned them safely to the command ship America and reunion with Ronald Evans.

In the early morning hours, Challenger was thrust away from the command ship, and a radio signal from Mission Control sent it crashing into the moon.

Today, and for most of Saturday until they start their journey home, the astronauts' task was to probe the moon with cameras and sophisticated sensing devices. They were in an orbit 60 miles above the surface.

Cernan and Schmitt completed man's most successful moon visit ever late Thursday when they rocketed off the lunar surface with a record cargo of moon samples and film.

Included in the sealed boxes of samples were two core tubes and several bags filled with a mysterious red - orange soil which may be the youngest lunar samples ever collected. Scientists believe the colorful soil may be a product of one of the moon's last volcanos.

After transferring the lunar treasure into America, the astronauts cast off Challenger, freeing it for destruction in the cause of science. The lander, which cost $40 million, could not have been returned to earth with the command ship.

On radio commands from earth, Challenger fired its rocket thrusters and sent itself speeding to an impact near the Taurus-Littrow valley.

Force of the impact—equivalent to 200 pounds of TNT—caused a seismic shock which excited quake-detection instruments left on the moon by Apollo 17 and by previous Apollo missions. The readings will be studied by scientists on earth.

Apollo 17 is to rocket out of moon orbit at 6:33 p.m. Saturday. The astronauts, while on the backside of the moon and out of contact with earth, will fire America's powerful service propulsion system. It will propel the craft out of lunar orbit and send it toward home.

The spaceship will speed earthward for 2½ days, and the last Apollo will end with splashdown Tuesday in the South Pacific.

Bomb Kills Bride Mailing Wedding Bids

BELFAST (CP) — A 18-year-old girl returning from mailing invitations to her wedding caught the full blast of a bomb that rocked a village in Northern Ireland Thursday night and died almost immediately.

Kathleen Dolan was to have been married Jan. 13.

A few minutes later, in Belfast, an unidentified youth died in hospital. He was gunned down by one of two men roaring past him on a motorcycle, police said.

Aussie Baby Chews Snake, He Lives, But Snake Dies

PERTH, Australia (AP) — An 18-months-old boy who swallowed most of a poisonous snake was resting, apparently unharmed, in hospital tonight. The snake did not recover.

Paul Jess had swallowed eight inches of the foot-long snake—head first—when his mother found him with the tail wriggling in his mouth.

"I snatched that out and threw it on the ground," Mrs. Jesse said.

But Paul didn't want to let go, his mother said: "He didn't like it taken off him and grabbed to have another chew. In his mouth, I found bits of chewed snake. I rushed him to a chemist and then rang the hospital."

Legislature Prorogues at 9.30 After All-night Sitting

TORONTO (CP) — The second-session of the 29th Ontario legislature prorogued at 9:30 a.m. EST today after a gruelling 17½-hour non-stop sitting during which the major legislation of the pre-Christmas four-week session was approved.

Thirty-nine bills, approved at the mini-session which began Nov. 21, were given royal assent by Lt.-Gov. W. Ross Macdonald, including one to place dentorists, who make false teeth, under supervision of the dental profession.

The most significant of the five bills left to die on the order paper was one to control independent credit reporting agencies.

Weary members, who had sat since 2 p.m. Thursday, debated 10 bills through second reading and committee stage in the long hours of evening and early morning. One of them was a major amendment to add three per cent to the provincial rate on personal income tax.

Income tax was reduced by three per cent last year, for 1972 only, and the amendment was to reinstate the rate.

Leader Stephen Lewis and his 19 New Democratic opposition members opposed the bill, saying it would mean higher income taxes for Ontario residents next year. He charged the government had tried to hide the increase by "seeking to pass this bill in the dead of the night."

Premier William Davis stood steadfast as the NDP launched full-scale debates on each bill and forced seven vote counts.

There were frequent angry outbursts between all three parties.

The premier said later in an interview changes will be made at future sessions to prevent a recurrence of the marathon sitting, probably the longest a provincial house has met in recent times.

Mr. Davis also said in an interview the new session will open in February.

In its midnight-dawn wrangling, the house also passed a bill to create a new code of ethics for municipal councillors who now will have to disclose conflicts of interest, and abstain from discussing issues in which they have personal or financial interest.

Quebec Hijack Ends Quietly

MONTREAL (CP) — A rifle - wielding hijacker who commandeered a Quebecair jet at Wabush, Nfld., then ordered it to Montreal, Ottawa, and back to Montreal, released his hostages and surrendered here Thursday night.

Larry Maxwell Stanford, 26, of St. John, N.B., was charged early today with hijacking.

Four crew members were held hostage for 19½ hours by a man with a single-shot .22-calibre rifle. The 32 passengers and one stewardess left the plane during the first one-hour, 18 minute stop at Montreal.

The hijacker, described by passengers as nervous, had said he would release the crew only after he had seen his father and a psychiatrist.

John Maxwell Stanford was brought in Montreal International Airport, where he met Dr. Bruno Cormier, a Montreal psychiatrist specializing in legal work.

Passengers, crew, police, and the psychiatrist seemed unanimous in their descriptions of the hijacker as a "confused-up kid."

Police said the man asked if he would have to pay Quebecair damages.

"He seemed as happy as ye were that the hijacking was over," Dr. Cormier said.

Stewardess Lise Kazmerchuk said he had once told a psychiatrist in the western Labrador mining town of Wabush, 625 miles northeast of here, he would hijack a plane. The psychiatrist told him "we don't do such things." Miss Kazmerchuk said.

"The man decided on his actions because he needed help. He said he had no job and his wife had left him and he felt he was not getting help from his psychiatrist," she said.

When he first boarded the plane in Wabush he said he wanted to go to Vancouver, but when told the aircraft would have to refuel at Montreal he agreed to the stop.

At Montreal the passengers and one stewardess were allowed to disembark and the plane was ordered to Ottawa.

As soon as the plane touched down at Ottawa, the man said he wanted to go back, then changed his mind again. After a 15-minute stop, he was persuaded by Stewardess Josette Cote to return to Montreal and consult a psychiatrist, airport officials said.

Uwe Munstermann, co-pilot, and Capt. Maurice Ouellet were the other crew members held hostage. Stewardess Denise Lamothelin left the plane with the passengers. All crew members were from Montreal.

Capt. Ouellet said he never felt the lives of his passengers were endangered.

Authorities Will Be Regionalized

The Moira River Conservation Authority will become part of a new province-wide regional setup, members of the authority were told Thursday at Canifton.

Jim Anderson, representing the Conservation Authorities Branch of the Ministry of Natural Resources, told the year-end meeting that the idea of the regional setup was to reduce the amount of communication necessary between local authorities and the Toronto head office.

He said boundary lines for the different regions still had not been decided and asked for comments before final boundary lines were drawn.

Mr. Anderson said the Moira authority would either be on what would be known as the Central Region with headquarters at Richmond Hill or in the Eastern Region where office would be in either Kingston or Ottawa.

Joel Finley, the new Moira Authority conservation manager, was formally introduced at the meeting. Mr. Finley succeeds John Wuite who was transferred to the Sudbury district.

Authority members voted to make application for approval of another winter works program this winter. Proposed projects will include brushing at authority reforestation lots and thinning and pruning at the new Sidney township field station.

Donations of Kidneys Are Made Convenient

LONDON (Reuter) — A little red card will soon be made available to millions of Britons, enabling them to donate their kidneys for transplantation after sudden death.

The idea, just endorsed by the government, is designed to produce the highly successful transplant operations now being performed at a rate approaching 500 a year in British alone.

Parliament has now said that donor identification cards will be displayed in doctors' offices and hospital wards.

Anyone willing to so donate his kidneys will be able to pick up a card, fill in his name and acknowledge that he has discussed the matter with his next-of-kin. Names, addresses and telephone numbers of next-of-kin will also be listed. The potential donor will be asked to keep the card with him at all times.

It still is not clear, however, whether the card alone will be regarded as sufficient permission for removal of the kidneys of a highway accident victim, for example, or whether a further check will have to be made with the next-of-kin.

Here the time factor is all-important. To be of use, kidneys must be removed from donors within an hour after their deaths. Left in the body beyond that the kidney is damaged irreparably.

If no official ruling is made by the government or by responsible medical authorities, a number of surgeons could be expected to go ahead and remove kidneys in the strength of the card alone, or perhaps after they had tried but failed to consult relatives.

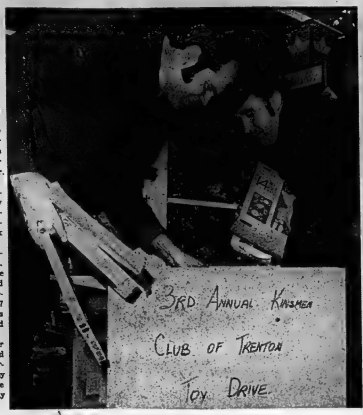
Yule Plans All Set



PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County is beginning to look a lot like Christmas as residents enthusiastically plan for the holiday season.

In Bloomfield village tree prizes have been offered for decorative lighting displays and judges will make their decisions between December 17 and 23.

Mrs. Richard Lunn will conduct a pre-Christmas story hour for youngsters in Wellington village library on Saturday, December 16 to mark the holiday season.

In Picton, residents are invited by the Church of St. Mary Magdalene to attend the festival of nine lessons and carols to be held by candlelight on Sunday, December 17 at 7 p.m. This invitation is extended as a Christmas card to the community.

The Picton Handbell Choir will perform at the United Church here this Sunday directed by James Benvie. Many other Christmas activities are planned throughout the county during the holidays.

Toys for Tots

The Salvation Army and Kinsmen Club in Trenton have joined forces to provide toys for needy children this Christmas. They have spotted six donation boxes at stores, banks and CFB Trenton where the toys can be dropped off. Surveying the booty are Kinsmen Club president Dr. J. P. Downey and Salvation Army Captain, Harry Moore.

Teamwork Makes Christmas

TRENTON (Staff) — Christmas for 140 families in Trenton this year is going to be a bit more bountiful than usual thanks to the co-operative effort of a number of local churches and organizations working with the Salvation Army and Trenton Kinsmen Club.

Two days before Christmas, members of the Trenton Kiwanis will be distributing baskets of food and toys to 140 needy families in the town.

Captain Harry Moore of the Salvation Army said Thursday the families are selected from lists provided by the local welfare agency, children's aid society and church parishes. Occasionally private calls are received, requesting baskets, and these are checked against lists to avoid duplication by other private agencies conducting their own Christmas charity program.

Two organizations mentioned by Captain Moore are the Trenton branch of the Royal Canadian Legion and the local nights of Columbus, who assist veterans and 50 families, respectively.

Most of the canned goods, staples such as tea, coffee and sugar, are donated from wide sections of the community. School classes bring foodstuffs, as do local Girl Guides, Brownies the Key Club, chapels at CFB Trenton and several churches who hold White Gift Sundays when canned goods are donated in lieu of cash collections.

Depending on the needs of each family, turkeys or chickens are purchased by the army, to make up any shortages that might deprive a family of meat for Christmas.

All goods are collected and stored at the Elgin Street Army headquarters, to be packed later by volunteers in time for distribution.

And for the children, there are toys. For the third year in a row, Trenton Kinsmen have placed their Christmas collection boxes at six local stores and banks, requesting donations of toys for needy children.

Kinsmen President Dr. J. P. Downey said the boxes will be left at the various points until Wednesday of next week. At that time, collection will be made and the toys turned over to the Salvation Army.

"We're getting quite a variety," he said Thursday. "Everything from games to dolls."

He says the variety is good; most people are donating new toys or very good conditioned used items. Some store owners have donated stock for the cause. Occasionally people buying Christmas presents for their own children, pick up one or two extra for the Kinsmen collection box.

Mare Ties Win Streak

PICTON (Staff) — Picton native Chris Storms who has teamed the pacing mare Galety's Jule to several victories at Kingston's Frontenac Downs was thrilled recently when the horse earned a place in track records. The mare is tied with the horse Good Time Alez Sunday for the highest number of consecutive wins ever scored at the track since its opening. She took six firsts in a row.

Recorder Recognized

A long-time member of the Lands and Forests department at Tweed, Gordon Fraser was honored Thursday by the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Mr. Fraser was presented with a plaque from the authority by vice-chairman Guy Hughes in recognition of his 25 years' service in recording precipitation figures and water levels. The information taken was made available for authority records.

In accepting the plaque Mr. Fraser said his services were entirely voluntary.

Volunteer service was part of what makes life worth living, he said.

Lights Lifted

Four residences, all in different parts of the city, had Christmas display lights stolen Thursday.

Total value of the lights was $20. Locations were 68 Maple Drive, 11 Chatham St., 91 Grier St. and 106 Coldsale Rd.

Madoc Cable TV Is Napanee Model

Madoc's community television broadcasting has become a model for its neighbors to the south.

The new Napanee-Deseronto Cablevision company will follow Madoc's example in providing local television programs for its subscribers.

It was the Madoc operation that first prompted Reg Dawson of Napanee to apply for a cable television licence. He viewed it while visiting his sister and Madoc five years ago and soon took as partners in the venture businessman George Grant and weekly newspaper publisher Earl Morrison.

The antenna is now under construction south of Napanee and part of the town will be hooked in by cable by mid-February.

The local broadcasting studio will be located at the headend antenna tower.

We are very interested in getting into this as soon as we can," says Mr. Dawson.

Extent of the local programming will depend on the amount of interest shown by Napanee people and their willingness to work with the company to prepare programs.

Madoc, a much smaller community than Napanee, has many people involved in local programming, says Mr. Dawson.

The cable will be extended to serve Deseronto in about two years.

As well as the open channel for local telecasting, the Napanee company will provide five United States channels, and three Canadian, including the ultra-high frequency educational station received from Watertown.

Water... Water!

It seems incredible that any community can survive on less than 100 per cent pure water — for human consumption at least — but that is the picture locally and along the lower Great Lakes, as painted by Environment Minister James Auld in Belleville recently.

But that is not to say we cannot drink the existing product, even if it still must go through further purification in the days ahead — a process which if we understand Mr. Auld correctly, will be undertaken before long.

Mr. Auld, who makes his home in Brockville, expressed the view that the province's clean-water programming (Ontario, he says, is ahead of "all other jurisdictions" on the Lakes) would reach its ultimate phase — purging of nutrients, including phosphates, by 1976.

The minister was speaking at ceremonies marking extension of the St. Paul St. water pollution control plant into secondary sewage treatment — a $1,860,000 project that removes more than 90 per cent of pollutants from the city's waste water. The third and final treatment phase is to purify the waste of nutrients which currently proliferate oxygen-draining plant life in waterways.

The outlook then is good for water both totally pure and clear to the eye, but so long as this goal is still in the future — even the relatively near future — so long must we continue as a municipality, as individuals and as industrialists, to do nothing that would tend to retard the ongoing process toward that end.

Apollo Mission

The pictures are superb, the moonscapes interesting, the performance by astronauts perfect — but brilliant as it all is, it still does not compare with those eleventh moments of the very first Apollo mission when it descended toward the lunar surface and astronaut Neil Armstrong stepped out and said: "one small step for man . . . one giant step for mankind."

Thus does man become conditioned to great events. Nevertheless, these have been compelling deeds in the last few days, the like of which those of us in adulthood will probably not see again. Scientifically — and most important considering the expense involved and the main purpose of such expedition — rocks have been obtained from the lunar surface that will increase man's knowledge of the origins of that extraordinary planet and of the universe at large.

The wish of everyone now of course is that this final space mission which started out so successfully will end safely, concluding the greatest scientific saga of this or any other time.

Shining Example

The deterioration of church properties, particularly in rural areas, is a concern these days not only of the congregations involved but of responsible people everywhere anxious to see the preservation of such buildings and the maintenance of the Christian traditions that saw their establishment in the first place.

In the spirit of such enterprise is the ecumenical effort described in our news pages recently, which has seen a Catholic parish priest and a Protestant clergyman take the initiative in obtaining funds for restoration of church property in the North Hastings-Madawaska Valley region. Also a base for community activities, the buildings to be restored will mean work for 11 men.

Against a background of nihilism and intolerance in many aspects of the world's affairs, this initiative in our own small corner is a shining example of positive Christianity which in turn has received official sanction in Government circles.

Also in the spirit of good citizenship and wholesome activity for a generation growing up is the Stirling Co-operative Nursery School, the brainchild of an Anglican minister's wife and which also has qualified for Government (Local Initiatives Program) funds.

A similar grant-assisted project is also on its being in Bancroft. It is all very encouraging.

Chile's Marxist Boss Out of Touch with Economic Reality

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Chile's Marxist President Salvador Allende is on the grand tour of the United Nations, Moscow, Algiers and Havana—the three latter capitals being ideological centres of power of the Marxist world.

Dr. Allende, the only elected Marxist national leader in history, is putting a good deal on the record, bemoaning notes in public with Chile's new Marxist friends.

It seems as good a time as any to sum up what he has achieved—after more than two years in power—since he inherited deep-set economic problems which have plagued Chile throughout this century.

The record, economically, is bad, perhaps even disastrous in the long run for a Marxist president who has said more than once he will not go the Cuban road. Inflation is higher than it has been in the early 1960s when the old landed and industrial elite ruled the country through Conservative President Alessandri.

The Christian Democratic formula of ultimate nationalization of the copper industry—the country's main source of income—was to pay back the big United States owners by no later than 1975, a state copper corporation then assuming full ownership and management.

This slow-but-sure formula for a move which is popular with all but the most reactionary of Chileans was junked by the Marxist Allende who seized control of them without an acceptable rationale for compensation. By doing so, he joined the Cubans in their 1960 takeover of U.S.-owned industries in Cuba.

The Mexican formula from 1938 for a juridical basis for nationalization and a payment formula to the former international owner based on constitutional law, still remains the only one of its kind in the hemisphere for massive expropriation.

Dr. Allende's success with agrarian reform has been even less obvious. His agriculture minister, the brilliant Jacques Chonchol, an intellectual who managed to be part-Marxist and part Christian Democrat at the same time, was former President Frei's agriculture minister until he split with him before the 1970 presidential elections.

Under Frei, the expropriation of major landholdings have caused the same problems as elsewhere in the Americas where these have been done for political reasons and where economic realities have been ignored.

Central Chile remains one of the most fertile regions in America. Chile with a population of 10 million has arable land to support 50 million.

In the mid-1960s, the Chile-California Association concluded that Chile had the essential land and much of the technological requirements necessary for agrarian take-off.

Instead successive land reform programs fail. Chile this year, with the worst deficit, on its international balance of payments in years, will have spent $150 millions in hard currency to import foodstuffs.

The basic problem, to be fair to the essential "Chilenization" program for the land, mines and industries of Chile of both Frei and Allende, is that the middle class which dominates Chile is over-politicized.

Neither Frei, with an abortive program for social change which could only be called socialist, nor Allende with an accelerated Marxist one, could make key decisions based on economic realities.

The political reality with its inevitable chaotic results and unworkable short-term outlook, dominates the nationalism at the top in Chile.

The Law on Impaired Driving

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

Too many fingers in the pie of the law can mess it up as much as they can anything else.

We have long known that when there is split jurisdiction between two levels of government in making law, the result can be far from perfection.

And currently we are seeing one more illustration of this.

Under fire just now is the law on impaired driving.

The federal government legislates on this through the Criminal Code.

This ordains that a driver convicted of being impaired or of carrying more than a certain percentage of alcohol can, in addition to being fined, lose his licence for a certain term.

But the code carries a power of disqualification.

The trial judge may allow the convicted driver to use his licence for purposes of business.

The province also legislates in this field under the Highway Traffic Act.

And it has a compulsory suspension clause, as does the code.

But it doesn't have the dispensation power.

And the consequence is that we are in one more ridiculous situation.

With charges laid under the code judges have been granting exemptions for work in certain cases.

But the province has been fighting these, saying that its suspension provision takes precedence.

The consequence has been that the law has been before higher courts, with the federal law so far being upheld but the province still saying it is right.

As can happen in situations such as this common sense can get out the door.

It doesn't appear to have occurred to the province, and particularly the transportation people here, that the federal law is good law and ours is weak.

A driver, convicted of impaired on a first offence now gets probably the loss of his licence for three months and a $150 fine.

In addition to this his insurance probably will double.

Is it necessary, or even effective law, to penalize his employment also? Surely not.

Making Do Without Parliament

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—When Parliament meets Jan. 4 it will be almost six months to the day since the Commons' last regular sitting. This long hiatus is the operation of the legislative branch of government raises the inevitable question of whether the country could operate without Parliament for even longer periods of time. How necessary is the Commons, to say nothing of the Senate?

In our system, Parliament must eventually "grant supply." This phrase simply means the formal approval of expenditures by the government. Even here, the government can operate for a long period without votes of money through the device of Governor-General's warrants, giving it the right to use public funds to meet its bills."

But the use of these warrants and the long period of parliamentary recess raises some fundamental issues in the minds of some of our politicians who believe the executive branch, aided by the bureaucracy, is regrading too much power.

Therefore has been a tendency to operate more and more by governmental decree and order-in-council. In recent years, over 3,000 orders have been passed each year by the cabinet. While many of these are technical and do not involve any decisions of consequence, there are occasional orders and decrees which do affect the rights of citizens. Some of these should be examined in detail and subject to alteration, amendment and even repeal by Parliament.

An example was a fairly simple message introduced in the spring of 1971 which amended the Textile and Clothing Board Act. Ostensibly, the bill deals with only with anti-dumping provisions for textile and clothing. But the government included a clause granting complete discretion to use executive regulatory power to provide for anti-dumping regulations not only for textiles and clothing, but for any other commodity. To those concerned with the executive take-over it was clearly a case of an attempt to grab authority by political deceit and parliamentary false pretences.

Attempts have been made to curb the practice. In the last Parliament the government was persuaded to pass the Statutory Instruments Act. Its most useful proposal would have been the creation of a parliamentary committee to ride herd on those who might misuse the powers given to them.

But the mandarins, both, in cabinet and the senior ranks of the bureaucracy, recognized the dangers of the legislation to their position and now, months after passage of the Act, no parliamentary committee has never been activised.

Years ago an English jurist, Lord Hewart, discussed the issue which, even then, was a matter of some concern. In these words: "In early days the method was to defy Parliament. In these days the method is to cajole, to coerce and to circumvent. The old despotism, which was defeated, offered Parliament a challenge. The new despotism, not yet defeated, gives Parliament an anesthetic. The strategy is to subordinate Parliament, evade the courts and to render the will or the caprice of the executive unfettered and supreme."

The jungle of administrative control has continued its growth with the result the great majority of statutes include clauses giving the executive wide, uncontrolled and arbitrary authority to interfere with the rights and property of the citizen in secrecy and with little recourse for those affected.

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

"Crumple Can Coming Soon" was an article in a recent issue of The Intelligencer. It stated, "within a year the Canadian consumer may be buying food products packaged in a new kind of 'can' that will crumple in one hand." The new container, according to the article, is a flexible pouch made of micro-thin aluminum foil and film designed to stand upright when filled.

This new invention could benefit our whole economy greatly. I feel it may be the beginning of more such inventions. It has been estimated that the pouch may cut packaging costs up to 50 per cent! Since the pouches are easily crumpled and thrown in waste baskets and burn easily, hopefully, fewer will end up as litter. They could also be a possible elimination of excess materials such as separate labels, caps, and pull-tabs.

Only a hope that even though the pouch has been approved by the Canadian government's environmental authorities it will not be banned shortly after its appearance on the market, as happened in the case of a similar product previously. The "crumple-able can", the latest attempt by the packaging industry to reduce costs, increase space, and damage to the environment, should please each and every consumer. So let's together with your friends and neighbors and make this "can" worth while — and not just another source of litter.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

Royal Life-Saving cards and crests have arrived in the city for the group who passed life saving tests at the Kinsmen's pool during August. Jack Doig, Alex Schades, Pauline Hall, Shirley La Rue, Barbara Annis, Karl Kappah, Bruce Varcoe, Shirley Cornish, Dorothy Mansfield and Barbara Corleis, all passed their bronze medallion and intermediate certificate tests.

The Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club joined with the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club for a turkey dinner and Christmas party. Guest speaker of the evening was June Dennis, Toronto radio commentator.

Approximately 35 members of the local Civilian Defence Committee, wrote examinations at the YMCA on the basic principles of air raid precaution work. All the subjects on the examination had been thoroughly covered in the basic training course given in eight lectures since the inception of the Defence Committee in this city in October. While the organization of the local Defence Committee is approaching the point where practice tests may soon be made, air raid precaution equipment furnished by the provincial organization still continues to arrive in the city. It was stated by vice-chairman Harold Seldon.

Mayor Charles Hanna has decided not to seek re-election at the coming municipal elections. He has served two terms and steps out of public life with the entire confidence of the people. He is perhaps the most tireless mayor the city ever had. The healthy interest in life which Mayor Hanna possesses has been shown in many phases of activity. He is blessed with an abundance of human sympathy which has made him a host of friends and produced in him a Chief Magistrate who is in a class by himself.

'Evaluation' Key Word

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I feel compelled to write, in connection with an article in the December 12 edition of The Intelligencer, reporting on the Monday night meeting between the YMCA and the UCS.

It was reported that I claimed UCS had the right to dictate the policies and operations of the member agencies of UCS. I did quote the objects contained in the UCS charter, which provide ample evidence that UCS were responsible to "evaluate health, welfare and recreation services in the community."

It has never been the policy of UCS to act in an arbitrary fashion when dealing with our agencies. We do, however, evaluate the programs of the agencies, as this is our responsibility as co-ordinator of social planning.

Change can come about only by dialogue and mutual understanding. New programs can only be initiated with the full support of the organizations involved.

Values were considered the relationship between UCS and the member agencies as a true partnership, wherein both organizations are involved in decision making. Anything less would be unacceptable to us and the citizens of Belleville.

Condition Of Arena

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I would like to draw the attention of the Arena Commission to the deplorable state of the Memorial Arena.

The boards around the rink haven't had a coat of paint since last year, there are two large holes in the boards on the west side which must be a hazard to the players. The stains at the north end (at least) is so dirty that it's hard to see through and the reflection of the ice makes it almost impossible to see the play on the west side of the rink.

In view of the amount of money the Commission charges for ice time this year, the Memorial arena should be kept cleaner and in better repair.

Directorships Must Be Listed

TORONTO (CP) — Corporations registered in Ontario now must inform the government each year of all interlocking directorships involving members of their boards of directors.

An amendment to the Corporations Information Act, moved by James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale), was accepted by John Clement, minister of consumer and commercial relations, during a lengthy debate on the bill early today.

The amendment makes it mandatory that all Ontario corporations file an annual summary indicating whether each director "is a director of any other corporation related to the corporation and if so, the name of such corporations and the jurisdiction of its incorporation."

Mr. Renwick's amendment followed another, made by Mr. Clement, that corporations must not only supply annually the names and addresses of their directors, but also state "whether or not each director is a resident of Canada."

Mr. Renwick praised the phrasing of Mr. Clement's amendment since it covered the "problem of discrimination against people that is prohibited under the laws of Ontario by the Ontario Human Rights Code, by requiring the disclosure of the nationality or somebody who is not a Canadian."

"I think the minister has very wisely eliminated the sense of discrimination in the legislation," he said.

Mr. Renwick described his amendment as an attempt to find out whether directors of companies carrying on business in Ontario "are also directors of other companies within a particular corporate web."

"This is an essential ingredient in determining . . . who controls Canadian operations," he said. "It's very easy for the government to say it's a good idea to have a majority of directors in Ontario as residents Canadians. That does not solve the problem, however, if they are a subsidiary of the Pirelli Corporation in Italy."

Opposition Leader Robert Nixon said his Liberal party would support Mr. Renwick's amendment because "the interrelationships between the companies doing business here by virtue of one or more members of interlocking directorships is of significance."

He referred to a discussion in the legislature Thursday "which related one individual, Gerald Moog, in three or four different corporate capacities, each one doing business with the government.

Mr. Nixon said one segment built the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education "for a substantial... lease-back arrangement."

Another built the Educational Television centre and a third the Ontario Hydro headquarters "and I understand we are committed through Hydro to pay $5.6 million every year for 30 years, as well as giving him the $7 million piece of property upon which the building is erected."

Mr. Clement, while agreeing with Mr. Renwick's amendment, said he would add one note of caution: "I don't know what the cost factor would be for the storage and retrieval of this information by electric data processing."

"But I can appreciate the problem in trying to do a corporate search and find out if there is any connection and I think that the comments made by all members who have participated in the debate outweigh any disadvantage insofar as cost by concerned."

Old Judges' Experience Valuable

TORONTO (CP) — Judges allowed to place themselves on a supernumerary list might spend the last five years of their careers in the Bahamas or other vacation spots, Opposition Leader Robert Nixon said Thursday.

Mr. Nixon, speaking in the legislature during second reading of a bill to allow judges to place themselves on a semi-active list at age 70, said he doubted the wisdom of "giving them the possibility of opting out of active involvement in the judicial procedure for a full five years at full salary."

"I don't see any provision which restricts the payment of their salaries to the Bahamas or anywhere else, and surely if the judges feel they do not want to continue their active role they should be provided access to their retirement gratuities and entitlement at an earlier age," said Mr. Nixon.

Attorney-General Dalton Bales, minister responsible for the bill, said he had discussed it with the various chief justices and they had agreed that "those who may elect to the position of supernumerary judge must be there a substantial and a large percentage of the time to assist the court in a variety of ways and not take off for three months, six months or whatever the period of time may be."

"I recognize as people get a little on in years and beyond the 70 point they may require to take it a little easier, but many of these people have great abilities and I think we should take advantage of these," said Mr. Bales.

"I think we have to recognize that the High Court of Justice, the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeal are extremely busy and there are a number of reasons whereby the creation of a supernumerary judge will assist the court."

SKATE-A-THON

DEAR PARENTS:

Is your child participating in the Rotary Skate-A-Thon, December 29 and 30? If so, kindly see that he or she receives the following information:

a. YOUR COACH OR LEADER HAS NOW RECEIVED THE SKATE-A-THON SCHEDULE. OBTAIN FROM THEM EXACTLY WHEN AND WHERE YOU ARE TO SKATE.

b. Be at your designated Rink about ½ hour early to register and put on your skates.

c. Wear your Team Sweater or Group Uniform.

d. Bring your Sponsor Sheet(s) with you so that they can be certified.

e. It would save a great deal of time if you would total your sponsor sheet before you arrive at the rink. If you do not make the 60 laps, your sheet can be corrected after you skate.

f. From a quick canvass, it appears that a large percentage of the homes in our city have not been asked to sponsor a skater. Have you asked all of your neighbours to sponsor you?

Postal Job Security Is Proposed by Board

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the report of a conciliation board under the chairmanship of Owen Shime recommends a guarantee of job security for all post office employees on the payroll at the time of signing of the next collective agreement.

The newspaper says the report also recommends a form of guaranteed wage security for all employees, regardless of any changes in the character of their job as a result of automation.

The majority report, The Globe and Mail says, says postal workers also should be given a voice in any operational changes affecting them.

Release of the report will not be made until noon next Monday.

The Globe and Mail says that union nominee William Walsh concurred in the main with Mr. Shime's report. Toronto lawyer Bruce Stewart, nominee of the treasury board on the conciliation board, wrote a minority report of dissent.

The Globe and Mail says the majority report also recommends retroactive pay—the current agreements expired last March 26.

Fishy Catch

GUILDFORD, England (CP) — Schoolboy angler Brian Thompson caught Surrey police with their trousers down—he fished 48 newly-made police tunics out of the River Thames. All had been made to measure and bore the names of the officers who were supposed to wear them. But it's not an end to the force's threadbare problems. While the stolen tunics have been recovered, the trousers are still missing.

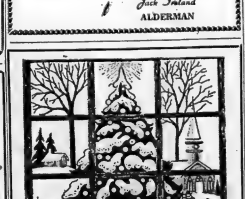
Canadian In Havana On Treaty

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada moved Thursday to find out whether a draft agreement with Cuba on the treatment of hijackers, proposed by Premier Fidel Castro's government, offers the basis of a workable anti-hijacking arrangement between the two countries.

The external affairs department sent a member of its legal operations branch, G. L. (Gaby) Warren, to Havana for detailed talks on the proposed plan.



He will confer with Canadian Ambassador Ken Brown on the draft, submitted to Canada Dec. 4, and later they are expected to discuss it with the Cuban foreign ministry.

Aim of the discussions is to establish whether the Cuban proposal, possibly with modifications, is "something that we could live with," said an external affairs department spokesman.

NFU Hears Minister

Whelan Backs Kraft Boycott

WINNIPEG (CP) — Delegates to the third annual convention of the National Farmers Union wind up their week-long meeting today still intrigued with the dialogue they had Thursday with Eugene Whelan, newly-appointed federal agriculture minister.

Mr. Whelan, during his last stop before returning to Ottawa after a fact-finding tour of the Prairie provinces, told the delegates he was sympathetic to their concerns but that he did not have the full jurisdictional power to tackle many of them.

A farmer himself, Mr. Whelan said the union's position that the Canadian wheat board should control the movement and sale of all grains had "a certain amount of merit," that if the majority of Canadian farmers wanted the union to bargain for them on prices received for their product, "it's all right by me," and that he personally supported the boycott of Kraft Co. products being waged by the union.

However, Mr. Whelan emphasized he did not "want to leave the impression that I'm going to be an easy mark for every petition and request for help that lands on my desk."

He said in many cases he could only make suggestions to the cabinet which made the final decisions.

On disaster aid for farmers, the agriculture minister said some areas of the country were vocal about their losses while nothing was heard from other areas similarly affected, and provision must be made to deal with all such problems.

He said he recognized present federal-provincial crop insurance programs were not enough and that an all-embracing insurance program must be considered. Such a program could be provided through a fund built up from a levy on all products raised by farmers.

This plan also would remove the "political manoeuvring that now exists" when disaster strikes certain areas.

He specifically referred to the Peace River country of northern British Columbia and Alberta where farmers have been vocal—aided by provincial politicians—in attempting to get federal-aid. Bad weather in the area this year resulted in almost total crop losses.

Pressed by delegates from the region, Mr. Whelan said he had met the agriculture ministers of the two provinces involved and, after cabinet consideration, he expected to announce a decision on aid Thursday.

"I'm prepared to recommend to cabinet that aid be given to those people," he said.

But he didn't make the delegates happy when he told them he was a "strong supporter" of national marketing agencies, bodies to which the farm union is opposed.

All called for a more realistic return to the producers to give them a fair price, including a reasonable profit on investment, management and labor.

With a tasty selection of foods before them, fifteen Belleville area women not only learn the English language but share their native customs as well at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church finding that language is no barrier.

English Taught as Another Language

The women attending the classes for teaching English as another language, come from Portugal, Finland, Rumania, Greece, Italy, China, Japan, Tibet and Quebec. The primary purpose of the classes, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church, Belleville, and the Central Volunteer Bureau, is to teach English to women who don't speak it.

In its fourth year, these classes rely on volunteer services—seven volunteer teachers and a number of volunteer drivers. The number of students varies; many of the women after learning English, get jobs. Some continue their studies through correspondence courses.

In addition to the classes, held two hours a week, a nursery is provided for the children.

Not to be overlooked is the informality and the friendliness of the classes. Language is no barrier between students and teachers.

At the annual Christmas party held Thursday morning the girls brought a sweet typical of their homeland and enjoyed hearing about Christmas in other lands. Costume exhibits and food demonstrations were featured, including the making of Tibetan tea consisting of butter, milk and salt.

Why teach English to those in a foreign community who do not speak it? Ask Mrs. Gladys Simpson, a co-ordinator of the program, explained, "So they an live and work and socialize in the community, in short to make them a part of Canada."

Weather No Hindrance

In spite of stormy weather, a successful sale of home baking and boutique items was held by Marmora Chapter IODE.

Conveners of the event were Mrs. Grenville Meikle-john and Mrs. F. Y. Jones. Mrs. J. W. Parks assisted by Mrs. A. M. Jones looked after the bake table while Mrs. Charles Brady and Mrs. Howard Bleecker had charge of the boutique table. Coffee was served by Mrs. L. Paiero.

Christmas Concert Enjoyed

Mrs. Margurite Eves chaired the St. Joseph's CWL December 5 meeting which was divided in three segments: tribute paid to St. Ann's CWL, a Christmas concert and business meeting.

St. Ann's CWL which was disbanded is now included with St. Joseph's council. All the living past presidents were invited to attend and were presented with past presidents pins by St. Joseph's women. Mrs. Jane Park was in charge of the Christmas program. Bob Park acted as MC for the evening and sang a solo. Sister Mary Avila was the accompanist for the performers. Mrs. Tony Nagode and her three daughters sang Christmas songs. A musical trio comprised of the Beninger children provided many entertaining numbers.

Monsignor Carley, Father Gazeley and Father Julian, a visiting priest, gave a brief talk.

Candlelight Service Held

After the presentation of a skit entitled "Family Christmas Vesper Service" produced by the Peter Johansen family, with Tammy Walker and Verna Kemp, each member of the skit lighted a candle from the father's candle and offered a short prayer.

Fathers in the service then lit a candle and the congregation sang "Joy to the World".

Earlier in the evening Peter Johansen took up the offering which helped to meet the quota for this year's mission budget.

Rev. G. W. Kemp closed the service with prayer.

Words Mean a Lot! Use Them Correctly

By DORIS CLARE

Many a person has gotten into trouble by not expressing himself well. There's a world of difference between "You look like the breath of spring" and "You look like the end of a hard winter," — John Milton Magazine

A teacher of mine pointed one up for me: In the Ancient Mariner it says, "Red as a rose was she" — the bride. He pointed out the simile and asked how we thought it would sound if Coleridge had said she was red as a beet.

Choice of words helps human relations. Next time you are tempted to speak your mind, pause a little and choose your words.

Dear Doris: About your reply to the 14-year-old girl. "Just sit" — she says she want to take care of some child and you advise her to make more efforts to socialize with her own age group.

You seem to overlook the unstated need of this child: Her urge to have someone else reflects her own unsatisfied need to receive mothering. While baby sitting and joining with kids her own age may help to overcome it, it won't really get at the cause of her malaise. Somewhere in your advice you should have tucked in the suggestion that she get in touch with the older generation.

It is not inconceivable that her hick town might have at least one lonesome grandmother who could provide the surrogate mothering which she seems to crave having been deprived of her own mother at the age of nine. — Marlene.

Dear Marlene: I couldn't agree more. Is she really in some mothering bereft — and I'm sure you thought of that letter. She needs both to give and receive love, doesn't she?

Getting in touch with the older generation might present a problem — but we could send her to her church for a talk with the Christian education leader — especially if it happened to be a woman.

Perhaps between us, you and I might be the means of helping Jo to the attention and self-express on which is her basic need. Thank you.

Dear Doris: I would like to say something in regard to the 13-year-old boy who masturbates. I married a man that had been practising this in his teens and he never stopped after marriage either. Result — an unhappy marriage. So please, young man, don't ruin your life. Keep your body pure and it will pay off. — Susie

Dear Susie: My counselling psychiatrist considers this a practice normal for most 13-year-olds — nothing more to criticize about it than, for instance, eating peanuts. Tuning in Birth Control ?

Sex is an important part of self-expression in marriage. Study it; study your own part in it; and bring the whole thing out into the open with your mate.

Have you an idea — about people — that you like to share? Write to Doris in care of this newspaper.

Parents Advised On Toys

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Toy Testing Council (CTTC) has come up with some advice for those who cannot resist by offspring that have been inflicted and distorted by Christmas toy advertising.

First of all, says the council, the toy should be safe, durable and interesting for the child.

In a pamphlet issued recently the council recommends toys that can grow with the child. Here is a parent's chance to challenge so that it isn't discarded when the boy or girl wears out, says Anne Lovy of the CTTC. But it should not be so difficult to use that the child is frustrated by it. Parents should be realistic about the mental and physical ability of their children.

Before putting a toy in a child's hands, parents should check that it does all the things it is supposed to, she said. Batteries should be in place and moving parts should function well.

Federal safety standards under the Hazardous Products Act have improved the quality of toys appearing this year. The act provided standards for construction and material used in toys. However, parents should still watch for sharp edges and detachable parts small enough to find their way into tiny mouths.

The Canadian Toy Testing Council has been in existence for 20 years. Now that safety legislation has been in existence for two years the emphasis in the organization is shifting, Mrs. Lovy reported, and the council is testing toys for their play value as well.

With adoption of safety regulations Canadian toy manufacturers felt the council was no longer needed, Mrs. Lovy said, and some withdrew their voluntary donations of toys for testing. Now most are bought on the open market, although a few manufacturers still make donations.

The council is carrying on its work with the aid of a $5,000 government grant. Besides putting out a pamphlet titled This on Toy Buying the council publishes an annual report for various age groups that have received its highest ratings. This year the list includes almost 100 toys.

Concert Features Skits

FRANKFORD — The Sunday School Christmas Concert in Holy Trinity Anglican Church featured a concert with the children participating in various skits, poems and other routines.

The evening began with "Away in a Manger" sung by the Sunday School, with verses sung by Grey Yon, Russell Dunk, Norma Schefer and Kenny Soca. A piano selection by Phillip Lawson followed and a play by Helen Rogers's class: a trumpet selection by Mark Sargent; a baton routine with Heather Welch, Sandy Abbott, Sheri Welch and Susan Schefer. Two Christmas selections were sung by the Junior Choir, then two poems by Grey Yon, Russell Dunk, Norma Schefer and Kenny Soca. A skit was presented by Joyce Scoan preceding a trumpet duet by Chuck and Philip Lawson. A baton routine featuring Mary Frost and a dance by Karen Mikel concluded the concert.

Santa made his appearance, leaving gifts for all.

Santa Attends Christmas Party

Santa visited and brought a bag of candy for each child.

Each year there is a family Christmas party when the children have an opportunity to dance.

After the dancing, Mrs. Ruth Margetson and Mrs. R. Friesen presented the story of Christ's birth. Flannelgraph and puppets were used to dramatize the story.

The style (left) with a centre part has the hair brought forward and curved toward the face with little up-turned tendrils. Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

PLAYING baseball, football, basketball, etc., may cut down frustration for many athletes, especially those who enjoy the moment of truth: hitting the come-from-behind homer, scoring the vital touchdown; sinking the winning basket. If a player, who in other circumstances might have been "thrown" by frustration, gains confidence from finding a hero in a game, he might indeed reduce the chances of his being frustrated off the field.

Do teeners fret over unisex mixups?

NO; those teenagers who do adopt styles that can be worn by boys or girls do not seem to have any identity troubles. If there is any confusion, the young people get a laugh; especially the long-haired driver of a convertible who spots the lady police lieutenant on the face of the over-30 male motorist who finally catches up to the car in front of him and sees that the driver he thought was a girl is really a boy.

Are most 'singles' single by choice?

YES, although a great many unmarried people who would like to marry do have compelling reasons for not marrying. Yet, the vast majority of single individuals could get married if they did not unconsciously build and maintain barriers that seem insurmountable. Guilt and fear usually head the list of deterrents that not only prevent people from marrying but also induce them to believe they are staying single by choice.

Ann Landers

Four-letter Word Favored To Racial Bigotry

Dear Ann Landers: You are always right. You should have outgrown it long ago. I was surprised to see you print in print that certain words make you uncomfortable.

I know some rich and socially prominent people who consider themselves refined and highly cultivated but they use words like "nigger" and "kike" as part of their daily vocabularies. It comes as natural to them as breathing. Yet when some people who truly loves humanity and considers all of mankind his brother uses a four-letter word, the men stiffen up like ramrods and the women have to be revived with smelling salts.

I'd rather hear four letter words from a hippie any day than listen to a bigot spew his prejudices. Wouldn't you, Ann Landers—Wish It Is Fort Lauderdale

Dear W.: Who says I have to choose between miserable alternatives? I reject both.

Dear Ann Landers: We were disappointed in your answer to the Glens. You indicated that "the insensitive clods in the world" cannot be changed and the amputee shouldn't handle his problem had obviously failed to make a complete adjustment.

A person with your enormous readership is in an excellent position to help change the attitudes of "the insensitive clods" and believe me, handicapped persons and their families need all the help they can get.

Is it asking too much of so called normal people to adjust a little and show some kindness to those who have lost a limb, or their sight, or have distorted speech due to deafness or cerebral palsy

Dr. Howard Rusk brought this forcibly to our attention during the Second World War when the veterans were coming home. He pointed out that America had had to return to hospitals because of emotional problems created by the community's lack of sensitivity and understanding—especially if they

Dear Ann Landers: Your response to a lesson in compassion was both needed and candidly and I thank you for it.

Howard Rusk's autobiography, 'A World To Care For," is a fascinating history of rehabilitation in this country. Dr. Rusk is my candidate for saintHood and the book is a must for all people who must face life with a physical handicap.

Confidential to Crystal Ball Gazing and Seeing Clearly: Everybody marries for love. But sometimes it has lots of money, prestige, social position, punishment—the list is endless. It's impossible to put inside someone's head and learn what they really love best.

Weak Diaphragm Not Dangerous

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: An x-ray of my baby showed that his stomach and intestines were higher in the body than normal. He is now 20 months old, and the abnormality does not seem to affect him physically.

The doctor diagnosed it as eventration of the dia-phragm." Is this serious? Can it be corrected only by surgery? Is it common among babies?

Not common. Eventration means that the diaphragm is weak—the diaphragm being composed of muscle tissue. It is a congenital defect in the baby's chest.

The net result is that the diaphragm rises higher in the chest than it should, and some of the organs in the abdomen below the diaphragm will be misplaced upward.

Eventration, by the way, is not the same as a hernia of the diaphragm. With the latter, there is a localized weakness through which the stomach or bowel can bulge.

Ordinarily eventration of the diaphragm causes no symptoms and is not serious. If the baby's chest is crowded, then surgery may be necessary to splint the diaphragm, but that does not happen often.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 4½ months pregnant. I went to the dentist and had my teeth x-rayed, and had to have them retaken because they weren't clear enough. He used a chest x-ray.

My mother said you should never be x-rayed while pregnant. If so, why don't they tell you in the dentist's office, or at your first checkup for prenatal topics.

It's true that x-rays should be avoided, particularly in the first few weeks or months of pregnancy. However, with x-rays of the teeth the amount of radiation reaching the baby is worth is small if any, so I wouldn't be too much alarmed if I were you.

There is, of course, a possibility that some rays might be scattered and thus go where they are not intended, so personally I would not advise even dental x-rays in pregnancy, however slight the risk doubtless the river.

Contract Bridge

The Rebid by Responder

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠ AQ85 ♥ K75 ♦ J 82 ♣ K83
2. ♠ Q852 ♥ 84 ♦ J 73 ♣ Q J9
3. ♠ K963 ♥ 9 ♦ Q 985 ♣ KQ6
4. ♠ AJ764 ♥ KQ 3 ♦ 9 ♣ A 832

1. Three notrump. There is a good chance for a slam, but you can't do more at this point than jump to three notrump. Partner obviously has a good hand, since he bid his suits in reverse order and was willing to risk a three diamond response if you had a poor hand containing better diamonds than hearts. In the given sequence it is required to have more diamonds than hearts as well as at least 17 points.

It would be wrong to bid only two notrump, for that is what you would do with a hand containing only 8 or 9 points.

2. Three diamonds. With barely enough values to work up your first response, you must try to slow partner down by bidding three diamonds. It may be tempting to bid five spades because of the club stopper, but North would be much more likely to take such a bid seriously than if you simply returned to the first suit he bid! At the same time, if North passes three diamonds, it is highly likely to be the best contract.

3. Four diamonds. This hand is clearly better than the previous one, and you show the additional values by a jump preference to four diamonds. It is true you will be bypassing three notrump, but there is no assurance that three notrump would prove safer than five diamonds, while there is a decided possibility that partner may want to investigate a slam.

Thus, North may have the A-K of diamonds and two side aces, as well as other values sufficient to justify a slam try, in which case a slam can probably be made. This possibility should not be ignored.

4. Three spades. A small slam is already certain; the question is whether or not there is a grand slam. Three clubs is a waiting bid as well as a useful, bit slightly pompous way to force North to reveal more about his hand. If the bidding develops favorably, we can bid a grand slam in hearts; if not we will certainly bid a small slam.

Tomorrow: A bridge story.

Whalers Make Most of Chances

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New England Whalers used a minimum of effort Thursday night in subduing Los Angeles Sharks 5-2 to put their lead atop the World Hockey Association's Eastern Division.

The Whalers made the most of 13 shots on goal in the game to end the Sharks' win streak at six and could have them third in the west, just two points behind Minnesota Fighting Saints and 10 behind Winnipeg Jets, idle Thursday night.

Elsewhere Thursday, Minnesota trimmed Chicago Cougars 6-3 and New York Raiders edged Ottawa Nationals 4-3.

Houston Aeros are in St. Paul, Minn against the Saints tonight while Philadelphia Blazers entertain Winnipeg and Ottawa visits Alberta Oilers.

The Whalers, who lead New York in the East race by five points, scored on two of three shots in the first period and another of seven in the second.

Tim Sheehy, Ted Green, Larry Pleau, Jim Dorey and Paul Hurley shared the New England scoring in front of 3,224 Los Angeles fans The Whalers built a 2-0 lead before J.D. Hillman connected for Los Angeles and increased their lead before Sharks' Tom Serviss ended the scoring in the third period.

The Sharks dominated play through much of the game but were held in check by New England goaltender Al Smith who turned back 36 shots.

Defenceman Mike McMahon scored twice at Chicago where Saints nailed Chicago deeper in the Western cellar The Cougars trail fifth-place Houston by eight points.

McMahon's two goals and scores by George Morrison and Keith Christiansen against goalie Andre Gill opened up a 4-0 Minnesota lead for a crowd of 2,185 in St Paul Sanderson Going To New York?

Th Blazers of the World Hockey Association, however, denied a story by Philadelphia Bulletin columnist Jim Barniak that Sanderson was on the market.

Barniak said the Blazers will deal Sanderson as soon as all legal technicalities can be worked out. He lists New York Raiders as a possible party to a deal.

Sanderson has played littl for th Blazers. He has been sidelined a month with a back inury, and probably will not get back in th lineup for at last another wk.

John McKenz, who with Sanderson fl Boston Bredins of the National Hockey League to accept the big money offered by the Blazers, said he knew nothing of any effort to deal Sanderson.

McKenzie started the season as a player-coach, but later relinquished th coaching brth temporarily to scout Phil Watson so he could concentrate on his playing and get in condition after losing time with an inury.

"I had a maor conference with Mr. Brown (Blazers owner Bernard Brown) today," McKenzie said Thursday, "and no mention was made of trading Sanderson.

"We all talk about Derek's medical condition, and agreed he should not play for another five or six days. We don't want him back too early and then get hurt again and lose him for the season.

McKenzie laughed at the suggestion that Sanderson would go to the Raiders. He said where the New York club would get

'Wounded Bears' Turn 4-2 Trick on Rangers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"The old wounded bear act trick," snarled an elated fan in front of Boston Garden after hearing his Bruins had overpowered New York Rangers 4-2 in a key National Hockey League game Thursday night.

The Bruins had gone home the previous night after a thorough beating at the hands of Buffalo Sabres and it was evident from the outset of the Boston-New York game they were through kicking their wounds.

Getting hammered physically as well as on the scoreboard in Buffalo, the Bruins lost their cool and charged the hometown players' bench in the waning moments of a 7-3 drubbing.

It was obvious they were still high against the Rangers and only the superb play of New York goaltender Gilles Villemure kept them from mounting the score.

The win moved the Bruins back into a tie with New York for second in the East Division, one point behind Montreal Canadiens.

In the only other game Thursday night, Bill Clement's breakaway score at 16:32 of the last period broke a 3-3 tie at Philadelphia and launched the Flyers to a 5-3 win over St. Louis Blues.

The victory moved Philadelphia into a third-place tie in the West with Los Angeles Kings behind leading Chicago Black Hawks and Minnesota North Stars.

The Bruins peppered Villemure with 55 shots, 22 in the first period and 21 in the second, when they came up with their four goals in a three-minute span.

Mike Walton broke the ice at 12:17 and Wayne Cashman's second goal of the night at 18:30, after Fred O'Donnell scored the winner, ended the Boston scoring. Ed Johnston, in the Bruins' goal, had a relatively easy night behind his retreating teammates who allowed only 24 shots on the Boston netminder.

Phil Esposito's department, however, was somewhat modified from the previous night in which they engaged in four separate fights. Only 10 minor penalties were called in the New York game, six to Boston.

But the Blues kept pecking away at the lead, Bob Gassoff and Gary Sabourin in the second and Jack Egers at 12:02 of the third period to even the score.

Clement cradled a bouncing pass from Ross Lonsberry and skirted the St. Louis defence to break the tie and Cowboy Bill Flett sealed the victory with an unassisted score, his 16th of the year, into an empty St. Louis net from the opposite end of the rink.

Poile was given an immediate leave of absence Thursday by club president Thomas Scallen after doctors reported his health was deteriorating under the pressure of trying to build a contender out of a seventh-place club.

His duties will be handled by former coach Hal Laycoe, currently a Vancouver vice-president.

Poile Steps Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bud Poile, general manager and vice-president of Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League, stepped down under doctor's orders Thursday.

Poile, who had been put in hospital three weeks ago for what had been described as exhaustion, underwent further tests Wednesday and doctors said he should never his connection with the team for an indefinite period.

Thomas Scallen, president of the team, said Hal Laycoe, who had coached the Canucks in their first two seasons in the NHL and was then kicked upstairs to vice-president, will take over Poile's duties.

Poile, 48, had been general manager with Philadelphia Flyers of the NHL and San Francisco and Edmonton of the Western Hockey League before joining the Canucks.

"I'm more embarrassed than anything else," Poile said Thursday. "I've had success everywhere else except here. the place I want to live."

The Canucks are in sixth place in the NHL's Eastern Division, ahead only of the first-year New York Islanders.

"I don't envy Hal (Laycoe), he's not exactly inheriting the Montreal Canadiens," Poile said.

He said the team was fortunate in having someone of Lay coe's calibre to step in and added there was "no reason I can't get back into hockey if I look after myself."

Oaks May Fold

OAKVILLE (CP) — The future of Oakville Oaks of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series remained clouded Thursday after a closed meeting of the team executive and players.

No statement was issued, but coach Les Duff resigned Wednesday and has accepted a similar position with Toronto St. Michael's Buzzers of the OHA junior B series.

"The players have not been paid for the past three games. To stay in senior hockey you have to pay the players. It's not fair to either them or the management," Duff said.

The former American Hockey League forward expressed disappointment with the senior hockey setup here. The major problem, he indicated, was lack of money.

No successor has been named to coach the team, but Duff said the players generally had agreed to remain with the team until Sunday, at which time the player management factions will re-examine the situation.

The Oaks are scheduled to play in Kingston tonight.

Though Picton's Doug Dersnah put up the lay-up shot that teammate Kevin Quinn (23) and Quinte's Stan Brooks (22) are jumping to rebound, the Picton top scorers (14 points each) did not have what it took to beat Quinte. Quinte Secondary defeated Prince Edward Secondary 59-39 in an exhibition game which decided the team which would meet Centennial in a play-off to represent Belleville in the Queen's Invitational Basketball Tournament, December 27 and 28.

Picton Starting Lineup Finished

By AL ZABAS
Staff Sportswriter

The Prince Edward Collegiate senior basketball team's starting line-up was also its finishing line - up in a 59-39 exhibition game loss to Quinte Secondary Thursday.

Picton's lack of bench strength played a large part in Quinte's victory over PECI. Jim Stewart, coach of the PECI seniors, was forced to call up Tim Barrett and Ted VanDusen from his school's junior squad to supplement his six players.

The fully - rostered Quinte team will meet Centennial seniors to decide the Belleville area's representative to the Queens University Invitational Basketball Tournament to be held on December 27 and 28.

"My team is more dead than alive," said coach Stewart, "we've played four games in the last four days." With five starters and a senior bench of one, plus the two junior call-ups, the Picton players were on the floor more than were Quinte's.

The exhaustion of the Picton players proved to be, if not the key to the Quinte victory, a contributing factor in the Belleville team's 20 point victory margin.

Though Quinte had the lead throughout the game, the beginning of the fourth quarter Picton was behind 40-32 when Stewart was forced to take his top scorer Doug Dersnah out of the game. Dersnah was replaced by Junior Tim Barrett, who, though a top scorer himself, is not familiar with the senior manner of play.

Quinte's coach Jim Murray capitalized on Dersnah's withdrawal from the game by sending his team into a full court press. As a result, Quinte dropped 19 points through the hoop while Picton was held to seven.

Though Quinte lost on the rebounding, Picton coach Stewart said that "we missed a lot of easy shots in the first half. Our foul shooting was bad. We only put in nine of 30 shots from the foul line."

Coach Murray acknowledged the danger of a strong foul shooting team, as he said, "with a full court press, there is a greater risk of committing fouls. That's our biggest problem. If they'd been putting them in, it would've made a difference."

Quinte had no lack of scorers as playmaker Mark Gallope dropped 23 points through the hoop while Stan Brooks accounted for 14 along with Picton's Kevin Quinn and Doug Dersnah.

Belvedere's Elmer Cain, who tallied one goal against Reid's Dairy goalie John Gunter in Thursday night's Gas House Hockey action, went head first towards the ice in an attempt to get the puck for a second tally. Belvedere went on a scoring binge in the third period to tie the score 5-5 after being down 5-1 at the beginning of the third.

Cabbies Hit Teachers

Central Taxi drove the Quinte Hockey League's Teachers into the ice for the second time in as many weeks Thursday night as they defeated the purple clad team 5-2.

Central, who hold a 2-1-1 record against the educators, started their victory march off slowly with a first period 1-0 lead on a goal by Ted Schwager.

The first might have ended differently but for the goal tending of Central's Ken Gonneau who played outstandingly in net throughout the game. Central's defenceman Steve Sharpe allowed Teacher right winger Doug Jodoin to take two unmolested shots at an unprotected Gonneau, both of which were stopped.

Sharpe, along with Jim Woodcock, who assisted on two Central goals, rode rough shod over the Teachers' forwards for the remainder of the game.

Kevin Allen made up for his first period missed breakaway scoring attempt on Teachers Casey Soden as he backhanded a short low shot past Soden at 2:25 of the second. Al Walker connected with the Teachers' netting for a Central 2-1 scoring edge in the second period. Al Mott beat Gonneau for Teachers' lone second period goal.

Central's Tom Pierce and Dwight Rathwell along with Teachers' Brian MacKenzie, completed the scoreboard markups in the third period.

The cabbies move into a second place tie with the Teachers as both teams are now within two points of league leading Reid's Dairy who tied last night's game with Belvedere Hotel 6-6.

Belvedere right winger Paul Macklam and Reid's winger Denny Tompkins both opened and closed the scoring for their respective teams. With a goal apiece in between, the wingers earned hat tricks.

Reid's Dairy had little trouble with Belvedere in the first period chalking up a 3-0 lead as the last place team failed to play positional hockey. Tompkins, Bob Woodske and Don Goodfellow tallied for the dairymen.

In the second period Macklam scored Belvedere's first goal when Reid's defenceman Paul Zakos played the puck at his own blue line for an interception and missed. Macklam went in to score on unattended Reid's goalie John Gunter.

Though Reid Mallery's and second period goals gave the Dairy a 5-1 lead going into the third, Belvedere quickly rallied around the Reid's goal poles.

Between 1:50 and 10:00 minutes of the third period, Elmer Cain, Larry Marshall, Paul Macklam, Gerry Jones and Macklam unleashed a barrage of goals on the dairymen. Denny Tompkins interrupted Belvedere's scoring spree with his final at 17:00.

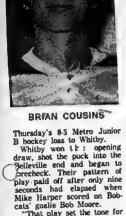
Early Goal Cages Cats

"I think that some of our guys are still snoozing there, waiting for the puck to drop."

That was how Belleville Bobcats' coach Moe Hunter described the opening seconds of play roles Thursday, was the top Bobcats' pointgetter last year.

"He played pretty well," said Hunter of his most recent addition. "He's going to be one of our centres. There's no doubt about getting a player like him into the starting lineup."

Play remained tied at 4-4 after the second period, but Whitby managed a 4-1 margin in the final frame to record the win. Don Nicholson was the chief thorn in the Bobcats' paw, scoring a hat trick for the winners.



The other Belleville goals went to Rick Meagher, Dave Horwood, Ken Holmes and Wally Dainard.

Moore faced 30 shots in the losing nets while Whitby goalie Bruce Crouch was tested 6 times. The winners drew 14 of the game's 24 penalties which included a five-minute minor to Crouch for spearing. Wayne McGeachy picked up a fighting major for Belleville.

"... and anytime you have a bad game in this league, you're going to lose. It's that well balanced," he added as an afterthought.

The loss by Bobcats leaves them deadlocked with Markham for third place in the Ibm team Metro league with an 8-5-1 record.

Despite Whitby's early score, the game was deadlocked 3-3 after the first period. One of the three Belleville tallies came from centre Brian Cousins who was playing in his first Junior B game of this season. Cousins, who was used almost exclusively in penalty killing and power

Trenton, CSS Two-for-Two

Bay of Quinte COSSA basketball action Thursday night saw Trenton's and Centennial's junior and midget teams win their two games against Bayside and Centre Hastings.

Centennial's junior game at Centre Hastings, CSS edged Madoc 53-52 in a game which was forced into overtime due to a 47-47 tie at the end of regulation time.

Charles Vandervaeter dropped the winning bucket just as the buzzer went to give Centennial the victory. Vandervaeter chalked up 17 points for CSS while Doug Yates earned 15.

Thursday's 8-5 Metro Junior B hockey loss to Whitby.

Whitby won (2) opening draw, shot the puck into the Belleville end and began to forecheck. Their pattern of play paid off after only nine seconds had elapsed when Mike Harper scored on Bobcats' goalie Bob Moore.

"That play set the tone for the game," conceded the Belleville coach. "They used their home rink to advantage. They were shooting the puck in and then going after it. We were trying to carry the puck too much. I don't think we played that well.

Fans' Concern Warms Bench

Bench, recovering at a hospital from the operation that removed a benign growth from his right lung, swept his arm over the boxes of mail in his room.

"This," he said, "is nothing short of miraculous.

"People I don't know," he said, "all of them wishing me good luck and telling me they're looking forward to seeing me get back behind the plate."

He said he and his mother, Katie, were trying to read through the 10,000 letters, "but we haven't made a dent in it."

The room was also decked with flowers, all from well-wishers.

Bench learned of the condition last September, prior to the National League playoffs and the World Series, which the Reds lost to Oakland Athletics.

"I won't say I didn't worry about it," said the 25-year-old Oklahoman. "I mean, it did appear since last year.

"I felt it would work out from the beginning," he said, avowing his faith in Dr. Lois Gonzaler, the surgeon.

Bench was named Most Valuable Player in the National League in 1970 and 1972.

"I'd been saying all along that anything could happen and end your career," he said.

Bench recalled saying this when named MVP in 1970, and he said it again after last season, knowing what faced him.

Bench said he will be out of the hospital around Dec. 20 and expects to rest for at least three weeks.

In February, he plans to go to spring training, as usual, at Tampa, Fla.

NFL Ignores Ealey

TORONTO (CP) — Chuck Ealey, who quarterbacked Hamilton Tiger-Cats to the Grey Cup this year in his first professional season, said Thursday he won't take the initiative to renegotiate his three-year contract with the Canadian Football League.

CHUCK EALEY

Ealey said he will be content to play out the option and expects to rest for at least three weeks.

In February, he plans to go to spring training, as usual, at Tampa, Fla.

"I still don't know what they look for in a quarterback," Ealey said to reporters at the reception where he received his car.

The 6-foot-1, 185-pounder, who passed so much a threat for opponents with his running as with his passing, admitted no spokesmen for NFL clubs had talked to him.

"Let's put it this way. I don't think they're supposed to talk to me because I'm under contract. So if they had, I'm afraid I wouldn't tell you anyway.

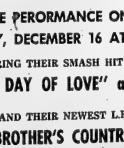
"But they haven't."

Ealey will be in Montreal for a sports - celebrities dinner tonight before returning to his Toledo home to prepare for his forthcoming marriage early in the new year.

Toronto Negotiates For Olympic Share

MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto, will negotiate with the federal and Quebec governments for a share of the 1976 Summer Olympic Games, Toronto mayor-elect David Crombie said Thursday.

"It's going to cost $1 billion to finance all the 1976 Olympics as I understand it and I don't think that Montreal can handle all of that," Mr. Crombie said on the local CBC public affairs program Hourglass.



He said he will ask specifically that water sports, soccer and "most if not all cultural events" be transferred to Toronto.

The federal government is "well aware that Montreal can't handle it and would like to see Toronto, or at least the province of Ontario, get a portion of the Olympics," Mr. Crombie said.

He said he has not yet approached Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau with the idea but said he will do so as soon as he is sworn in as mayor early in January.

"I think that all the parties will understand the Olympics should be spread around and that Toronto can help significantly," the 36-year-old mayor-elect said.

The cultural events should be staged in Toronto because it has "a cultural and social role almost second to none," he said.

"It's the only fair thing to do. I admit I blew that last call!"

TV Ratings Drop

TORONTO (CP) — A National Hockey League official said Thursday the Canada-Russian hockey series can be blamed in part for an apparent drop in popularity of Saturday night hockey on CBC television.

The weekly televised hockey games have tumbled to seventh place from top spot in ratings they enjoyed for several years, the Bureau of Measurements said Thursday.

The ratings list shows the hockey games having 3,172,000 viewers across Canada, a drop of one million from last March.

Don Ruck, NHL vice-president, said he felt it is a case of viewers just trying to catch their breath from the Canada-Russia hockey series.

He said he expects the close race in the Eastern Division among Montreal, New York, Boston and Buffalo to catch the viewers' interest and push Saturday back to the top of the ratings list.

No Interest?

CHICAGO (AP) — Arthur M. Wirtz, owner of the Chicago Black Hawks, denied Thursday reports he had acquired interest in another National Hockey League club, Vancouver Canucks.

"I have no interest whatsoever in the Vancouver club and I don't know a damn thing about it," the wealthy Chicago real estate operator said.

Aaron Rewrites Records

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The rewriting of baseball's record books after last season has Atlanta Braves' outfielder Hank Aaron holding eight National League records in batting—seven of them major league highs—and tied for three others.

The 37-year-old slugger now holds 17 major league records for most total bases, 6,172, and runs batted in 2,207, official National League statistics issued today showed. The old records were 6,134 total bases by Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals, set in 1963, and 1,997 runs batted in by New York Yankees immortal Babe Ruth in the years 1914-1935.

In the 1972 season Aaron was fourth among six National League hitters with slugging percentages above .500. He had .514 in that department where Billy Williams of Chicago Cubs led with .606, followed by Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh Pirates, .558, and Johnny Bench of Cincinnati Reds, .541.

Five of Aaron's major league records were his at the start of the season and these he extended to: 14 seasons with 30 or more home runs; 18 seasons—and 18 consecutively—with 30 or more homers; 107 lifetime sacrifice flies, and 270 intentional bases on balls.

Aaron's 673 lifetime home run total replaced the 646 National League high that belonged to Willie Mays of New York Mets a year ago, and he tied San Francisco Giants' Willie McCovey and the late Gil Hodges of Brooklyn for the most game-filled home runs in a National League career, 14. Aaron also shares a league record for the most-bases on balls in one game—five.

Mays became the major league outfielder who has handled the most chances, 7,185 for his career. The Speaker of Cleveland Indians had held the major league record for this since 1928 with 7,155.

HANK AARON

Mays also took over as lifetime strikeout leader in the National League with 1,479. Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee Braves had led with 1,462. Stargell tied the league record of most consecutive seasons with 100 or more strikeouts—running his string to eight years to match Dick Allen, who had his eighth with Los Angeles Dodgers last year.

Among miscellaneous 1972 season highs were Joe Morgan of Cincinnati with most home runs on balls, 115; Lee May of Houston Astros with most strikeouts, 145; Ron Hunt of Montreal Expos with most hit-pitcher, 26, to raise his lifetime total to a major league record of 203, or 1 more than the former mark Minnie Minoso established with Chicago White Sox in 1964.

Marty Perez of Atlanta grounded into the most double plays, 21, and Rick Monday of Chicago the fewest, four.

Flu Makes Pitch

LONDON (Reuter) — The influenza epidemic in the north of England has again hit English soccer and four of Saturday's league games have been postponed.

Third-Division Halifax Town and Rochdale and Fourth-Division Chester are the latest clubs affected. Their matches against York City, Plymouth Argyle and Hereford United, respectively, have been called off.

Hudderfield, in Division II, has been given permission to postpone its match for the second successive week. They were scheduled to play Queen's Park Rangers Saturday.

Milk Price Increase Is Near

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

An increase in consumer milk prices may be in the offing early next year.

Belleville dairy spokesmen indicated an increase today awarded farmers who produce milk for table use will most inevitably will be reflected in consumer prices — a possible boost of a cent a quart.

The farmers are to receive an additional 35 cents a hundredweight effective Jan. 1, it was announced today by George McLaughlin, chairman of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board.

Although the figure amounts to less than a cent a quart to the dairy farmer, it is not known at this time what the effect would be on the consumer price, said the board announcement.

But management officials of two city dairy operations in Belleville believed the increase would have to be passed on to the consumer by the dairy farmer.

The industry, they said, has been in a cost squeeze in recent years.

A spokesman for the independent Boldt's Dairy, estimated a hundredweight of farm milk produces about 38 quarts end dairy product. Thus the boost granted here equalled nearly a cent a quart.

"Generally speaking, any cost increase in the raw product will be reflected in the final result (to consumers)," he said.

He quoted current Belleville-area milk prices as ranging from about 29 cents a quart for just milk up to 37 cents by the single carton.

An official at the Belleville office of the Brookside Price's Dairy (Trent-Quinte) Ltd., chain, said the industry didn't relish any further price increases.

But if there was a boost in cost to the industry "part of it, anyway, will have to be passed on."

Price of cheese would not be affected since it is a product of industrial milk, price of which is linked to a different cost formula, an official of the dairying - board's cheese division in Belleville said.

The increase to farmers follows a ruling of the Ontario Milk Commission after an appeal made by the dairies against a larger increase proposed by the board.

Announcing the milk producers' first increase since September 1971, Mr. McLaughlin said that the 35 cent a hundredweight figure represented less than a five per cent increase in the price for fluid milk. It did not reflect increases in costs to dairy farmers in the last 16 months.

As an example, Mr. McLaughlin cited Canadian livestock feed board figures showing that the cost of feed grains per cattle had risen steeply in the last year. Oats have increased 34 per cent, white corn and soy meal have risen 23 per cent and 41 per cent respectively. In addition, daily farm wages rose 8.5 per cent between August 1971 and August 1972. Even more disturbing is that many of these costs are continuing to climb.

Dairy farmers also have had to cope with some of the worst weather conditions in years, he said. Poor quality of winter feed reduces the milk yield. Farmers are forced to buy more of the expensive grain supplements and so are caught in a "vicious circle" that drives their costs still higher.

Because of these circumstances, Mr. McLaughlin explained, dairy farmers had hoped for something better than 35 cents decided upon by the commission.

"After all," he added, "the dairy farmer, just like any other consumer, is faced with the falling value of the dollar and is entitled to protect his income. He is also required to make a large capital investment in his farm and the price for his milk must be set at a realistic level which will encourage him to stay in the business."

Tree Market Uncertain

This weekend may show whether Christmas tree sales have taken as firm a root as ever in the Quinte district's bustling festive retail market.

Artificial substitutes are mounting in popularity. Apartment living, couples without children, labor and inflation are among facts of modern urban life cited for slacker markets.

"Business — it's been slow so far," admitted one dealer on the Belleville farmers' market Thursday. "But lots of people should see it to pick up."

Nonetheless, one of the Christmas tree growers believes the market is dipping.

Ray Burris, whose plantations, north of Madoc have supplied trees to many a household in the past decade, says this year rural sales are still brisk.

But there is a definite dropoff in the urban markets — where the money is.

Thursday he spoke with one of the province's big tree growers — Sam Manatis of Pontypool, a former executive of the Ontario Christmas Tree Growers Association and editor of Tree Talk, the trade's journal.

He said Mr. Manatis reported Christmas trees "as a whole are very scarce in Ontario."

For the grower, high production costs and scarcity of labor needed to get the trees from plantation to market lots, are big problems. So are prices, increased on the retail level, but still low when sold wholesale, says Mr. Burris.

The natural product isn't proving as popular with apartment dwellers. Couples without children haven't the same inducement to purchase. Then, there's increasing competition from artificial trees.

"City sales have been dropping off more each year due to artificial trees," says Mr. Burris.

Main reasons for this, says Mr. Burris, are inflated land prices, which make new plantation tracts prohibitive to purchase. Also, it takes about 10 years for trees to grow to marketable maturity.

For the growers who remain in the business this could eventually prove a boon. With the number of Christmas trees on the market lessened, the demand at last could create the necessary price hike to make the business more worthwhile for growers.

Yesterday was being spoofed on the Belleville market named between $2.50 and $3.

The Burris plantations this year are supplying fewer trees than usual into the Quinte market.

Cutting has been reduced to give growth a rest. Bad weather — "the worst we've experienced" — in the bush has also prevented many trees from being harvested.

Brighton OPP Adds Officer

BRIGHTON (Staff) — The Brighton detachment OPP has hired another policeman and is trying to keep one of its cruisers here round-the-clock in response to the end of municipal police service in the village.

The future of police service here is still unresolved since Brighton's one village policeman resigned earlier in the fall. The matter has been referred to the Ontario Police Commission for a decision.

Brighton council has called for OPC action that may lead to the OPP being permanently assigned to enforcing provincial and federal laws in Brighton. If the police commission decides that the provincial police should be responsible for police protection here the size of the force required will be determined by the OPC.

Residents of the community would pay toward the service on a pro rata basis (according to use rather than fixed contract.)

The village, however, will still be required to hire its own bylaw enforcement officer, regardless of whether the OPP is retained. Provincial police authorities indicate the OPP will not be responsible for enforcing municipal bylaws.

Taylor Committee Chairman

PICTON (Staff) — James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox, has been elected chairman of the Administration of Justice Committee of the legislative assembly.

This committee covers the justice policy field which encompasses the ministries of attorney-general, correctional services, consumer and commercial relations, solicitor - general, treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs, ministry of revenue and ministry of government services.

By this appointment Mr. Taylor also becomes vice - chairman of the Private Bills Committee. He also serves on the public accounts committee and is on the select committee for snowmobile and all-terrain vehicles.

Colt a Winner

PICTON (Staff) — Clifford Wilson, Picton Edward County horseman has raised a winner in Colt, Cliff Tinn, sold to Robert Croft and Doug Ireland of Picton for a record $4,000 in 10 lifetime starts. The three - year - old pacer was fueled by Mr. Wilson's broodmare Donna Barnes.

Problems Face Second Rink

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton's Recreation and Committee members emerged from Tuesday night's meeting with a double headache . . . where to locate a new ice surface, and how to finance it.

Cost of the proposed new ice surface could run close to $500,000 — prohibitive treasurer Brian Fagan told the committee he holds out little hope the Ontario Municipal Board will approve any more capital budgets for the town.

If approval is not received, the plan could not debenture for the project.

Mr. Fagan also pointed out that there is insufficient money available in capital funds to build an ice surface. With few roads open to the recreation committee, he predicted little likelihood of obtaining such a surface much before 1974, when it could be included in that year's proposed budget.

Only avenue open at this time would be private or public soliciting of funds.

The second problem of location of an ice surface has two alternatives. Recreation director Don Geiger is to contact the Canadian Tire Corporation to discuss possible negotiations for land adjacent to the present rink.

The second alternative lies with a Peterborough firm that has been invited to meet with the committee to discuss a proposal that of leasing ice surfaces. Members were not greatly in favor of this suggestion, but felt further information could help their difficult situation.

Judge Grants Probation

A Deseronto man whose life has been marked by periods in reformatories and institutions was granted two years probation by Provincial Court Judge J. L. Clendenning, Thursday.

Joseph Glen Allison, 19, will spend a month and eight days in jail before the stringent probation order goes into effect. He has already been in custody for 22 days since he was picked up Nov. 22 by Deseronto police for kicking another man in the face in a pool hall.

Judge Clendenning found Allison guilty Tuesday of assault causing bodily harm. The man also pleaded guilty to causing a public disturbance Nov. 22 when he used foul language in front of three girls on a main Deseronto street.

Allison, whose record includes a seven-month stretch in Guelph Reformatory, is still visit Deseronto only to see his mother. He must be in each night by 11 p.m. and is forbidden to enter pool rooms.

Guilty Plea

Involved in an $800 accident on Dundas St. East Dec. 3, Thomas Boyle of Belleville pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of intoxication above .08 per cent blood alcohol.

Moira Authority Budget $180,670

A budget of $180,670 has been recommended by the Moira River Conservation Authority to its 1973 executive.

The budget total includes $30,000 in local levy, $15,000 from chief benefiting municipalities for special projects, and $115,670 from provincial grants.

Major item in the 1973 recommended budget is engineering and land acquisition costs for the proposed kreservoir dam in Belleville, amounting to $76,000 of which Belleville as the chief beneficiary municipality would pay $38,334.

Another $5,190 would be paid by the city as its share of capital costs for the Moira River greenbelt area inside the city limits.

Administration costs for the authority are estimated at $41,800. Operation and maintenance of water control structures is estimated at $8,800; and maintenance of conservation areas at $4,070.

Total capital costs for conservation areas are estimated at $32,000, water control projects, $87,000, the lower Moira watershed $15,000 and for pollution abatement $2,000.

The levy of Belleville continues to pay the major share of local levy costs and in 1972 paid $15,775 of the total $28,000 local levy.

Local levy costs have risen from $18,000 in 1965 to $28,000 in 1972.

The authority, established in 1947, has 17 member municipalities, the majority of which are in Hastings and the balance in Lennox and Addington to the east.

Salesman Now Owner

In the next 20 years each pursued their individual careers, but maintained personal contact.

The Spinelli form of Moira Beverages expanded into one of the largest Quinte-area bottling and distributing operations with big brandname franchises.

Mr. Misener worked up through the co-operative echelons of Pepsi Cola of Canada from sales representative to executive vice president.

Recently that initial contact came a circle. Now, Mr. Misener is back in Belleville — this time as purchaser of his long time friend's last, and biggest sale: Moira Beverages.

During his executive career he had worked with similar independent bottlers across Canada and "had a lot of respect for that aspect of the business.

"I always had ambitions to have my own business and was impressed with the progress Bill has made. When he decided to retire and sell he told me about it first.

"We finalized negotiations — and here I am."

The year they first met, Mr. Spinelli had moved from Smiths Falls and purchased the Pepsi franchise; starting business in a bottling plant on Coleman St.

His operation counted five employees and two trucks — the drivers of which were trained for a week by Mr. Misener on sales techniques.

Today, the company has a fleet of 17 vehicles, on various assignments and a staff close to 40.

Last year sales volume totalled a half-million cases, estimated Mr. Spinelli, who in ensuing years bought out bottling plants at Brighton and Campbellford, adding franchises from Seven-Up, Orange Crush and Hire's Root Beer to his original Pepsi distribution. The operation grew so big he ran out of space on Coleman St. and had to move to the present location.

Mr. Misener, "a native of Port Colborne, has no qualms about switching from a corporate environment to a local, independent operation.

Aside from business, he is an enthusiastic boatman and the Bay of Quinte and surrounding local waterways are an added enticement, he says.

For Mr. Spinelli — who has been helping the owner Misener on sales techniques.

Rehabilitation For Prisoners Is Called Joke

OTTAWA (CP) — A British Columbia New Democrat says Canada's penitentiary system is a mess and rehabilitation is only a paper program in the system.

Frank Howard, MP for Skeena, advocated a more liberal system for young and first offenders and a tough regime for the old lags who return to prison time after time.

Mr. Howard was speaking out about he penitentiaries system after some years of relative silence following his disclosure that he had a criminal record.

He announced in 1967 that he had received a blackmail demand for $5,000. If he did not pay, the blackmailer would disclose that the MP had spent two years in British Columbia penitentiary as a youth.

Mr. Howard refused to disclose the information himself. He then restricted his public statements about penitentiary matters, participating instead in an NDP caucus committee on the solicitor-general's department.

Mr. Howard refused to discuss the blackmail incident or prison sentence in an interview Thursday, saying it was a matter of the past.

But he did say because of his continuing interest, he had decided to become more vocal about the penitentiary service, drawing in part from a large file of letters from prisoners.

In that regard he released a form letter Wednesday in which he invited prisoners to write directly to the new solicitor-general, Warren Allmand.

"I'm sure he will want to do the right thing and clean up the mess that our penitentiary system is in . . ." the letter said in part.

Asked what he meant by a mess, he said in the interview there have been riots and disturbances in the prison system and a massive escape from the modern Millhaven maximum-security establishment near Kingston, Ont.

"If that's not a mess I don't know what is."

He also said there is a morale problem in the penitentiaries because of the leave system.

Mr. Howard said that despite former solicitor-general Jean-Pierre Goyer being under heavy fire from all sides over the penitentiary service, he actually did little.

The controversial practice of giving leaves to prisoners was in existence before Mr. Goyer took office, as were other reforms.

He said Mr. Goyer left the service as he found it, with a rehabilitation service that was a joke and a primary purpose of locking up persons.

"Rehabilitation is a paper program in the real sense. Anytime there is a choice between rehabilitation and custody, custody prevails."

Lalonde Asks Time For Study

OTTAWA (CP) — Treading carefully in often-muddy social assistance waters, Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde asks for understanding when he is questioned about departmental programs

He says he is learning the ins and outs of a complex ministry, and promises statements on possible social security plans soon

Among them are the Family Income Security Plan (FISP) introduced by the government in the last session of Parliament and a guaranteed minimum income proposed by many reformers including Sen David Croll, chairman of the Senate poverty committee.

Mr Lalonde says he now is reviewing FISP, the government-sponsored replacement for universal family allowances, examining stands taken by the opposition on the bill and opinions from people across the country

"I hope I'll be able to make a recommendation about FISP to my cabinet colleagues relatively soon I would hope that we can certainly have an indication on the subject in the Speech from the Throne," he said in a recent interview

But he could not guarantee he would be able to recommend what steps to take before Jan 4 when the new Parliament opens

FISP, which would have introduced a graduated family allowance system with the richer getting less or nothing and the poorer getting more, was criticized by the opposition on grounds that it would create an impossible bureaucracy Income changes would have been reported to the government and taken into account when benefits were sent out.

The plan met disaster in the Commons when Paul Hellyer, now a Conservative refused on a technicality to give unanimous consent to proceed with third reading The bill died when Parliament was dissolved for the Oct 30 election

Although Mr Lalonde, the former principal secretary to Prime Minister Trudeau, says he does not want to comment on a guaranteed annual income now, he will make his views known later

"It's too early for me to say anything now But I'll have something to say on this before too long"

Case Dismissed

BRANTFORD, Ont (CP) — A charge of obstructing police against Dr Robert Lazer, 56, a psychology professor at the University of Toronto, was dismissed Thursday

Dr Lazer was charged following an incident at the striking bound Tenpack Ltd plant Sept 9, 1971 The firm was the scene of a three-month strike by the members of the Canadian Textile and Chemical Union

Four police officers testified that Sgt Reg Campbell ordered the demonstrators to leave the area after pickets and others attempted to stop buses carrying non-union workers to the plant

Provincial Court Judge Marc Gérard said he accepted Dr Lazer's testimony that the latter had not heard police orders to disperse

Norman Rogers of Toronto, also charged with obstruction, had his case adjourned to April 18

Four Released

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Four women held overnight Wednesday for questioning in the shooting death of a Windsor woman were released Thursday morning.

Police said they were continuing their investigation into the death of Silvana Wild, 30-year-old mother of two.

Mrs. Wild was shot in the back of the head Wednesday morning while visiting her mother in a Windsor apartment.

Superport and Pipeline Are Proposed for Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec government officials will meet Tuesday with representatives of oil companies interested in building a superport-pipeline installation in the province, a government spokesman said Thursday

The installation will serve Montreal oil refineries and the projected $70-million petrochemical complex announced last September by Hercules Inc, Union Carbide Ltd and Gulf Oil Ltd

The spokesman said the meeting is expected to discuss the site and cost of the superport, the size and cost of the pipeline and which company will be given the go-ahead to undertake the project

Destruction Bay in the Yukon got its name because so many boats were wrecked during the Gold Rush of 1898 as they rounded a point of the bay.

Joint Projects Are Planned By Canada, West Germany

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and West Germany will undertake joint scientific projects, including specific research in marine technology and ocean science, under new co-operative agreements announced Thursday.

Officials of the two governments outlined to a news conference an unprecedented number of projects approved under a bilateral agreement on science and technology, which was signed between the two countries in April, 1971.

The announcements followed three-days of closed work sessions under a proposed annual consultation during which the projects—under 12 major subject areas—were defined. Two senior delegates led by Reinhard Loosch, director of the international co-operation division, met Canadian delegates from several federal departments and five provincial governments.

The Canadian delegation was led by Dr. J. Rennie Whitehead, of the federal science ministry international branch.

"These are not motherhood statements," Dr. Aurele Beaulieu, secretary to the science ministry, told a news conference at the end of the final session.

"The meeting dealt not only with general policy statements, but with specific projects."

For example, in the general area of marine technology and ocean science, delegates worked out 26 specific projects for cooperation, exchange of scientists or industrial research projects.

Dr. C. R. Baker, ministry science advisor, outlined three examples of the specific marine-technology projects:

—An arrangement for a new, high-speed German-developed sensor which measures conductivity, temperature and pressure to be installed in and tested by the Canadian towed underwater vessel at the Bedford Institute in Halifax. Scientists at Bedford will work closely with counterparts from the German hydrographic institutes at Hamburg and Kiel.

—An investigation into use of a Canadian-developed sonar system in German fishing fleets. The sonar indicates size and depth of fish schools.

—Development of a two-nation group of scientists to develop new and improved towing systems for underwater towed vehicles.

Also approved was continued collaboration in radio astronomy, especially using the facilities of the National Research council's Algonquin Park observatory near Ottawa

'Seek Grant

TORONTO (CP) — A delegation from the Sarnia Arts Foundation met Thursday with Jack McNie, minister of colleges and universities, to seek $15 million toward the construction of a light opera theatre in Sarnia and the Max Planck Institute near Bonn.

"These facilities are among the most advanced in the world and there would be considerable mutual benefit from simultaneous observations and joint experiments," officials said.

Parks in Maritime Deserted in Winter

HALIFAX (CP) — National parks in the Atlantic provinces receive tens of thousands of visitors during the summer months but once the cold weather hits people stay home.

And that's not good, according to the Atlantic regional officers of the department of Indian affairs and northern development.

The department says in a statement the parks remain open year-round and offer the adventurer who is prepared to accept cold weather and limited facilities the opportunities to explore areas often impassable in the summer, and to observe nature under winter conditions.

Although few people attempt to camp out during the winter, each park keeps a camping area free of deep snow, where tents may be pitched by those who are willing to brave the elements.

The department says winter is obtained by melting ice or by a trip to the camp administrative offices. The inexperienced winter traveller will soon realise that it requires a lot of melting snow or ice to provide a coffee cup full of water.

There are a number of rules the winter visitors must observe, however.

The department says winter travellers who intend to venture into the countryside for an overnight stay must report to the park warden before setting out.

The department says "park wardens are constantly amazed at the dress and equipment of visitors who arrive for a winter hike or camp-out

"Visitors have been known to show up wearing running shoes, light summer-weight jackets and with sleeping bags that are not even suitable for summer camping."

The department is also concerned about the use of over-snow vehicles in the parks. Officials now are designing trails which will be set aside.

The department says it has discovered that snowmobiles damaged trees and undergrowth as well as affecting the wildlife.

Dog Beaten

GALT, Ont. (CP) — A man who beat his pet German shepherd to death with a hammer June 6 was fined $50 in provincial court Thursday.

Otto Barth of nearby Hespeler, who was convicted of causing unnecessary pain to an animal, said he did not have enough money to feed the dog or to dispose of it properly. The court learned his income was less than $100 a month.

Can't Interfere In Damage Action Declares Bales

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Dalton Bales said Thursday he has "no mandate to interfere" in what he described as a private civil suit involving Melchers Distilleries Ltd. of Montreal.

Mr. Bales made a long statement to the legislature in reply to questions earlier in the week by Donald MacDonald (NDP—Toronto York South) about a 1963 suit for $200,000 against the distillery by James Neal McDowell of Toronto, an employee.

Mr. McDowell said he was declared by Melchers for refusing a donation to the Progressive Conservative party for the 1963 provincial election. Mr. McDowell, the firm's Ontario sales manager at the time, left Melchers Nov. 15, 1963.

He claimed $50,000 damages for wrongful reduction of salary by conspiracy" and $200,000 punitive damages. The affair caused a controversy when it was raised in the legislature in 1966.

Mr. MacDonald raised the issue in the house again Wednesday, asking Mr. Bales whether a "payoff" was made by a third party, apparently a reference to the Conservatives, prior to the 1971 provincial election.

Mr. McDowell said in an interview Wednesday he had received enough out of the settlement of his suit, but would not disclose the amount.

Mr. MacDonald had asked Mr. Bales why a certificate of readiness in the case, issued in April, 1969, has not yet been heard by the courts.

Mr. Bales said there was "nothing sinister" in the apparent delay.

"It is a common occurrence and could have been motivated by a number of reasons, known only to the parties themselves," the minister said.

Nixon Says PC Given Concession

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon charged Thursday in the legislature that a Progressive Conservative campaign manager in the 1971 provincial election was given a potentially lucrative concession to sell Indian crafts at Algonquin provincial park.

Mr. Nixon said Douglas Stringer — campaign manager for Paul Yakabuski (PC—Renfrew South) and began operating his concession last June 5.

He said no tenders were called and the only apparent reason for allowing the concession was that Mr. Stringer had been involved in the Progressive Conservative campaign.

Leo Bernier, natural resources minister, said he would investigate, but added that contracts were not awarded on that basis.

Mr. Yakabuski said in an interview later that he arranged a meeting between Mr. Stringer and the ministry for the concession, "but that was at least two years before Mr. Stringer became my campaign manager."

'Rot Gut' Sold Due To Demand

TORONTO (CP) — Cabinet minister John Clement said Thursday the sale is permitted in Ontario of "low-quality rot gut," as one opposition member called it, because there is probably a market for it.

Mr. Clement, minister of consumer and commercial relations, made the remark during a debate in the legislature on his bill to permit provincial wineries to import grapes or grape concentrates.

The last-minute legislation was introduced to accommodate wineries faced with a grape shortage brought about by adverse weather this year. The legislation permits importation up to Sept. 1, 1973.

Mr. Clement said this year, growers produced about 29,000 tons, leaving a shortage of about 23,000 tons, the amount that will be permitted into the country.

James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale) criticized the Ontario Liquor Control Board for permitting the marketing of "some of the cheapest, shoddiest material that I have ever seen. . . .

He described one 75-cent - a-bottle wine as "low quality rot gut."

Mr. Clement replied that the low-quality wine was "probably a popular item, and perhaps serves a certain segment of this population. . . , whose tastes in drinking are not those of moderation."

OHIP Head Is Changed By Potter

TORONTO (CP) — The director of medical services for the Ontario Hospital Insurance Plan (OHIP) was relieved of his duties because his work was unsatisfactory, Health Minister Richard Potter told the legislature Thursday.

He said the director, Dr. David R. Kinlock, was given other, unspecified duties.

A health ministry spokesman said later Dr. Kinlock is listed only as having "special duties". He has no title.

Dr. Potter, replying to Liberal Leader Robert Nixon, said the ministry has been criticized by the opposition for mistakes made in health estimates last spring.

"It was because of some of the criticisms that I heard . . . that I am finding it necessary to change the duties of some of the personnel."

Dr. Potter said without elaborating that other changes in personnel are being considered, but many were a result of the government's reorganization.

Starvation Feared

Women stand in lines at Jakarta market recently. A severe drought and insufficient stockpiling has left Indonesia's 125 million people short of their only major staple — rice. Many families are spending their entire income on food and some starvation deaths have been reported. The government is dumping some 120,000 tons of rice a month on the market, to depress the price which in many places has climbed astronomically.

Guindon Says DISC To Blame

TORONTO (CP) — The Domestic International Sales Corp. (DISC) program in the United States influenced a decision to close a firm in Georgetown, Ont., Labor Minister Fern Guindon said Thursday.

Mr. Guindon told the legislature there "was no question that this legislation was involved in the decision" to close General Fireproofing Co. next March.

Mr. Guindon said the original purpose of the expansion of the firm into Ontario from Youngstown, Ohio, five years ago "was to enter this market and sell any excess to markets in the northeastern United States.

"For some two years, the company has found that the dollar exchange between the U.S. and Canada has not been favorable and the operation has been less successful than expected," he said.

DISC is a U.S. government program of benefits to encourage American manufacturers to produce export goods at home rather than in branch plants abroad, such as in Canada.

Mr. Guindon said that following the notice of closure, the company met with ministry officials Dec. 4 to discuss the matter.

Mr. Guindon said General Fireproofing had agreed to give all possible assistance in finding jobs for the 200 workers affected "and we are presently working towards that goal."

Lewis Says Bankruptcy Feigned

TORONTO (CP) — New Democratic Leader Stephen Lewis charged in the legislature Thursday that a Toronto firm feigned bankruptcy in order to avoid paying $2 million to 450 workers.

The NDP leader said Canadian Acme Screw and Gear Ltd. has resumed business under a new name, Canac Ltd., and is operating in the same building and employing the same foremen.

He said the firm used a loophole in the Employment Standards Act to avoid meeting workers' demands, by delaring bankruptcy.

Labor Minister Fernand Guindon said he has agreed to hold a hearing under the act, requested by the union, to determine whether the workers are entitled to severance pay.

Mr. Lewis charged that the hearing would be useless, because the minister knows "the outcome of the hearing is already."

Mr. Guindon said Mr. Lewis was "jumping to conclusions."

Mr. Lewis said later in an interview, there was no law to reverse the Acme situation, but "if I were minister I would descend on them with both feet and tell them they have at least a moral commitment to those workers."

Mr. Guindon told reporters he hoped to hold the hearing before the new year.

Man Who Made Threat Won't Conduct Hearing

TORONTO (CP) — Judge George Davies, who threatened to send a man to jail for not paying a $36.25 repair bill, will not preside at a new hearing in the matter, Attorney-General Dalton Bales said Thursday.

Bashir Rattansey, a Tanzanian immigrant, appeared before Judge Davies in small-claims court here Dec. 1 on a judgment summons hearing over a repair bill from a service station.

Mr. Rattansey said he stopped payment on a cheque for the repairs because he felt his car was not running properly after the work had been done.

When he refused to pay the bill, Judge Davies threatened him with three days in jail. The judge said in an interview later he was only trying to make the man pay the money.

"Nobody goes to jail anymore for not paying a debt," he said. "Sometimes a man deserves his just deserts."

Mr. Bales finds a way to come up with the money when he thinks he could be jailed.

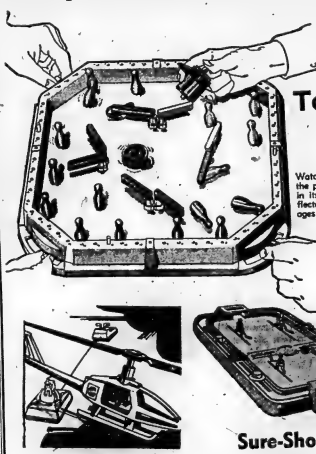
Mr. Bales said the Small Claims Court Act was amended in 1960, and the section which indicated a person could go to jail for not paying a debt was removed.

"Judge Davies is very concerned and he appreciated my concern over the matter and he sincerely regrets the incident," Mr. Bales said.

With the threat of jail, Mr. Rattansey decided to pay the bill and court costs, totalling $60.85. The money will be held in trust until he gets a lawyer and a new hearing Jan. 5.

Algonquin League Attacks Parks Act

TORONTO (CP) — The Algonquin Wildlands League called Thursday for strict government control of commercial development and exploitation of natural resources in provincial parks.



The league, campaigning for the preservation of Algonquin Park in its natural state, outlined in a statement what it considers inadequacies in the Provincial Parks Act.

The league said "management policies, boundaries and all other matters pertaining to each of the large provincial parks should be spelled out in detail in the legislation."

League president Jeff Miller criticized the operation of commercial enterprises within provincial parks. He said present legislation allows commercial enterprises to be too easily set up and to grow out of control once they are set up.

MacNaughton Expects 43,000 to Be Jobless

TORONTO (CP) — Unemployment in Ontario is expected to rise by 43,000 during the first quarter of 1973, Ontario Treasurer Charles MacNaughton said Thursday.

Mr. MacNaughton told the legislature the unadjusted unemployment rate in the province is 147,000 and is expected to increase to 190,000 in the new year.

He added that the Ontario winter employment program is expected to create about 29,000 temporary jobs lasting slightly less than three months.

The treasurer said a detailed forecast for the second quarter of 1973 is not yet available, "but it is expected that there will be some improvement over the rate of five per cent recorded in the second quarter of 1972."

Mr. MacNaughton said the forecasts take into account an estimate of the impact of both federal and provincial winter employment programs.

Root Won't Sit

TORONTO (CP) — The removal of John Root (PC—Wellington-Dufferin) as hairman of the provincial environmental hearing board was called for Thursday by Opposition Leader Robert Nixon.

Mr. Nixon said that since Mr. Root represents the area where Metropolitan Toronto intends to dump its garbage and since these constituents might raise objections to this before the board, he should be removed "until these matters are settled."

Environment Minister James Auld replied that while no specific site had been chosen for the dumping of garbage, "if in fact the site turns out to be in the riding of . . . the chairman" the vice-chairman of the board would preside.

Mr. Auld said Mr. Root had made this suggestion himself.

Hangs Self

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police say a 17-year-old youth who had tied one end of a rope to a stairway and the other around his neck slipped and accidentally hanged himself Wednesday. Raymond Albert Cunningham was found by a younger brother. A police spokesman said the youth was watching an afternoon television program shortly before the incident, but they did not know its name.

Can Prosecute

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board Thursday granted Toronto Western Hospital permission to prosecute the Canadian Union of General Employees and its president Patrick Murphy for calling and counselling an illegal strike.

However, the board refused permission to allow the hospital to prosecute members of the union's bargaining committee.

Assails Union

TORONTO (CP) — Decision was reserved Thursday by the Ontario Labor Relations Board on the application by a union member to charge his union with an unfair labor practice.

Arthur J. Ferjo of Oshawa contends cprovincial law overrides a constitutional provision of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers that members must submit grievances to the union's internal appeal procedures for at least four months before resorting to outside courts.

Toronto Wins

QUEBEC (CP) — Toronto landing rights granted European air carriers are an example of how the federal government favors Ontario over Quebec, a Parti Quebecois member of the Quebec national assembly said Thursday.

Marcel Leger, member for Montreal Lafontaine, said correspondence between Transport Minister Bernard Pinard of Quebec and the former federal transport minister, Don Jamieson, shows "Montreal has lost the battle" to be the sole port of entry for European airlines flying in eastern Canada.

Prove It!

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Federal Trade Commission ordered a dozen automakers Thursday to substantiate more than 100 advertising claims they have made for their 1972 and 1973 models.

It was the second time in 18 months that the FTC has challenged the auto industry to back up what it says in ads and commercials, but this time it has added five more foreign manufacturers to the list.

Flood Feared

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The danger of flooding in low-lying communities in the Windsor area will remain high for the next 18 months, a University of Windsor professor said Thursday.

Paul Vadall based his forecasts on the latest monthly bulletin of lake levels issued by the United States commerce department.

No Complaints

LONDON (Reuter) — Canadian Prime Minister Trudeau had no complaints about British immigration rules for Canadian citizens, Prime Minister Heath said Thursday.

The British leader was answering questions in the House of Commons about his recent talks in London with Trudeau.

Storm Brewing

Strong winds and drifting snow will accompany the storm, expected to hit hardest in areas east from Peterborough.

Ten Inches of Snow

Drifts Piled Up By Stiff Winds

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

Forecasts from CFB Trenton weather office this morning warned of blowing snow with winds gusting up to 45 miles an hour.

Some snow flurries also were predicted for the rest of the weekend — but only minute disturbances compared to the storm that lashed the area through Friday, plugged through with nearly 10 inches of snow, leaving motorists stranded and causing a series of minor accidents.

This morning, the fallout was still being cleared, although travel had returned to normal on major highway and county routes and in urban areas.

Road crews worked through the night, in town and country to get traffic moving safely by this morning.

In Prince Edward County, plowing was still going on this morning, although all county roads were open.

In Belleville, the public works department had the city's street network plowed and ready for easy travel by dawn.

The storm hit the city and district about noon and lasted through most of the night.

Its very intensity served the cause of safety. Traffic was slowed to the point where—despite a rash of mishaps — there were no serious accidents. Most local residents stayed indoors.

Hardest hit were transient travellers on Highway 401, Several multiple mishaps were reported by provincial police on the freeway, as snow narrowed its four lanes down to one lane each way.

By nightfall, traffic was slowed to 15 miles an hour. Nonetheless, vehicles were repeatedly sliding off the freeway, and accidents further complicated travel problems — among them a transport tractor-trailer which jackknifed across the highway east of Belleville.

Because of its isolation from communications, provincial police concentrated all night patrols on the Freeway in the Belleville area, watching for drivers in difficulties.

Stranded out - of - town motorists were driven into the city and hotel accommodations were found for them by police.

Passenger train schedules were moved only slightly affected by the weather. Voyageur - Colonial buses made it through the storm although some were running an hour to 90 minutes late.

In Hastings County, school authorities anticipated travel problems Friday afternoon and ordered school buses out an hour early.

Coroner Considered Interested

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — A sudbury coroner terminated Thursday an inquest after a request was made that he withdraw from the case because he held a "high-ranking" position in a hospital involved.

Dr. R. M. Mitchell was hearing an inquest into the death of a five-year-old Guelph area girl who died in Sudbury Memorial Hospital last summer after complications arising from acute epiglottitis, an obstruction of the respiratory tract in the throat.

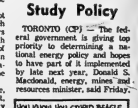
The request for termination was made by Donald Bitter, a lawyer representing the parents of the girl who died, Randie Jade Easterbrook of RR6, Guelph.

The Crown attorney's office is approaching the Ontario chief coroner to request that a new coroner from a district outside Sudbury be appointed to resume the inquest in February.

The girl died in hospital July 27 after being taken there by ambulance from Noelville, south of Sudbury.

The nursing supervisor at the hospital, Anita Jarvinen, testified that she called Dr. D. J. Longmore who was on night duty at the hospital.

At 5:30 a.m. the child vomited.



Mrs. Jarvinen asked for a doctor but there was no doctor in the building at the time, she said.

Dr. Longmore left at approximately 3:15 a.m., she said.

Mrs. Jarvinen also testified that the hospital had received no word that the ambulance was on its way to Sudbury.

Even The Plow Got Stuck

Truck equipped with a plow had to be towed from snowbank after it slid off Bell Blvd., west of North Front St., this morning. Road crews worked through the night to clear streets and highways after first major snowstorm of the winter, that brought almost ten inches of snow to the Quinte area.

First Snow, Next Blow, Then Tow Is Storm Story for Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Friday the snow, today the blow and more of the tow.

"Even the radio dispatcher is taking accident reports," a Toronto-area Ontario Provincial Police spokesman said early today.

Police and towtruck operators were buried in an avalanche of accident calls Friday as the worst snow storm of the young winter season hit southern and central Ontario.

And with the snow staying light and fluffy in below-freezing temperatures, today's high winds were drifting the pesky stuff back into newly-plowed highways and city streets.

Winds of 20 to 30 miles an hour already piling up drifts and at times reduced visibility to zero early today were expected to increase to 35 miles an hour.

The Brockville area received up to 11 inches of snow Friday. Other areas got from four to eight inches.

Only main streets in Brockville were navigable and OPP reported 100 cars abandoned on highways 401, 2 and 16 in the area. They described Friday night driving conditions as desperate.

In Kingston, police temporarily closed the Princess Street section of Highway 2 because of multiple collisions; station CKWS-TV was knocked off the air for 45 minutes; and plows were kept off city streets until midnight Friday because of poor visibility.

An Ottawa resident arriving in Toronto said at midnight some motorists, prepared for the storm, drove cars home from work until they stuck in unplowed streets, then took snowshoes or skis from trunk and rack for an overland trek to the supper hour.

Warned of the storm, many Toronto employees released workers early to ease the Friday night rush hour. But far into the evening every major artery was clogged with vehicles inching along. Police tow trucks were still busy on the Don Valley Parkway at midnight.

Grey Coach Lines reported buses up to three hours late arriving in Toronto and as much as two hours late departing.

About half of Air Canada's flights out of Toronto International Airport were cancelled Friday. An airline spokesman said another 25 per cent of flights were delayed by an average two hours.

Throughout the storm belt many scheduled activities were called off. Friday evening, Ontario Hockey Association Senior A games at Barrie, Kingston and Belleville were cancelled. Other hockey games were delayed as much as two hours.

As the storm moved east toward the Atlantic provinces, parts of southern Quebec were getting up to a foot of snow. Traffic in Montreal already was a mess before dawn today.

Police Search Homes Of Smallwood, Official

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — RCMP searched the homes of former premier Joseph Smallwood and a deputy minister who served under him Friday as part of a four-province investigation surrounding the building of a linerboard mill at Stephenville on the west coast of Newfoundland.

Justice Minister T. Alex Hickman said in a statement Friday night the RCMP fraud squad was investigating the "acquisition of funds" relating to the linerboard mill. Warrants had been issued by courts in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario.

The minister said any further comment by him would be "highly improper."

The RCMP said they had searched the penthouse apartment of O. L. Vardy, former deputy minister of economic development, on orders from the provincial justice department. But police would not confirm they had also raided Mr. Smallwood's home, located at Roach's Line 60 miles west of here.

However, Mr. Smallwood said in a telephone interview from his apartment in Clearwater, Fla., that relatives here informed him the RCMP had searched his home.

Meanwhile, The Telegram says it has barred the raids were the culmination of an investigation that began last April.

The newspaper said the investigation concerns two specific items—the procedure by which a Liechtenstein company of anonymous ownership acquired timber rights in Labrador for nothing and later sold them to Canadian Javelin Ltd. for $1 million, and Canadian Javelin's acquisition of two buildings in Stephenville.

The linerboard mill, conceived by the former Liberal government of Mr. Smallwood, was originally under construction by Canadian Javelin.

The Progressive Conservative government of Premier Frank Moores, elected last March 21, took over the project in May of this year, after expressing dissatisfaction with the financial arrangements involved.

Finance Minister John Crosbie told the legislature last spring the government questioned circumstances by which Socite Transshipping of Liechtenstein acquired timber rights to 10,300 square miles of Labrador and sold them to Javelin.

German Ship Being Towed To Security

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The 2,560-ton freighter Rumba wallowed alone in the Atlantic swells off southeastern Newfoundland at the end of a towline early today, headed for this port and security.

The crew was unmanned and was being hauled by the Netherlands-based tug Smit-Lloyd 102 which managed to attach a line to the larger vessel early Friday as the angry North Atlantic lashed the area with a winter storm.

Astronauts Start Home Today

HOUSTON (AP) — The three men of the last, longest and most scientifically productive Apollo lunar mission start a 61-hour journey home today with samples and new sightings of an intriguing discovery-orange-colored moon soil.

Astronauts Eugene Cernan, Harrison Schmitt and Ronald Evans—perhaps the last men to see the moon close up in this century—will fire Apollo 17's engine at 6:33 p.m. EST and shoot out of lunar orbit toward a South Pacific splashdown next Tuesday at 2:24 p.m.

Tucked in Apollo 17's hold is a record cargo of moon samples collected by Cernan and Schmitt, including the orange dust found Tuesday. And stored on film and in the memories of the three spacemen are sightings from orbit Friday night of large deposits of orange soil—a colorful sand which may tell scientists the story of the moon's final epochs of life.

Apollo 17 will break away from lunar orbit with a rocket firing while behind the moon and out of contact with earth.

The spacecraft will lose radio contact at 6:13 p.m. on its last orbit and, if the rocket firing is successful, emerge from behind the moon at 6:46 p.m., on its way toward earth 240,000 miles away.

Officials Return To Classrooms

TRENTON (Staff) — An experiment with a "winter theme" and a carnival as a climax should provide a remarkable experience for the pupils of V. P. Carswell elementary school.

Yesterday the principal and teachers of the school, in three hour non-stop discussions, put the finishing touches on the student interest program which runs for two weeks in January and concludes at the month's end in a high spirited atmosphere with parent involvement. One of the highlights at the close of the undertaking calls for the school staff, along with the 225 students and their parents, getting together at a big skating party on the school premises.

The program's theme, centred around winter, encourages study of common topic ranging from sports to science, with special emphasis on safety in relation to the results of the students' participation will be used in final displays in the classrooms.

Because of a unique exercise in co-operation yesterday, and program planners were able to devote ample time to their endeavors without interrupting the students' curriculum. Academic administrative personnel from the Hastings County Board of Education went back into the classrooms as teachers and filled in for them throughout the morning. Superintendent of schools Dr. Trenton areas, Glenn Watson, found the assignment exciting as he received the chalkboard duties on teacher Mrs. Keith Richards.

School principal Gale Allen said he found all seven administrators excellent teachers again while the students benefited two-fold from their presence.

He said the Friday morning experiment will afford the administrative personnel with the practical opportunity to gain first hand knowledge and information about the various aspects of school programs.

"In turn it will help them in discussions and presentations to the Board of Education with regard to curriculum development, student achievement and the like."

The winter program planning committee includes Gale Allen, principal; regular teachers Mrs. Keitha Richards, Mrs. Sandra Campbell, Mrs. Judy Johnson, Miss Susan Kerr, Miss Leona McGee, Mrs. Carol Ursano and Jim Long.

CN Firemen and Management Renew Talks This Morning

CN supervisory staff had been brought in to assist operations from the CN's St. Lawrence region which covers Quebec. More could be moved in to Belleville if required — if necessary from across the entire CN system, said Mr. Van de Water.

The number of railroaders involved in the booking - off process was not positively known. Spokesmen for the protest group claimed late yesterday up to 140 men might be involved. But company sources declined to comment.

The walkout was described by its spokesmen as a "rank-and - file" movement. They insist it is not sanctioned by unions which are bound by contract agreements.

The men involved — are members of the United Transportation Union and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

At present, the dispute centres on the proposed transfer of seven firemen to Toronto.

Spokesmen for the protest movement — emphatic they remain anonymous — claim these points of dispute:

Firemen working out of Belleville on passenger trains would lose seniority in the Toronto transfer and would be employed in yard work. Wages are based on mileage and an eight-hour day in the yards is the equivalent of 100 miles, shorter than the distance on, say, Toronto - bound passenger runs. Thus, over a period of a week, a wage loss could accumulate. Men resident in Belleville — and those in Toronto would also incur lodging and t...

CN, the protestant railroads claimed, has not been hiring men as locomotive firemen to train as engineers since 1956 — when dieselization brought changes in the traditional patterns of railroad operations.

"Now, they're faced with a shortage of engineers in Toronto," said one of the group's spokesmen. "We feel the company has been negligent in not training sufficient men to cover its workload.

He claimed the monthly wage loss would be about $181, although it was difficult to pin down an exact average of wages earned by firemen on passenger runs.

The unofficial nature of the protest stems from the fact unions involved have contracts in which transfers have been traditional, the spokesman claimed. But this is the first time transfers have posed a loss to workers.

"When we had to move before it was to protect seniority rights. Now, they want us to go to work in Toronto to protect the company's interest, not our seniority interest."

Mr. Van de Water, however said such a threat to seniority "does not necessarily follow" in the moves.

"They would take that seniority with them — and they would displace according to that seniority," he added.

The area manager said some firemen in Belleville were operating on assignments that "are not necessary."

He described the situation as a matter of taking men from a point of surplus to a point of need.

Youngsters Get Headstart, Enter School in January

Did you get one year behind in school because your birthday happened to come at the wrong time of the year?

Queen Victoria School in Belleville has solved the problem by starting a pre-entry program for kindergarten youngsters.

Under the old system, the child was four years at the beginning of the school year fall term was not qualified for school entry until the following fall.

Principal Clare Rupnow said this system could, in some cases, save the child a year of schooling.

Mr. Rupnow conducted interviews and tests for the January group in the office Friday morning.

"The test has nothing to do with the child's ability," said Mr. Rupnow. "Its chief objective is to introduce the child to the atmosphere and climate of the school.

The test is administered in the school office and is specially designed to dispell any fears the child might have about the principal.

After playing with paper shapes and relating colors and shapes to Mr. Rupnow, designer of the test, the children are asked to divide a chocolate bar between themselves and the interviewer.

"I am a member of the teaching staff and would hope the child relates to me as he would to his teacher," said Mr. Rupnow.

This is the debut of the program in the city, but it has been used extensively in the county's northern schools.

Centre Hastings, in the Madoc region, has been involved in a three-point entry system for several years, said Mr. Rupnow.

Irving Defence Talks Of 'Vicious Vendetta'

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Accusations of political interference, government settlement, red herrings and a secret monopoly deal were exchanged Friday as lawyers argued for acquittal or conviction in the Irving combines trial.

Defender Donald Gillis spoke of "a vicious vendetta," engineered by Liberal Senator Charles McIlraith as being responsible for newspaper combines charges laid last year against K. C. Irving Ltd. and three Irving publishing companies.

Prosecutor William Hoyt accused Mr. Gillis of putting red herrings in the path of justice. He contended that New Brunswick industrialist K. C. Irving kept his purchase of control in the Fredericton Gleaner secret for a year because he knew it was wrong to own all five English-language dailies in the province.

The Gleaner transaction took place in 1968. Mr. Irving's "bland admission" did not come until 1969, said Mr. Hoyt, after it became known through other sources.

Mr. Gillis estimated the total cost of the combines investigation, preliminary hearing and trial at "well over half a million dollars." He called it "a terrible waste of public funds," to satisfy a political grudge.

The grudge-holder, he maintained, is Senator McElman, once executive assistant to former New Brunswick premier Louis J. Robichaud. Both premier and senator were described in evidence as "out to get" Mr. Irving and former Gleaner publisher Michael Wardell, a severe critic of the Robichaud government.

Mr. Hoyt said the defence did not dispute that one person or group obtained control of the Saint John Telegraph-Journal and Times-Globe, the Moncton Times and Transcript and The Gleaner. That in itself constituted restraint of competition by daily newspapers and was in itself to the detriment of the people of New Brunswick.

Mr. Gillis submitted that the prosecution failed to establish the papers were operated to public detriment. On the contrary, he said, Irving control had been beneficial in providing better newspapers.

"Where are the facts to support the charges?" he asked. "Where is Senator McElman? Why didn't he show up here?"

The defence lawyer alleged the prosecutors were so desperate for conviction in a precedent-setting case they stooped to questionable tactics. He accused combines men of illegally seizing personal documents in private bedrooms, then circumventing a court order to return them by copying them first.

Mr. Hoyt said he promptly returned documents seized from the homes of Mr. Irving and Saint John Publisher, Ralph Costello. He said he took full responsibility for all that was done in connection with the case.

A judgment in the trial is months away. Judge Robichaud gave the two lawyers two months after a transcript of trial evidence is available to submit written briefs on the case to him. The transcript, more than 9,000 pages long, is expected to be ready in January. It covers the testimony of 30 witnesses.

NFU Seeks Role As Farmers' Agent

WINNIPEG (CP) — The National Farmers Union concluded its annual convention Friday after 800 delegates approved draft legislation aimed at setting up the union as the sole bargaining agent for all Canadian farmers and now starts the huge task of convincing the majority of Canadian farmers that their plan is the only way to improve the farmers' lot.

The union, formed in 1969 with the merger of farm unions in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Ontario and British Columbia, has had mounting financial problems during the last two years and its membership has declined slightly to about 22,000 from the more than 24,000 last August.

The organization now must sign as members a total of 50 per cent plus one of the 236,000 farmers in Canada.

It needs that many members to introduce the collective bargaining concept at both provincial and federal levels.

The union sees collective bargaining as the only solution to farmers' problems at not being able to get a fair share of the economic pie, citing other areas of the economy in which workers can dicker for the price they receive for their labor and production.

Legislation approving the plan would have to be passed by the two levels of government and delegates were encouraged Thursday when Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said the concept would "be alright with me" providing he had assurances the majority of Canada's farmers supported the proposal.

Roy Atkinson of Saskatoon, returned to lead the union for his fourth term, told delegates at a closed session the next year is crucial.

Because of the economic structure farmers have been virtually helpless and at the whim of the market place and this system must be changed, he said.

"If we are not prepared to bring about change, we will fail, too."

He made "not an emotional plea, but a plea to your minds to motivate you to do a better job in the coming year to raise the membership."

The proposed bargaining plan provides for a "holding action" under which farmers could withhold their produce until they received the price they ask.

Fees collected by the union in the form of a levy on all products would become a so-called "strike fund" to support the producers withholding their products.

Mr. Atkinson said there is farm support for theplan, under which the union would also have the power to negotiate prices for the goods and services—fertilizer for example—used in the production of foodstuffs.

But he said the biggest "fight" will be with governments and with the huge agribusiness corporations that will try to block the union proposal.

While collective bargaining dominated the five-day meeting delegates also approved a series of policy papers dealing with the specific problems shared by producers within separate commodity groups.

Basically, they all pointed to the concern that the prices for farm produce remain static or even lower while the costs of production keep rising.

One proposal called for the Canadian wheat board to become the Canadian grain board with the responsibility for the marketing and movement of all grains now under the wheat, oats, barley and rye now included.

Baldwin Sees Grit Loss Sure

OTTAWA (CP) — The way Conservative House Leader Gerald W. Baldwin sees it, there is no way the Trudeau government will remain in office more than a few months.

"To me it's as certain as you're sitting there," he said in an interview, "that we will be asked to form a government."

The Liberals, with 109 seats compared with 107 for the Conservatives, must depend on support from the 31-member New Democratic Party to survive Commons votes. NDP Leader David Lewis has said he will support "progressive legislation," but Mr. Baldwin thinks the crunch will come before there is much opportunity to vote on legislation.

"If, as I think, the throne speech is followed by a new budget, we will have seven or eight confidence motions in the first three weeks of the session.

"And if Lewis votes with Trudeau on all of these, he's going to look sick. His people won't stand for it."

The Conservatives will be moving a non-confidence motion against the government on the first day of the throne speech debate, and the plan is to make it short and simple so the NDP can find no technical reasons to oppose it.

The motion has not been framed yet, but some Conservatives are proposing that it be a one - liner condemning the government for its handling of unemployment or the economy.

Cut-Price Calls

GOONHILLY, England (CP) — With the introduction of a new radio-telescope in Cornwall, transatlantic telephone calls by satellite may soon cost as little as 10 pence (25 cents) a minute. The radio-telescope incorporates a system of code modulation—converting speech into digits—to easier transmission and then back into speech on reception. This system would increase 12 times the number of calls made of existing equipment, thus allowing for a substantial drop in charges.

Death Penalty Return Said Not Justified

OTTAWA (CP) — Bringing back the death penalty in Canada cannot be justified on the basis of murder statistics compiled since hanging was suspended in 1967 for all homicides except those involving policemen and prison guards.

This is the conclusion of a 20-page report compiled for the solicitor-general's department by Dr. Ezzat Abdel Fattah, a University of Montreal criminologist.

The report, released Friday with an updated background report on capital punishment, said the rise in homicide in Canada since the suspension was adopted on a trial basis five years ago has been lower than the increase in other categories of violent crime.

"There . . . reintroduction cannot be justified on the argument that it is a more effective deterrent to potential killers than the alternative of protracted imprisonment."

The trial period ends Dec. 29, automatically restoring the old Criminal Code section which allowed the death penalty for murders of civilians as well as policemen and prison guards.

The purpose was to have been re-examined at a fall session of Parliament, government sources indicated, but the timing changed after heavy Liberal losses in the Oct. 30 federal election. Now, the house is not scheduled to sit until Jan. 4.

Of the four party leaders, only Social Credit Leader Real Caouette openly supports retention of capital punishment. The others voted for the moratorium in 1967 when the legislation passed by a vote of 105 to 70.

Opposition Leader Stanfield, however, has accused the Trudeau cabinet of flouting the will of Parliament by exercising its prerogative of commuting death sentences for those found guilty of killing guards and policemen.

The last hanging in Canada was in 1962. All subsequent death sentences have been commuted.

Prime Minister Trudeau has said he favors an extension of the trial suspension because not enough information is yet available to determine its success.

Warren Allmand, the new solicitor-general, left Ottawa for the weekend as the report was being released and was unavailable for comment on the government's reaction to its contents.

The report makes a detailed analysis of statistics to support its conclusion.

If the 1967 legislation were reinstated for the rise in murders since, it would be logical to assume that the increase would be more-or-less uniform across Canada, the report says.

But, in fact, the homicide increases during the years studied vary from 5.1 per cent in British Columbia to 27.4 per cent in Alberta.

Faulkner Is Facing Tough Job

OTTAWA (CP) — If anyone fits the new federal cabinet cause on like the act after the headliner it was Hugh Faulkner, who has replaced Gerard Pelletier as secretary of state.

Mr. Pelletier, one of the most influential members of the Trudeau government, raised the secretariat of state to a big-spending, major department from a position of relative obscurity.

His successor is a rookie in the cabinet, little known nationally although highly raised around Ottawa and in his home riding of Peterborough, Ont., since becoming an MP in 1965.

Mr. Faulkner, a 39-year-old bachelor who was a teacher in Peterborough, can usually be glimpsed on the run these days as he seeks to grasp the many tendrils of the policies beseathed him by Mr. Pelletier.

Even his conversations occur at double time, and the impression is of a gaunt man thinking every fibre to master a portfolio he believes "is in many ways a measure of the soul of this government."

Tucked in that portfolio are responsibilities for such programs as grants for bilingual education, Opportunities for Youth, citizenship, cultural support, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the Canada Council and other cultural agencies.

Retired Miner New Union Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired coal miner Arnold Miller began drafting sweeping reforms of the United Mine Workers today after apparently ousting W.A. (Tony) Boyle as union president in a court-ordered election supervised by 1,000 government agents.

"We have won the election," Miller said at a victory news conference in Boyle's home. "This is one of the most historical events that ever occurred in the labor movement of this country."

Miller's victory won't be official until the labor department certifies the election to Judge William Bryant of the U.S. district court, who ordered the vote after finding widespread voting fraud in Boyle's 1969 victory over reform challenger Joseph Yablonski, who was murdered shortly after the election.

The latest official labor department count showed Miller leading Boyle 58,722 to 46,350, maintaining his steady 56-per-cent lead with about 23,000 ballots left to count. Informed sources said there was no chance of Miller's losing.

Miller's running mates for vice-president, Mike Trbovich, and secretary-treasurer, Harry Patrick, also were leading Boyle's men—Trbovich 58,974 to 46,343 for Leonard Praskovich and Patrick 57,213 to 45,147 for Wilbert Killion.

Miller was prepared to begin a five-year term leading the nearly 200,000-member union that formerly dominated American industrial labor movement under the stewardship of the late John L. Lewis, but became riddled with, dissension in recent years.

Miller outlined these reforms he intends to initiate:

Cutting officers' salaries, increasing miners' pensions to $150 a month, firing all officials and staff employees who haven't been "responsive" to union members, moving the union's headquarters from Washington to "into the coal fields," improving health and welfare programs and dismissing True Davis as president and chairman of the union-owned National Bank of Washington.

"I think a concession statement is in order from Boyle at this time, but I doubt if we will receive one," Miller said.

The 70-year-old Boyle, who has been in decreasing trouble since the Yablonski slayings, was in no mood to concede and was thinking about an official challenge of the election even though it was closely monitored by 1,000 labor department agents and the votes were counted under strict federal security.

Computer Society

We live in an age of computers, data banks, and instant communications and not for the first time we hear concern expressed at the effects of these elements on individual privacy.

Big Brother, in the guise of information stored away in data banks, packs a veritable wealth of detail, including the federal government's master file of individual taxpayers. The latter comprises 10.5 million records stored on 125 reels of magnetic tape.

But what of it? We can see the need for such records and those who are in good standing, so far as taxes and debts are concerned, should have nothing to fear. At the same time the individual with problems of one sort or another in this context, whether his own fault or not, has a right to protection from such information getting into the wrong hands, or being used in a manner that might prejudice him in other ways.

Just who does handle such information anyway? How many have access to it? Stored away in these banks as the information is, when does it ever again see the light of day? For the most part does it not just gather dust? The federal government's study on the subject does raise such questions. For example, we are told that 75 per cent of more than 2,500 data-collection agencies surveyed said no complaints had ever been received about disclosure of their information to people outside their particular organization. What then of the other 25 per cent? The report evidently is not saying.

What of the 9,000,000 persons, more than 8,000 of them with Canadian addresses, recorded by a New Jersey credit index as having defaulted on debts? Again, we see the need for such records but maintain also that it is the way such information might be used that is of concern.

Ontario Initiatives

Jim Graham, executive director of the international division of the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism, was quoted recently as saying his arm of government was "selling the total Ontario image — our way of life and our tremendous skills and resources."

His branch has a staff of 70, working out of Toronto and 16 offices in the United States and overseas. Their activities are featured in the November issue of the Ministry of Industry and Tourism's newspaper-style bulletin. The information contained therein is impressive evidence of this province's resourcefulness.

It is pointed out for example that the visit of a trade mission to China last March is likely to yield millions of dollars worth of business for an Ontario company producing machinery. The same firm has received orders from Italy and Czechoslovakia.

More than $500,000 in cash and pending orders were reported by 11 mining equipment manufacturers following an international exhibition in London, England, while a consortium of eight major Canadian companies were said to be ready within a month to sell "total package" steel mills to the world market.

Other samples of Ontario initiative are a $3.5 million order from Germany for a Toronto-produced wind tunnel, a shipment of cattle by air to Hungary, orders from Germany for camping equipment following an exhibition at Cologne, and by way of contrast, the marketing abroad of hand-crafted tennis racquets of hickory and maple. They are being made by a Rexdale firm and are based on a design first created in Hungary over 60 years ago. As may be deduced, a Hungarian immigrant is the spark behind this enterprise.

Ontario fashions are also going over well in Europe, as witness the invitation from a U.K. firm to Toronto's Pat McDonagh to design for expansion into the European Common Market.

Miss McDonagh, holder of four fashion awards, says it is a "a unique situation for the U.K. to buy designs from Canada." She says she hopes to work on a commuter basis, travelling between Toronto and London.

And that just about sums it all up. As Oscar Wilde put it in an earlier era: "Nothing succeeds like success."

Authoritarian Government and Crumbling Hotels

Europeans Being Slowly Eased Out in The Bahamas

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

NASSAU, The Bahamas — The lowering of the Union Jack for the last time next July 10 will signal the final break of the Bahamas from Britain.

The road to independence was mapped five years ago when Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling led the first colored cabinet to office in a string of 700 coral islands which calls its tourist show-window "Paradise."

Since then, behind all the trappings of romance, the leading industry, tourism, has been suffering.

Well-heeled tourists used to being pampered in the hotels and bars began complaining, leaving and staying away.

As blacks took over jobs formerly held by whites, many became imperious, some extremely unpleasant and a small minority even belligerent.

Angered by the absolute discourtesy, tourists began their exodus.

And Tourism Minister Clement Maynard explained that black Bahamians were not really unfriendly — just different, is big, but shrinking.

And the rest of the trouble with banking, as it is with tourism and most other commercial enterprise, is the Deputy Prime Minister, Arthur Hanna, who has been using the system of work permits to rid the Islands of qualified whites and turn their jobs over to often less competent blacks.

Companies find almost insurmountable difficulties in securing work permits and renewals for non-Bahamian staff, though few if any qualified replacements are available.

Trust, banking and investment companies have been obliged to turn away business because they could not get staff adequate to handle it.

In many cases white employees, and in some instances investors, have had their permits abruptly withdrawn and been ordered to leave the Islands within 48 hours.

One of these, a Canadian, Arnold Sawyer was expelled on 48 hours notice, leaving behind him a substantial investment in tourist facilities, for the political misdemeanor of campaigning in this summer's election for the opposition.

The election gave Prime Minister Pindling a landslide and a mandate, as he read it, to take the Bahamas to swift independence and pursue his Black Power policy.

Foreign firms are pulling out. Millions in investment are fleeing.

Just last month, the Arawak Company, one of the Bahamas' three major investment houses announced its departure for the Cayman Islands.

Construction, which once absorbed 6,000 workers, is paralyzed and unemployment, formerly non-existent, is running well over 10 percent.

In August, after 14 years in the Bahamas, the British building firm of Sir Robert McAlpine disclosed it was shutting down for lack of work.

With a trade deficit of $350-million the Bahamas is in such acute-imposed financial difficulties that the government is finding it impossible to borrow money, especially having been refused an $11-million loan from the U.S. Export - Import Bank.

The hotels, the quiet, secluded luxury resorts on exclusive Gable Beach and the Las Vegas - lavish, Miami - modern wedding establishments on Paradise Island do their very best to make it comfortable.

There is a four percent hotel tax, a five percent discount for those who pay in U.S. dollar — clearly a ripoff — and all business must give change in Bahamian currency.

Last year in a speech at Freeport on Grand Bahama, Prime Minister Pindling put it bluntly to white business — which is really the only business — with the warning in his words: "Send or bring."

And just two weeks ago, on November 28 in the Legislative Assembly, Deputy Hanna made it even more clear: "If it means scraping the bottom of the barrel and raising this country to ashes, we will raze it to ashes and build it again so we can live as free men."

Anti-Marxist Christian Democrats Reach Far and Wide

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

The only party in the non-Communist world with an international network, (other than Marxist and Communist parties), is the Christian Democrats.

In the early 1900s, Christian Democratic regimes ruled in West Germany, Italy, Chile and later Venezuela. In Italy, Christian Democrats, occasionally in coalition with others, have ruled without a break since Italy became a postwar republic in 1946.

In Chile, under former President Eduardo Frei, Christian Democracy had a base in Latin America from which flowed advice and support to bolster national Christian Democratic parties in such countries as Argentina, Uruguay and Venezuela.

In that latter country, a Christian Democratic movement, styled COPEI won the election in 1968 which installed Rafael Caldera as Venezuelan president.

And in Spain where political parties are technically outlawed, Christian Democratic ideas hold weekend "retreats"—in actuality small gatherings of party members—within the confines of a monastery or church-related structure.

Canada has never had a Christian Democratic party per se. But the amalgam of belief in social change involving a reawakening Catholic Church which predominated in Quebec in the late 1950s, was similar to Christian Democratic thinking.

In another country, Prime Minister Trudeau, the moderate yet reformist Catholic intellectual turned politician, would seem to present a Christian Democrat.

Because its social ideas are based on progressive church doctrine about the rights of man in a dehumanizing technological era and because it spreads these ideas globally, Christian Democracy has been a bitter enemy of world Marxism.

This is because both Christian Democrats and Marxists plan for the role of "The New Man" in society. The Marxists see him in an earthly, statist, totally materialistic community. The Christian Democrats see him as a Christian man, the whole person, spirit and body, with a commitment to change an unjust society.

Both have emerged from the monolithic nature of institutions Christian Democracy from the theology of Das Kapital.

Unlike other Christian denominations, Christian Democrats and Marxists do not try to relate to each other. The new "theology of liberation" is for the fundamentalists, not for the institutional nature of Christian Democracy.

In Chile, before Dr. Allende's Marxist government won against the Christian Democrat in September, 1970, the party's Catholic priests working in Chile's trade unions, were called "the black communists" by Marxists. This was a reference to their garb of cassock.

In Italy in 1948, the closest a major Western European country came to a Communist takeover was during the massive struggle for power between Christian Democrats and Communists.

At times their parallel strengths almost balanced out. Italian election results, to the detriment of smaller parties of the right and left.

Today, Christian Democracy's international network is in disarray. Its so-called internal "left wing" believes "dialogue with Marxism is essential. And the opposing internal "right wing" believes the party should fight the materialism of Marxism with the familiar methods of old battles.

Bob Nixon May Stay As Leader

By DON O'HEARN

It could be worth a bet, not the family jewels, but a casual wager with odds, that the next leader of the Ontario Liberals will be Robert Nixon.

Mr. Nixon says now he will only continue to act as leader until there is a convention and a new man is selected. And that definitely he won't be running for the office again.

But there are good reasons to believe that this could change.

One of these reasons is that in the current house Mr. Nixon has been getting more and more effective.

He has been coming across, as never before, as a leader—a man who knows what he is talking about, can express it well and stands up to the government fair square.

But the Liberal members in the house have been aware of it and impressed.

So much so that some of them have already been urging him to run again. And if he did go into the contest he would probably have the backing of most of the caucus.

There here is no sign of any other potential candidate of Mr. Nixon's calibre.

It had been thought that after the federal election there might be one or two possibilities from that field.

To date nobody of promise has shown up outside of Parliament and the legislature.

The final, and most significant, reason is that there is a charply changing political climate today.

This has been recognizable by observers for months although it was well illustrated in the federal election.

Essentially it involves a more serious public.

An electorate that is looking for reasoning and is not impressed with political flamboyance.

And Nixon, a man of reason (though with more spirit than Stanfield) might be extremely suited to this climate.

Make-Work Funds Allocated

Sherbrooke La Tribune:

Winter doesn't just bring snow and the holiday season anymore. It also brings increased unemployment to such an extent that it has become part of our customs.

It is with a view to improving this situation that the federal government has just injected $60 million into winter works programs, which, said Manpower Minister Andras, will result in creation of some 110,000 jobs. Quebec is expected to receive between 25 and 30 per cent of this money, to be spread over three years.

Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Lewis are partially right in mentioning that the aid program is a little late and will not satisfy all needs. To employ effectively all the unemployed would require a much larger sum of money as one can easily see.

On the other hand, the government would have found it difficult to announce this program earlier because of prevailing political circumstances.

Moreover, even if it is true that the money invested in winter works programs will not solve all the problems, it will be helpful to many people all special measures which are capable of solving some of the difficulties . . .

The unemployed have need of material aid now and if the method used to obtain this is not theoretically the most appropriate, if is however the most effective at the moment the most likely to lessen the ill effects accrued this season.

Those Hospital Cutbacks

Editor,
The Intelligencer

I sign writing with regard to a recent article in The Intelligencer relating to the Minister of Health's ordering Belleville Gengral Hospital to reduce its beds by 32, and to cut its budget by $248,850.

How can this be successfully completed? Belleville Hospital now has a long waiting list. Is this fair to the people on the waiting list who need immediate attention?

What about staff cutbacks?

How can this even hope to be handled through attrition instead of layoffs? Despite low wages and poor staff ratio, we take, and Mr. Rickard's statement, there is no guarantee that attrition alone will take care of the problem.

I understand why the hospital is sympathizing with the Health Ministry's position — it has no choice. It seems that a harsh decision was made with out any opportunity to discuss the implications.

Oliver Cromwell took the title Lord Protector of England 319 years ago today—in 1653—after twenty five years of republican rule by councilors. As army commander, he forcibly ended the Rump Parliament and nominated another which turned dictatorial power over to him. Cromwell put down rebellion, passed laws against Roman Catholics, and fought a successful war with Spain before dying in 1658 to be succeeded by his son.

St. Francis of Assisi Had First Creche Made

By REV. GORDON SMYTH

Have you a "creche" in your home? A creche is the name commonly given to a reproduction of the manger scene, what the stable-cave in Bethlehem may have looked like when Jesus Christ was born.

I have an idea many teachers have had Sunday School pupils busy making a creche too. We certainly have come a long way, ecumenically speaking, in a short time. Thirty years ago most of our Protestant churches were as bare or drab in interior appearance at this season as at other times. It was felt that to have a creche was to church with such bels as trees, symbolic stars and a creche was "popish."

Many of us went as youngsters to Anglican Churches for the midnight service Christmas Eve. Our own were dark and locked up tight. This is no longer the case. The denominations have been learning to borrow good things from each other. One of the hymns sung in England in Roman Catholic churches nowadays is the great Protestant hymn of Martin Luther, "A Mighty Fortress is our God".

At any rate, if you are talking to a boy or girl, I have a little story for you about the first creche. Long ago in Italy there lived a man named Francis. He loved Christ deeply. It troubled him that our Lord seemed far away and unreal to many people.

One mid-December day, Francis sent for a friend, "John," he said, "I want to keep the festival of our Lord's birth in this town of Greccbio this year. I want to let people see with their own eyes what it was like when the Savior was born. Please make a manger with hay in it, and have an ox and a donkey there, just as they were in Bethlehem."

On Christmas Eve people came from all around. They carried lighted torches and lanterns, and the mysterious woods were all light as day. Brownclad "brothers", followers of Francis, came from far and near. As they came, they sang praises to the Lord, until the woods and the brooks echoed with the joyful sound.

They had their Christmas Communion Service there in the woods, by the light of their torches. They used a table placed near the manger for an altar. Francis preached the sermon. He spoke of the King of Heaven who came as a poor infant and was laid in a manger, like the one there in the woods, with humble shepherds and stable animals for his companions. The message was so real the people could almost see the baby lying there.

They never forgot what they had seen. After they built a church there, with the altar over the place where Francis' manger had been. The custom spread from Italy all over, and to our own country. The appeal of a creche or nativity scene is its message to show Christ's love to people, no matter who they are or what they look like.

Of the religious leaders of the Middle Ages, Francis of Assisi, the Francois of our story, is the most honored and loved by the whole Christian Church. Christians of all names feel themselves inspired by the life of that saint who so faithfully applied the significance of Christmas. A striking characteristic of the first Franciscans was their joyfulness, inspired in them by Francis. To him and to those who received his spirit, a life of service was a source of real wealth, not poverty, or burden, but a great happiness.

Shortly after World War II, a Hydro camp was located at Ross Lake, approximately 20 miles from the village of allburton, my first parish. In 1948 the camp had a complement of some 65 men, 90 percent of whom were "displaced Persons" who had been put there by various parts of Europe for only a few months. Hydro had a year's contract with them in a project to build a transmission line from Des Joachims to Minden.

Most of those men had family back in Europ H. Only half a dozen of the men spoke English. I took a Bible and portable organ to the camp. It was a bitterly cold Christmas Eve. The last couple of miles were sleigh. The men all knew "Adeste Fideles" and "Away in a Manger". They sang in their own languages to familiar tunes. An interpreter translated the timeless and ever so timely Story of the birth of the Prince of peace. I am sure you have an idea—of the effect of that visit on those men.

But no mortal can know what an indelible impression the visit to that Hydro camp left on me. Twenty-four years have come and gone. The memory of that Christmas Eve will enrich this Christmas Eve. You and I can leave our sins to Christ, who is more merciful than a man. But can we forgive ourselves if we fail to look keenly around about us to discover means of helping those who need our evidence of Christ's love?

Spreading Gospel Can Be Dangerous

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Selling Bibles can be dangerous. So can extending friendship to a prisoner. Or protesting against abortions. Or even entering an empty church.

In all of these circumstances, religious workers in recent times have been threatened or death. The incidents reflect what philosopher-psychologist Erich Fromm calls the "mood of violence" in the United States.

The unusual aspect of these cases, however, was that each involved church people seeking to help others or do good, but as a result met with fury and bloodshed.

Briefly, here are some of the details:

In Los Gatos, Calif., a Roman Catholic priest, Rev. Eric Tonel, 68, entered St. Mary's church on a midweek day to hear confessions from anyone waiting to make them.

A church secretary, alerted by sounds of a commotion, hurried into the sanctuary and said a young man was kicking and striking the priest. The assailant fled. The priest died of stab wounds.

In Camp Hill, Ala., Tom C. Hollingsworth, 34, a Southern Baptist seminary student*working as a summer Bible salesman, met two youths who said they would buy a Bible if he would drive them home to get the money.

Later, Hollingsworth's body was found in a heavily wooded area. His head had been bashed and his supply of Bibles scattered about on the ground.

Two teen-agers were sentenced to prison this fall on their pleas of guilty to murdering the seminarian to rob him of a few dollars.

In the Dallas suburb of Duncanville, bomb threats received by the First Baptist Church recently forced it to adjourn a Wednesday night prayer meeting while police searched the building for explosives.

The telephoned threat was part of a campaign of various threatening calls and more than 1,000 vilifying letters received by the pastor, Rev. Gene McCombs, for opposing pro-liquor forces in a local election.

In Hickory, N.C., F. O. Turner and his wife, members of Penelope Baptist Church, became involved in the church's prison ministry to bring trusted prisoners to worship services and visits in private homes.

On a Sunday last spring, the Turners took a prisoner, Douglas Wiles, 21, considered a "model" prisoner, to morning worship, to a restaurant for lunch and then home for some dessert.

After the afternoon pleasantries, authorities reported, the prisoner suddenly produced a pistol he had found in a glove compartment of a relative's car and shot and killed both Turner and his wife.

The prisoner, who would have been eligible for parole soon, now will be behind bars indefinitely for the new crime.

Rev. James Rowles, who as pastor of the Penelope church had befriended the Turners to take part in the prison ministry, called their death the "high cost of caring."

He said the prison ministry must go on, that Christians must continue to 'care enough.'

Luxury Ambulance

LONDON (CP. -- A British charity organization has designed a giant ambulance with luxury interior fittings to transport sick and disabled persons on pilgrimages and continental tours. The vehicle, named by the organization a "jumbulance," has hot and cold running water, radios and televison, "and generally resembles the interior of a Jumbo Jet," one of the designers said. He said summer the first jumbulance pilgrimage for 28 persons is planned to Lourdes.

Long Lashes in Minutes

Mrs. Nancy McCormack demonstrates how false eye lashes are applied quickly and easily. This cosmetician said false lashes can accent and flatter all eye shapes.

Eyes Reflect Moods Try False Eyelashes

This Christmas and New Year's women in any age group from teenagers on will be wearing false eye-lashes for the special occasions.

"Human hair lashes are the best," said city cosmetician Nancy McCormack.

The colors are basic brown and black. There is a variety of over 60 style choices for the fashion conscious woman to choose.

Eye makeup is the accessory to your outfit, you can choose as you please and according to your mood," said Mrs. McCormack as she went on to describe the proper eyelash application.

Eyelashes require four applications to learn the technique properly. Then, any woman can always successfully fasten her lashes.

Mrs. McCormack suggests one pair for any woman. The more active she is the more different eyelooks she could have but it isn't necessary.

Two coats of mascara should be applied to your eye lashes first before the false lashes are glued. Mascara should never be used on the false lashes.

Usually the manufacturer who make the eye lashes also have a false eye lash glue.

Eye shadow is also recommended. And no matter what age, everyone should wear a bit of color on their lids, she says, although not necessarily dark.

Eye makeup creates or shows the individual's mood. But as Mrs. McCormack noted proper eye care is as important. Eye cream should be worn at night when the eyes can feed on the oils and a good moisturizer should be used in daytime for the eye skin to drink.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD ALEXANDER

Alexander – Lewington

Rev. Canon R. B. Wright officiated at the December 2 wedding of Margaret Elizabeth Lewington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lewington, Belleville, and Richard Irvine Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Alexander, Belleville.

Mr. John Wilbers provided organ music for the ceremony at Christ Church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long empire waistcol white cut velvet gown. A full chapel veil fell from a white floral and seed crystal headpiece. The bride carried a cascade of red roses.

Mrs. Jill Wilkinson, the matron of honor, chose a long gold silk velvet gown, trimmed at the neckline and cuffs with French lace. She carried one large white mum.

The bridesmaids Miss Debbie Lexberg and Miss Allison Alexander, niece of the bridegroom, wore long red rose silk velvet gowns. French lace trimmed their necklines and cuffs. Each carried a large white mum.

The reception followed at Christ Church Parish Hall.

Following the honeymoon to points north Mr. and Mrs. Alexander will reside at 24 Catherine St., Apt. 6.

Catholic Priest Begins Preventive Counselling

Toronto — Edward Bader, a Roman Catholic priest who resigned and then married, now is working to try to ensure that other marriages are successful.

Mr. Bader, 42, works as director of a Toronto family service association and has started a program of preventative counselling.

The aim of the program is to try and steer couples on a successful marriage course before disruptive needs can break up a marriage.

His own pursuit of marital contentment started last April when he married a psychologist.

"We are not merely seeking solutions for problem people," he said, "Couples who ostensibly are well adjusted can be helped towards an even deeper and happier relationship."

Mr. Bader said there are 11 areas of possible destructive conflict in a marriage. They are husband's employment, wife's employment, household responsibilities, finances, relationship with extended families, friends and acquaintances, sexual relations, family planning, religion, social activities and communication between husband and wife.

Counselling of the couples included lectures, films, questionaires and discussions. One aim is to elicit the image one partner has of himself and how he is seen by the other.

Togetherness is also a problem. A married couple, both working, may drive home together before they split. She does the cooking and the laundry. He has no job to do because he was raised in a home where mother did it all.

The old cliche about preparation for marriage rather than a wedding remains the cornerstone of Mr. Bader's philosophy.

"Today it is no longer enough for a couple to say they are in love and will work things out. Fortunately few of them do this. They look around among their relatives and friends and count the broken marriages. Then they wonder how they can improve their own prospects.

"That is what this project is all about. Thinking a marriage through, negotiating, finding common ground."

Women Set New Records In Canadian Society

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

Although women didn't do outstandingly well in the federal election, they spent 1972 setting a lot of other political records.

For one thing, 71 women were nominated in the federal campaign, half again as many as the previous record of 48 in 1953. A few candidates were independents, running on women's rights platforms.

Five were elected. Grace McInnis, NDP member for Vancouver Kingsway, the one woman MP since 1968, now has company.

Three of the others elected are from Quebec, a province that had never sent a woman to the House of Commons before. Jeanne Sauvé, Montreal Ahuntsic, has since been named minister of science and technology. The other two, also Liberals, are Albanie Morin in Laval-Isle-Jesus riding and Monique Begin in Montreal St. Michel.

The sole Progressive Conservative woman elected was Flora MacDonald, in Kingston and the Islands.

As a sign of the times, just before the election, it was reported that the Canada Elections Act does not provide for females to register for voting as Ms. Single women may drop the Miss when they register, but married women must retain the Mrs.

British Columbia set a national record in its August election by choosing six women members for its legislature. One of them, Eileen Dailly, has since been appointed a minister without portfolio. Another, Rosemary Brown, NDP, is an active feminist and like the first black woman elected to a legislature in Canada.

Mrs. Dailly is one of a record number of women holding cabinet posts, and some of those are first.

Veteran Claire Kirkland-Casgrain, first elected to the Quebec legislature in 1962, is minister of cultural affairs in the province's Liberal government.

The churches and women made news in 1972.

Rev. Harriet Christie of Toronto was one of five nominees for the post of moderator of the United Church of Canada. She withdrew a few days before the general council meeting in July, saying she felt she could be most useful in her present role. She is deputy secretary of the division of mission in Canada.

In September an Anglican general synod inquiry group recommended that the church ordain women. A committee on the ministry will study the report with a view to presenting it at the general synod meeting in July.

Some Canadian Roman Catholic women took exception to Pope Paul's September motu proprio decree that women could have no formal role in the ministry of the Roman Catholic Church. In October a report said the Pope's ban might be revised.

While some groups continued to campaign for abortion on demand, an injunction was issued at the request of her husband to restrain an Ontario woman from having an abortion. It was upheld by the Ontario Supreme Court in January. It is not certain whether the decision will set a precedent.

An actress made political news in November. Genevieve Bujold rejected a suggestion she become one of this year's officers of the Order of Canada. She told the Governor-General's office she could not accept because she is a Quebecer.

A former politician made show business news in July. Judy LaMarsh left her Niagara Falls law practice to start a third career as moderator of a television radio show in Vancouver.

Ann Landers

Reader Tells Plight Of Unwanted Cat

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for people who drive unwanted cats to the country and drop them off, thinking some kind farmer will take them in. It was clipped from a pet magazine and I really opened my eyes. Thanks. Ann—Chessie's Pal

Dear Animal Lover: I want to tell you what happened to your cat after you dropped her off.

The first two days she stayed right where she was, waiting for you to come back. The hunger drove her on, in search of food and shelter. By that time she ate anything she could find—things that were rotten and wormy. Dogs chased her. She was nearly hit by passing cars. Exposure to freezing nights almost killed her, but your cat is tough.

I found her today. She was beside my mailbox. She couldn't see me because her eyes were pasted shut with infection. Every bone showed through her dirty hide. She couldn't eat because her stomach was already distended with worms. Too weak to stand, she made a little mewing sound, but it was meant for you, her rightful owner. She is dead now. Do you still believe you did the humane thing by driving her to the country?—New Jersey Friend

Dear Pal: Thanks for a most graphic version of something that happens too often.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll get right to the facts and then let you decide. Should I get a divorce or stay with it?

I am her third husband. She is my first wife. I did not break up her last marriage, I didn't even know her then.

We have been married 18 years. No sex before marriage. She said she didn't need to practice. She knew how and it would be fine.

Well, it wasn't. For the past 12 years I have been sleeping in another room. It seems I cough. I wheeze. I sneeze. I breathe heavily and I smell of cigarette smoke. I gave up cigarets three times; once for five years. It didn't change anything except I coughed less.

We go very few places together. No church. No friends. No movies. No dances. We take separate vacations because we get on each other's nerves when we travel together.

My doctor suggested a marriage counsellor so I went. She said she wasn't ready for a shrink yet. Finally he insisted that she go so she did—reluctantly. The counsellor declared me the villain and said it was up to me to decide if I want a divorce.

I don't think I want one. I want her to be a wife. She says she will not change, and she wants me to keep my hands off her. She also says if I want a divorce I can have it. We are in our 40s and I am very undecided. Please tell me what to do.—Married and Alone

Dear M and A: If the counsellor declared you the villain you must be leaving out some important facts. I tried to find something between the lines that might compensate a married man for sleeping alone for 18 years out of 20 but I was unsuccessful. On the basis of your letter, I recommend a trial separation and continued counselling.

Dear Ann Landers: This might not seem like much of a problem to you but it's ruining my life. I'm a 15-year-old girl with dark hair. For two years I have been needing to shave my legs. Mom just gave me permission, but she won't let me shave above the knees, "she says it isn't necessary. Please help me. —H.S.

Dear H.S.: A girl who shaves her legs should go at least as high as the hemline.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

Is it best to quit a boring job?

YES, if a person can find a more "involved" one. Yet, every job—a movie star's, a fat pilot's, a pro athlete's—can have its boring moments. There are some things worse than a humdrum job, too. One is no job at all; another is the waste of one's time away from work when he spends it griping about his boring job. Worst of all is the fear some people have that they cannot handle a more interesting job than the one they have.

Can parents love a 'bad' child?

YES. If they believe they can't, the mother and father had better learn how to lavish their love on even a child they call "bad." If the tot feels he is loved just when he is good, he may learn to behave properly only when he wants to win his parents' approval. If parents can show they love him whether he is good or bad, the child might begin to see that love is not being used as a weapon to control him.

Does disinterest 'turn off' a woman?

USUALLY, if it is a genuine lack of interest. No woman who is sure of herself as a person will bother with a man who shows no interest in her. Sometimes a man will feign disinterest, however, and if the woman is interested, then he's a "dead duck." In other cases, too, a woman who has self-doubts will pursue a man who shows no interest, simply because she doesn't want to believe that he could be so indifferent toward her.

Rotary Club Entertains Blind at Christmas Party

Leo Edgar, chairman of the Prince Edward Advisory Board welcomed everyone. Rev. Laurie Sutherland gave a Christmas message and asked the blessing.

Those in attendance included the Harmony Group of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church who catered for the turkey dinner, the blind guests and their escorts, members of the Hastings Prince Edward Advisory board and staff members of the Quinte St. Lawrence Hall in Kingston. Harold Clark, retired chairman of the board was also present.

During the program, greetings were read from the National President of the Canadian Council of Blind. A jelly bean guessing game was enjoyed. Winners were: Mrs. Pitcher, Floyd Reid and Bill Ashton. Learning Brings Wisdom

By DORIS CLARK

A little learning inclineth a man's mind toward atheism, but depth in learning bringeth a man's mind about to religion. — Francis Bacon.

Now Francis Bacon was a man of no mean accomplishments in literature and philosophy. He did a lot of thinking before he made that pronouncement.

And today's most outstanding scientists come to the same conclusions. The more they study this amazing world the more they see that a super-intelligent plan runs through it all; and the more they turn to the Super-Intelligence that got it all going, for help in keeping on track in spite of human arrogance and blunders.

Dear Doris: I have just recently become engaged. Would you please help us over a few of the rough spots that are bound to come along with the roses

I would like pamphlets regarding choosing a diamond, the wedding itself, etiquette and planning a trousseau. And most important of all, making a home. — Getting Organized.

Dear Getting: I am sending you some helpful wedding leaflets entitled "Wedding Count-Down", "Happy The Bride The Sun Shines On", "Household Trousseau", "Wedding Toasts—Order and Content", and "Pre-Wedding Parties".

Things about diamonds and honeymoons are usually settled in discussion, although there are times when the groom - to - be does this on his own, presenting his choice of a diamond to his fiancee.

I think a better way is for him to have the jeweler set aside several rings in the price range he can afford, and then bring his fiancee to make her choice.

When it comes to making a home, your public library is the place to go. I am sending you the names of some books which will be good starters.

Dear Doris: When I went with this guy Danny I didn't like him. Now a year later I really like him. But I can't seem to meet up with him and let him know. I hear he still likes me.

My two girl friends and I go to the town he lives in, to dances, shows and now hockey games. It's just that when we go to them it is always those girls and I'm afraid it looks rather funny, as if we want to get picked up by him and his two friends. We don't, but other kids think we do.

How can I get him to know I like him without chasing him around a town that calls it "trying to get picked up"? — Mixed Up Sixteen.

Dear Mixed Up: Do the three of you always cluster around him and his pals? Is there no single mixable you can look at and speak to each other?

How about wangling to be next in line at the refreshment booth, or nearby when it is "ladies' choice" at the dance? Then, don't say anything blunt like you'd like to take him again!

Say, "Uh, it's nice to see you again. How have you been? What are you doing these days?" If he still carries a torch for you, he'll grab at the chance to take over from there.

(If something is troubling you, there's help to be had. Write to Doris, in care of this newspaper, for another shot on your difficulty.)

A Taste of Canada

He, his wife, and their 13-year-old son have spent many months renovating the turn-of-the-century house he purchased just off Highway 37.

"When I first came over, I was alone and worked as a farm laborer," he said. "Then I heard my family would be arriving shortly. I didn't have much money so I called a real estate agent and asked him to find a large house with no down payment by the next day. We looked at three and paid $1 down and started to work immediately on the interior."

Mr. Andersen was not the only Dane welcomed to Hastings County by Judge G. F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Christofferson of Trenton, both natives of the Scandinavian country, also took the oath yesterday.

Europeans predominated at the ceremony, 15 receiving citizenship certificates. From Hungary, came Mr. and Mrs. Josef Bartok of RR3, Tweed; from Greece, George Syntetos and Mrs. Kostandina Eleopoulos, both of Belleville; from Italy, Mrs. Aurori Marcuzzo and Mrs. Concetta Iannello of Belleville; from Germany, Mrs. E. Ferrill of RR 1, Campbellford, and Mrs. Victoria Payne of Trenton; and from Holland, Mrs. Barbara Horsley of Batawa, Pieter van der Tort of Trenton, Adrianus Koonen of RR1, Plainfield and Berend Stegeman of Belleville.

Two natives of the Philippines, Rosario Posilabban and Mrs. Kathleen Somogyi, both of Belleville were granted certificates. Also from Asia are Dale Chen of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Foot of Trenton, all natives of China. Lone American sworn in was Mrs. Sonya Tass of the United States.

Court clerk Mrs. Helen Assenine made the presentations.

New Canadians Pledge Allegiance

Most Canadians never have an opportunity to pledge allegiance to the Queen. But a Danish native who has lived in Germany, Britain and India swore his second oath in four years during a special ceremony at Hastings County Courthouse yesterday.

Finn Hofand Andersen decided he'd end his travels in 1967 by coming to eastern Ontario. After five years in an old farmhouse near Plainfield he decided the Canadian life was for him and yesterday he became a Canadian citizen.

The former Danish military officer says he has felt a special allegiance to this country since 1908 when he took the oath upon becoming a major in the Canadian Armed Forces.

"I thought then that I was all through with oaths," he said during a reception for 21 new citizens at the Belleville Armories Officers' Mess.

He, his wife, and their 13-year-old son have spent many months renovating the turn-of-the-century house he purchased just off Highway 37.

"When I first came over, I was alone and worked as a farm laborer," he said. "Then I heard my family would be arriving shortly. I didn't have much money so I called a real estate agent and asked him to find a large house with no down payment by the next day. We looked at three and paid $1 down and started to work immediately on the interior."

More than $8,000 will be tipped from the provincial treasury into Thurlow Township make-work projects for the coming winter, it was announced at council Friday.

Under the Provincial Municipal Employment Program, $8,321 has been made available to the township for projects not previously budgeted for. The township is now applying for the money.

Township clerk Clare Horton told the application was almost a formality. The grant is calculated through assessment, population and employment figures.

The money, he said, would be used for clearing brushsides in the township and would employ 10 men for approximately three months.

Laborers, drawn from un employed and welfare rolls, would be paid $2.45 an hour, with supervisors receiving $2.70 an hour. Each would be offered a 40-hour week.

Mr. Horton expected the funds will be in shortly after the application is filed and he anticipates the project will begin in the early days of January.

The township will first receive 50 per cent of the grant, and an additional 35 per cent when funds run out. The remaining 15 per cent is paid upon project complet n.

One councillor mentioned it was "a shame the program had not started earlier giving families a chance to get money for Christmas and giving council more time to plan projects."

Actress Flo Yanover Gets Mother Courage Title Role

Director - actress Flo Yanover has been e hosen to perform the title role in the most ambitious production for the coming season, Mother Courage.

The announcement of the part came after two weeks of decision-making by auditions.

Mrs. Yanover at present is keeping a weather eye on her production of Mill Hill, being performed under her direction at the Pinnacle Playhouse.

Rehearsals for the play begin in the first week of the new year. The play is scheduled to open Feb. 21, a playhouse source said.

The play, by Berthold Brecht, is described as one of the most technically difficult to be attempted by the guild. Music scores and props have stage crews who are now busy searching for necessary materials, including a wagon, scaled down to fit the stage.

Of the 30 parts in the play, seven are major with the remaining 23 to be acted by 12 cast members, doubling on lines and costumes.

The play involves the path of armies fighting the Thirty Year War and the path of a woman who followed the armies selling provisions.

It is a demanding play and Mrs. Yanover is accepting an eighty-five-per-cent part, never leaving the stage throughout the performance," said Bob Hannah, publicity director for the guild.

Shoe Workers Will Release Progress Report

The Boot and Shoe Workers Union has scheduled a press conference in Frankford Monday morning to announce the status of their negotiations with Bata Shoes.

The union has been bargaining since last July and is now in its third conciliation session. Contract expired in October.

Hydro Becomes Largest User Of Fuel Oil

Ontario Hydro's Lennox Generating Station has become Canada's largest single buyer of oil with their purchase of 25,000,000 barrels of oil to be used over figa-years.

Oil, which is not the least inexpensive but most practical fuel for the station, will be used to fire furnaces for the production of electric power.

Vandals Break Glass in Doors

PICTON (Staff) — Picton police today are investigating vandalism reports from two Picton merchants whose store doors were broken last night.

Glass door of the Picton Bowl-O-Drome was smashed shortly 2 a.m. today and later, the door of a clothing store owned by Jesse Mason.

Hotel Guests Develop Taking Ways

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Hotel clients are kleptomaniacs in the eyes of the managers of Belleville's two largest hostelries, the Four Seasons Hotel and the Sun Valley Motor Inn.

Bath mats to televisions are fair game for the tourist, the hot patron and the traveling businessman.

In the first 11 months of this year, the Four Seasons Hotel, under the management of Mike Broadhurst, reported a loss list which includes 60 - dozen pool towels 50 - dozen bath towels, another 50 - dozen hand towels, 5,000 ash trays and the list continues.

Sam Goodman, owner of the Sun Valley Motor Inn could not say exactly what his losses were on an annual basis other than "I count by the dozens."

"Two hundred dozen a year would be reasonable. They use them for cleaning their car windshields or whatever and think nothing of it," said Mr. Goodman.

A 40-gallon cooking pot valued at $400 and more than 600 room keys have also been taken from the Four Seasons this year.

Most of the problem is the souvenir hunter, said Mr. Broadhurst.

Mr. Goodman's theory is people take things when they feel they have been charged too much for the room.

Whatever the motive, the petty theft which is found in most hotels is costing other customers comfort and money.

"When I first opened I used the best silver plate I could find in dining rooms," said Mr. Goodman. "Since the losses were so fantastic with people picking up the utensils I have changed to a cheaper brand that isn't as attractive."

Most thefts cannot be avoided because of the nature of the stolen goods.

"People can accidentally pack a towel and we certainly aren't going to search luggage," said Mr. Broadhurst.

"If I or one of my staff spot someone walking off with a lot of things I would have no problem calling the police or making the hotel off-limits to the individual.

"I could tell you stories about stealing in hotels that would make your hair curl," said Mr. Goodman.

Camping on the Increase At Col. Vanderwater Park

Single-entry vehicle permits to the Vanderwater Conservation Area recreation area at Thomasburg were down this year, but total camping days were up and there was a slight increase in overall receipts.

This is noted in the year-end report of the conservation areas advisory board, given on Thursday at Camilton at the final fall authority meeting for the year.

All six authority advisory boards presented reports of the years activities, while also budget recommendations for next years spending.

The conservation area's committee report showed gate receipts at the Vanderwater area of $3,259 as compared with a take last year of $3,200 or an increase of $54.

Gate receipts at the Ofara Hill conservation area totalled $892 as compared with $743 last year for an increase of $9.5 per cent.

During the year the conservation areas board purchased two additional properties. One of these was the old Ackerman gold mine property of 20 acres near Marmora, the other being the former 93-acre Sidney field station purchased from Crown Assets.

The forest advisory board reported purchase of two properties totalling 400 acres in the third concession of Hungerford township. Total reforestation areas now owned by the authority amounts to 16,570 acres, the great percentage of which was purchased in the years from 1951 to 1967.

Other reports heard included those from the water control advisory board, the pollution control board, fish and wildlife and the recreation and education advisory board.

Thurlow Pays $2,000 for Sheep

Wild dogs and wolves, preying on domestic live stock, will cost the residents of Thurlow Township more than $2,000 this year.

Another farmer in the township claims, of the 33 lambs he got at the first of the season, 11 had been carried away by wolf or dog.

Because the township cannot prove wolves are to blame for the attacks, cost of the sheep come from township coffers at a standing rate of $25 a head. Some allowances are made for prime livestock and ewes which are valued more.

Last year the mutton bill topped the $2,000 mark and is expected to climb even higher this year.

"The department of lands and forests has sent a team from Algonquin to set traps in the area, hoping to reduce the number of wolves.

Councillors asked if the department had found any traces of poison in the stomachs of the six "coyotes" captured so far.

If this were the case then at least a portion of the bill would be paid by senior governments.

Council was told that unless the wolf is captured almost immediately after feasting, no signs remain to prove the content of its last meal.

Because the situation is getting out of control, council has been told an enlarged team from lands and forest will be in the township shortly using bait traps in a concerted effort to solve the problem.

Some councillors felt they (council) would be wiser to go on a wild dog hunt rather than a wolf hunt.

Area dogs have been spotted intimidating flocks and in some cases have been shot.

Three dogs turned up in lands and forest traps.

One councillor said, "if more people would shoot these dogs we wouldn't have the problem at all."

Unless something is done about the situation council problem will be back next March when the wolves have had their litters. It will continue until about December, when flocks are taken to winter quarters near the safety of farm buildings.

Chess Tournament First for Schools

Queen Elizabeth School walked off with all the honors in the first invitational chess tournament held in the area for elementary school pupils, Thursday afternoon.

Martin Bush, a teacher at Queen Victoria Scho, organized the tournament. Four schools, Queen Elizabeth, Queen Victoria, Sir John A. Macdonald and Prince Charles participated, with a total of 30 boys and two girls entered.

Queen Elizabeth, with a score of 62, took the trophy in the round-robin competition. It will keep the trophy until the 1973 tournament, expected to take place in the spring. Mr. Bush hopes to make the next event a county-wide competition, with a Hastings county champion school to be proclaimed.

Individual winner in the grade 3 and 4 division was Rick Shaw and in the grade 5 and 6 division was Michael Labrush, both from Queen Elizabeth School.

Plastic Housing Industry 'Best Christmas Present'

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — A final agreement is expected to be signed next week by Skylight Homes Ltd. of Toronto for construction of plastic homes at Loch Sloy Industrial Park, Picton.

At a press conference in the offices of Prince Edward director of economic development William Duggan yesterday Glenn Grimba, financial and industrial consultant for the company, announced that the first person for each hangar will be employed by each shift at the new plant. Other employees will be hired locally and special training is provided where necessary.

Mr. Grimba said the concept for the plastic dome-shaped houses originated 14 months ago in order to meet the problem of developing countries. A survey in eight countries showed that the pre-fabricated houses on the market were too costly to provide housing since most retailed at $5,000. Only four per cent of the adult population in the countries surveyed could afford this type of home. The survey also showed that about 28 per cent of the people could afford a house costing $2,000 and 50.46 per cent could buy a $1,500 dwelling.

Skylight Homes Ltd. has worked to develop a housing unit within financial reach of the majority of people in the developing countries and the results is the dome-shaped plastic house planned for manufacture in Picton.

Mr. Grimba said an overseas market has been established but his company would cater to Canadian or American markets should they exist. Although the homes built for use in developing countries must

Houle Denies

Nationals Move to U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — General manager Buck Houle of Ottawa Nationals has denied reports that his World Hockey Association club is planning to move to the United States.

"We're going to stay with our World Hockey Association team no matter what stories you may hear," Houle said in reply to a story in the Winnipeg Free Press.

The Free Press said the Nationals are currently the subject of financial transactions that would see the Ottawa club moved to Milwaukee.

The newspaper said the Nationals were founded by a Toronto electrical contractor, Doug Mitchell, who later became majority share in the club to Nick Trobovich of Buffalo, N.Y. Trobovich now is trying to sell the club to Milwaukee interests.

The paper adds.

But there are indications the deal may be contingent upon Los Angeles Sharks, also a member of the league.

The Free Press says Trbovich apparently is interested in selling the Nationals and buying the Sharks. The Los Angeles club, however, could possibly be shifted by Dr. Arthur Rhoades, a Kansas City millionaire who recently purchased nearly $400,000 of stock in the Sharks, Houle said — if and when the rival National Hockey League decides it cannot see a team there for the 1974-75 season.

Supported purely at the gate, the status of the Ottawa franchise has been a major concern for the league, says president Gary Davidson has described the situation as, "terrible."

Swords Cut Wings 4-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The leaders in both sections of the American Hockey League pulled slightly farther away from challengers Friday as Nova Scotia and defending Calder Cup champion Rochester Americans 8-2 and Cincinnati Swords beat Virginia Red Wings 4-1.

In other games, Baltimore Clippers topped Cleveland Barons 3-2 and Providence Reds blanked New Havne. Nights hawks 5-0.

Moritz Stefaniw paced the Voyageurs to victory over Galt, while Tony Featherstone, Ross Butler, Yvon Lambert, Randy Rota, Ed Gilbert and Murray Wilson added the others. Gerry Sillers and Lorne Ronbough scored for the Americans, who now are six points behind the Eastern Division leaders.

Billy Inglis, Murray Kuntz, Billy Hijis and Steve Richard scored as the Swords to victory that put them 10 points ahead of the Virginians in the west. Bill Hogaboam scored the only goal for the losers.

Gary Smith's goal with one minute remaining gave the Clippers their victory. They had trailed 2-0 past 12 minutes.

Claude Piche scored first for the Clippers as Ray Barnes took a 2-1 lead on goals by Scott Bell and Dennis Patterson. Rick Mondou was the other marksman for Baltimore.

Providence virtually nailed down the decision by taking a 3-0 lead in the first period.

Lefley Sinks Go-Ahead In Canadiens 4-2 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks, feeling the strain of tight National Hockey League division races, padded their leads in the East and West respectively Friday night with late scoring efforts.

Chuck Lefley, a regular this year after toiling most of two previous seasons for the Canadiens' Voyageurs farm team, sank the winner in Vancouver after setting up two goals by linemate Jacques Lemaire in a 4-2 victory over the Canucks.

The Black Hawks, leading 4-3, ripped five third-period goals behind California goalie Gilles Meloche en route to a 9-4 win over the Seals in Oakland to extend the only other undefeated game.

Montreal moves on to Los Angeles tonight against the Kings while Toronto Maple Leafs entertain Detroit Red Wings, New York Rangers visit Minnesota North Stars, Philadelphia Flyers are at New York Islanders, Buffalo Sabres at St. Louis Blues, California at Vancouver and Atlanta Flames at Philadelphia Friday night.

Toronto is in Buffalo Sunday night when Pittsburgh moves into New York against the Rangers, the Islanders visit Atlanta, Philadelphia is host to Boston Bruins, Minnesota is at Detroit and Los Angeles in Chicago.

Quintes Lose to Snowfall

Though Friday's heavy snowfall will bring skiers to the slopes and cross country snow shoeing enthusiasts to the open fields, for the Belleville Quintes it brought a cancelled hockey game with the Galt Hornets.

The Hornets were forced to cancel Friday's OHA Senior "A" contest with the Quintes when a large percentage of their players were unable to reach the central pickup point just outside of Galt, according to Hornet manager Wes Lillie.

Just as the Quintes have players living in Peterborough, Ajax, and Oshawa, Galt's Hornet players come from the Niagara Peninsula, London, Toronto and Kitchener. The heavy snowfall prevented them from arriving at their pick up point for the 170 mile trip.

"It would have taken us at least six hours to get to Belleville," said Lillie, "which would have meant a game somewhere around 11.00 o'clock."

"I feel bad about not fulfilling our commitment, but it would have been unfair to the Quintes and to the fans if we'd arrived at that time."

According to Lionel Bolly, the Belleville team was not without similar weather originated problems.

"We'll reschedule the game for some Wednesday night," said Bolly," just as soon as we can get the ice time. The same thing happened to us last year. We couldn't make it to Barrie for a game. There's nothing you can do about it."

The Quintes are planning to leave Belleville at three o'clock today to play what would have been their return match in Galt.

Ralph Plane, who suffered a broken nose and a sprained wrist and was forced out of the Quintes line up, may see action against the Hornets today according to Bolly, "It's up to him, whether he'll play," said the Quinte defenceman.

The Barrie - Brantford and the Oakville - Kingston Senior "A" games are also cancelled because of the snowstorm.

Bobcats Lock Horns With Markham Waxers

The Belleville Bobcats and the Markham Waxers will lock horns Sunday to decide which team will claim sole possession of third place in the Metro Junior "B" standings.

The Bobcats, who have two victories over the Waxers to their credit, will have the goaltending services of Brian Cousins working from Belleville's side of the red line.

Bobcats' coach Moe Ulmiter said that he wants "to play Cousins a little more regularly" as in Thursday's game against Whitby Cousins' duties centred on penalty killing and power play work.

Sunday, the Markham visitors will be facing Cousins in the centre spot with left winger Dave Horwood and right winger Mike Watt in the flank ing positions.

Hunter, who said he was "pleased with McGeachey's performance" in the Whitby 8 5 loss Thursday, has travelling plans for the left third of the McGeachey - Dalnard - Dwayne Dayton line.

McGeachey will be playing defence against Markham as each Hunter said he wants "just a little muscle back there." McGeachey's presence in front of the crease should strengthen the defensive armament surrounding starting goalie Bob Moore.

Western Tire juvenile Jimmy Richardson will be up for the Markham contest. Richardson will be complementing the right wing of centre Rick Meagher and left winger Mark Coates.

Alberta Will Look At Amateur's Rights

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government is going to take another look at the playing rights of young amateur hockey players in Edmonton, Horst Schmid, minister of youth culture and recreation, said Friday.

His department is investigating a case that was before the Alberta Supreme Court two weeks ago in which four Edmonton teenagers were suing for release from an Alberta Junior Hockey League team.

The suit was dropped after the boys were granted their releases.

Mr. Schmid, in explaining his department's interest in the case, said he is concerned about a boy's right to play hockey with his friends, instead of playing where the team dictates he must.

"It's really a City of Edmonton problem," said Mr. Schmidt. "But I can see the human involvement and we would like to help to solve this recurring problem."

The City of Edmonton parks and recreation department rents ice space to hockey teams in the city, including clubs from the Alberta Junior Hockey League, and Edmonton Metropolitan Hockey Association.

Peter Driscoll, Mike Pennese and Glen Urquhart scored for the Trappers, who outshot Ajax 45 27.

Napanee Holds Clinic

Minor hockey in the Napanee area can do nothing but improve as one of the area's first hockey coaches' clinics will be held in Napanee Tuesday.

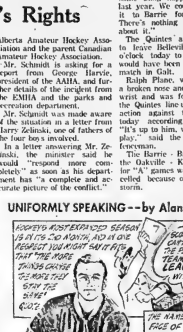
Jack Robinson, Napanee's recreation director, provided the initial thrust as he approached the Napanee District Minor Hockey Organization with the idea of holding a clinic.

Robinson received enthusiastic response from the NDMHO and the date for the arrival of Ron Smith, theOntario Hockey Association's first full time technical director, was set at December 19th.

Smith brings impressive credentials to the director's position as he is a former professional basketball player, has played on two Allan Cup winning teams, and was selected for the Pan American Games national baseball team.

Smith, who has played for the Senior "A" Galt Hornets for the last three years, is a physical education graduate of Waterloo University.

Napanee's coaching clinic will be one of 60-70 province wide clinics Smith will attend. The basic aim of the clinics is to upgrade the level of coaching by presenting a program by which a young player can move through the various OHA age divisions with an increase in hockey knowledge at each level.



The four hour clinic breaks up into three basic divisions. Fundamentals, such as skating, shooting, stickhandling, and checkink will be discussed through lectures and films. The team system involving defensive set ups and responsibilities, forechecking drills, positioning and plays will be handled by Ron Smith in the second third of the clinic while philosophy, strategy and organization of a hockey team will conclude the session.

Jack Robinson became involved in the formation of the clinic because of his concern over "the necessity of upgrading coaching in minor hockey. I'd like to make sure that we have uniform coaching patterns throughout the system with a good solid foundation in coaching fundamentals."

"Too many people who have the name of coach," said Robinson, "simply dress and close the door of the players bench. They don't provide the players with any increased skills. They don't keep up to date with coaching clinics, or new techniques. They should take advantage of every opportunity to increase their knowledge of the game of hockey."

The pre-registration for the evening clinic has reached 60 people from area minor hockey organizations in the Napanee area.

Britain's Athletes Will Face Challenges

LONDON (CP) — The cozy, cloistered aura surrounding British sport will be dissipated Jan. 1 as Britain takes up membership in the European Community, exposing its athletes to one of their greatest challenges in decades.

The Common Market merger presents to almost everyone an initial jolt. But for sportsmen, the impact may be more surprising than for most.

The emphasis in 1973 on more international sporting exchanges will especially benefit track and field in Britain. After Britain's dismal showing at the Munich Olympics, the future of this sport will depend on closer links with the generally higher standards of European track and field.

Soccer also may be given a shot in the arm in 1973. This sport, extremely popular with the British sporting population for years, is currently in dire straits here. Gates dropped 10 per cent at the season's halfway stag on last year's figure and at this stage season the sport has lost more than £1 million.

Authorities blame hooliganism among crowds for the decline in interest and feel that son several new firms oined sures are taken, the problem will become worse.

One sport which will remain relatively unaffected by the Common Market is cricket. It enjoyed a golden summer last season, aided by a colorful tour by Australia. England won the Ashes, cricket's most coveted trophy, with victories in four of the six test matches.

After more than a decade in the doldrums, cricket fans are pouring back into the grounds. Gates were 30 per cent up on the previous season and most clubs made a healthy profit.

Undoubtedly the revival is due to the success of one-day sponsored cricket. Last season several new firms joined the sponsors' table, ensuring the future of this popular, if controversial, form of cricket. Next season sponsors will invest more than £500,000.

Horse-racing also made a minor breakthrough this year in its fight against dopping. Lord Wigg, until recently chairman of the Levy Board, clamped down early on in the season, imposing heavy fines on dopers and strict security precautions on and off race courses.

His tough tactics appear to have dissipated the nightmare of 1971 when hundreds of dopping cases were confirmed. Only a handful cropped up this season.

Lester Piggott, for the last eight years winner of the Jockey championship, was ousted this season by Willie Carson. A runner-up for the title since 1967, Carson was in the lead from the start of the 1972 season and his decisive win may signify the end of the road for the veteran ace Piggott, at 39 seven years Carson's senior.

Sad news was in store for race lovers late in the season when top thoroughbred Mill Reef broke a leg, prematurely ending a golden career.

Luckily, the $3-million flat racer recovered sufficiently to go to stud.

Joe Bugner, after appalling performances in 1971, began an impressive comeback by winning all eight of his bouts in 1972 inside the distance.

In tennis, Billy Jean King avenged her 1971 Wimbledon defeat by Evonne Goolagong by beating the 20-year-old Australian star in straight sets in this year's final. Ilie Nastase of the United States won his first singles title, beating Romania's Ilie Nastase.

European sport was dom nated by the Olympic Games this year where few British athletes showed their worth. Only Belfast born Mary Peters in the pentathlon struck gold for the British contingent.

Fulton Blames Bennett For Columbia Pact

VANCOUVER (CP) — The man who headed the Canadian negotiating team in Columbia River Treaty talks with the United States suggested Friday the people of British Columbia were "skinned" by former premier W. A. C. Bennett and his Social Credit administration rather than by the Americans.

E. Davie Fulton, justice minister in John Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservative Government, made the comment in a prepared statement issued through the B.C. Conservative party, of which he is a former leader.

Mr. Fulton, now chairman of the B.C. Law Reform Commission, headed the federal negotiating team that drafted the treaty with the U.S. government in 1959 and 1960. The treaty was subsequently amended by Lester Pearson's Liberal government and ratified in 1964.

The former justice minister weighed in with his comments in the middle of a renewed battle over the treaty involving Mr. Bennett, Premier Dave Barrett of the New Democratic Party and Prime Minister Trudeau.

It was Mr. Barrett who started it by asking the federal government to press Washington for renegotiation of the pact, in which he contended Canada and B.C. were "skinned by the Americans."

Mr. Bennett said earlier this week that no one in Canada got skinned and, in fact, the Americans will pay through the nose for downstream power benefits in the long haul.

Mr. Fulton's statement broke a five-year silence on the Columbia treaty.

"The Americans did not 'skin' B.C. or Canada by the Columbia River Treaty," said Mr. Fulton, who retired from politics following his defeat in the Kamloops riding in the 1968 federal election.

"If there was any skinning done, it was the then provincial government of B.C. that did it, by its insistence on the selling of B.C.'s share of downstream power for cash" for 30 years.

The Bennett government "sold our entitlement to power for a lump sum payment in 1963. It was sold for 1963 dollars without any hedge against inflation, although it was known that the construction period for completion of the dams in B.C. would be some 10 years."

Mr. Fulton said inflation has greatly increased the cost of dam construction and decreased the value of the cash settlement.

Mr. Fulton, who now practises law in Vancouver, said that as chairman of the Canadian negotiating team he detained the right to a return of downstream power benefits to B.C.

The Americans, he said, were willing to deliver this power to the B.C. border free of charge, but the B.C. government insisted—after the treaty had been negotiated—on changing the position and selling the power to the U.S., for 30 years."

Although the Diefenbaker government offered "generous financial assistance" to B.C. to meet the cost of construction of treaty dams, B.C. "firmly rejected" all such offers.

In fact, said Mr. Fulton, Mr. Bennett refused even to discuss the matter with me and insisted on the cash sale."

When Mr. Pearson led the Liberals to victory federally in 1963, the cash sale was agreed to renewed negotiations with the U.S. and the treaty was ratified the following year.

Mr. Bennett had no immediate reaction to Mr. Fulton's comments, but he said earlier this week the justification for his governments sale is that the Americans will be in dire need of the downstream power by 1993 when the treaty comes up for renewal.

"That power will be worth three times what it is today, because there will be a great shortage in the United States," said the Social Credit leader. "To hold that power they will bid very high, and enormous payments will be coming back."

Mr. Trudeau said following a meeting with Premier Barrett in Ottawa Monday that the federal government is willing to consider a B.C. request to re-open treaty negotiations.

Oakville Burlington Airport Is Suggested

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Aviation Council proposed Friday that an airport for general aviation be constructed possibly in the Oakville-Burlington area, as part of a network of airports in the Metropolitan Toronto region.

The council told Toronto harbor commissioners that Toronto is the only major commercial centre in Canada that does not have a system of small airports to serve business and industry. General aviation was described by the council as including charter flying, training, aerial research, pleasure and business flying.

F. R. Waddell, council chairman, said Toronto Island, Buttonville and the general aviation section of Toronto International Airport are inadequate.

The council, a volunteer group formed in 1969 to oppose closing of the Toronto Island airport, said encouragement should be given to permit Buttonville and Oshawa airports to expand.

Mr. Waddell said the suggested new airport should have a 5,500 feet of 75-foot-wide runway served to highway specifications and equipped with runway lighting.

He said 19 airports in southern Ontario meet these standards and another eight could be expanded to meet them.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. Laura Bush, Mrs. Marilyn Harry and Mrs. Shelley Gregory attended a Cameo Paint Instructor's meeting at Markham recently.

Mrs. Lorrane Smith reported that she received a Christmas letter that was posted for Christmas 1971 in Cuba.

Sidney South Women's Institute held their Christmas Party at Westminster United Church. Over sixty children, along with the members and friends, the new Sidney Township Reeve Gordon Wilman and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell took part in the social evening.

Mrs. Mary Caves, Mrs. Sheila Gingras and Mrs. Rosemary Lemoere were co-hostesses for a surprise shower for Miss Mary Palmer, a bride-elect of December at the home of Mrs. Caves.

Ontario Legislature Session Was Most Explosive in Years

TORONTO (CP) — The four-week session of the Ontario legislature, which ended Friday after a sometimes raucous 11 hour sitting, was the busiest and one of the most explosive in years, according to veteran political observers.

More than 40 bills were dealt with, ranging from the revoking of the provincial wolf bounty to an amendment of the Income Tax Act, increasing provincial taxes by three per cent over last year.

The tax level now is the same as it was in 1971, before the federal and provincial governments agreed on the reduction to stimulate the economy.

There also was a shift of priorities—massive spending reductions in hospital and education construction and the announcement of a $1.3 billion plan to give Ontarians a new way to travel—a monorail system for the big cities.

Supplementary estimates were introduced—additions to the original government spending budget—of $305.5 million, of which $66 million was earmarked for health minister Richard Potter's department.

Dr. Potter announced a reduction of 1,200 hospital beds in an economy drive and vowed to control further costs, including doctors' bills, in order to stop the acceleration.

When the session began, Opposition Liberal Leader Robert Nixon and Stephen Lewis of the New Democrats said their top concern was winter unemployment.

The government announced a $50 million winter-works program designed to create 25,000 new jobs, but Treasurer Charles MacNaughton still predicted 100,000 workers would be unemployed in Ontario this winter.

Then there was the Fidinam affair.

Opposition members castigated the government when they learned of a $50,000 donation by Fidinam (Ontario) Ltd., a Swiss-based firm, to Progressive Conservative campaign coffers. That was after the company had received approval for a $15 million loan from the government-controlled Workmen's Compensation Board.

The ensuing uproar over the 1971 donation, prompted Attorney-General Dalton Bales to order an investigation to see if the donation breached the Criminal Code.

It also was a factor in Premier Davis' announced plans to end legislation which would require the political donations of large corporations to be made public.

The most vitriolic debate came when Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) linked Mr. Bales to a party official in the home of a man Shulman associated with crime in the Toronto construction industry.

Mr. Bales denied the allegations and Dr. Shulman subsequently withdrew them.

There were demands that the controversial NDP member resign or at least be censured by the house but Dr. Shulman remained, and Speaker Allan Reuter said there was no further action the Speaker could take.

The government reversed its field on a decision to deal directly with the public in making and fitting false teeth.

Instead, a bill was introduced creating a new job of dental technician, a bill that would bring denturists under the supervision of dentists—just as the Ontario Dental Association sought.

The report of a legislative committee investigating the Ontario Municipal Board recommended that the board should be continued. It also said that municipalities should provide for fuller participation of its citizen in the political process. When weary MPs straggled from the legislature Friday they could look forward to at least a six-week respite from the political wars.

With the end of the second sitting of the 29th legislature, Premier Davis doesn't expect the house to sit again before February.

National Mine Policy Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Resources Minister Donald Macdonald has called for greater co-operation between federal and provincial governments and industry to draft and implement a national minerals policy.

The country is still rich in both known and potential mineral resources. For our maximum benefit over the long term the careful formulation of enlightened mineral resource management policies is an urgent need."

Mr. Macdonald's remarks in a speech Friday to the Toronto branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy were released to reporters before delivery.

He said Canada's mineral resources have been traditionally thought limitless.

"But the time has come to see that Canada's remaining reserves and resources are husbanded, administered and managed wisely for the greatest benefit of all Canadians."

He said an effective national minerals policy must result from the combined experience of industry and the provincial and federal governments.

"The consultative mechanisms between governments and industry must be strengthened. Increased dialogue towards formulation of a national minerals policy, its implementation and ensuing problems of management is required."

Mr. Macdonald also defended government tax policy against critics—such as New Democratic Leader David Lewis—who have charged that it gives unfair preference to mining companies and other corporations.

Individuals shoulder an increasing share of the tax burden compared to corporations because they enjoy a growing share of the gross national product, he said.

Critics also overlooked the role of industry in creating jobs.

But he also noted in his speech that direct employment in mining has stayed at about 130,000 jobs since 1950.

He said the government sees a need to keep Canadian mining competitive in world markets by forwarding tax incentives.

The minister predicted that mineral output will increase in 1973 to about $6.8 billion from about $6.2 billion, as domestic and foreign demand increases.

Most of the increase would be due to growth in mineral fuels sales, with 'minor growth" in metallics and industrial minerals.

He said the growth in output in 1972 was about five per cent below the long-term growth rate of nearly eight per cent experienced since 1950.

Policies 'Callous' Says PC

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP) — Harold Danforth, Conservative eastern agriculture critic, charged the Liberal government Friday with using "hastily-contrived subsidies" and "callous regulating of production" to solve farm problems.

Speaking at a party nominating convention in the Ontario riding of Bruce—now held by Liberal Ross Wicher—Mr. Danforth said the government has demonstrated that it "either does not understand or does not care about problems in agriculture."

As a result, "on Oct. 31, rural Canada demonstrated beyond a shadow of a doubt that it had enough of the government in Ottawa." The federal election, to which Mr. Danforth was obviously referring, was held Oct. 30.

He said the Liberal attitude toward farm problems, involving "either callous regulating of production, moving farm families off farms or employing tax monies as hastily conceived subsidies, especially at election time, could do no other than fail in todays competitive international market situation.

Text of his remarks was given to the press.

Marxist Abandons Job Bid

TORONTO (CP) — Marxist scholar Istvan Meszaros, who has been ordered deported by the immigration department, has withdrawn an application to the government for permission to work in Canada.

Paul Copeland, his lawyer, said Friday the application—to permit him to teach at York University here—would have delayed hearing of his appeal from the deportation order.

Dr. Meszaros, now a British subject, was a member of the 1956 provisional government in Hungary and fled the country that year when the Russian Stalinists took power.

He had been teaching for six years at the University of Sussex in England when York hired him to teach social sciences at $25,000 a year.

His application for entry to Canada as a landed immigrant was refused while he was in England but he entered in September as a visitor and then applied for immigrant status.

His lawyer said his application for a work permit would have had to be settled before his appeal to an immigration appeal board against the deportation could be heard, so the work application was withdrawn.

Canadian Press Appointments Announced

TORONTO (CP) — Harold Morrison, chief of bureau at the London office of The Canadian Press since 1968, has been named CP foreign editor, a new position at Toronto, effective Jan. 1.

Peter Buckley, 39, staff correspondent at Washington, as chief correspondent there, a new title;

Gordon Grant, 36, news editor at Edmonton since 1968, to general sports editor at Toronto.

Firing Upheld

HAMILTON (CP) — The Ontario Supreme Court has upheld city council's dismissal of Kenneth Elliott as is representative on the Hamilton harbor commission.

Divorced

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The wife of premier Frank Moores of Newfoundland was granted a provisional divorce decree Friday by the provincial Supreme Court on grounds of separation for more than three years.

Chief Justice Robert S. Furlong granted the order. After a 90-day period the court can grant a final divorce order.

Jail Pair For Plot To Bomb

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Two Lakefield, Ont., men, found guilty Nov. 30 of possessing dynamite, were sentenced to Kingston penitentiary Friday, with 10-year probation terms for each to follow release.

Judge H. R. Deyman handed a three-year term to Lawrence Stockdale, 20, who admitted he planned to bomb the home of a judge with whom he had "a score to settle."

Jack Lean, 22, whose role in the plot was said to be "passive", received two years.

The men were arrested Sept. 1 after a neighbor, who heard of the plot from Lean's brother, called police in this community six miles north of Peterborough.

Ad False

OTTAWA (CP) — Colgate Palmolive Ltd. was convicted Friday of publishing statements designed to mislead the public.

The company was charged Aug. 25 under the Combines Investigation Act after an investigator from the consumer affairs department purchased a $1.06 package of toothpaste at a local drugstore.

Crown prosecuter Albert Roy said the advertising on the package would lead a consumer to believe that a free felt pen would be given with the purchase of the toothpaste.

But on opening the package, the buyer found that a further purchase was necessary in order to get the pens, he said.

The package read: "Five—felt pens see details inside."

The company will be sentenced Jan. 4.

Teachers Settle

OTTAWA (CP) — High school teachers with the Ottawa board of education reached a tentative contract settlement with their employer early Friday morning following 10 months of negotiations.

The proposed agreement, which would provide wage increases of 5.25 per cent over 18 months, must be ratified by both parties. The teachers and the board with Ontario conciliator William McGuire, went through an all-day session before reaching an agreement.

Teachers have said they will end a three-month withdrawal of voluntary services.

The teachers had asked for a wage boost of 5.3 per cent. The board had responded with an offer of 4.89 per cent.

Wrong Name

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Press erroneously reported Dec. 1 that Dr. Morton Shulman identified Continental Assurance Co. as one of three insurance firms which had served notice of cancellation of policies held by Acme Lathing Co.

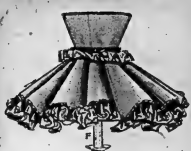
Dr. Shulman, New Democratic Party member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto High Park, in fact referred to the Continental Insurance Co. in his legislature speech.

CSL Closes Terminals

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada Steamships Lines Ltd. (CSL) announced Friday it is closing down its package freight operations in Montreal, Port Credit, Ont., and Point Edward, Ont., this week because of increasing costs.

The shutdown at the three terminals will put 75 administration, sales and office employees and approximately 100 freight handlers out of work, CSL president Louis Desmarais said in a statement.

Laker Freed



KINGSTON (CP) — The Senator of Canada, a Great Lakes carrier, was freed Friday from a shoal where it had been grounded since Tuesday. The 605-foot laker, owned by N. M. Paterson Lines, Thunder Bay, was carrying about 2,400 tons of grain bound for Trois-Rivieres, Que.

Little Late

CLARKSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — Kendall H. Keesey received a letter this week that made it through the mails with only a two-cent stamp—and only 34 years late.

Postal officials said the letter mailed from the Clarksburg Community Chest on Nov. 29, 1938, was found during renovation of the post office here.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

SUN. DEC. 17

Aries (March 21-April 19): Do your share of amenities before you wander off on a diverging track. Contrasting views exist on practically every subject.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): In private matters the crux may be money and how you use it or let others use it where you are concerned. Pause for reflection.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It seems there's no adventure available outside the accustomed social order, the advanced plans of your group of people.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be easy on yourself this Sunday; treat it as a special personal vacation, laying aside business questions and schemes.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): See what it is like to go along with the way things are, rather than striving to lead your set of people into any particular program.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): By the time all the details are discussed, nothing much has been changed, and that little bit is probably all for the better.

MONDAY, DEC. 18

Aries (March 21-April 19): Be extremely careful of what you say, otherwise you let all the cats out of the bag, so to speak. Travel is subject to delays.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Just because it's the first of the week doesn't mean you plunge into frantic financial moves, heavy purchases, or promises.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): The more you seek to please people, the less likely they are to co-operate. Tactfully pursue your special interests.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your skill in dealing fresh demands is of the greatest importance, especially since interruptions are the order of the day.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There's an idea not yet ready for discussion. Above all, leave friends outside your speculative thought on future business.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Compromise is fit the emotional needs of those you care about rather than put them through an encounter with your fixed opinions.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The more concise you make your expression, the better. You'll be glad you had the patience to cope with delays and confusion.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Pursue poetic illusions. Stay as far away from serious money matters as possible; you won't really up to facing financial reality.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Take a rest break wherever it is feasible, let open arrangements run on through another cycle before you try to make a change.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): For all your discretion, you are apt to assume that somebody knows the details of something that interests you.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Unfamiliar people and ideas are intriguing, perhaps very helpful in jetting you off and centre. Avoid large commitments.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): You may feel like sounding off on something but it serves only to set off extended squabbles rather than orderly discussion.

Surgery on Spine No Simple Matter

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have recently had an x-ray of my lower back which showed a slipped disc and arthritis. I do not understand what a slipped disc is and wonder if you could explain it. The doctor mentioned an operation as a last resort. What does this operation entail? I do not want to undergo any more surgery if I can avoid it.

"Slipped disc" is a term that has come into common use, medically speaking, but it isn't always an accurate term. "Damaged disc" might be better.

Anyway, between the vertebrae of the spine are pads or discs. Their purpose is to keep the bones do not bear directly on each other.

Sometimes a disc becomes misshapen, whether from injury, disease or just wear and tear, for example, a disc may become weak on one side and may (or may not) be pushed outward. Out of its orig inal normal position.

This may or may not cause any trouble. Sometimes it does most of us, by the time we have reached the age of discretion, have acquired a certain amount of wear on these spinal discs.

So long as they do their job—providing some separation and "padding" between the bones, who cares? But if, however, the disc is distorted enough so that pressure comes on the nerves which emerge at various points from the spinal column, then the patient most certainly does care.

The result may be pain in the back or in the legs or elsewhere, depending on which nerve is being pinched, and how much.

There may—as in your case —be some arthritis, with a certain amount of change in the shape of the bones, too. But the whole picture quite commonly is lumped under the term "slipped disc."

Surgery on the spine, if it becomes necessary, is not a simple matter, as you may well guess. If you can manage to be comfortable and active without surgery, that's fine.

But sometimes surgery is the only effective answer. One common technique is to use a bone graft, and fuse two adjoining vertebrae. This results in some degree of stiffness, naturally, but it can take the pressure off the nerves at that point, so this method can be decidedly worthwhile if it becomes necessary. You may recall that one of the most famous patients who had such surgery was President Kennedy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 23 and in the last few weeks have been bothered with a quick sharp pain in my left temple. It seems to occur when I bend over or exert myself, such as raising a window, etc.

I am in exceedingly good health. Is there an explanation?

It can indicate early temporal arteritis (inflammation of the artery in the temple). If so, there should be tenderness if you touch it. It may cause trigeminal neuralgia.

I suggest you have your doctor check it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What about these artificial sweeteners? Why should they be used only "by people who have to restrict their intake of ordinary sweets."

The pure food laws require such a statement on items containing artificial sweeteners because, after all, sugar is a food. The artificial sweeteners do not provide any nourishment.

The phraseology does not, of course, specify why a person "has to restrict intake of sweets." That leaves it open for those who restrict sweets in order to lose weight.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is smoking bad for someone who has asthma?

Are you serious? Of course it's bad.

Opening lead—seven of diamonds.

Marty Cohn, of Atlanta, who has a penchant for bidding suits he doesn't have, provides good copy for the newspaper reporter. Here is a hand he played in a pair game recently.

East opened the bidding with a club and Cohn, true to form, overcalled with a heart. Eventually, he got to three notrump, a contract that appeared to have no chance whatever of succeeding.

West had no reason to suspect anything fishy and he made the normal lead of a diamond. Cohn won in dummy with the eight and played a K-K and another spade, discarding two diamonds from his hand as East won the spade with the queen.

East elected to return the deuce of clubs, instead of the five, and Cohn proceeded to wrap the contract around East's neck. He finessed the jack and cashed the A-K, producing the following position:

	♥ K 10 9 8 5

	♣ J 10 7 2

Cohn had so far lost only a spade trick. When he now led a club, East could do no better than cash two clubs and the ace of hearts before conceding the last three tricks to dummy.

East could have defeated the contract by returning the five of clubs, instead of the deuce, and at the end winding up with the Q-J of clubs in the dispirmost position instead of the Q-10. In that case, East would have been able to exit with the deuce of clubs to defeat the contract two tricks, but who in the world would want to spoil such a great story?

Diploma Mills Blamed On Canadian Graduates

NEW YORK (CP) — An inquiry into "quackery" in mental-health care in New York state was told Friday that persons holding degrees from an unaccredited Canadian college have formed a "network" of diploma-mill institutions in the United States.

Dr. Mort Schillinger, executive director of the New York State Psychology Association, said "a couple dozen" institutions which grant academically worthless degrees were traced back to "graduates" of Philathea College in London, Ont. He did not name the graduates involved.

Schillinger spoke at a fact-finding inquiry ordered by state Attorney-General Louis Lefkowitz after unqualified persons holding doctoral degrees from Philathea and some U.S. institutions were found to be practising psychotherapy.

Women identified only by the first initial of their last names told how they were encouraged to have sexual relations with their "therapists." In one case, a mother and her daughter both were having sexual relations with the same therapist, said an affidavit presented by the attorney-general's investigators.

Doctors told the inquiry that such conduct is not acceptable by any professional standards and they warned that there was a danger of emotionally disturbed patients becoming more disturbed after dealing with unskilled persons passing themselves off as therapists.

Heroin Missing

NEW YORK (Reuter) — New York police said Friday that another 20 pounds of virtually pure heroin is missing from the police property office, bringing to 80 pounds the amount of heroin reported missing in the last two days.

NDP Annoyed

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Lewis, Ontario New Democratic Party leader, said Friday the all-night sitting of the legislature Thursday would be the last session in which his party will accept "bullying" government tactics.

Mr. Lewis said the NDP will be at its disruptive best if the government does not cease trying to force bills through in late-night sittings at the end of a legislative session.

Atomic Tree

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP) — Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. (AECL) has a Christmas tree with a difference in its lobby here—its powered by atoms.

The lights are kept glowing by a cobalt-60 power source which could theoretically keep them burning for "years and years and years," officials say.

The power source, similar to that which powers the scientific experiments on the moon, is the prototype of a AECL power source now being marketed.

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — Bryan Richards was released from custody Thursday so he can get married today.

U.S. Lifts Limit On Air Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Melvin Laird said today the United States has lifted restrictions which limited U.S. bombing of North Vietnam to the southern area below the 20th parallel.

"Air operations were being conducted throughout North Vietnam at the present time," Laird told reporters.

The defence secretary refused to go into any details of air operations because, he said, he wanted to avoid endangering the lives of American air crews.

Before Laird spoke to reporters, North Vietnam claimed U.S. planes had dropped mines in the Haiphong harbor and rocketed suburbs of North Vietnam's chief port.

U.S. sources in Saigon followed the North Vietnamese broadcast with unofficial word that the United States had resumed some military activities north of the 20th parallel.

Nixon ordered bombing of North Vietnam cut back to the 20th parallel in late October in an apparent gesture aimed at bringing the peace negotiations to a satisfactory conclusion.

His action at the time, in effect spared the most populous area of North Vietnam, including Hanoi and Haiphong, while permitting U.S. warplanes to continue attacking North Vietnamese supply movements throughout the less populated North Vietnamese area above South Vietnam.

Kissinger Admits Peace Talks Fail

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is sending Gen. Alexander Haig to Southeast Asia with a somber report of setbacks in the secret negotiations to end the war.

Haig, who left Sunday night and is due in Saigon Tuesday, will go also to Cambodia, Laos and Thailand in his assignment "to bring the leaders of these countries abreast of the status of the Paris negotiations."

The White House announced the mission of Haig, top deputy to presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, on Sunday following Kissinger's disclosure the previous day of a series of breakdowns in the Paris parley.

Contrasting with his optimistic "peace-is-at-hand" account Oct. 26 of near-agreement with Hanoi, Kissinger's version of the bargaining since then made it seem certain that no settlement will be reached before next year.

In a news conference Saturday, Kissinger accused the North Vietnamese of delaying the negotiations by reopening on points previously agreed on and making new demands after the 3½ weeks of resumed secret talks that ended Dec. 13.

But Radio Hanoi said today Kissinger was wrong to blame North Vietnam for the breakdown in the talks.

"It can be said that the self-serving fiascos presented by Kissinger are completely unreal. It is entirely unreasonable for him to blame the Democratic Republic of Vietnam for the delay in signing a peace treaty."

He said these wars "have exhausted and rendered impotent all the skills of negotiation and mediation."

500 Miles of Road Closed by Storm

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The worst snowstorm of the season in Ontario closed an estimated 500 miles of roads during the weekend as pelting snow made driving almost impossible. Hundreds of motorists abandoned their cars.

Highway 401 near London, Ont., were closed Saturday night as drifting snow and accidents clogged traffic. A spokesman for the ministry of highways said about 75 abandoned vehicles were counted on one 30-mile stretch of Highway 401 near London during the storm.

Closed were Highways 401 London and Windsor, a distance of more than 100 miles, and shorter stretches of highways 21, 7 and 81 leading in and out of London.

The ministry of highways reported that all roads in the province were open by Sunday afternoon.

Amin Nationalizes Tea Estates

KAMPALA, Uganda (CP) — Eight British concerns — all but them British-owned, and all foreign tea estates were taken over today in President Idi Amin's latest move to end foreign influence in his East African country.

Amin announced the seizures in a 70-minute broadcast shortly after midnight.

The British firms include subsidiaries of the British American Tobacco Co. Brooke Bond-Oxo, British Metal Corp., Chillington Tool Co. and Securicor— and Consolidated Printers and the Uganda Transport Co. The latter two have some Ugandan stockholders.

Amin said the licences of some foreign trading companies also would not be renewed next year but did not name those firms.

The tea estates included 12 owned by Britons and an unspecified number held by Greeks.

The British foreign office said Amin's action is "wholly unjustified and compensation would be demanded."

Amin also announced that British aid personnel, mostly doctors and teachers subsidized by the British government, can stay only if they accept local salary rates.

If not, he said, they must go by the end of the month, under the same restrictions that applied to the 75,000 Asians expelled earlier this year.

They were allowed to take out only $120 in foreign currency; previously, the emigration allowance was $7,200.

Britain has said its salary supplements to the aid personnel would be cut off when their present contracts expire.

Amin also said in his speech that "colonialist," or "imperialist" names of public places in the country will be changed and that Kenya and Tanzania will be asked about renaming Lake Victoria, which the three nations border.

Recount Asked Civic Vote Check Sought

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

A request for a judicial recount of ballots cast in the aldermanic race in Belleville Dec. 4 is being called by Clarence Young.

The well-known politician typifier has gathered $100 by private subscription and has obtained an affidavit asking for the recount by a county court judge.

Because no judge has been appointed for Hastings county since the resignation of Judge J. C. Anderson, it is believed that Judge Gerald Smith in Napanee would rule on the case.

Mr. Young has based his request for a recount on discrepancies between the totals released immediately after the election and the totals given officially Dec. 7.

Of particular concern to Mr. Young is the difference in the standings of leading candidates. Stu Meeks, first declared to have topped the polls, later dropped to third place by 1,500 votes. Ald. Arnold Orr dropped from second place to sixth by 800 votes. Mr. Young also noted the lateness in obtaining returns election night, with the two advance polls among the last to report in and two polls unreported until morning.

Apollo Spacemen Speed Toward Home

HOUSTON (CP) — With the major space exploits behind them, the Apollo 17 astronauts performed last-minute packing and housekeeping chores today in preparation for their homecoming.

Astronauts Eugene Cernan, Harrison Schmitt and Ronald Evans were on course for a splashdown in the South Pacific at 2:24 p.m. EST Tuesday. Their ship America was operating perfectly.

The astronauts, on their last full day in space and after a night's rest, had to stow equipment, review checklists and clean up the command ship.

The spacemen also had to secure their record cargo of moon rocks, three canisters of film and other scientific treasures gathered during the 13-day mission to the moon.

In the last major exploit of the mission, Evans made a 46-minute walk in deep space Sunday to retrieve film canisters from a part of the ship which won't return to earth and bring them to the safety of America's cabin.

With the moon behind, the earth ahead and black, star-spangled space around him, Evans floated out of the spacecraft at the end of a 25-foot lifeline and inched his way back to the outside storage compartment.

Trentonians See Need for Second Ice Surface

TRENTON — Are you in favor of spending $300,000 for a second ice surface in Trenton.

a group who believe the ex-

Since that question occupies conversation in most households in town these days, The Intelligencer decided to seek opinions from the man of the street, during the weekend.

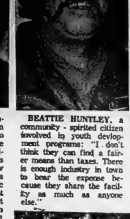
Many of those who favor the proposal argue that the capital required should come from other sources than tax revenues.

On the other hand there is a group who believes the extra millions would be shared equally if the town debentured for the outlay.

Against using tax money is Clifford Baker who acted as chairman of the committee that raised the $150,000 to build the Trenton Community Gardens from public subscription in the middle 1950's.

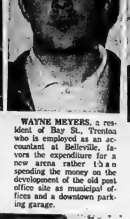
"The load on the property owner is too heavy already," he remarked. He suggested grants and other possibilities be explored before a decision is made. Mr. Baker, who resides in Ameliasburgh township near Carrying Place, ceases to be a property owner in Trenton this week. A taxpayer here for years, the sale of house he owned on the east side of the river becomes final this week.

And then there is a growing faction who insist the plans fort he old post office venture should be scrapped and replaced by the development of a new ice surface.



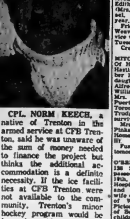
Others want to see the town's ice skating facilities doubled providing the new rink is located on the west side of town for the convenience of youngsters who have to travel long distances to get to skate now.

Of course there is opposition to the proposal, but most of the people contacted would support the expansion in one form or the other.



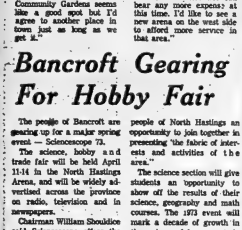
First, however, the movement will have to gain the support of council and more important the go-ahead from the Ontario Municipal Board for approval of including the proposed six-figure expenditure in the town's heavily committed capital budget at this time.

DAVE SCOTT, operator of a trucking company with two boys playing in the minor hockey set up: "As a businessman I can see the advantages of another ice surface. Right now the facilities are taxed to the limit and there is no other place to turn to. The proposed location beside the Community Gardens seems like a good spot but I'd agree to another place in town just as long as we got it."



REG. MARTIN, a Trenton resident interested in the affairs of the town who lost his first bid for the mayor's job in the municipal election earlier this month: "I'm for a n'e'w arena only if the money is provided through public subscription. Taxes are at an all time high and I don't believe the homeowner can bear any more expens: at this time. I'd like to see a new arena on the west side to afford more service in that area."

BEATTIE HUNTLEY, a community - spirited citizen involved in youth development programs: "I don't think they can find a fairer means than taxes. There is enough industry in town to bear the expense because they share the facilities as much as anyone else."



WAYNE MEYERS, a resident of Bay St., Trenton who is employed as an accountant at Belleville, favors the expenditure for a new arena rather than spending the money on the development of the old post office site as municipal offices and a downtown parking garage.

BILL DANYLCHUK, a homeowner living on Gould St., Trenton who is retired from the RCAF and employed as a customs officer in the summer months: "A wonderful idea. Anything is good that keeps youth occupied and off the streets. More ice time is needed if improvement of young players is to improve." He is the father of sons who came up through the ranks of minor hockey.

CPL. NORM KEECH, a native of Trenton in the armed service at CFB Trenton, said he thinks additional accommodation is a definite necessity. If the ice facilities at CFB Trenton were not available to the community, Trenton's minor hockey program would be in real trouble. Can't expect to develop youth without providing ample training conveniences. And the adult players of Trenton wouldn't have to go out of town for ice time practice if another rink was erected.

Bancroft Gearing For Hobby Fair

The science, hobby and trade fair will be held April 11-14 in the North Hastings Arena, and will be widely advertised across the province on radio, television and in newspapers.

Chairman William Shouldice said Sciencescope offers the people of North Hastings an opportunity to join together in presenting 'the fabric of interests and activities of the area."

The science section will give students an 'opportunity to show off the results of their science, geography and math courses. The 1973 event will mark a decade of growth in the science fair concept in north Hastings, the first such event having been held in '963. The winners will go on to compete in the Canada Wide Science Fair.

This will be the second year that craftsmen have been invited to exhibit at the science fair. Special efforts will be made to present the crafts and hobbies of senior citizens.

The trade show dimension to Sciencescope '73 is to provide an opportunity for all those clubs, agencies, societies and groups who are engaged in shaping the image of north Hastings as a tourist and recreational haven to further show and tell their story," said Mr. Shouldice.

Snow - covered streets brought out a multitude of snowmobiles in Quinte communities over the weekend. Such neighborhood safaris often involved the family with like that of Dale Archer, St. Paul St., here briskly breezing along with daughters Kim, 7, Dale 10.

Civic Recount Sought

Size of the slate of candidates was given by Clerk Adam Stalker, chief returning officer, as the reason for the slow returns. The city hall switchboard shut down at 12 midnight Dec. 4, and many deputy returning officers could not call in their results.

The difference between the first and revised totals for each candidate were blamed on speed and pressure at city hall election night. Mr. Stalker said totals on an adding machine tabulating aldermanic polls may not have been cleared at the end of one candidate's count in some cases. The totals may have carried over into other candidates' tabulations and the machine could also have been faulty, he said.

Any qualified voter pr candidate may apply for a judicial recount within 14 days of the city clerk declaring official returns. He must list his reasons for the recount and apply to the county judge for a decision. The judge, on the basis of the information in the affidavit, decides whether or not a recount is justified. A deposit of $100 must accompany the affidavit as security for the cost of the recount.

Since the official returns were declared by Mr. Stalker Dec. 7, the request for a recount must be filed with the court must be filed with the judge by Dec. 21.

Bata Shoe Talks Turn for Worse

FRANKFORD (Staff) — Negotiations between representatives of Bata Shoe and Local 1 of the Boot and Shoe Workers Union have taken a turn for the worse which has led to strike action by the 700 employees in the Batawa, Campbellford, Picton plants early in the New Year.

Charging "bad faith" on the part of company negotiators Union international representative Ian Reilly said during a press conference here this morning union officials have been led to believe certain work incentive clauses would be negotiated into a new contract. The old contract expired Oct. 3 of this year.

He said the company had indicated willingness to do that but at a Dec. 7, cancellation meeting it refused to include the request in the agreement.

Mr. Reilly said the present pay scale, the lowest minimum wages and incentives are so confusing that a few employees make their basic hourly rate and as much as 300 per cent based on incentives. The majority make less than this, many barely going above minimum wages.

The union officials could not say how many employees earn the minimum wage and 300 per cent, because statistics have not been provided by the company.

To date, 12 negotiating meetings, two conciliation sessions meetings have been held. The next conciliation meeting is to be held Jan. 4 at the Four Seasons Hotel in Belleville under the chairmanship of G. L. Greenaway, of the provincial department of labor, could lead either to further negotiations or to strike action, union officials said.

And one company move that threatens to throw a monkey wrench into negotiations as far as the union is concerned is the proposal to bring in a big-name American lawyer to argue the company case.

Mr. Reilly referred to this action as "another backward step in reaching a settlement."

He said: "It appears to us the company is trying to force us into a strike action."

At present the contract sets down certain hourly rates and incentives varying to job classifications, the work involved and length of service.

Some employees make a strict hourly rate without a piece-rate.

The union wants to eliminate all the various piece-rate clauses and special methods of payments and replace them by one system incorporating all rates based on the job involved. The union insisted on this being incorporated into a new contract.

The union's concern was that without a written clause it could not go to arbitration should a grievance arise.

As well as the major clause dealing with incentives, the union negotiators have a lengthy list of demands including: a 75 cent hourly across-the-board increase for all employees; improved vacations; pay for all statutory holidays after 30 days employment; seniority for two years if a worker is laid off; guaranteed employment for injured workers (union official said the company has been "extremely good in this respect, but they want it written agreement); the company to pay 100 per cent of OHIP instead of 60 per cent; an afternoon break of 10 minutes; payment for full cost of $5,000 (the company now pays 50 per cent of the premiums on $2,500 policies); the company to provide paid up life insurance for retired employees and increase in payments for medical benefits.

Former Sidney Family Killed

A former Sidney township man, his wife and their two young children, were among a carload of six people instantly killed in the Niagara district over the weekend when their car was struck by a freight train.

Killed in the accident near Cayuga were Robert Copeland, 37, his wife Johanet, their two children Susan, 13, and Robert, 10, of Mississauga, Mrs. Copeland's sister, Margaret Counsbey and her husband Harold of Guelph Line, Burlington.

Police said the southbound car was in the middle of the crossing when it was struck by an eastbound Norfolk and Western Railway freight running from St. Thomas to Buffalo.

All six victims were pronounced dead at the scene. The smashed car was carried 125 feet down the track.

Mr. Copeland was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Copeland of Stirling.

He had lived with his parents and other members of his family in the Scott's Church district, 6th concession of Sidney and had attended Stirling high school with his brother.am He moved to the Mississauga area prior to his marriage.

His parents moved to Stirling about 15 years ago.

Alarm Box

Saturday — 11.50 a.m. . . . 240 MacDonald Ave.; service call.

Sunday — 10.17 a.m. . . . 601 Victoria Ave.; chesterfield fire, extinguished by owner.

12.28 p.m. . . . 42 Rosewood Ave.; investigate furnace odor.

No Accidents Just Noise

TRENTON — The town was free of snowmobile accidents over the weekend but the local law enforcement authorities received complaints about noise from power sleds operating in town after dark.

There is a town ordinance in effect which restricts the operation of snowmobiles between the hours of 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. to midnight Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

A conviction under the by-law calls for a fine not exceeding $300.

Garage Fire Contained

TRENTON — A garage used as a storage at the rear of Audrey Smith's house at 133 Ontario Street was destroyed by fire during the weekend.

Firemen who found the building completely engulfed in fire when they arrived on the scene were able to prevent the flames from spreading.

Bill MacDonald stored paint supplies in the garage and had lighted an oil burner to warm up the place. He was operating a snowblower nearby when he noticed the outbreak.

Local police were called and relayed the alarm to the firehall.

Tweed Firefighters Had Special Impetus

TWEED (Special) — The chief of Tweed's volunteer fire department had extra motivation in fighting the blaze in Sheldon Weese's body shop on Mary St. Sunday.

The clapboard building belongs to Chief Ross McNaught, and is only 20 feet from the cement block building housing the chief's own business, a welding shop.

The volunteer firefighters, on the scene immediately after the alarm was sounded at 8 a.m., confined the blaze to a two-foot area on the body shop's floor. It is believed the furnace in the shop caught fire.

The blaze was first noticed by Delbert Benn, who lives across the street from the shop. He had spent Saturday assisting Eddy Whalen replace a blade on village snow removal equipment in the body shop.

On awakening Sunday morning, he set out for the shop to volunteer his assistance again and discovered the flames.

Firemen at the scene said both shops would have gone up in flames within another 10 minutes if Mr. Benn had not made his timely 8 a.m. visit.

Picton Briefs

Bulbs Stay Put

PICTON — Town police this year have experienced few complaints of bulb snatchers from residents displaying outdoor lights.

Because of repeated bulb thefts in the Christmas season of 1971 many persons resorted to fencing their trees from the public. This year several large trees have been placed on Main Street without incident. A giant spruce at the Picton cenotaph erected by mayor-elect Harvey J. McFarland is in memory of Prince Edward's war dead. A huge tree also has been decorated on the lawn of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene. The public works commission "bulk" a tree with spruce boughs hung over a wire frame on a street lamp at the Town Hall.

Reeve Holidays

Retiring Picton reeve Albert Piroth is spending several days in western Canada this month. It is expected he will return this week in time for the final meeting of county council for 1972. Reeve Piroth was defeated in his bid for re-election by deputy-reeve James Bird.

Gates Named

Ornamental gates and a coat of arms with the words "Loch Sloy" have been erected at the home of mayor-elect Harvey J. McFarland. These were a gift of his employees presented to him at an appreciation night held here in his honor in 1970. He has chosen the name Loch Sloy Industrial Park for the land parcel at Prince Edward Heights where a new plastics industry will locate.

Talent Follows Spirit

In less than two months Keith Pearce has built the Belleville Yardmen put together a competition marching band. Mr. Pearce explains his success saying, "all cities have talent. It is the enthusiasm that must come first and we (band members) have it."

Subdivision Shuts Gap

The gap between Trenton and Belleville may be reduced even more if a proposal for a 160-lot subdivision meets with the same enthusiasm in the next 12 months as it did at a Sidney Township Council meeting Friday.

Toronto developing firm NOREMCO initiated the subdivision discussions at council saying the project would include not only single dwelling units but town housing and a shopping plaza.

Draft plans showed the housing development situated just east of Bayside Secondary School, adjacent to the Highway 2 on the north side.

Township reeve Jack Bush enthusiastically described the draft plans as "beautiful" but said the biggest problem standing in its way is the 12 months or more of approvals and red tape before construction could possibly begin.

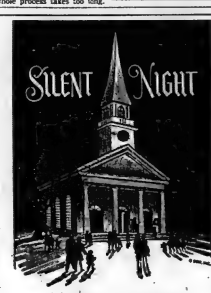
The 3,000 to 15,000 square foot lots would be serviced by a series of fire wells for water and a holding lagoon for sewage.

Mr. Bush said these arrangements for services would be adequate with the lagoon situated "well north" of the development.

He said there would be no danger of seepage from the lagoon that could contaminate the wells.

"This will be a major item of discussion before the subdivision can be built" he said.

Mr. Bush forecast the services would be linked up to municipal lines in the future if the land was sufficient. Until then, treated wastes held in the lagoon would be sprayed over adjoining fields, still north of the lagoon. In this way the holding area would be drained each year.



"It is a beautiful site and we (members of council) are quite pleased with it," said Mr. Bush.

The subdivision's first test will come Jan. 4 when it will come before the Quinte Planning Board for consideration.

If approved by the QPB, "it must be approved by many, many other boards taking a year or more," noted Mr. Bush, who complained the whole process takes too long.

Yardmen Band Blowing Strong

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

In four weeks a group of young musicians and their benefactors whipped together a competition marching band that surprised two Quinte communities and their lempo is increasing.

A terrible racket blasts its way through Queen Mary Public School corridors as musicians struggle through a piece of music.

By the end of the session the marching band, sponsored by the Belleville Yardmen have added another piece to their music list which will be played in competitions across the province. The piece isn't ready yet, some adjustments will have to be made to the arrangement.

When it is mastered it will be another fanfare heralding the efforts of the yardmen and the two organizers who less than two months ago decided they wanted to raise a top notch marching band from Bellevile.

In the middle of October, 15 people got together to play.

The group grew, and by Dec. 2 the band was in the Belleville Santa Claus Parade, its first public appearance.

Having had their first taste of exposure and supported by several new members, the band was on its way to the Picton parade to once again show performers can be groomed in weeks.

Keith Pearce, primary organizer and instructor to the brass section, said the formula for the success is tremendous support from the yardmen ($3,000 worth so far) and the enthusiasm of the members.

"It's 50 per cent financial support and 50 per cent spirit and desire," he said, "Talent comes naturally when you really want it.

"I like to play," is all most of the members will say when asked why they belong to the band.

Keith himself looks like a little mechanical man, strutting and swoping his arms as he leads his band, doubling as drum major.

His eyes twinkle as he dons his white leather gloves and hat. He's excited about the band he and Hugh Bondy constructed. Both are convinced the band will be a top competitor in less than a year.

After Sunday's last rehearsal for the year the instruments will be sent to Toronto for cleaning and repairs.

The organizers are aiming for a 75-member band plus a color guard. Anyone is welcome to join, male or female. A full time music instructor is also on the shopping list for the new year.

Changing Values

Essayist William Hazlitt concluded in an earlier time that "the most sensible people to be met with in society are men of business and of the world,who argue from what they see and know, instead of spinning cobweb distinctions of what things ought to be."

The image of Hazlitt's is the traditional one of the hard-headed man of action, a bit uncompromising perhaps, in the way that Dickens saw such figures in his day, and certainly not the sort of person who could be trifled with.

Today of course there are unions and while we still have our men of decision — the executives of the day — they are no longer the unquestioned masters of all they survey. They are human too, subject to error and criticism — as at that Loyalist conference recently when broadcaster Roy Bonisteel accused some of offering only platitudes.

Some remarks of Mr. Justice Hart of the Ontario Supreme Court are pertinent in this context. In a recent address to the Empire Club of Toronto he was speaking of change — of instant communications, drugs, the space age, new concepts of behavior by the young, of "future shock" and "1984" and in the course of it all he talked of what he saw as the decline of the industrial age.

-So that moment whom Hazlitt viewed as men of privilege, endowed with knowledge and acumen beyond the rest of society, today are along with the rest of us — the men whom Thoreau saw as leading "lives of quiet desperation."

"If the industrial age is dead," says Mr. Justice Hart, "I suggest that we do not need to die with it."

Suggesting that traditional values have a place in this era and that "it is our role to be custodians of these values," Justice Hart adds this word of caution however, " . . . I would emphasize most strongly that I do not believe it is possible, or desirable, to impose traditional values on the generation that is entering this post-industrial age.

"Our children," he said, "are undergoing experiences so different from ours, that it seems to me unreasonable to suppose that all our values will fit their situation. This makes us feel uncomfortable but I do not believe that this need be so. . ."

What Justice Hart is saying is that adults have a responsibility to pass on the values they believe in, but not to be alarmed if they are rejected. What of the responsibility of the young who are the inheritors of such advice, even if they do not like it or reject it? Justice Hart does not go into this aspect of the subject, but clearly a due sense of responsibility is required of this age group too, to analyze those values in which they believe, to be both self-searching and self-critical, but hopefully without being too introspective — as the young can be to a fault — or too serious-minded.

Meanwhile we still must have our businessmen ,even if they have come down from the pedestal of old. Justice Hart may be at fault in imagining the industrial age dead or dying, for our world cannot survive without the material things of life too. How often though we see evidence of decadence in the ease with which people can survive today without working. They survive because they are being carried on the backs of the rest of us. We need the work ethic, for the survival of man's spirit as much as anything else in this wonderful world.

Florida Decision

Restoration of the death penalty in Florida — the first state to restore the edict since it was ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court — is a decision that will be viewed with mixed emotions throughout the continent.

Inevitably the move will be seen as a retrograde step by some, while others will regard it as a courageous decision that sides with the law-abiding public.

Time alone will tell, but for the moment we are inclined to believe that the people of Florida will feel safer for the decision and that, for a time at least, criminal elements may be deterred from their fell deeds.

Under the new law a jury may recommend life or death to the trial judge, but the latter can overrule the jury, one way or another.

What effect the new ruling has on law and order in Florida will have profound implications for other jurisdictions throughout North America.

Development Or Indolence

Canada: A Choice Between Economics and Lotus-Land

By JOHN D. HARKINON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Some say Canada's future image in the world will be "The Peaceable Kingdom, as William Kilbourn called his book about Canadian values.

If so, that means Canada will probably be the one country in the Western world which can afford to take them—and switch know-how easily devised to growth to solving social and "people" problems.

While other Western and basically capitalistic countries like the United States, Japan and West Germany relentlessly pursue materialistic goals, Canadian leadership will be more and more devoted to what Prime Minister Trudeau for a time called, The Just Society.

Proof of this trend is found in the "no-growth" pressure groups which are trying to stop Toronto, the federal and provincial governments from building a second jet airport for that city, who elected a reformist mayor and anti-development council in Toronto and who soon will organize to do all they can to stop before they start the huge resources developments 'projects in the Arctic and at James Bay in northern Quebec.

Another proof is the growing interest of Americans, as individuals and in government, in the placid, easygoing North American society in Canada—the country which did not involve Itself in the disaster in Vietnam, does not have massive racial troubles, builds rather than tempers the central core of its major cities.

This American view of Canada has been called by one U.S. newspaper editor, Canada—The Alternate America, what we could have been like without Vietnam and urban decay."

But surely this has to be a view of ourselves which is also disturbing, of a passive future society where big ideas and futurism, putting technology to work, become bad politics.

At present in Canada there are at least four exciting and revolutionary schemes for developing the Arctic, our last great frontier—and along with Brazil's Amazonian wilderness —one of the last true frontiers on earth.

Do we let our North lie fallow while we support the causes of native peoples who want to participate in the Canadian experience, but cannot survive in a tough environment we will not develop?

Can we have our cake and eat it too—a Canadian propensity all too obvious in our foreign policies and our ambivalent attitude about foreign investment.

We don't like foreign control. But we like the affluence it brings. So we ignore the problem of who owns Canada and hope it will go away.

If we reject the visionaries among us we reject a distinct Canadian future. At present, highly-competent Canadians, business executives, lawyers, economists, retired military men, senior bureaucrats in all levels of government, are proposing we do several exciting and dynamic things with our North.

These include super-jumbo aircraft which will alter and air out our future Arctic gas exports over 1,700 miles of tundra, another calling for a trans-Arctic railway of the same length, yet another for a $1 billion pipeline gas pipeline and the lingering Mid-Canada Corridor concept for development of that mid-section of Canada between the urbanized south and the tundra, where a second nation could be populated and developed.

Junk'ial these is the cause of people power—and the country runs down. That's not a popular response thesse days to "people power." But it's still one which won't go away.

Changing Values

Essayist William Hazlitt concluded in an earlier time that "the most sensible people to be met with in society are men of business and of the world,who argue from what they see and know, instead of spinning cobweb distinctions of what things ought to be."

The image of Hazlitt's is the traditional one of the hard-headed man of action, a bit uncompromising perhaps, in the way that Dickens saw such figures in his day, and certainly not the sort of person who could be trifled with.

Today of course there are unions and while we still have our men of decision — the executives of the day — they are no longer the unquestioned masters of all they survey. They are human too, subject to error and criticism — as at that Loyalist conference recently when broadcaster Roy Bonisteel accused some of offering only platitudes.

Some remarks of Mr. Justice Hart of the Ontario Supreme Court are pertinent in this context. In a recent address to the Empire Club of Toronto he was speaking of change — of instant communications, drugs, the space age, new concepts of behavior by the young, of "future shock" and "1984" and in the course of it all he talked of what he saw as the decline of the industrial age.

-So that moment whom Hazlitt viewed as men of privilege, endowed with knowledge and acumen beyond the rest of society, today are along with the rest of us — the men whom Thoreau saw as leading "lives of quiet desperation."

"If the industrial age is dead," says Mr. Justice Hart, "I suggest that we do not need to die with it."

Suggesting that traditional values have a place in this era and that "it is our role to be custodians of these values," Justice Hart adds this word of caution however, " . . . I would emphasize most strongly that I do not believe it is possible, or desirable, to impose traditional values on the generation that is entering this post-industrial age.

"Our children," he said, "are undergoing experiences so different from ours, that it seems to me unreasonable to suppose that all our values will fit their situation. This makes us feel uncomfortable but I do not believe that this need be so. . ."

What Justice Hart is saying is that adults have a responsibility to pass on the values they believe in, but not to be alarmed if they are rejected. What of the responsibility of the young who are the inheritors of such advice, even if they do not like it or reject it? Justice Hart does not go into this aspect of the subject, but clearly a due sense of responsibility is required of this age group too, to analyze those values in which they believe, to be both self-searching and self-critical, but hopefully without being too introspective — as the young can be to a fault — or too serious-minded.

Meanwhile we still must have our businessmen ,even if they have come down from the pedestal of old. Justice Hart may be at fault in imagining the industrial age dead or dying, for our world cannot survive without the material things of life too. How often though we see evidence of decadence in the ease with which people can survive today without working. They survive because they are being carried on the backs of the rest of us. We need the work ethic, for the survival of man's spirit as much as anything else in this wonderful world.

Florida Decision

Restoration of the death penalty in Florida — the first state to restore the edict since it was ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court — is a decision that will be viewed with mixed emotions throughout the continent.

Inevitably the move will be seen as a retrograde step by some, while others will regard it as a courageous decision that sides with the law-abiding public.

Time alone will tell, but for the moment we are inclined to believe that the people of Florida will feel safer for the decision and that, for a time at least, criminal elements may be deterred from their fell deeds.

Under the new law a jury may recommend life or death to the trial judge, but the latter can overrule the jury, one way or another.

What effect the new ruling has on law and order in Florida will have profound implications for other jurisdictions throughout North America.

Washington Repairs Links With India

By PETER BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — The tattered relations between the United States and India appear headed for improvement, with both countries indicating a willingness to work for greater cordiality.

Whether the world's most powerful democracy can rebuild real amity with the most populous democracy remains open to proof, given the tension that has grown under President Nixon.

But Nixon's nomination of Daniel Patrick Moynihan, a garrulous and keen-witted Harvard professor, to be his next ambassador to New Delhi is regarded here as a determined attempt to revive a once-warm relationship.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government had signalled its willingness for a change when Foreign Minister Sardar Swaran Singh told the Indian Parliament two weeks ago that there was "no reason why our relations with the United States should not only be normalized but become friendly and co-operative."

A heated debate in Parliament since then, in which deputies from both the ruling Congress party and the opposition denounced alleged American intelligence activities in India, has only served to point up some of the problems ahead without apparently affecting the two nations' determination to deal with them.

Moynihan, a 45-year-old former official in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, was the only Democrat among the senior White House staff for the first two years of the Nixon presidency. He returned to Harvard after Congress rejected his plans for revamping the welfare system, but his personal friendship with the president has been unimpaired.

If the U.S. Senate approves the nomination as expected, Moynihan's chief task will be to repair the damage done by Washington's unprecedented "lift" in favor of Pakistan during last year's Indo-Pakistani war over Bangladesh.

The Nixon administration was clearly embarrassed by revelations by Washington columnist Jack Anderson of U.S. favoring-Pakistan in debates of the National Security Council.

There was also criticism from both Republicans and Democrats of U.S. policy and, in particular, of presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, who was accused by Anderson of having played a heavy-handed role in the brief conflict.

The American policy was widely reported to have been developed expressly by the then U.S. ambassador to India, Kenneth Keating. Keating later resigned in campaign on Nixon's behalf in the Nov. 7 elections.

The U.S. embassy at New Delhi has traditionally been a prestige post, assigned to important and influential figures. Past ambassadors—all of whom have proved to be ardently pro-Indian—were career diplomat Chester Bowles, former senator John Sherman Cooper and Kennedy confidant John Kenneth Galbraith. Keating was a former senator from New York.

Moynihan's intellectual credentials are likely to endear him to the Indians. Among his academic experience was a Fulbright scholarship to the London School of Economics, a training ground for generations of India's most prominent politicians.

Ontario's Liquor Laws And The Local Option Clause

By DON O'HEARN
From The Big Bigamor's
Queen' Park Bureau

This story has been told before. But it is timely to tell it again.

It happened in the 1940s.

The Kingsway was a then new-rich and snobbish community on the outskirts of Toronto.

The government planned to locate a liquor store there.

There was great local indignation.

Leslie Blackwell, who was attorney-general, said he would be glad to hear a delegation.

More than 30 people arrived.

The attorney-general had requested their names in advance. And the meeting was quite brief.

Blackwell cordially selected a member of the delegation "Mr. Smith," he said, "you hold liquor permit number 178,907."

Then, "Mr. White you have liquor permit number 794,467."

And he went right down the line. Every member of the delegation had a permit to buy liquor and the attorney-general had the number of each of them.

"Gentlemen," he said, "you all buy liquor. But apparently you think there is something disgraceful about it and the stores that sell it. So you want to buy in another community and let it have the disgrace.

"I don't feel we really need discuss this any more. There will be a liquor store in the Kingsway."

This incident is pertinent now because west Toronto, one of the few officially dry areas left in the province, is a plebiscite in the recent municipal elections for the fourth time voted against any liquor outlets.

The government, through the new minister of consumer and commercial affairs, John Clement, has said it will be putting through a thorough review of liquor laws.

The chances are that out of this west Toronto, like it or not, will end up wet.

For one of the likely provisions to be knocked out of the present laws is the local option feature.

There probably is no longer justification for this provision.

It has been traditionally in our laws as a gesture to prohibitionists.

Aside from the fact that there are relatively few prohibitionists left, on the Kingsway principle alone that there should be equity for all, the option provision can be said to be discriminatory.

And though there are many neighborhoods which should be protected from bars this can easily be controlled through local planning and zoning.

With no valid practical, or even emotional, reason for it any more logically the option should disappear.

Northern Rescue Services

Ottawa Journal

That Mario Gatewell was found alive 32 days after the aircraft he was piloting crash-in the Western Arctic was heartwarming news. It might seem to some of the contention of critics that military search and rescue efforts are not sufficiently persistent.

But there is more to it than that.

The Canadian Armed Forces search and rescue responsibility is in itself an anomaly. The job would seem to be one for the Department of Transport to which the military could contribute. Or DOT could have the job and are doing it conscientiously and well. Bearing in mind the many million square miles they must cover, their performance is a tribute to the amazing lack of co-operation and common sense from those who demand more from the service.

Last year the military search and rescue organization had more than 1,000 alerts. Of 33 of these searches, 31 were for missing civil aircraft. Twenty-eight of these were found at a cost of eight servicemen's lives, some aircraft and more than $10 million. A question which deserves at least equal attention is what the search and rescue system is for if many of these aircraft were lost in the first place and why they lacked the survival gear that would have made their rescue fairly straightforward.

It would seem that a sifting enough case has been made for a complete review of the regulations which spell out the qualifications and equipment needed to fly over the six million square miles for which Canada is responsible. Northern flying has passed the point where "sun and sand" techniques are good enough.

As it stands the Armed Forces' search and rescue capabilities are stretched to the limit. They keep a 24-hour-a-day watch. They make do with aircraft that are in inventory. The argument for providing aircraft specifically designed and equipped for the job has been made many times before and should be considered again. Perhaps with the current emphasis on the Forces' role in establishing Canadian sovereignty, this may appear a good investment — that is if the government still feels that search and rescue is properly a chore for the military.

It's a pity that it takes a tragedy like the Nov. 8 crash of Mr. Hartwell's Beechcraft near Great Bear Lake to get action on a situation which should have been resolved a decade ago.

Opposition's Differing Approach

Grauby La Voix de l'Est:
Mr. Lewis's attitude seems to many Canadians more sensible, more logical and more realistic than that of Mr. Diefenbaker. The former Conservative leader has reaffirmed his determination not to make their task easy.

Evidently Mr. Stanfield would not go so far as to recommend to his party that it vote against the anti-poor government measures, because to act in this way would diminish its credibility, but he will neglect nothing in attempting to overturn the government at the first available opportunity.

This attitude is understandable. For the Conservative leader the Liberals are unnerves, they are back in power. He says he has more people than Mr. Trudeau to form the government.

But above all these aspirations, however legitimate— Mr. Stanfield has been very close to being in power Oct. 30— there is the well-being of the country, the welfare of the people.

If Mr. Stanfield forgets this in his parliamentary strategy, he risks losing points in the next election. This has happened in the past. One does not overthrow a government for the sole purpose of taking power.

The instability of the government and the Parliament is too costly for the country not to assure the party in power a minimum of time to act.

If the Conservatives were in power, the opposition would have to show their confidence and give them a chance to prove themselves before considering overthrowing them.

For this reason, Mr. Lewis's attitude seems more logical and realistic because, while refusing a coalition with the Liberals, he feels "morally obligated to give them a chance to do something."

Schreyer Prepares For Vote

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Ed Schreyer told Manitoba New Democrats Sunday to be prepared for a provincial general election campaign in which the government will be attacked on everything from industrial management to welfare abuse.

With the election expected in 1973, Mr. Schreyer said party members must draw attention to the general acceptance of Manitoba's government-run automobile insurance scheme and defend efforts to develop industry in the rural areas.

He said the practice of granting welfare assistance to the able-bodied should be re-examined. Able-bodied people who refuse to work shouldn't get the same consideration that is rightly extended by society to the aged or the infirm.

Talk of widespread welfare abuse is "a bunch of nonsense," he said.

"It's not a great problem in numbers, but it is a problem psychologically. . . . We can't blindly go on as we have been doing for the last 10 years."

Some of the 500-odd people at tending the provincial annual convention groaned when Mr. Schreyer referred to instance of welfare money being spent on liquor instead of groceries, but the premier said these cases have to be faced.

"It isn't enough to show magnanimity," he said, adding a partial solution might be to put welfare payments on a weekly instead of a monthly basis to ensure that more of the public money goes "to sustain the wife and family in foodstuffs."

Mr. Schreyer expressed his concern about welfare abuse while speaking in support of a resolution advocating a general increase in welfare payments to meet higher living costs. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

He came back to the theme in a short talk after his return by acclamation as party leader and said the welfare abuse issue has been given more publicity than it deserves.

He said Dr. Clarence Barbed of the University of Manitoba is expected to make public in a week or 10 days the welfare study the last legislature session asked be made.

Jobless Insurance To Change

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — Changes in the unemployment insurance act are coming, but what exactly they will be is still unknown.

Manpower Minister Robert Andras confirmed Saturday that legislation to amend the act will be placed before the Commons after it meets Jan. 4, although he would not give any specific details.

He said a number of areas of the act are being explored including the length of waiting periods and benefits for those who leave jobs voluntarily, without cause.

He stressed that the generosity of the program must be preserved for those who need it, while eliminating from the rolls those who try to take advantage of the program.

Mr. Andras has already announced higher contributions by employees and employers, to take effect Jan. 1.

At that time, the ceiling for Insurable earnings will rise to $100 from $150, with total employer-worker contributions rising to $2.40 per week for each $100 of insurable earnings. Previously, the maximum contribution per $100 was $2.26.

This step will, it is hoped, add an extra $100 million to the insurance fund during 1973.

The total cost of the program for 1972 is expected to reach $2 billion.

Mr. Andras has said the administration of the program needs drastic overhaul, but he doesn't want to over-react to criticism of the system.

He has cited housewives and students, who join the labor force on what amounts to a temporary basis and then draw benefits, as examples of persons for which the program was not intended.

Duty to Serve

OTTAWA (CP) — Retired Canadian diplomat and ambassador, Chester Ronning, said Sunday that Canada has a duty to take part in a supervisory peace commission in Vietnam.

"We have an experience through which we can make a very important contribution," Mr. Ronning told callers to the CBC's network radio open-line show Cross-Country Checkup, which originated in Winnipeg.

Disagreements Go to Heart of War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The disagreements Henry Kissinger says are holding up a Vietnam settlement are more than problems of semantics. They go to the heart of what the war is about and make it unlikely there will be peace any time soon.

The remaining two issues concern the political control of the South. In other words, should South Vietnam be guaranteed the right of an existence independent of North Vietnam?

Kissinger, in his first public discussion of the negotiations with the North Vietnamese since his Oct. 26 statement that "peace is at hand," refused to discuss the substance of the troublesome details, but commented broadly at his Saturday news conference.

"We wanted," he said, "some reference in the agreement, somewhat, however elusive, however indirect, which would make clear that the two parts of Vietnam would live in peace with each other and that neither side would impose its solution on the other by force."

North Vietnam always has insisted there is only one Vietnam and the Saigon regime has subverted the 1954 Geneva agreement ending the war with France by insisting on a separate life.

In Hanoi's eyes, the demilitarized zone at the 17th parallel is not a permanent international boundary but only a temporary truce marker.

In the first of the nine points outlined in the tentative agreement in October, the United States agreed to language that seemed to support this view:

"The United States respects the independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of Vietnam as recognized by the 1954 Geneva agreements."

Both sides now say the October agreement was final on this point, and now each accuses the other of recanting.

The United States now is seeking enough political stability to provide a "decent interval" between the end of the fighting and any resumption of conflict, giving South Vietnam time to establish itself in the countryside and the United States time to escape the blame for a Viet Cong ally.

Kissinger is also said to be anxious of his ally it and when the conflict resumes.

Hanoi wants a ceasefire with a loose understanding of the political agreement so it can continue its military support of its

Magnetic Oil Tagging

A technique that would "seed" seagoing oil shipments with invisible magnetic tags so that polluters could be identified has been developed by scientists at General Electric research and development center, Schenectady, N.Y. Every tanker load would be "tagged" with a batch of magnetic dust particles. Each batch would have slightly different magnetic properties from each other and the properties would be registered as a code. In the event of an oil spill the magnetic particles could be retrieved, analyzed and the source vessel identified. GE researchers Dr. Ami E. Berkowitz, left, Joseph A. Lahut and William H. Meiklejohn, right, demonstrate with a magnet how the particles would be collected for decoding on a temperature monitor, background, a device for recording magnetic behavior of particles. (CP Photo)

Government Undecided On Capital Punishment

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Warren Allmand says the government has yet to decide what sort of bill it will put before Parliament to replace the soon-to-expire legislation banning hanging for all but a few murderers.

Interviewed on the CTV television network program Question Period, taped Friday for Sunday showing, Mr. Allmand said he hoped Parliament would deal with the issue "as soon as possible."

Capital punishment was suspended for a five-year trial period in 1967 for all crimes but the murder of police and prison guards. The trial period ends Dec. 30 this year.

A report on capital punishment commissioned by the solicitor-general's department from criminologist Ezzat Abdel Fattah of Montreal, released Friday, says reintroduction of hanging cannot be justified on the basis of murder statistics compiled since the 1967 suspension.

The country goes back to the old law under which a person can be hanged for capital murder when the suspension ends Dec. 29. The cabinet can commute death sentences under that law.

Mr. Allmand, recently appointed to the portfolio, says the government is "looking at different alternatives" with respect to what should be put in any new legislation dealing with capital punishment.

Then you'll need the convenience of a copier. If a lot of people make a lot of copies, consider the 68R. It makes the first copy in four seconds. So people won't waste their time waiting for copies.

Our 625 copier is an economical solution for small volume needs. Yet it has many features found in more expensive copiers. It's the father/son design to keep your original safe, outside the copier.

Do you want the best combination of quality and economy?

If you need lots of copies, but don't need offset quality, a Mimeograph System is the answer. It requires a smaller investment than offset. You can make stencils directly from your original using a 585 stencil burner which lets you reproduce drawings and photos. And the 700 mimeograph can run copies in several colors.

Childhood Emphasized At Christmas Time

By JOANNE MacKENZIE
Staff Reporter

Christmas.

Even the mere mention of the word sparks a number of responses in the individual. Some think of all the gifts to buy and all the money spent, others think of receiving the gifts and borrowing the money, still others look forward to family get-togethers and Christmas dinners.

Not to mention those who take a "bah, humbug" attitude.

Primarily though, it is a time for children and their restless nights before Christmas.

How does Christmas affect the child?

Rick Williams, a psychology teacher at Loyalist College, commented on the aspects of the season that he feels may affect the child.

The positive aspect, he says is the temporary suspension of norms. "We become a classless society, and we become childlike ourselves; there is an internal warmth about Christmas."

It also teaches the child about his extended family and gives him a perspective of the generations; in fact this yearly gathering of the clan is "almost a treat for a youngster".

The neutral aspect of Christmas is that "the only way a child can sometimes relate to the season is materialistically." In an effort to get what he wants, a child will control his behavior for a month before the big event, and make sure his good behavior is noticed. On a small level he is learning a "con type" message.

What about the negative aspect? That may lie, says Mr. Williams, in the fact that Santa Claus perhaps is a preparation for disillusionment and we may do children a disservice by building up these fantastic images. On the other hand it may also be a symbol of growth and a way of teaching a child of a truer reality.

Of course, views differ, just as attitudes toward Christmas differ. But there does seem to be a particular mystique about the season, even though each year it may take longer to feel it.

In spite of all the paraphernalia and seductive toy selections" the parades and the grand build-up of that one special day, there is that feeling of universality.

As Rick Williams added: "Maybe the child understands better than we do the meaning of Christmas; the love, must have a meaning for Christmas, perhaps it is that the child in each of us emerges. This could be the time of year we should sit back and learn from the kids."

Wellman's WI Presents Concert

RAWDON — Wellman's Women's Institute sponsored an old fashioned Christmas concert about former public school days.

Mrs. John Carlise, president and her committee donated the hall for the community presentation.

Lyle Walker welcomed everyone. Rev. W. C. Cox was chairman. The Christmas program followed which included recitations, drills and songs.

Mrs. Jim Pollock and Mrs. Jody Sager were in charge of the senior group for the public school presentation. William McKinnon directed the younger class who entertained with Mrs. Gerald Clancy as pianist.

Brenda Rainie gave the closing recitation.

Men Seniors Serve Food For Yule Dinner

TWEED — Tweed Senior Citizens Club No. 309 held their Christmas dinner and party Wednesday December 13.

More than 90 members partook of the Christmas meal served by the men. The women did dishes. The Christmas message and devotional was given by Rev. Virgil Earl of St. James Anglican Church where the dinner and party was held.

Charles Forritt was graciously thanked for driving to Belleville to get the ordered chicken for the dinner.

During the short business meeting which followed the dinner, it was reported that the convener of the sick committee, Mrs. Jennie Moffat, was ill and unable to attend.

A quantity of uneaten chicken was sold to the members and the profits were sent to the Salvation Army to aid in the goodwill baskets at Christmas.

The silver collection taken was donated to a worthy cause. During the entertainment, the Salvation Army Band of Tweed, The Kozy Kove Singers, the St. Carthagh's Young Choir, under the direction of Sister Reta, Ron LaVallee on guitar, Doris Brady and her violin performed. Dorothy Goode sang a solo and Christmas carol sing songs were enjoyed.

Following the entertainment, it was announced that the next meeting for Club 309 will be held Dec. 27, when the new president, S. Arthur McCarey will begin his term of office.

Is Silent Sam Pouting Or Just "That Way"?

Dear Doris: Before marriage my son-in-law and daughter worked for the same firm, got along reasonably well. But there were times when he would ignore her for days, then turn up with chocolates and apologies.

Now it seems he talks even less. I asked his sister how they handled his long silences and she said they just ignored him. But my girl cries about it; and I am worried about their marriage.

I know you say people have to talk. How do you manage this, when one of them is such a — Silent Sam?

Dear Silent: Is it just silence, or is it pouting? Your daughter's concern suggests she finds herself unkindly isolated. There are some silences that are full of friendship!

They do need to talk. And she needs help in drawing him out. Perhaps he is withdrawing into himself too much for good mental health, let alone good human relations.

My two leaflets, right on this subject, are on their way to you. They are "Why Suffer in Silence!" and "Why Not See a Counselor?" And I am sending you the address of a counselor near your daughter.

(Note to Readers: If your difficulty is in getting down to the nitty-gritty with your chosen one, or airing what's biting you, write in for these leaflets. In care of this newspaper, enclosing 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Dear Doris: My husband likes to drink, but when he does, he likes an argument.

If I ignore him, not talk to him at all, he doesn't drink. Yet when after making love, and we are speaking, he wants me to satisfy his pleasure. We have no life together and also we have two boys 13 and 11.

I just don't know what to do. I'm a Christian, he isn't; but this happened after I married. — Puzzled and Heartsick.

Dear Heartsick: When you don't talk, he fears your displeasure and the loss of his physical satisfaction. Once satisfied, he turns to his other appetite, drink, for further indulgence.

There is deep emotional turmoil here, which shows itself when he restlessly picks a fight. It may go back to an unhappy childhood and a conviction that the world is against him. It may be a rejaculation that you are both unhappy about your marriage to each other.

In any case, no one letter from anybody will provide the key. Try opening up the subject with him; remind him of the love you once had; look at your own changed attitude.

And seek professional counseling — which had gone to a marriage like yours back on track.

Dear Doris: I work in an office with eleven other employees. One of this group has the most obnoxious habits. He sniffs, snorts, spatters, hacks and makes like he is going to spit continuously. It is especially annoying during lunch break.

How can I tell this fellow that I find these habits intolerable, without offending him? He offends everyone in the office. — D.F.U.

Dear D.F.U.: Personal habits like this can drive a nearby worker to distraction. Yet he probably does not even know he does it.

You feel strongly enough. Try this: "Joe, we are concerned about you. All the time you have trouble with that cough of yours and it might just mean something serious." Which it might. Ask if he has seen a doctor about it.

This could hardly offend him; and if it helped him to become conscious of it, he might either stop it or see a doctor. Or, eventually, both!

(Talking it over helps. Write to Doris for help with your dilemma, care of this newspaper.)

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Does motherhood age a woman?

NOT necessarily, in a physical or a mental sense. Many a young mother seems even younger after her baby has started to walk and talk than she did before the child was born. She will often have an air of greater maturity and confidence. This could come from her ability to provide for the physical and emotional development of her child as well as from the realization that she and her husband can buckle down to their role as heads of a family.

Are some things too much of a bargain?

YES, if they are absolutely free. Let some hi-fi enthusiast, for instance, come across a demonstration record that costs only a dollar or two because a manufacturer wants to make a sales pitch. The purchaser happily but impatiently waits to get home to try it. If, however, the record is given to him for nothing, he will hesitate—perhaps he won't play it at all because he doesn't want to take the time and effort to test it.

Must a husband be prepared to argue?

NO; it's wasted motion, even if a husband has marshaled all his facts and persuasive points to back up his view in a running argument he has been having with his wife. It doesn't matter what the issue is. All he knows is that his case can be prepared by a Perry Mason; still his wife can devastate his entire argument with her own logic that will settle the matter with a finality from which there is no appeal.

Ann Landers

Teacher Wasn't Scarf Not Cheap Cologne

Dear Ann Landers: It's pretty thin-skinned people who are late to tell people what to do about Christmas gifts, but maybe if you print this-letter, they'll remember next year.

I liked your suggestion that the members of a congregation or parish get together and pay tribute toward a summer vacation for their ministers and his family — rather than give him fruit cakes, cookies and candy equivalent to 30,000 calories for each member of the family. How sensible!

As a former school teacher, may I suggest that the homeroom mother ask the other mothers to pitch in for one nice silk scarf rather than allow the teacher to become the helpless victim of 28 bottles of cheap colnogne. The teachers of America will love you forever, Ann. —One Who Knows

Dear One: Here's your letter, too late for this year, but worth printing. I wonder who many mothers who are reading it gave their child's teacher colognе?

Dear Ann Landers: Your uncanny mechanism for sniffing out the truth failed you. I hope you'd clobber the idiot who said, "It's the wife's fault if her husband cheats." She then went on to describe her neighbors and the justifiably fact that every one of their husbands had proposed to her. Well, let her read Dear Ex: There are at least two sides to every story and you told yours well, indeed. Thanks for sounding off.

Dear Ann Landers: What's wrong with my romance? Hal and I argue all the time. He gets mad if I beat him at tennis or Scrabble. He criticizes me in front of friends. He'd rather die than give me a compliment. Hal says we're the small talkers for him, but when I ask him to do something he says he's no errand boy. He wants to get married in April. What do you think? — T.

Dear T.: The most vital ingredient in any marriage is friendship. You and Hal don't sound like friends to me. Unless you can both get on the same team, forget about marriage. You'd be fighting constantly.

Baby Daughter in Crib Attends Parent's Wedding

SELAITYN, England (AP) — Lori Harlech, friend of the late president John F. Kennedy and a former British ambassador in Washington, went to a wedding here carrying the month-old baby girl of the bride and groom.

The bride was Harlech's daughter, Victoria, 26, and the groom was Julian Lloyd, 25, son of an English landowner. They lived together for some time in a commune and said the idea of getting married never occurred to them, until their daughter, Poppy, was born.

Then, Victoria said, married seemed like a good idea".

They would not like to do anything which could be a handicap to Poppy later in life."

Lord and Lady Harlech returned from abroad for the ceremony Friday at the village church here and arrived with only 10 minutes to spare. They carried Poppy in a portable straw crib each holding one handle.

Special Sandwiches For Astronauts

HOUSTON (AP) — On their way home the Apollo 17 astronauts are eating sandwiches of a specially treated ham which some day may help feed the hungry of the world.

It's called irradiated ham and the experts say it tastes much better than it sounds. And though it's not yet ready or approved for supermarket shelves, they say it's potential value is that it will not spoil for several years, even under a hot sun.

"It's important not to Apollo so much as to food technology and feeding the world," said Dr. Malcolm Smith, chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's branch of food and nutrition.

With bacteria and other agent which might cause spoilage destroyed by radiation, the food will last three to five years without refrigeration, he said. This would some day aid backward countries.

To create irradiated meat, processors expose it to an atomic isotope strong enough to kill bacteria, but not strong enough to make it harmful to eat.

Aboard Apollo 17 the ham is in slices so that it can be eaten in sandwiches with either white or rye bread.

Man Is Stranded Three Weeks On Island in Severn River

SEVERN FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police say a 45-year-old Toronto man, rescued Sunday after being stranded since Nov. 22 on an island in the Severn River, survived on six onions, four potatoes and some tea bags and water.

An air-sea search and rescue helicopter from Uplands Airport near Ottawa plucked James Harold Turner from his cottage after he was found by a trapper Saturday.

Clarence Marshall, the trapper from this community about 25 miles northwest of Orillia, trudged five miles on snowshoes after friends of Turner found that his boat and motor were missing.

Mr. Marshall said he found Turner huddled with four small electric stoves and smoking rolled up leaves.

"I didn't really think I was going to find anyone," said Mr. Marshall. "So I easily packed a light lunch.

"But he certainly gobbled up my lettuce sandwiches and a package of candy I had.

Mr. Marshall said Mr. Turner went to his cottage with a boat and motor on Nov. 22 but could not leave the next day as planned because the river froze over.

He was unable to break the ice the two miles to open water. With no roads in the area, he decided to wait at the cottage.

Mr. Marshall said his trapping took him to the same area 10 days ago.

"There was not a hill between us, but I didn't know he was there and he didn't know I was there," he said.

The trapper said he was able to reach Mr. Turner by crossing the thin ice with snowshoes, which spread his weight.

"When I got there he was too weak to come out with me," said Mr. Marshall. "I went back and told the provincial police."

Police at the Midland detachment said Mr. Turner refused medical attention after being flown back to Severn Falls.

Shortly after he arrived, he went to see Jim and Margaret Kirby, who operate a restaurant.

"He had lost a lot of weight," said Mrs. Kirby. "We gave him three bowls of homemade vegetable soup and that seemed to perk him up a bit."

"He told us that he made an onion soup last week and had been surviving on that."

She said she didn't think he could have survived much longer.

"Thank God Clarence was able to get over there and reach him," she said. "We thought he was back in Toronto and just forgot to say goodbye."

Mr. Turner could not be reached. He was en route to Toronto to stay with relatives.

Six Die as Plane Hits Buffalo House

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Six persons died Saturday when a twin-engine Cessna slammed into two homes in suburban Cheektowaga shortly after a takeoff from Buffalo International Airport in heavy snow.

Three of the victims were aboard the plane. The other three were among five persons in the homes at the time of the crash.

Richard Rebadow, general manager of the airport, said the twin-engine plane had just taken off on a flight to Allentown, Pa., when the pilot reported engine trouble.

He said the plane was turning to try to return to the airport when the crash occurred.

The plane cut through a string of power lines on utility poles behind a row of homes a mile south of the airport, smashed into one house, then plowed into the front of another house across the street.

The Erie County medical examiner's office identified the dead as Theodore M. Cleero of East Stroudsburg, Pa., pilot of the plane; E. Everett McNamara, a passenger, whose address was not immediately known; Gerald Porter, also a passenger, address n ot immediately determined; Antoinette Nowiziak, 47, who lived in one of the houses; her daugher, Elizabeth, 14, and Mrs. Nowiziak's son Steven Jr., 34.

Mrs. Nowoziak's husband, Steven, and Mrs. Harry Davis, who lived in the second house, were taken to hospital.

The Nowoziak home caught fire and was heavily damaged by the flames.

The plane plowed half way into the Davis home with only the back of the fuselage and the tail protruding from the house. Neither the plane nor the Davis home caught fire.

He'll Finish World Trip Only Twenty Years Late

TORONTO (CP) — Jan Paltins and a fellow Swede set out to sail around the world in 1949 in a 25-foot yacht.

But their hopes of completing the trip were dashed when they were detained and deported by United States immigration authorities after a stop in Los Angeles for yacht repairs.

Now, 23 years later, Mr. Paltins is to complete the second leg of his dream — a commercial flight across the Pacific from Los Angeles to Hawaii, Fiji, Australia, New Zealand, and Tahiti.

Mr. Paltins, 57, now living in Toronto, said Sunday he hasn't had a vacation in 20 years and the $2,500 trip "will be well worth it."

"I've been dreaming about those places for all those years. I'll be away for 29 days—exactly the time it took us to cross the Atlantic in the Polaris."

Polaris, a $7,000 custom built yacht, carried the men to Britain, Spain, Tangiers, Casablanca, the Canary Islands and across the Atlantic to Barbados in 1949 and 1950.

In the Caribean the yacht was heavily damaged by a storm.

They sailed through the Panama Canal, but in November 1950 had to be towed 1,000 miles to Los Angeles for repairs.

Mr. Paltins said the official reason for their deportation seven months later was that they had no visas.

Still Missing

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — A three-day ground search near Poplar River, Man., for a helicopter and four men missing since Nov. 3 ended Sunday without success.

Bruce Dunlop, a geologist from The Pas who organized the ground search, said his group of about 30 men, aided by a Canadian Armed Forces helicopter from Edmonton, covered an area south and east of Poplar River believed to be the most likely place where the helicopter went down.

Right Speech, Wrong Audience

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — That was a nice speech Joe Hopper gave. Too bad he had the wrong audience.

Hopper, administrative assistant to Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn, spoke in Memphis to what he believed was an assembly of West Tennessee's recently-elected mayors.

"I remember thinking that a lot of mayors must have gotten beat since I talked to them last year," Hopper said here Saturday. "I didn't recognize anybody, and they all looked pretty blank."

No wonder. Hopper was talking to a class of plumbers.

"I'm the trapper who found you," he told them.

Switch Favors Local Choice

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Ontario Hydro has taken a complete about face in their policy of selection of land for a proposed power "corridor" linking Lennox generating station to the central Pickering nuclear station.

Spurred by findings of other commissions working on similar problems of land use across southern Ontario, Ontario Hydro has scrapped five alternative routes and has left much of the decision-making up to the municipalities in the path of the line.

Environmental issues have become primary in the path of the line, with Ontario Hydro seeking the advice of all affected areas.

Dave Robinson, public relations spokesman for Hydro said, "there are possibly environmentally sensitive areas in each municipality that we would not be aware of".

Mr. Robinson proposes a series of public meetings where these areas could be discussed.

The 500,000 volt line is the connector between major generating stations in the east of the province and the core of the hydro complex in the Toronto area.

Last March Ontario Hydro proposed five routes and were met with "good feedback" from area residents.

"In the past we would do our own studies of an area and decide what path would most benefit the municipalities, said Mr. Robinson.

With increased public awareness of the environmental issue, it has become necessary to dissolve the early portion of the program and go back to the first phase.

Commonwealth Associates, an environmental consulting firm, has been commissioned to investigate the lake shore between Napanee and Pickering to find two or three broad areas which could possibly contain a 610-foot-wide power corridor.

When their survey is completed, Ontario Hydro will take the findings to municipalities in the heart of the route to discuss individual needs.

Once feedback is received from the town and cities we will make a composite of all the priorities and "marry them together" for one overall plan, said the hydro spokesman.

The new emphasis on environmental protection came after the Solands Commission inquiry into a similar project starting at the eastern lip of Lake Erie stretching north to Toronto and on to Pickering.

At that time it was urged that a priority be placed on disturbing as little of the natural environment as possible.

The line must be completed within four years, said a hydro spokesman. At that time the Lennox station will be capable of providing the necessary 500,000 volts.

The line will cost $1-million a-mile and the, expected length will be anywhere from 90 to 100 miles.

'I Want Mommy'

Fat and jolly is not always a happy combination. One - and - a - half - year old Erica Smith hasn't had much experience with Santa Claus and wasn't too happy about the latest meeting sponsored by the Trenton Firemen. Santa put smiles on faces later as he distributed presents to the 30 children of firefighters.

Administrators Get in Tune

Administrative staff of Hastings County Board of Education are getting into the Christmas act in city schools.

They are joining school choirs three times this week in carol sing-songs at Harry J. Clarke, Queen Victoria and Queen Alexandra schools.

Everyone from director of education, Eric Runacres, to custodians and secretaries from the four administrative buildings — 208 Bridge St. East, 23 College St., the Avondale plaff department and the instructional media centre in Trenton — are gathering at the schools to join pupils in their morning opening exercises.

About 20 members of the administrative staff were on hand Monday morning at Harry J. Clarke for the holiday sing-song.

Cedars Suggested For Deer Fodder

This is the feeling of Thurlow Deputy Reeve Borden Forsythe who tossed out the suggestion at the year-end meeting of the Authority.

Mr. Forsythe said production of cedar oil was taking considerable cedar bough growth which the deer population to a great extent depend on for winter forage.

Authority secretary treasurer James McLeod replied that the' Authority had already commenced a cedar planting program which he hoped would be continued.

This year's planting of cedars was intended for the Thurlow Wildlife Areat east of Foxboro, but due to high water conditions entry to the planting area had been impossible and instead the trees were planted at the Col. Vandervaeer Area at Thomasburg.

Highway 14 Opens Up

The fast - developing Highway 14 route leading north out of the city is gaining another commercial outlet.

It is the previously announced new store and warehouse of Chemeq's Furniture now under construction on the east side of North Front Street just south of the Belleville Livestock Sales.

Foundation for the $260,000 structure with 26,000 feet of floor space was commenced some weeks ago by the general contractor Cornerstone Builders Ltd., of Belleville. The brick faced structure will be one storey with mezzanine floor.

Ameliasburgh Assessment Blossoms

AMELIASBURGH — The township's total assessment is in the eight figure category ($21,368,000) and getting bigger all the time.

In 10 years since the early 60's the increase has been more than 50 per cent and almost entirely in construction of residential and cottage lot and accommodation.

And the strong, steady growth continues as evidenced in building inspector Harry Bisdee's report for November to the 1972 council's regular December meeting this week.

Building starts for November represented $98,000 in construction already ahead of the report let in 1971. Without December's figures permits issued so far this year amounts to $1,600,000 in new construction.

And by 1973 when this impressive sum is added to the assessment roll council will have approximately $23 million from which to derive revenue for the operation of the municipality.

Railroader Protest Defused, CN Firemen Moving to Toronto

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Operations at Canadian National's Belleville yards returned to normal during the weekend, as dissident railroaders ended a two-day protest of job transfers.

The protest move was defused Saturday after management and railroaders reach an agreement, ending lengthy talks spurred last Thursday when firemen and engineers suddenly began booking sick.

The action followed a dispute centering on the proposed transfer of seven firemen from Belleville to Toronto.

Railroads claimed the move would cost them money. Resident in Belleville, they would have to pay lodging and transportation costs while working Toronto assignments. Fears about loss of seniority also were expressed.

George Van de Water, CN Rideau area manager, said the men would go to Toronto in the new year. The out-of-pocket expenses issue would be the subject of "further discussion."

A spokesman for the railroaders said differences were "settled temporarily" and "tentative agreements" had been reached at final talks Saturday afternoon.

"The issue is dead as far as we're concerned, for the moment," he added. But there would be further talks with the company.

Publicity, representatives of the protest group remained anonymous, since, they said, the walkout was without official union sanction and was a "rank - and - file" movement.

The men involved were members of the United Transportation Union and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The protest climaxed the dispute with management over the transfers, believed the first involving Belleville firemen since railroad work patterns were reorganized with diesilization 15 years ago.

About 140 firemen and engineers were claimed off the job after the walkout Thursday.

Supervisory personnel — some from the Montreal area — were used to help keep operations running. Some freight schedules were disrupted but passenger services were not affected, CN officials said.

The book-off brought both sides together in talks that lasted throughout Friday. Saturday, discussions resumed, with the railroaders' spokesman reporting back to the protest group by early afternoon — a meeting which agreed the back-to-work move.

Cement Workers Disputing Labor Council Presidency

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Two cement union locals have withdrawn from the Quinte District Labor Council and a third is threatening to quit over what the locals term a conflict of interest by council president - elect Daug Sword.

Local 219 of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International became the second body to resign from the council last Tuesday. The workers from Canada Cement Lafarge joined Local 387 at Lake Ontario Cement which announced its withdrawal Nov. 19.

They are protesting the fact that Mr. Sword, who becomes council president Jan. 1, is also president of PACE (People Against a Contaminated Environment). The anti-pollution agency has expressed opposition to sand-drawing operations at Lake Ontario Cement, a position the locals feel jeopardizes jobs at the Picton cement company.

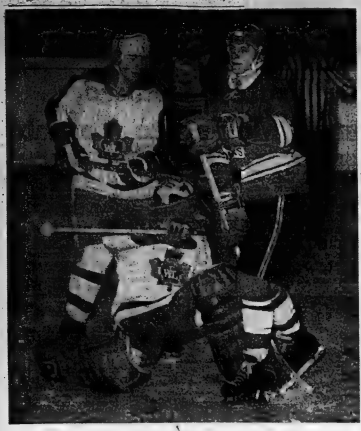
Local 424 at Wilson Concrete wants to discuss the conflict with Mr. Sword before taking a withdrawal vote, President Art Stapley and chief steward Bill Fox both said in telcons with GDLC's next meeting Jan. 9.

Speaking on behalf of the locals, the union's Ontario representative Donald Burshaw said this morning there is no way the workers can "support a man with a conflict of interest." He blamed PACE for the recent slowdown of operations at Lake Ontario Cement, claiming "they have been the ones to start the whole thing."

Mr. Burshaw, president of the Belleville and District Labor Council before its amalgamation with Trenton, said he is going to request that the Canadian Labor Congress become involved in a hearing over the matter. A meeting is being planned, probably for January, to which Mr. Sword, cement union representatives and CLC officials will be invited.

"We're not out to destroy the Quinte District Labor Council," said Mr. Burshaw. "But we feel they have certain responsibilities to better the lot of the working man."

Mr. Sword maintains he is innocent on the conflict of interest charge. He says he has no desire to see cement workers lose their jobs and would like to see them transferred in an alternate site in Prince Edward County.



One incident that led to Local 387's resignation was a GDLC vote May 11 to send a letter to the Ontario Federation of Labor recommending that Lake Ontario Cement "be allowed to remove blown sand only and not touch the original dunes." Mr. Sword was the labor council member to vote against the motion, claiming the entire Sandbanks is composed of wind-blown sand.

Mr. Sword points out that he seconded a motion last June 13 by Ron McGuinness, Local 387's representative to the council, that a letter to the Ontario Federation of Labor take a stand on the Sandbanks issue.

Quintes Can't Beat Pennington

Belleville Quintes took the sting out of Galt Hornet's potent Senior A hockey scoring attack Saturday, but still couldn't manage a victory.

The Quintes held the league leaders to a pair of goals, but those tallies were enough as they parlayed Brent Pennington's shutout goaltending into a 2-0 win.

Pennington kicked aside 36 shots by the visitors to record his initial shutout of the season. Kent Bagnell stopped 36 of the 40 drives directed his way in the Belleville nets.

Both goalies made a number of outstanding saves.

Bruce Reiter opened the scoring at 11.38 of the second period when he slipped loose from his check to take Mac Westgate's pass and, cruise in to beat Bagnell.

The other Galt marker came at 8.17 of the third with Bill Hway scoring on a similar type of play.

The Quintes had a number of chances to tie the game, but Bob Taylor and Dan Piotrowski missed good scoring chances while George Godson was robbed on a great save by Pennington.

Belleville successfully killed both minor penalties that the team was assessed while Galt's penalty killing unit was called upon three times.

Waxers Bury Bobcats

By AL ZABAS
Staff Sportswriter

The Belleville Bobcats ended up on the short end of the score while the Markham Waxers ran out of scoreboard in Metro Junior "B" hockey action Sunday.

The Memorial Arena scoreboard proved to be too short for the Markham team as they trounced the Bobcats 13-5. The eight goal margin is the largest the Belleville team has lost by this season and the largest the waxers have won by. The Bobcats' loss record moves closer to their number of wins with an 8-8-4 record. Bobcat goalie Bob Moore played one of the worse games he has this season as he let in six of eight Markham shots in the first period. John Burnside did little better against the bigger Markham team as he failed to stop seven Waxer shots in the last two periods.

Though the Bobcats outshot the Waxers 10-8 in the first, 16 - 11 in the second, 13 - 11 (third), it took the 'Cats till 10:03 of the first period to count a goal. Rick Meagher tallied Belleville's first goal against Paul Crowley's single and two of centre Bob Reder's, who scored a hat trick with the Waxer's first goal in period goal.

The third period saw most of the action in the penalty box as the Bobcats tallied 26 minutes and the Waxers 27 of a total of 100 throughout the game. Bobcats' defenseman Wally Dainard earned a minor, a five minute fighting major and a misconduct to put him out of the game.

Mark Coates earned a misconduct in the second while Meagher and Wayne McGeachy, who also received a game misconduct, tallied fighting penalties. McGeachy's Waxer sparring partner Brian Dillon also earned a game misconduct in what seemed more like a boxing rink than a hockey rink the entire third period.

Markham coach Bill White attributed his team's victory to a team effort, but he said that "the Bobcats are a good team.

"But you need discipline to be a championship club," said White, "and they (the Bobcats) don't have it. If they lose their composure when they're losing, then they're just not championship calibre. It's the coach's responsibility to keep his team in line."

Winger Bob Foster played a strong game for the Bobcats as he scored two goals and stayed outside the penalty box throughout the hard hitting contest. Centre Brian Cousins and winger Mike Watt tallied Belleville's other goals.

Markham's Terry McMillan, Bruce Marrett, Dillon and Crowley tallied two apiece for the Waxers while Andy Edgar and Bill Lukewich scored single goals.

Locicero Stops Bobcats' Shots

Markham goalie Mike Locicero did not have many goals enter his net in the Waxers 13-5 victory over the Belleville Bobcats, but he had to work for his win as juvenile call-up Jim Richardson waits for a rebound on a Rick Meagher shot. Waxer's defenseman Bill Bishop protects Locicero as did defensemen Steve Davies and Gord Uhrig throughout the gruelling Metro Junior "B" contest Sunday night.

City Bowlers Win Carlings

By AL ZABAS

Bea Hunt, who was leading in the women's Carling Five Pin Championship Tournament after 20 games, came out at the top of the field of women's bowlers after the final 10 games to earn the right to go to the Carlings provincial finals in Hamilton.

Mrs. Hunt, who has gone to the Carling final for the past four years, marked up a pinfallen record of 6969 over a field of 14 women to place in the individual event. The Belleville woman beat Trenton's Eagle Crossman by one and Connie Brewer in third over the 30 game competition.

Five of the women who played off for the travelling honors were Belleville residents. The women's team representing the Bay of Quinte zone in the 500-bowler competition in Hamilton consists of the first six women placed by while the mixed team's members come from the bottom three ladies.

Jan Moon of Trenton bowled for the first time in the Carling finals when she placed and came away sporting a top score of 7552 and an average of 252.

Moon, a former member of the Pare-Brewer branch of the Naval section of the Canadian Armed Forces out of Trenton, spent the last two years, at the time of the tournament in a cast.

Both years, he had broken his legs while parachute Jumping. "So really this is the first time I've been here, though I reserved the previous two," said Moon.

The men's competition was very close' said Moon. "Anyone of the top four could have taken first right up to the last three games. With the guys of the top on that list (individual standings you've always got trouble."

Kingston's Bill Fagan and Belleville's Art Bulder and Ron Saylor gave Moon a run for the money, but the Trenton bowler came out on top of the gathering of 34 men bowlers to earn an individual berth in Hamilton and a men's team spot.

Coaching the men's team will be Kingston's Bill Griffith, while Wally Knapp will guide the six member women's team in the provincial final. Jack Canning of Belleville will coach the mixed team composed of the last three of the nine women and the 19 men who won the playoff.

Falcons Flying

Terry Casselman and Ralph Bailey got the Falcons of the Northern Electric League off the ground Sunday as both members of the first place team scored hat tricks against the third place Yankees.

The Falcons trounced the Yankees 10-1 in their first win of the season as Casselman tallied two goals and assisted on three. Ted Soule marked up one, and assisted on three while Brian Rump earned one for the birdmen. Bill Goodfellow worked Yankees only goal by the Falcon's net minder.

Hat tricks appear to have come readily Sunday as both Dwight Rathwell for the Rebels and Jim Hagarty for the Bearcats each tallied the classic number. Larry Robson scored the Rebels' other goal in the 4-3 victory over the Bearcats.

Red Wings Fan Winning Flame

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Wings have begun to burn under take-it-easier training, where they only smouldered under rigid coaches themles instituted this year to enhance the National Hockey League Club's staying power.

After their fastest season start in 47 years, the Wings went into a tailspin. Last week Marcel Dionne, last year's rookie scoring sensation, and this season's top Detroit scorer, was suspended for missing a Sunday game with Vancouver Canucks.

Coach Johnny Wilson's future in Detroit was in doubt and the Red Wings continued to flounder in the East Division standing to the point they were just managing to hold fifth ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Red Wing picture may have changed during the week-end, however, with back-to-back victories at Toronto and at home Sunday against Minnesota North Stars.

The Wings turned back Toronto 4-3 and Minnesota 6-4 and Dionne—reinstated Wednesday—played a role in the double victories, scoring once in each game.

Elsewhere Sunday the scores were: Buffalo Sabres 4, Toronto Maple Leafs 3; Boston 5, Philadelphia Flyers 3; New York Rangers 9, Philadelphia Penguins 1; Chicago Black Hawks 2, Los Angeles Kings 0 and Atlanta Flames 4, New York Islanders 4.

In other Saturday games, Minnesota beat the Rangers 5-1, Philadelphia edged the Islanders 3-1, Buffalo slipped St. Louis Blues 4-3, Vancouver took California Golden Seals 4-3, Pittsburgh downed Atlanta 5-3 and Montreal Canadiens defeated Los Angeles 3-1.

Mickey Redmond engineered the Detroit win at home. A 42-goal scorer last season, Redmond tallied his 15th of the year in the first period then set up a 1-1 tie, then fed scoring passes to Al Karlander, Dionne and Berenson.

Wilson admitted after Saturday's game he was mildly surprised when the Wings forechecked Toronto into costly mistakes.

He said the team had altered its strategy somewhat after the Dionne incident had been cleared up.

"We haven't been on the ice since last Wednesday," Wilson said in a pre-game interview "and asked what his game preparations had been. He said the players had just loaded for three days.

Scoring

Phil Esposito of Boston regained the lead in National Hockey League scoring with a one-goal, two-assist performance in Philadelphia Sunday night. He now has 46 goals and 45 assists for 91 points, one more than Buffalo's Gilbert Perreault.

Hull Pays WHA Dividends

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Teams in the World Hockey Association anted up $1 million earlier this year to get Bobby Hull into the league, thereby robbing the rival National Hockey League of one of its biggest drawing cards.

Winnipeg Jets came across with another estimated $1.5 million to get the Golden Jet to sign.

Various court proceedings brought against the Chicago Black winger by his former employers, Chicago Black Hawks, kept Hull out of the ice rinks for several weeks.

But he's in full swing now and Sunday scored his 18th goal of the year and set up Wally Boyer's winner as Winnipeg edged New York Raiders 4-3 before 10,219 at Madison Square Garden—a record Raiders' home crowd surpassing by more than 3,500 the club's previous high.

Winnipeg, on an extended seven-game road trip, maintained its 12-point lead over Minnesota in the Western Division race after the Fighting Saints downed Houston Aeros 4-2.

In other Sunday games, Eastern division leading New England Whalers were surprised 6-3 by Philadelphia Blazers but continued to lead Cleveland by six points when the Crusaders were edged 3-2 by Quebec Les Nordiques.

Alberta Oilers finally found the winning formula, 3-1, over Ottawa Nationals and Rene Robert's Sharks tied Houston Aeros 4-4 in the other Sunday contests.

New England shelled Philadelphia 10-8 in a free-scoring game Saturday night.

Brian Bradley and Norm Ferguson sent the Raiders into a 2-0 lead before Chris Bordeleau, Hull, Mitt Black and Boyer beat New York goalie Ron Low.

BOBBY HULL

Keith Christiansen, former centre ace of the U.S. Olympic hockey team, powered the Fighting Saints' offence in front of 9,018 St. Paul, Minn., fans with two goals and an assist.

George Morrison and Bill Flett added the other Minnesota goals. Reg Fleming a and Rick Morris tied the game temporarily midway through the middle period.

Steve Herriman's three goals upset 10,460 Boston fans as the Blazers, last in the East, dominated the Eastern leaders.

Herriman's first two goals gave the Blazers a 2-0 lead before Whalers' lead was replied by Larry Pleau and Tom Webster. Danny Lawson gave Philadelphia the go-ahead goal and Herriman notched the winner early in the third.

Mike Boudreau and John Bennett each notched a score by Terry Caffery to complete the Blazers' rout.

Michel Parizeau and Alain Caron tallied in the third period as a penalty-filled contest before 5,617 at Quebec City to provide up a 1-1 contest with Cleveland.

Jean Payette for the Nordiques in the first period and Cleveland's Ron Buchanan in the second established the lead that ended with Parizeau's goal 28 seconds into the last period.

Twenty-eight minutes later, Caron notched the winner. Jim Pappin got one back for Cleveland at the 9:55 mark.

Cleveland's Paul Shmyr and Frank Golembrosky of Quebec squared off in the second period. Early in the third, a donnybrook was narrowly averted when John-Hanna and Ralph Haplavouti of the Crusaders and Quebec's Michel Rouleau and Pierre Guite did battle.

The four combatants were given misconduct penalties in addition to fighting majors.

Alberta Oilers—winners of only six of their last 18 games—had Jim Harrison back in the lineup after a month on the sidelines with a knee injury. Although the centre did not figure in the scoring, the Oilers appeared much sharper than they have in recent games.

Ross Perkins, Rusty Patenaude and Ed Joyal scored in front of 2,715 Edmonton fans. Steve Kasp's goal at 12:23 of the second period, that tied the score 1-1, was the lone Ottawa tally.

Gary Veneruzo's 18th goal of the season with less than five minutes remaining in regulation time set up the 4-4 overtime tie for 3,564 Houston fans.

Peter Slater, Howie Reggelad and Jim Mackenzie also tallied for the visiting Sharks in the first period. Mike Harris, d Hoekstra, Ted Taylor and Larry Lund replied for the Aeros.

Study Made Of Hockey Injuries

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A study of injuries among the estimated 75,000 hockey players registered between the ages of 15 and 21 has been undertaken by the Ontario Medical Association (OMA) with the objective of lessening injuries in the sport.

The final analysis of the two-year undertaking might recommend changes in equipment design and the physical structure of future ice surfaces, says Dr. D. E. Hastings, team physician of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League and a member of the OMA's sports medicine section, which is conducting the study.

The study group wants to assess the value of helmets, shoulder pads and other pieces of equipment. It also hopes to assess the relative danger of structures such as steel goal posts, the effect of the distance between the goal and the backboards and the arena boards behind.

"I have impressions the goal posts, play a very significant role in injuries although they do in professional hockey," the 30-year-old physician said in a telephone interview.

The study, financed by a $10,000 grant from the Physicians' Services Inc. Foundation, will concentrate on midget, juvenile and junior hockey because collectively it is considered the highest risk group in organized hockey.

Answers to questionnaires will be sought from coaches and managers and doctors treating injured players.

Vadnais In Fracas With Fan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Boston Bruins defenceman Carol Vadnais was suspended of the Bruins-Flyers National Hockey League game here Sunday night each tried to and the other arrested after an incident in second period.

Ryerson Mauserli, 57, of Harmonton, N.J., told police that Vadnais struck him and left thumb with a hockey stick. Mauserli was treated for cuts.

"I didn't touch him with my stick," Vadnais said. "But he grabbed my stick and punched me in the face.

"I just had my stick over the glass. I was just trying to tie up the puck."

Police said both men were advised that they would have to appear in municipal court if they want to seek warrants against each other.

Oaks May Fall Out

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The debt-ridden Oakville Oaks of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league will know next Friday whether they have a new lease on life.

Tony Gurski of Oakville and Brian Tuohy of nearby Mississauga will announce then whether they will buy the club, the team, which club president Gerry Hare says is $10,000 in debt.

Players have not been paid for the last four games and with a record of five wins against 15 losses, the club has been able to average only about half of the 1,200 home attendance needed to break even. The club is owned by various community groups.

The players met on Dec. 7 and set last Sunday as a final date for pay. They went down to a 6-3 defeat at the hands of Kingston Aces on the night of the deadline.

Hare introduced Gurski to the players and explained his promise to decide whether to offer to buy the team by Friday.

Hare also said he hoped to have some money for the players at practice Tuesday. He said the club would play its game scheduled Wednesday in Owen Sound.

Hornets Hold First Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Hornets have relied on a heavy-scoring attack to keep them in first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, but Saturday it was goaltender Sonny Pennington who made the biggest contribution.

Pennington picked up his first shutout of the season, stopping 31 shots, as the Hornets blanked Belleville Quintes 2-0.

In other games Saturday, Orillia Terriers trounced Owen Sound Downtowners 11-1 and Brantford Foresters nipped Barrie Flyers 5-3. Sunday, Kingston Aces downed the fi nanetally-troubled Oakville Oaks 6-3 and Barrie took Brantford 4-2.

In Barrie Saturday, the Flyers suffered their first home-ice loss of the season.

Terry Cook scored three goals for the winning Foresters and Jim Cochrane added two.

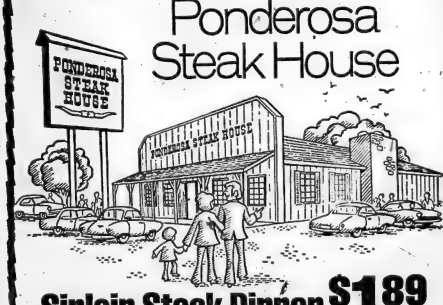
Selects Sink Laurentian

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Two goals within nine seconds during the first period spurred Moscow Selects to a 5-2 win over Laurentian University Voyageurs Sunday.

It was Moscow's fifth victory in their Ontario league tour and one was tied.

Voyageur fans had their hopes raised as Frank Hamill opened the scoring in the first minute's play and it took the Selects more than 18½ minutes to tie the score.

Laurentian slackened with the pace in the early minutes of the second period and the Russians took advantage to score two quick goals by Alexander Martuyuk and Viktor Shalimov, the last goal coming when they were a man short.



In the third period, the game was delayed for almost 10 minutes when Moscow's Yuri Shatalov picked up a 10-minute misconduct and then a game misconduct for disputing a call by referee Jim Ramsay.

Bill Best scored Laurentian's second goal at 5:48 of the third period while the Russians were playing one man short.

Moscow outshot Laurentian 44-33.

Unitas Plays Final Game

MIAMI (AP) — No. 19 heard the cheers one last time as he trotted into the Baltimore Colt huddle where he had been the No. 1 man for 16 years.

"It brought back tears and memories," said Miami coach Don Shula while watching his former star line up the Colts' offence against his Dolphins Saturday in the Orange Bowl.

But the final moment of glory for quarterback John Unitas was shortlived.

Unitas's second pass was intercepted and he went back to the sidelines and watched dejectedly as the Dolphins whipped the once-mighty Colts 16-0. With the victory, Miami ended its season at 14-0, best ever in the National Football League.

For the quarterback known to millions of fans as Johnny U., it was a sour finale to a career in which he passed for more touchdowns, 237, and more distance, nearly 22 miles, than any quarterback in NFL history.

"This probably has been the worst year I've ever spent in pro football," said Unitas as he stripped off his Colt uniform for the last time. "I don't plan to spend any others like it."

Unitas told reporters he was keeping a promise made earlier this season to end his career as a Colt player.

He said he would take his time deciding where to go. He didn't rule out the possibility of joining another NFL team or staying in the Colt organization, where he has a 10-year standing contract.

"It's up to me if I want to keep it (the contract)," said the 39-year-old Unitas.

"So far all the decisions have been made for me this season," he said. "Now I'm going to wait until July and make my own decision."

Unitas referred to the orders given by Colt general manager Joe Thomas, who early in the season fired coach Don McCafferty and told new coach John Sandusky to bench Unitas in favor of 25-year-old Marty Domres.

Unitas was only one of several former Colt stalwarts—another was running back Tom Matte—who found themselves passed by the team's youth movement.

Miami quarterback Earl Morrall, who helped lead the Dolphins to their perfect record after being cast off by the Colts after last season, took time out from his postgame exuberance to lament his former team-mate's plight.

"Johnny's still capable and can still do a great ob," said Morrall: "He was off to a real good year and then they set him down for the sake of youth. But oldtimers can still play football."

Unitas couldn't have agreed more.

"I haven't felt better in three or four years," he commented, wryly. "After all, I haven't done anything in the last nine weeks."

A Century of Progress

Miss Mabel Fitzgerald, 100 years old, is congratulated by Sir Alan Bullock, vice-chancellor of Oxford University, after she received her degree in Oxford—about 70 years late. When she passed her physiology examination with distinction at the turn of the century, women could not get degrees. Miss Fitzgerald travelled by ambulance from her home in North Oxford to the university's Convocation House. There, she received her reward, an honorary Master of Arts degree. (AP Photo)

ANAF Elections Just Around Corner

By ART HOBBS

It is easy to attend a meeting once every two months and sit back and criticize and even insult that dedicated group of comrades who give up their time to look after the interests of the Unit. How well they have done this speaks for itself when one looks at the new chairmen, well furnished and kept in good repair and also a very healthy state of their financial status.

It is noticed that these badmouthed barrack room lawyers never offer to run for office but content themselves by finding all the fault they can and starting malicious latrine-gossip trying to get the public to swallow the most ridiculous but, nevertheless, very nasty rumors.

The election of the executive is carried out in a democratic manner and any active member in good standing 18 months can run for office and after serving at least one full year on the executive as a chairman, is then eligible to run for one of the presidencies.

Either the general body is well satisfied with the way the duties are being carried out, or they are just willing to let George do it for there are only three chairmanships being contested.

Cde. Hal Curwain is running against the present incumbent, beverage room chairman A. H. Burns and Cde. Ken McLeod is running against George Woodhouse, sports chairman. Cde. Reg Feather-stone against incumbent W. Sarma. The elections will be held Thursday, Jan. 11.

Yet another link with the past passed away last week Wednesday December 13 when Cde. Jack Harrier who served with the Gordon Highlanders during the Boer War and World War I, quietly passed away in his 97th year. He was probably the oldest member of the association. He leaves a son and six grandchildren. Relatives and all members extend their sincere sympathy to Miss Fitzgerald in the loss of a loving father and grandfather.

By the time the next news is published, Christmas will be gone but, probably not forgotten. This correspondent joins with the executive in wishing all members a merry Christmas and health and happiness throughout the coming New Year and "long may yere lum reek."

The RCMP Centennial Calendars are now available at the Unit and are selling fast. They will make a wonderful souvenir of this grand body of men long after its use as a calendar is finished. Cde. Archie Jordan will be glad to serve you but don't wait too long if you want one.

Cdes. J. Carr, room 511 and J. R. Boyle, room 721 are in the Belleville General Hospital. Cde. Sid Get 5on is at Princess Margaret's Hospital in Toronto, and Cde. A. McKenna is in the Compensation Hospital in Toronto.

The consumer price index rose moderately to 142.3 in November, up from October's figure of 142.0

Statistics Canada reported Tuesday that this mainly reflected higher housing and clothing prices. The index, based on 1961 prices equalling 100, was 123.4 in November last year.

Steelers Win First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It took a long time, but we finally did it," said Art Rooney, only owner Pittsburgh Steelers have ever had.

The Steelers "finally" won their first National Football League title Sunday in the team's 40-year history.

"It (the wait) was worth it," the white-haired, 71-year-old Rooney said after the Steelers captured the American Football Conference's Central Division title with a 24-2 victory over San Diego Chargers.

The triumph gave the Steelers an 11-3 record, their best ever, and the homefield advantage in the playoffs, which begin next weekend.

The Steelers will entertain Oakland Raiders, AFC West champions, in the opening playoff game Saturday, at 1 p.m. EST.

Three hours later, San Francisco 49ers, champions of the National Football Conference West, will be host to the defending Super Bowl champion, Dallas Cowboys, the NFC's wild-card qualifier.

The opening round of the playoffs will be completed next Sunday, with Green Bay Packers, winner in the NFC Central, at Washington Redskins, champions of the NFC East, starting at 12 noon EST, and Cleveland Browns, the AFC's wild-card entry, at Miami Dolphins, the AFC East winner, beginning at 3 p.m. EST.

In other regular-season finales Sunday, Cleveland downed New York Jets 26-10, New jyork Giants thrashed Dallas 23-3, Buffalo Bills surprised Washington 34-17, Green Bay upended New Orleans Saints 30-20, Oakland topped Chicago Bears 28-21, Detroit Lions beat Los Angeles Rams 34-17, Kansas City Chiefs edged Atlanta Falcons 37-34, Cincinnati Bengals overwhelmed Houston Oilers 41-17, Denver Broncos battered New England Patriots 45-21, and St. Louis Cardinals nipped Philadelphia Eagles 34-23.

On Saturday, Miami completed a perfect season, blanking Baltimore Colts 16-0 and San Francisco nipped Minnesota Vikings 20-17.

Defense was the key to Pittsburgh's triumph. The Steelers forced the Chargers into seven turnovers, kept San Diego in its own territory for the entire first half and held Mike Garrett to five yards rushing.

Franco Harris and John Fuqua scored for the Steelers on two-yard runs, and Terry Bradshaw passed 17 yards to Ron Shanklin for another touchdown.

Cleveland's Mike Phipps passed for two touchdowns to Frank Pitts in the Browns' victory over the Jets.

The Giants gained 174 yards on the ground in Dallas' 47, totalled 175 yards passing to the Cowboys' 85 and sacked Dallas quarterbacks five times. Norm Snead passed for two New York touchdowns and Pete Gogolak kicked three field goals.

The Green Bay-New Orleans game was unusual in that the first three touchdowns resulted either directly or indirectly from blocked field goals and a blocked punt.

Washington, losing its second in a row after winning 11 of 12, was beaten when Buffalo's Jim Braxton scored from the four with 43 seconds remaining.

Powell Sparks Wilson Tykes

When Trevor Powell plays hockey, he takes his game seriously.

The Wilson Concrete tykes added eight goals in weekend OMHA action to the seven he garnered in last Saturday's game against Stirling.

Powell scored six in Wilson's 10-8 shutout victory over Stirling All - stars Saturday while his team mates Dannyo Sprague, Frank Pinder, Jamie Johnston, and Tim Mulvony chalked up the singles.

Mike Thompson and Don Vokey shared the shutout against the Stirling team.

Powell had the assistance of Gord Slaughter in Sunday's 4-3 victory over Kingston Young Nationals, as Slaughter also scored two goals. Kingston's Simurka's hat trick effort failed to win the game for the Nats.

Belleville Kinsmen Club bantam majors came away from their two games with double wins over Hillcrest Summits. Kelvin Pope led the scoring with two tallies in Sunday's 9-0 victory over the Summits while Paul Hayman, Tom Belch, Tony Meagher, Rob McBrien, Andy Lupinette Bobby Thompson, and Raymond Skelly marked up single goals.

The shutout was shared by Mark Meeham and Bruce Hamilton.

Pope added another goal to his weekend total in Saturday's victory over the Summits. Paul Weeks, Sandy Waterston, McBrien, Skelly, and Thompson added to Pope's single to bring the score to 6-1. Bradford netted Hillcrest's only goal.

In OMHA juvenile action, Steve Tracey, newcomer to Belleville Western Tier, scored a goal and assisted on three others to the linemen's 5-3 victory of Kingston Township.

Peter Smrke, Grant Goegan, Barrett and Jim Richardson with two tallied Belleville's other goals while Slickin, Holbourgh, and Townsend tallied for Kingston.

The Dixie Lee Fried Chicken peewee minors outshot Kingston CAL at Harold Harvey Arena 30-9 to earn a 5-1 victory. Brad Miller, Rick Cartwright, Billy Rowe, Steve Mofina and John Henry scored for Belleville.

The Rollies peewee majors came out of a game with Kingston Sunday night with a 3-3 tie.

Brailey Bunch Enthusiastic

Though the rink skipped by Court Brailey in the Annual Family Bonspiel did not win either of their two matches, it received a consolation prize for the most enthusiastic curlers at the Quinte Curling Club Saturday.

Bailey's two sons, 11-year-old Scott and eight-year-old Craig, curled for the first time under the tutelage of Barbara Brailey and her husband, both two-year curlers.

Craig, according to his father, managed to put "two or three rocks all the way down the sheet. One of them got into the house." Both young rinks played through an eight and a six end match.

In the "A" draw knock out competition, the Glen Watson rink came first with a two game high while Steve Bennett's rink placed second.

The competition in the eight rink "B" draw ended with two game winner Vern Goodwin's rink earning a first place finish while School Boy curler's Peter Acton's rink placed second high.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

TUESDAY, DEC. 19

Aries (March 21-April 19): After all the trouble you've taken to get the facts, you still have to use your head and put things together.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Pitch in with an extra effort; volunteer if that is the only way you can get in on the main action. Overtime is okay, too.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): When business and traffic get into snarls and slow down, have something with you that you can work on or amuse yourself with.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Now comes a day which is in effect an obstacle challenging your ability to get through surprise hindrances. Avoid late starts.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Some new ideas won't before judging a friend, get the other side of the story. His doings may have their reasons or excuses.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Planning goes well. Take time to search out neglected connections. It's also a fine day for putting household situations to rights.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Developing contacts are likely to produce challenges, move contacts, and opposite ideas to reconcile with those you already hold.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Don't go it alone today: Disagree if you must, but remain free to move in any direction the situation may require.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Close friends butt in with their own ideas of what you need or want done. Results can range from interesting to chaotic.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What you do today must help somebody beyond yourself. It also has to be consis ent with your current resources and life style.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Sensible discussion clears many potential barriers before you get near them. Diversions are to be shunned, too.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Recent stresses should not be allowed to shake you: faith in yourself and your intuition. The right move might seem inadequate or loses late.

Ear Drum Hole Invites Infection

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 17, was told by an ear specialist that she has a perforated ear drum and the only thing that would correct it is an operation.

A test shows some loss of hearing in that ear.

The ear frequently becomes infected and at times drains. However, she has no pain.

She is very upset about having this operation, so would you please explain what they do and whether it is painful? Is it a common operation? Is an operation at this point the only solution? Will the ear become worse as she gets older or will the hole heal over by itself?

I don't see what your daughter's objection is unless, simply, afraid it will hurt. She should realize that an anesthetic will be used, so she will not feel anything.

A perforated ear drum sometimes heals spontaneously, and if it happens to heal smoothly, that's fine.

But in her case it is safe to predict that the drum never is going to heal, and the reason for this prediction is that she has these recurring bouts of infection. They will not heal by healing; meantime, the perforation of the ear drum is an invitation to further infection.

Surgical repair is not at all unusual for such a situation, and a small tissue graft is commonly used to close the perforation.

Already the infection has been damaging the eardrum to cause some hearing loss. What you—and she—can expect is additional loss of hearing as infection continues. It is, indeed, possible that the infection might spread to other areas, for instance the mastoid region.

She has so much to gain by having ear surgery, and so much to lose if she doesn't, that I cannot see why she hesitates. There is no reason to be afraid of being hurt.

Perhaps if she asked the ear specialist point blank, "How much pain will there be?" and he says, "You won't feel anything." that will put an end to her fears.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I like apples and eat three or four a day, but have been worried lately because of the poison sprays I read about. I guess the apples in cold water but wonder if that is enough.

Yes, that's enough.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You advised a woman with bifocal hernia to raise the head of her bed with foam wedges, or solid material, so as to keep food in the stops and many mail-order houses sell wedges.

Mine is about seven inches high at the high end. Before I had vertigo for hour ear disturbance. It was great along with a second pillow for softness. Helped me to get my head out of bed in the morning when the dizziness is the worst.

I also recommended one to a friend with heart trouble and she found it far better than two or three lumpy pillows.

For hiatal hernia, it might work and might not. Others have suggested the same idea. The fine if the head and your head higher, but with hiatal hernia, it isn't the altitude of your head that matters. Reason for lifting the entire bed is to keep the contents of the abdomen from pressing the stomach upward. Therefore, whether a wedge would help would depend precisely on how you lie. If it tends to slide, for example, then crowding the abdomen, it could hurt more than help.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:
Opening lead eight of diamonds.

This deal occurred in a team of four contest in France. The bidding was exceptionally spirited, considering that East-West had only 19 points to work with — but, despite this, North-South got a very sound grand slam.

Even so, North (Boulenger) playing with Svarc against Roudinesco and Stoppa) had to exhibit flawless judgment when he converted seven spades doubled in seven no-trump.

Boulenger realized that East's double was conventional and called for West to make an unusual lead—in this case, a heart. He therefore ran to seven no-trump, which he thought could probably be made, instead of standing by seven spades doubled, which he thought could not be made.

Seven no-trump was untouchable. West led a diamond, taken with the ace. Svarc then made the proper play of a low heart to the queen and, on East showing out, he was able to score six hearts, five spades and the two minor aces.

Had Svarc made the mistake of finessing one of dummy's high hearts, he would have finished with two three and cost his team 2,530 points. Safety plays sometimes pay extremely well.

There is some doubt whether East should have doubled seven spades—which would probably have been the final contract, had he passed, and not alerted the opponents to the danger of a heart ruff.

But no one will ever know. If East had passed, whether West would have found the killing lead against seven spades—without being prompted by partner. It would have required extraordinary perception to have found the heart lead without the double.

Reds Build New Castle For King

It's no fairy tale. Right now, in the heart of Warsaw's old town, workmen are building a replica of their capital's famous 17th-century royal castle—blown to bits by the Nazis in the Second World War.

The building, looking more like an elegant palace than a fortress, is going up on the orders of Edward Gierek, first secretary of Poland's ruling Communist party.

Costing 600 million zlotys—$27.3 million at the official exchange rate—the castle might strike foreigners, ideology aside, as a strange investment, considering the nation's critical housing shortage. Tens of thousands are still waiting for homes of their own.

But for most Poles this isn't just any old castle. It symbolizes the historical continuity of this fragile country which has always known more of foreign oppression than independence. Over the centuries it served as the seat of Polish kings, parliament, government, and until the war, the office of Poland's president.

Nearly all the funds for its reconstruction are pouring in from voluntary contributions, including donations from abroad.

Under the slogan "every Pole one zloty"—the equivalent of 4.5 cents—the biggest campaign in Poland's post-war history has been launched to bring in the money.

Gift boxes in factories throughout the country and lotteries have already put the equivalent of $9 million in the fund in just 20 months. It's enough to cover the expenditure on the castle's actual shell but nearly twice that amount is still needed to pay for the specialist work in outfitting the building.

Every week, as though to keep a watch over their investment, thousands of Warsovians make regular Sunday outings to "Stare Miastro" or "Old Town."

Dressed in mufflers and fur hats to keep out the biting Polish cold, they stand around the site's fenced-off area observing the castle's progress—its red brick walls now overshadowed by towering cranes.

Poland's Roman Catholic Church also is collecting money to reconstruct one of the chapels, a further sign of improving church-state relations since Gierek came to power nearly two years ago.

New Style Is Expected In Trade Negotiations

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian and United States officials are looking forward to a new style and spirit in trade negotiations in the new year to replace the acrimony that bedevilled Ottawa-Washington relations in 1972.

There will also be new leadership on the Canadian side of the bargaining table. Quiet-speaking Toronto businessman Alastair Gillespie has replaced former trade minister Jean-Luc Pepin, defeated in the Oct. 30 election.

Officials cite various reasons for the change in the atmosphere.

When the trade talks resume—perhaps in January—they will probably concern one issue at a time, not the package of grievances that Washington was pressing on Ottawa last year at this time.

This represents a victory for Canadian negotiators, who resented the U.S. settle-or-else tone last winter, when talks stopped in deadlock.

U.S. embassy officials say that with the federal election behind them, the Canadians might bend a little more to make concessions that would have been politically sensitive last spring.

Canadians, on the other hand, predict Washington may be more flexible because of improving U.S. economic performance.

But the disputes that chilled relations in 1972 remain unresolved.

The year began with bargaining teams arguing over a Washington list of trans-border trade issues.

Heading that list was the 1965 U.S.-Canada auto pact, which Washington wanted changed to allow more imports of U.S.-built cars and parts into Canada.

Ottawa insisted that guarantees for minimum Canadian production levels be maintained, and that used cars continue to be barred at the border.

Latest figures, showing a Canadian deficit in auto trade with the United States, may bolster the Canadian argument.

Washington also wants changes in the U.S.-Canada defence production sharing arrangement, which has led to a long-standing Canadian surplus in war-material trade.

But forthcoming government purchases of aircraft and tanks might right that imbalance in the coming year. That also might strengthen the Canadian case against changing the arrangement.

Washington mounted its offensive against Canada and other trading partners with trade restrictions in August, 1971, aimed at curtailing its growing balance of payments deficit.

Most of the international issues were sorted out by December, 1971, when the biggest Western trading nations agreed to a new world monetary regime, and most made separate peace with the United States.

That left Ottawa alone to deal with Washington.

Disagreement over the auto pact led to the break-off of talks in February, with former U.S. treasury secretary John Connally rejecting the final Canadian offer.

Over-riding that issue was the Washington contention that the existing trade arrangements give Canada an unfair trade surplus.

Ottawa countered that the surplus was temporary. Moreover, the surplus was necessary to pay interest, dividends and other costs of heavy U.S. investment in Canada.

Counting both merchandise trade and these non-merchandise transactions, Canada continues to carry a deficit in payments with the United States.

The year was also marked by a growing interest in Canada in the foreign-ownership issue.

Observers suggested that U.S. negotiators wanted to see the government's response to the legislation introduced May 2 but still not enacted—before signing any long-term trade agreements.

Prime Minister Trudeau has said the bill to screen foreign take-overs will be introduced in the new Parliament, perhaps with modifications.

Following autumn elections in both countries, spokesmen in the government and the U.S. Embassy agree that the two countries have crossed a watershed in their relations.

No longer can they expect friendly agreement and special treatment as a matter of course.

But they add that relations have improved since last winter.

"The spirit is right," says a top embassy official.

Snakes and Bears

There's no telling what Frank LeBlanc will come across in the course of a day's work — especially this time of year. A rubber snake, a frilly bra, a book entitled Aid as Imperialism — you name it, he's found it. They turn up in the bins of gift-wrapped boxes that have come adrift from their parcels at the main branch of the Ottawa post office. (CP Photo)

Balloons Best Way To Fly Says Aeronut

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bearded, burly Ben Schlossberg is a balloonatic.

"The technical name is an aerostator, but I like balloonatic better—or would you prefer aeronut?" he chuckled.

"But whatever you call it, and however you look at it, ballooning is the only way to fly."

Recently Schlossberg was tethered 300 feet above a shopping centre in New Westminster, B.C., playing an electric piano from his gondola slung beneath the balloon.

This may sound odd to non-balloonatics, but in the crowded life of the 30-year-old New Yorker, the odd has always been the commonplace.

"A few years ago, he said in an interview, he was looking at a map of the world and noticed that Alaska and Siberia were separated only by a 59-mile stretch of water.

"It occurred to me that although there was only 50 miles between the two places, there was a whole world of ideological difference between them," he said. "So I figured I would attempt to bridge the gap by staging a 'swimcident' — that is, swim the 50 miles from Alaska to Siberia."

Schlossberg's aquatic diplomacy was stifled by a Russian patrol boat off the Siberian coast.

"The 'swimcident' almost became more of an incident than I had planned," he said.

The transition from aquanaut to astronut came some time later when Schlossberg decided to get married.

"I figured it would be nice to get married in a balloon," he said. "We were eventually married in a balloon floating over Trenton, N.J., and from that moment, I became a balloonatic."

Six months later he had a balloonist's licence, but not without some hair-raising incidents.

He recalled one in particular. He and his instructor were in a balloon when things went wrong and they found themselves swinging through the treetops and telephone wires.

"We finally came to rest in some trees and I climbed down to the ground," he said. "I was suddenly surrounded by people all very eager to help free the balloon and help us any way they could.

"But quite a few of them looked at us in a funny kind of way and I heard one man tell another that we had to be nuts to climb into a contraption like the balloon."

It wasn't until much later that he learned they had brought the balloon down on the grounds of a state mental hospital.

Canada Will Provide Vietnam Health Care

SAIGON (Reuter) — Canada and South Vietnam signed a $1-million agreement today for a Canadian-sponsored public health program in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta.

An announcement from the development aid section attached to the Canadian delegation at the International Control Commission said a team of about eight Canadian health workers will help at the public health training demonstration centre at Long Xuyen, the provincial capital of An Giang in the western central Mekong Delta southwest of Saigon.

A memorandum on the project was signed by R. David Jackson of the Canadian delegation and South Vietnamese Health Minister Tran Minh Tung.

An Giang province is among the most peaceful in Vietnam. Main North Vietnamese and Viet Cong infiltration routes from Cambodia largely bypass the province which is populated by a powerful Buddhist sect.

Two medical advisers arrived in Vietnam last week and the rest are due in May or June when construction work at Long Xuyen is to be completed.

Thumbs Ride

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — The bride hitch-hiked down Highway 401 to the wedding as a Chatham couple braved Saturday's snowstorm for their marriage in Windsor.

Theresa Sajzmski of Chatham was in the last of several cars heading west for Windsor when it became stuck in snow.

An unidentified driver picked them up, drove them to Windsor, then stayed for the wedding.

Coffee Bad

LONDON (Reuter) — Coffee-drinking appears more closely associated with heart attacks than cigarette smoking, says a report in the latest issue of one of Britain's most authoritative medical magazines, the Lancet.

A report by a team of American researchers from the Boston collaborative drug surveillance program says people who drink more than five cups of coffee a day run twice the risk of having a heart attack as people who drink no coffee at all.

Think Fires Set

STOUFFVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Police, fire and insurance investigators are searching for an arsonist they think has burned four barns, a house, a garage, two tractor-trailers and a golf clubhouse in the last three weeks.

The fire at the Sleepy Hollow Golf and Country Club early Saturday morning caused damage estimated at $500,000 to fire officials.

Hits Shulman

TORONTO (CP) — Max Chilofsky, a Toronto private investigator, said Sunday comments like those by Dr. Morton Shulman, who linked Ontario Attorney-General Dalton Bales to a man with a criminal record, only hinder police investigations of a crime in the construction industry.

Clean Power

MONTREAL (CP) — Opponents of the $6-billion James Bay hydro-electric project must realize that its alternatives, gas and oil power, are capable of worse pollution, Victor Goldbloom, minister responsible for the environment, said Sunday.

Speaking on the CBC French-language network program Politique Atout, Mr. Goldbloom said there is a great need for increased power in North America. Quebec, with its scores of untapped rivers and water falls, is one of the few regions capable of filling this demand.

Snow Dumped

TORONTO (CP) — Truck loads of snow from Friday's storm were dumped into Lake Ontario during the weekend, but neither Metropolitan Toronto nor city officials would claim responsibility.

The dumping has been banned since last year as a pollution hazard by the Ontario environment ministry. Snow plowed from the streets is contaminated with road salt, sand and dirt.

Send Drug

MONTREAL (CP) — An Air France jet is scheduled to leave Montreal tonight with a month's supply of the drug d-penicillamine for a Moroccan child in a Casablanca hospital after a Montreal ham operator picked up a distress call Friday night.

Guy Bourgie was operating his radio in his home when he picked up the call from Casablanca appealing for the drug needed to aid a child suffering from Wilson's disease, a severe liver ailment.

Probe Blast

TORONTO (CP) — An explosion and fire Sunday night that killed Charalbos Karoilidis, 29-year-old shoemaker, is under investigation by the Ontario fire marshal's office.

Witnesses who saw the shoemaker in his west-end shop said they heard a boom and the store was "full of flames" in which Karoilidis died.

Later a fire marshal's investigator took a five-gallon can from the store. Only the walls were left standing.

Rich Mine

GABORNE, Botswana (Reuter) — Out in the hot dusty scrubland near Botswana's border with both Rhodesia and South Africa, engineers are nearing the final stage of work to bring a giant copper and nickel mine into production.

Government officials estimate that by 1975 Selebi-Pikwe, and the recently-opened diamond mine at Orapa on the edge of the Kalahari desert, will provide the government with about $17 million a year in direct revenue.

This is more than Botswana's total domestic revenue at the time it gained independence six years ago.

'Legicare' Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Bar Association said Sunday that B.C. may have a prepaid legal services plan within a year.

Sholto Hebenton, Vancouver lawyer and chairman of the association's special committee on the prepaid plan, said the program will be designed in its earlier stages for groups such as teachers' associations and unions.

Postmen Advised To Reject Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — Postal workers are being urged by their national leaders to reject proposals of a conciliation report, despite a recommendation for acceptance by the union nominee on the board that prepared the study.

Union nominee William Walsh and the chairman of the three-man board, Owen Shime, signed a majority report which recommended an increase in wages to the 28,000 members of the Council of Postal Unions of about 65 cents an hour, spread over a contract ending Dec. 31, 1974.

The report, along with a dissenting opinion by government nominee Bruce Stewart, was made public Monday.

National union leaders said Monday they were recommending that the workers turn down the report. They were expected to make a public statement today.

Local union reaction to the recommendations was mixed.

Montreal leaders opposed acceptance of the recommendations, and Guy Morisette, local letter carrier president, calling the report stupid.

Marcel Perreault, leader of the Montreal postal clerks local, said the union negotiators had been unsatisfactory and must be replaced.

Bill Holland, Ottawa letter carriers' president, said there would not be a vote until the whole membership knew what was in the report.

Mr. Holland also said he would like to know why Mr. Walsh had recommended acceptance.

Fern Lachance, business agent of the Ottawa postal workers, said his members would go on strike if it could be proved such action would be in the best interests of the workers.

"However, we are not going to be stampeded by any strike-happy union politicians into rejecting something before we know what it is," he added.

An Edmonton spokesman said he would not comment until he had studied the report. A Halifax union spokesman said the same.

A postal strike before Christmas is not likely as the report will have to be printed, circulated and examined by the workers before a strike vote can be held.

The union will be in a legal position to walk out Thursday.

Neither party has to accept the recommendations listed in the report.

Postmaster-General Andre Ouellet said only that as some details still were being negotiated, it would be inappropriate for him to comment on the report.

Among recommendations in the majority report are:

—Retroactive pay of $400 dating back to March expiration of the old contract.

—Reconfirmation by the post office that no lay-offs of postal workers will occur.

—Measures to protect wages of full-time workers affected by job changes caused by automation.

—Establishment of a joint union-management committee with an independent adviser to discuss matters such as technological change, job descriptions and classifications and wage levels of new jobs.

—An article committing both parties to stop walkouts and lockouts during the term of contracts.

Wage increases suggested by the majority report would mean that Level 4 postal clerks would be paid a maximum of $4,977 an hour upon ratification of the contract, $4.21 an hour 10 months later and $4.61 an hour 15 months after ratification.

Level 3 letter carriers would receive immediate maximum pay of $3.82 an hour, go to $4.06 an hour after 10 months, and rise to $4.39 an hour after 15 months.

Average hourly earnings for postal clerks now are $3.69 and for letter carriers are $3.54.

Mr. Stewart said he thought wage levels proposed by the board should have been lower.

"The people of Canada are paying a high price for their postal services. Since wages account for such a high proportion of postal expenditures, serious attention should be given to the wage levels now being proposed," he added.

He also disagreed with the proposal for a joint committee.

Bombs Rain on Hanoi

SAIGON (CP) — Hundreds of U.S. planes including B-52 bombers pounded the Hanoi-Haiphong region of North Vietnam with the heaviest raids of the war Monday night and again today, U.S. officials said.

The North Vietnamese government said President Nixon's attempt to bomb it into submission would not force it to accept its peace terms.

Hanoi radio said U.S. warships joined the attack on North Vietnam's main Haiphong-Hanoi area.

Hanoi said six American planes were shot down, including three B-52s and a number of American pilots were captured. It charged that nearly 100 civilians were killed in attacks on Hanoi and its suburbs, and hundreds of homes destroyed.

The U.S. command admitted that two B-52s and an F-111 swing-wing fighter-bomber were lost during the night. Eight U.S. airmen are missing and seven others were rescued, the command said.

It was the heaviest loss in a single day for the U.S., since resumption of bombing of the North last April.

U.S. spokesmen said the two B-52s probably were hit by surface-to-air missiles.

One of the B-52s went down 30 miles northwest of Hanoi with six airmen missing, the command said. The U.S. said it was the first B-52 to crash on North Vietnamese territory.

The other B-52 crashed in Thailand. Its seven crew members bailed out and were rescued.

The magnitude of the attack with which the United States resumed the air war north of the 20th Parallel was underscored by indications that more than 100 B-52s were used in the raids.

Scores of smaller fighter-bombers from half a dozen bases in Thailand and several 7th Fleet carriers in the Tonkin Gulf also took part, U.S. officials reported.

Hanoi radio said American warships in the Gulf of Tonkin sailed close to the North Vietnamese coast and fired missiles into Haiphong and islands ringing the port.

The radio said "hundreds of U.S. warplanes including B-52s" started the raids at 8:15 p.m. Hanoi time and continued to rain bombs on the capital until 6 a.m."

A broadcast monitored in Saigon said one bomb hit a crowded movie theatre in Hanoi's Hai Ba Trung Street, killing nine persons and wounding another 60.

A U.S. military spokesman said it was the first time B-52 had bombed Hanoi.

The White House said the bombing was ordered by Nixon to "cope with another enemy buildup" and forestall a possible Communist offensive in South Vietnam.

But some other U.S. officials in Saigon said there were no indications that North Vietnam was preparing for a large-scale offensive, although it has begun its traditional dry season supply buildup to stockpile its forces in the south for next year.

Allmand Is Reviewing Death Sentence Stand

OTTAWA (CP) — Will Warren Allmand change his mind again about capital punishment?

When the Liberal MP from the Montreal-area constituency of Notre-Dame-de-Grace entered Parliament in 1963 he was a "reintentionist." He wanted to keep on hanging some murderers.

Within a couple of years he was voting against it and had become an "abolitionist."

Now, as the new solicitor-general and a man whose opinions will carry great weight, he must decide again what he thinks is right.

"Now I'm in a really responsible position in respect to the issue and I'm looking at the whole thing again," the Montreal lawyer said in an interview Monday, three weeks after his appointment to replace Jean-Pierre Goyer.

Nip per Turnip Turns Him Tipsy

MOUNT FOREST, Ont. (CP) — Turnips were his downfall, Steven Tait of Grand Valley, Ont., told Judge G. M. McConnell Monday. Tait said things became blurred after he entered an Arthur hotel offering turnips for sale. He said every customer who bought from him also bought him a beer. Tait, who claimed he drank 50 draughts of beer on the day in question, said he did not remember taking three chairs from the hotel and placing them in his truck. He was charged with stealing the chairs, valued at $75. "I should stop you from selling turnips in hotels," said Judge McConnell of Kitchener, who gave Tait a conditional discharge, providing he maintains good behavior for 25 months. The chairs have been returned.

Ulster Official Is Slain

BELFAST (CP) — Three men kidnapped a Protestant member of the Northern Ireland police administration during the night and killed him with two shots in the head.

The hooded body of William Johnston, a member of the province's police authority and a prominent businessman, was found in the back of a car late Monday night near the border with the Irish republic. Police said they presumed the assassins fled into the republic.

Johnston, a former member of the Armagh city council, was in his late 40s and married with two children.

Friends said Johnston, the owner of a drapery store in Armagh, visited a house in a Catholic sector with an employee, William Bratty, to discuss some new carpets. Three armed men forced their way into the house and ordered Johnston and Bratty into their car. Bratty was badly beaten and told reporters he had been "kicked out of the car" while Johnston was shot.

Apollo 17 Splashdown Is Today

HOUSTON (CP) — Apollo 17 hurtled towards a 24,000-mile-an-hour collision with the earth's atmosphere and splashdown in the Pacific at 2:24 p.m. EST today.

As their tiny module streaked towards earth, astronauts Eugene Cernan, Jack Schmitt and Ronald Evans were to face the most crucial moments of the flight. This was to begin when the spacecraft re-entered the atmosphere at 2:11 p.m. some 960 miles southeast of Samoa.

Seventeen seconds later communications was to be blotted out for three minutes 19 seconds as the module seared through the thickening atmosphere. At 2:18 p.m., the astronauts were to begin releasing the parachutes that would let them drift down to the Pacific splashdown point.

At the recovery site, where a fleet of ships led by the carrier Ticonderoga stood by, the weather forecast was for scattered clouds, 10-knot winds and three-foot seas.

Only minor problems troubled the mission's last hours before splashdown. A big pair of scissors, lost in the spacecraft a few days ago, could not be found and Evans' headset—which he uses to communicate with ground control—was faulty.

Scott Sees Regional Government in 2 Years

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Local government reform will be proposed for the Belleville region within the next two years, Mayor Russell Scott predicted today.

The "municipal reconstruction project — which the mayor believes is now under provincial government study — would include two major phases:

(1) Some form of over-all regional government.

(2) Consolidation of the more sparely - populated municipalities within the reform zone.

"There will be an outline of some kind of regional government in the area before the next municipal election," said Mayor Scott.

The mayor, who is president of the Association of Municipalities of Ontario, made the forecast while commenting on regional government plans for a three-county area between Quinte district and Metro Toronto boundaries — a reform with an impact on Hastings County.

The scheme, announced last night by Provincial Treasurer Charles McNaughton, sees 22 municipalities reduced to nine in a regional government bloc reaching from Metro almost to Colborne.

Five Northumberland County townships on the periphery of the new region will be severed from their historic county alignment and added to Hastings County.

They are the townships of Percy, Cramahe, Brighton, Seymour and Murray, which include the communities of Campbellford, Colborne, Brighton village and Hastings.

Mayor Scott said provincial authorities are "doing a study right now" on local-government reforms involving the Quinte area.

More Volunteers Help Staff Social Services

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Social services and community programs will be increasingly staffed by volunteers, supplementing professional efforts.

That's the pattern of the future in the opinion of three members of the Social and Community Services Ministry Task Force that visited Belleville last week.

The task force has undertaken a study of volunteer services across the province. It is investigating the use of volunteer programs and buildings now in existence as a means of cutting down the massive costs of bureaucratic organizations and offering social services.

The three men, Grant Lowrey, Jack McKnight and Dave MacCoy, came to Belleville at their own request, drawn by the reputation of the Central Volunteer Bureau.

"They made it clear . . . with the role of the volunteer in a supportive and creative role was unquestionably one of the important answers to providing adequate services to those in need," said Ruth Burrows, director of the Volunteer Bureau.

Task force members observed two volunteer programs in operation during their Belleville visit and were debriefed the leaders of all programs operated by the bureau.

"They were impressed with the calibre of our volunteers and with their enthusiasm for their job," said Mrs. Burrows. "Volunteers do grow and expand in knowledge, understanding and skill with the jobs they are doing."

As an example, Mrs. Burrows cited a woman who began helping with the nursery school for multi-handicapped children. She took several short courses to increase her skills, then finally abandoned the piece-meal approach to enroll at Loyalist in the early childhood education course.

"The course of her life was changed by her volunteer work," said Mrs. Burrows.

Mrs. Burrows began the volunteer bureau nine years ago and has since built it into a provincially recognized service whose example is followed by other organizations and municipalities. At the moment, she is advising three communities as far apart as the lakehead and eastern Ontario on how to set up and operate bureaus.

The Belleville bureau differs from others in its creative approach. It initiates programs to meet specific community needs on a small, pilot project basis. As the programs become self - sufficient and their volunteer staffs expert, Mrs. Burrows hopes to turn them over to service clubs and other charitable organizations for financial support.

Newest volunteer project activity is the one-month old Reading Aid program. Its purpose is to give illiterate adults sufficient reading skill and confidence to enable them to take retraining. Six volunteers, trained by Loyalist teacher Mrs. Joan Coyea, are now teaching six people how to read.

The program developed by Mrs. Coyea uses simple methods adapted to short attention spans. A sorority is providing the funds and preparing teaching aids. Mrs. Burrows hopes the group will eventually take over the program in its entirety.

Latest program is the sewing club for women on social assistance, run by Mrs. Pauline Bishop. Twice a week the women meet at Bridge St. United Church to learn sewing and other crafts, while their children are cared for in a volunteer - run nursery school.

For eight years the bureau has directed a meals - on - wheels program under the guidance of Mrs. Marion Adams. It provides once-a-week hot meals to 70 elderly people, 40 of them shut-ins. Local church women prepare the meals at a cost of 69 cents apiece.

Another program is the Christmas Sharing project that matches needy families and donors who provide Christmas dinner hampers. A three-times weekly nursery school for multi-handicapped children is directed by Mrs. Margaret Maddocks in Bridge St. United Church.

Art Walls, a Loyalist student, is doing his fieldwork by operating the Furniture Exchange. It matches donors of used furniture with people who cannot afford to buy their own. Another Loyalist student, Miss Karin Napieppa, has assumed the responsibility of research and coordination for the Reading Aid program.

Women from eight different ethnic groups are learning English as a second language at classes taught by Mrs. Gladys Simpson. The women bring their children and are met by both learn to speak English while a year.

A pre-school Needstart nursery for children from deprived backgrounds is operated by Mrs. Miriam Bishop two days a week, using space in local elementary school.

Task force members interviewed these volunteers and also Sheldon Rose, Moira Secondary School student, who directs the student volunteer program at his school. It involves 200 students in community work during school hours, most of it of a teaching aid nature.

Mrs. Burrows has a list of about 500 to 600 volunteers in her files, recruited by word of mouth, talks to church and social clubs, and radio and newspaper publicity.

From her files she fills special requests: for experienced community leaders to serve on boards, for secretaries and coaches for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, for Boy Scout leaders, for drivers and for temporary assistance of all kinds.

Although Belleville, through Mrs. Burrows efforts, is recognized as one of the most volunteer - conscious municipalities in the province, there are still needs waiting to be met.

Among the most urgent, Mrs. Burrows believes, is assurance for elderly Belleville elderly people, who want to continue to live in their own homes, but need a companion in the house. Mrs. Burrows would like to know able-bodied pensioners into those homes, where they could give the help needed and get a home and small salary in return.

Also needed urgently are homes for teenagers, 16 and over, who cannot continue to live in their own homes. Belleville Family and Children's Services cannot admit them to care, but if such teenagers are to continue their education they must be taken into a stable home.

It's for the Birds

Charmain Scriven wasn't sure she wanted a turkey on her head as well as on her plate, but she finally gave in and consented to wear the hat offered her by Rotarian Jim Stevenson at yesterday's dinner for crippled children. Belleville Rotary Club entertained the children at a dinner at Sun Valley Motor Inn followed by a matinee performance. The Salvation Army band provided music.

Regional Government Near

Such modern reforms were "inevitable," said Mayor Scott. The number of municipalities created a multiplicity of jurisdictions which complicated planning and made for inefficiency.

He termed the provincial reforms unveiled last night "logical, reasonable and sound planning . . ."

Finer details of the scheme remain to be resolved — and local opinions must be considered by senior government, said the mayor.

"I think these can be worked out to the advantage of the new area as long as the province takes into consideration that local people know what is best on the local issues," said Mayor Scott.

The mayor said he was not surprised at the reforms proposed last night. He cautioned about such developments during the recent city elections, but drew little comment in the heat of campaigning.

It's imperative the Belleville area maintain contact with such upcoming local government trends through the AMO, he said.

Hastings Could Have Its Third Hospital

CAMPBELLFORD — Regional government reform between Toronto and the Quinte area would place a third hospital inside Hastings County boundaries.

The 79-bed Campbellford Memorial Hospital serves an area in Northumberland County which will be redrafted inside an expanded Hastings County.

But the new hospital will not be a direct local government responsibility, compared to Belleville General Hospital, which is jointly owned by the county and city. Hastings other hospital is operated by the Red Cross at Bancroft.

Shareholding memberships in the hospital cost $2.50 a year and the 13-member board includes elected directors and appointees from surrounding Percy and Seymour Townships, two of the five to be separated from Northumberland. The townships have donated toward capital expansion projects but not operating expenses, said Mr. Carr.

Greek Church Ready

The dreams of the Greek community have come true, said Peter Zegouras Tuesday.

With little time to spare, the new Greek church at the corner of Harder and Avondale Road has been sufficiently completed that the first service can be held this Sunday.

"This is the answer to our dreams, to have the church ready for Christmas," said Mr. Zegouras.

The seats are on the way and some of the outside brick will not be laid until milder spring weather but it is close enough for the eager parish to begin services.

Until this project was completed, the Greeks were the guests of several churches across Belleville.

"We were just like a bunch of nomads going from church to church," said Mr. Segouras. "Now our new building is ready we want to repay the city for all the help its residents have given us in the past."

The Christmas service will be conducted by Father Nicholas Avgoustinakis.

Official opening of the church is expected to be near Easter.

Quarter-million Annual Steaks Ponderosa Goal for Belleville

Belleville area families began a new week yesterday with the prospect of eating more steak while dining out.

Bellevilians may not have been aware of it. But, it's a prospect that becomes almost inevitable if predictions for the city's newest restaurant—Ponderosa Steak House — are borne out.

Harold Shneer, senior vice-president of the fast-growing Ontario restaurant chain which aims at the family trade, expects its Belleville link to serve "at least 220,000 steaks in its first year of operation."

The first of those steaks began moving off the grill yesterday after the city's newest arrival in fast-service dining was formally opened by Mayor-elect Robin Jeffrey.

The Ponderosa formula is tied to a limited menu and set prices — ranging from 69 cents for a chopped sirloin sandwich to $2.39 for a T-bone steak dinner. Cafeteria-style service blended into a decor of ranch motifs, also is designed to encourage family custom.

It's a concept that has apparently proved out elsewhere. The 20 other Ponderosa operations in Ontario are serving more than 125,000 customers a week, says Mr. Shneer.

The chain, operating by Foodex Systems under licence from Ponderosa Systems in the U.S., was launched in Ontario last year and developed swiftly. A Kingston branch was opened in August, by which time the Belleville site also had been chosen. Initial Ponderosa development for the province is 38 steak houses by the end of 1973.

The Belleville restaurant can seat 242 and employs up to 60 workers, mostly on a shift, part-time basis.

Mailman Likes Looks of Money

"So-so" was how a Belleville postal spokesman described proposals in a conciliation report presented in Ottawa Monday.

Jim Campbell, president of Local 65, Letter Carriers of Canada, received a copy of the document this morning.

He said that until he and fellow workers have had a chance to study the report, there can be no official comment.

But based on a quick glance he commented: "The money looks okay but there are other concerns." He did not say exist.

The majority report recommends an increase in wages of about 65 cents an hour, raising maximum wages for letter carriers to $4.19 an hour and for postal clerks to $4.34 an hour. If accepted, the contract will last until Dec. 31, 1974.

Mr. Campbell's labor counterpart, Don Matthews, president of the Belleville local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said neither he nor fellow workers have received copies of the report.

"All I know is what I read in the Globe this morning," he said. "We'll have to wait and discuss it before we can make any comment."

Both locals, embracing 76 men, will probably hold meetings Wednesday, said Mr. Campbell.

Marijuana Butts Bring Stiff Fine

Two Belleville men found inside an Albert St. apartment Oct. 19 with, among other items, 57 marijuana cigarette butts were sentenced in Provincial Court Monday.

Dennis James Lynch of 22 Joseph St. West was fined $100 for possession of marijuana. Ronald Gordon Duetta of 38 College St. West, received a suspended sentence and 12 months probation for possession of hashish.

The men were visiting a friend, Kelly Trahan, when three narcotics agents appeared at the door with a search warrant. Found in the apartment were 25.6 grams of marijuana and 18.3 grams of hashish.

Trahan, who had gone to the store, pleaded guilty to possession of more than 400 grams of marijuana after the agents met him returning home. Judge J. L. Clendening will pronounce sentence Jan. 4.

Shorter Working Week

The shortened work week, although it creates a variety of problems of both a practical and sociological nature, has been gaining increasing acceptance. Nearly 300 Canadian companies, according to a recent article in Weekend Magazine by Susan Carleton, have made the switch to a shortened work week, in one form or another, as the United States about 3,000 have done so and about seven are added to this number every day.

The Weekend article dealt with the subject in a much more comprehensive manner than would be possible in this brief space, but some selected references are perhaps given the subject is of such interest these days.

For example, a consultant quoted by writer Carson said: "The companies that have adopted the shortened week claim that the advantages greatly outweight the disadvantages, with improved employee morale and satisfaction leading the list. Other advantages they mentioned were more efficient operation, increased productivity, decreased overtime, better communications, less 'down' time, more operating time, no special shift arrangements, easier-to-schedule vacations, selective recruiting of personnel, leveling of production during slow and peak periods, an extra hour gained each morning (but some hate the earlier start) without interruptions from outside and reduced absenteeism."

There is of course more leisure time which most seem to like, although it seems there are mixed feelings among husbands and wives having to adapt to new patterns of togetherness.

"Many unions," says the article, "accept the concept of the four-day week, but not the lengthened day . . ."

And a refinery executive had this to say: "There is something a little frightening about it (the shorter work week) because there is a somewhat debunking aspect about how it works. One man no longer does his job exclusively. When he is not there, someone else does it. We find other employees worry about losing control of their jobs when they are not there. They don't like other people using their desks and tense little situations can blow up very easily. . ."

That is a hope that most of the shorter week situation. We saw an article recently about its operation at the Queen's University computer centre. There it means what was described as "an extended 3-hour day (plus) for the middle of constant computer noise. . ." and it also means "four days off in a row, week after week."

Anyway, it is a growing trend with firms and departments across the country, including some in the Quinte area. It is part of the new emphasis on leisure time which today has so many ramifications, according to whether one is working or is unemployed — and then it can be something else again.

Black Power

Two recent columns by Ottawa correspondent Richard Jackson have been of unusual interest. They had to do with The Bahamas and the evident deterioration of conditions there under a black government now in its fifth year of power.

For the white tourist in The Bahamas things are not what they used to be. Similarly, Europeans working there sense the "black power" atmosphere of the once idyllic vacation islands. Permits are required and some are not being renewed.

The attitude of the black population is understandable in some ways. They are in the driver's seat now and the old "superiority" and patronizing ways of the whites hold sway no longer.

As the barman in one of the plush hotels put it to correspondent Jackson: "Stop stompin' your feet and snappin' your fingers — no one's going to hurry around here, not even you."

The same attitude prevails to one degree or another in the islands of the Caribbean, according to travellers returning from those parts. In some places visitors are told to watch their step, not go out alone and leave word where they are going, that sort of thing.

It is a new ritual of empire, if we may still use that anachronistic term. It is not as traumatic as President Amin's expulsion of the Asians from Uganda, but it is the same principle and it has to do with black power and a desire by majority peoples to run things themselves, however ineptly they may do so.

Voters Seen as 'Reactionary' Says Aikenbrack

Ottawa Busy Putting Best Face on Near-Defeat

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — To hear the government now, you might think there had never been an election, says Douglas Aikenbrack, Eastern Ontario Conservative MP who has represented the riding of Frontenac - Lennox - Addington for the last 19 years.

"Now the Trudeau administration, recovering miraculously from the post-election shock of its massive rebuke by the voters, has managed to turn the whole thing around."

No longer, says Douglas Aikenbrack, do the Trudeau people speak of the "lessons" as they initially termed them, learned from the election.

"Instead, they are talking about the 'lessons' the voters should have learned.

"Their attitude now is that British Columbia, the Prairies and Ontario were reactionary in 'deserting' them. Some of them even seem to think that those regions 'deserted' Canada."

It is the old Liberal faith of the "divine right to rule," surfacing again, he suggests.

There is one notable omission in the government's "desertion" theory — and that is not the slightest hint of some recent suspicion that Quebec, voting against the trend in all the rest of Canada, might just possibly be considered "isolationist".

Conservative Leader Stanfield is on the record with similar observations.

"Concern over gross mismanagement of unemployment insurance (the bill will run in excess of $3-billion) was considered reactionary in some quarters," says Mr. Stanfield.

Those "quarters" as he calls them, quite obviously are the Trudeau cabinet and the survivors of the Quebec contingent in the government backbenchers.

"The argument," continues Mr. Stanfield, "that Canadians would rather have jobs than a welfare was termed reactionary."

"The insistence that all the regions of Canada (including Quebec) should be treated fairly and equitably was interpreted as an appeal to hatred," he goes on.

"The attachment of Quebec as one of 10 provinces flies in the face of provincial nationalism that it is a province 'unlike the others,' as some Liberals long have contended.

"Objections to seeing the federal public service bypassed by a costly army of experts, a super-bureaucracy without direct responsibility or continuity," relates Mr. Stanfield, "was also said to be reactionary.

"The proposition that local initiatives rather than government subsidy was characterized as pandering to the selfish interests of the reactionary business community.

"And of course, anyone who criticized the government's chaotic immigration policy or the conspicuous failure of its penal program was a reactionary of the darkest kind."

All these government accusations that a vote against the Trudeau administration was a vote for reaction, Mr. Stanfield of course rejects.

"Canadians, in the way he sees them, instead were voting to "reassert values in our traditional way of life when they felt were threatened and called into question" by so many controversial government policies.

A great many Canadians were concerned that the benefits of indolence might become as significant as the rewards of initiative," says Mr. Stanfield summing up. That permissiveness might become more persuasive than self-discipline, or that they might come to be governed not through their political institutions but by an elite of task forces and technocrats."

It was not reaction at work, insists Mr. Stanfield, but "reaffirmation of traditional moralities and values."

While the government speaks of the "reaction" of its near-rejection at the polls and some of its members refer to anti-government supporters as "hillbillies", the Prime Minister has taken it one step further in talking of what he calls "separatists in English-speaking Canada."

He waited until he was in Britain to make this revealing reference.

But the remark came through in black and white in the transcript of his British press conference when he was discussing bilingualism and how it may have contributed substantially to government reverses in British Columbia, the Prairies and Ontario.

He made it quite clear he believed that it was the "polarization" of what he terms "separatists of English-speaking Canada" to bilingualism that, combined with other factors — included the unemployment, inflation, welfare abuse and immigration — cut the government down to tissue-thin minority size.

"Just think—there but for good fortune go you or I."

Machines, Leisure, And Unemployment in Canada

The Globe and Mail

A mechanical grape harvesting machine, which replaces about 50 human cutters. This was an item described in an article yesterday on the difficulties for Canadians to undertake hard, low-paid, temporary jobs on the farms. It is merely one item in a long, long list that delineates the changing labor market in Canada — and the lack of long-range policies to meet the changes.

We are in an extended period of heavy unemployment. Only a few of the experts seeing an early end to it. Governments at all levels have been producing both useful and useless make-work programs to cut the unemployment figures. Ottawa has made unemployment insurance more generous, so that the difficulties of those out of work will be less painful. But both work and insurance programs have to some degree enhanced the problem, by attracting into the work force — at least temporarily — people who otherwise would not be there.

The trade programs to provide jobs are necessary, because the jobless are here now. But they do nothing to solve the long - range problem, which might be said to have two branches: sophisticated machinery is reducing the number of jobs in traditional areas; a more educated (and more tenderly treated generation of rising young Canadians) is rejecting hard, humdrum jobs.

We will not be successful in holding back progress. Indeed, the one prong of the problem — the rejection by a part of the work force of unattractive labor — has its share in speeding the production of machinery that will do it instead.

What we will need, and need soon, is a long - term philosophy given practical expression by government, industry and labor which will determine who will do the work that must be done. There are one or two governors — Treasury Board President Charles M. Drury has been heard on the subject — who have to embrace the idea of a self-appointed leisure class; but in the great majority, we think, the attitudes are not yet what are prepared to let the leisure go, at public expense, to those who, by inclination and an obvious talent for it, do nothing.

B.C. Closes Two Trade Offices in States

By JOHN D. HARRIOT
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The new provincial government in British Columbia, New Democratic and reformist, announced it would close two British Columbia trade promotion offices in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The reason they gave was their growing uselessness in promoting British Columbia exports, as well as an opportunity to engage in some government cost-cutting.

Legitimate reasons or not, Premier David Barrett's move reminds us again of the substantial "foreign affairs" role played by Canada's larger provinces abroad.

There still is British Columbia House in London, presently headed by a retired rear admiral and longtime B.C. resident. Ontario House in London is in charge of Ward Cornell, a publicist and ex-TV toothpaste huckster.

And of course, not to forget the once-controversial Maisonneuve, Quebec, or Quebec House in Paris which was accused rightly or wrongly, but with much vehemence, of being an outpost of Quebec separatism. Certainly there was some of this going on, since Premier Robert Bourassa recalled the head of Maison Quebec last year to explain some of his activities.

Quebec House also became involved — if indirectly — in the Gaullist fracas during Canada-French federal representation at Francophonie conference in Africa at French-speaking countries.

The suggestion that Quebec representatives would be invited ahead of federal ones — and Maison Quebec would be used as a sounding board whether or not such a thing will be done — was aired in the press and in various legislatures.

Well of course, it cannot and was not done. Under the British North America Act Canadian external relations are reserved to the federal power as they should and must be.

In the context of mid-twentieth century economic realities in Canada, the BNA Act can be circumvented if not intentionally then in a practical circumstance.

Take the case of another "Ontario House" in Washington proposed by the Davis Government. With Ontario's big economic muscle in the Canadian confederation, an argument for this being the aggressiveness of provincial trade promoters abroad, there is a growing feeling in Queen's Park that an Ontario office was as part of the modus operandi of the Canadian Embassy in Washington.

Not when it has been. The Canadian Embassy there is a multi-faceted operation serving the entire range of Canadian national interests, which there days are increasingly complex and critical where Washington is concerned.

From Queen's Park's viewpoint, this rationale was the very reason to have its own staff in Washington responding to an Ontario view of whether, for example, the DISC scheme would hurt Canada's major industrial province harder than the others, or whether the proposed Hartke-Burke United States protectionist tariff was going to do the same.

Nevertheless, Premier William Davis did accept Ottawa's concern that "two Canadian presences" in Washington at a very critical time in U.S.-Canada economic relations, would inhibit future negotiations with a tough U.S. administration.

The Ontario view was based on a good deal of favorable comparative experience with the way the provincial ministry of industry and tourist promotes Ontario industry abroad and the somewhat more backhaire way in which the federal department of industry trade and commerce functions at international trade fairs.

"We do things better and harder than the feds," says a senior man in the Davis office — a view suggesting a separatist perhaps unconstitutional Ontario presence abroad.

"And I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, who hath enabled me, for that he counted me faithful, putting me into the ministry." I Timothy 1:12

If God has called you into the ministry, you can count on a life of misery until you answer. If you are in the ministry, count it a privilege that you have been chosen to continue the work of Christ. "As my Father hath sent me even so send I you." No work on earth is of such value in the eyes of Heaven. Pray for your minister and those who do the work of God. A blessing awaits you.

NATO Cloak Essential For West Europeans

Montreal Le Devoir: Separated as they are from the Soviet Union by three oceans and thousands of miles, threatened as they are by the United States' nuclear umbrella, Canadians can easily see nothing in NATO other than a relic of the cold war which ceased to interest anyone from which the Trudeau government wants to disengage to withdraw completely four years ago.

For most Canadians, an armed confrontation between the East and the West by reactions of the Russians and their East European allies.

And for these 300 millions; military occupation is not an abstract concept from which political geography protects them: it is a historical reality which marked forever the memories and lives of their oldest citizens.

Women and Job Market

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

An issue of your newspaper dated Dec. 6 published an article with the headline "Part-Time Jobs Feasible".

I agree with the statement of Dr. Romalis in the article the high unemployment rate is due to keep women out of the labor force is another subtle method of trying women to their apron strings.

I see no reason why a woman should not have a job, or a part-time job, if she wants to do. It would be good to see both sexes benefit from this arrangement. This is a good way for families to develop closer relationships and to enlarge their education.

I believe if there are plenty of jobs waiting for someone to do them, and a woman is capable of doing them, why not let her?

Mystery of Martin Bormann

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I became very interested in an article, entitled Hitler Aide Said in Latin America. This article was about Martin Bormann who was deputy to Adolf Hitler.

It is interesting that this one man, and another, the famous Rev. Briggs, have allegedly managed to keep out of sight. It is also frustrating to the police. Can you just imagine having 16 "Martin Bormanns" at the same time, as mentioned in the article?

I think the police will never catch Mr. Bormann or Mr. Briggs, if they are still alive.

It would be interesting to know how this one man is living, since his escape from the war.

Unauthorized Raids Now Termed Proper

WASHINGTON (AP) — A United States House of Representatives subcommittee says the unauthorized U.S. air strikes ordered by Gen. John Lavelle against North Vietnam last winter "were not only proper but essential."

Sibling with Lavelle and against Gen. John Ryan, U.S. Air Force chief of staff, the House armed services investigating subcommittee said the U.S. strikes were justified by a new enemy radar setup that put American pilots in danger of being fired on without warning.

The subcommittee, in a report released Monday, called the 1968 bombing halt in effect at the time Lavelle authorized some 28 strikes one of the most "peculiar aspects" of the Vietnam war.

It said President Nixon's resumption of the bombing "appears to have resulted in a significant increase in the earnestness of North Vietnamese peace negotiations."

Augment Fees

AYR, Ont. (CP) — Village council Monday night supplemented provincial witness fees paid to three village residents.

A provincial justice ministry spokesman said it was the first time any municipality has done so.

The three residents, William Searson, Walter Yurwa and Olga Yurwa, were each paid $6 apiece by the village, in addition to the $6 they each received from the province for being witnesses in an assault trial.

TV a Waste

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Confederation of University Faculty Associations charged Monday that "vast amounts of time and money have been wasted by universities through investment in educational television equipment.

The confederation, in a brief to the provincial government's committee on university affairs, said much of the equipment purchased was merely experimental, broke down frequently and rapidly became obsolete.

More Cocaine

OTTAWA (CP) — Increases in the number of seizures of cocaine, an addicting narcotic, has health department officials worried.

Wins Lottery

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto mother raising three children on $110 a week has won $65,000 in a municipal lottery.

"This is going to be the happiest Christmas ever," Cynthia Shaw said Saturday following notification that she was the first-place winner in a lottery to raise funds for a recreation centre in Nepean township near Ottawa.

"The money will give this family a security we haven't had before."

Judge Profs

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Students at Laurentian University are being asked to evaluate their professors, using a questionnaire which asks, among other things, if the professor's writing is legible.

Lots of Tutors

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Secondary school teachers who have submitted mass resignations to the Lambton County board announced Monday they are prepared to tutor Grade 13 students if no contract settlement is reached by next month.

John Clark, local president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, said the tutoring is part of an emergency program to be put into effect Jan. 6, if necessary, when school resumes.

Plan Freeway

TORONTO (CP) — A $24-million freeway bypassing London on the southwest was announced Monday by Gordon Carton, transportation and communication minister, during a meeting with a London city council delegation.

Mr. Carton said the southwest route was chosen over a northeast one, proposed by London city council, because of an $18-million saving. The northeast route was estimated to cost $42 million.

Forsey Named

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Senator Eugene Forsey has been elected chancellor of Trent University, succeeding Leslie M. Frost, former premier of Ontario. Senator Forsey's three-year term as chancellor begins July 1, 1973, on the conclusion of Mr. Frost's second term as chancellor. Senator Forsey, research director for the Canadian Labor Congress, has been a member of the university's board of governors since 1966.

Mayor Accused

WINDSOR (CP) — The trial of Mayor Edmund Michael of nearby Essex, charged with making an obscene telephone call to the town's police chief, has been set for Jan. 18. Bernard Choen, lawyer for Mayor Michael, said in court Monday arrangements have been made to have a judge from another county hear the case because local jurists know both the mayor and Police Chief Colin Hayes.

Aide Named

OTTAWA (CP) — Bruce Howard, defeated as a Liberal candidate Oct. 30 in the British Columbia riding of Okanagan Boundary, has been appointed executive assistant to Health Minister Marc Lalonde.

Doctors' Fees Not Major Factor in Health Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — "Doctors' fees are not the major item in the total health cost; hospital costs and administrative costs form the major part," the University of Ottawa medical faculty said today.

In a paper prepared for the special study on the medical profession in Ontario, the faculty said it is unreasonable for governments "to victimize physicians" as if they were the ones responsible for costs.

"If the state does not wish to tax a people sufficiently to supply a universal level of service in all regards, they should say so openly and invite the people to personally share a part of the cost insuring only the indigent for all care."

The brief was one of several scheduled for presentation today at a public hearing by a special committee under chairman Edward A. Pickering of Toronto. The committee was holding the 10th and last in a series of hearings at various centres of the province.

It was set up during the summer by the Ontario Medical Association (OMA) to examine and report on the role of the medical profession, government-profession relationships, doctors' salaries and possible fee changes.

One of the recurring messages in submissions from individuals has been that doctor-patient communications have broken down.

Demorestville

DEMORESTVILLE — A miscellaneous shower was held for Mr. and Mrs. Brian Stewart.

The Friendship Circle held their Christmas meeting in the town hall recently and invited the community. Pot luck supper and euchre games were enjoyed.

Members of the Demorestville choir met at the home of Rev. Cullens, Northport, for their Christmas party.

Bird Wounded

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP) — A relatively rare species, a whistling white swan, was captured by Point Pelee National Park wardens here after it had been wounded by a gunshot. Park wardens said the sanctuary has the facilities to help the bird.

Total Look in Hair: Sexy, Natural, Personal

Sal Longo demonstrates how fine hair when cut, blown-dry and set with hot rollers, gives that new total look.

Award winner in Montreal for haircutting and Belleville hairdresser, Sal Longo, may have some suggestions for your new hairstyle.

What's the main thing to consider? A good cut will do wonders for any potential style and enable easier hair care. Most heads, Sal says, should be cut with scissors to mould the haircut to the person's head contour. He also recommends the blunt cut.

As for hair colouring, blending two colors that co-ordinate lends a very attractive touch to the hair.

What about hair care? That heads the top of the list.

According to Sal, people should use a good shampoo for their type of hair. He recommends that people with dry hair heat up some olive oil and rub it on hair ends, leaving it on for 20 minutes. During the winter months it's a good idea to use a little cream to keep the ends from flying.

1973 is coming up. What's in the forecast? Styles are more rounded and more natural with less backcombing.

Everything's in from the very short to the very long but it all dpeneds on the person herself.

Trends are trends, according to Sal, and a person should find a look that is her own. It should be an expression of the total look "if you look sharp and natural, then that's the total look."

And of course it's important to have a good hairdresser who understands hair.

Finally, as Sal Longo remarks, "There's nothing sexier than natural looking hair."

A two minute silence was observed for Arnold Sickle and Mr. Seniors who passed away recently.

George Montgomery won a prize during the evening. Prizes for high euchre winners during the past year were announced. Those included Mrs. Lillian Plumpton, Mrs. Nellie Carter, Mrs. Ethel Carr, George Flindall, Charlie Conley and Harold Carr.

A pin was presented to Carmon Frost, past president. Mrs. Vera Frost was given a pin and carring set in appreciation for the assistance she gave the president the last two years.

Helpful Meat Tips

Casseroles can be a real friend. The combination of ingredients in casseroles is unlimited. They are a great way to use up left-overs. Sunday's roast can be easily transformed into an interesting and tasty dish for Monday's lunch or dinner.

Can pork chops be broiled? Yes, pork chops can be broiled. Choose chops about one inch thick and broil about 6 inches from the heat. Look for chops with a relatively small amount of fat over the outside and with lean that is firm, fine grained and has a grayish pink color.

* * *

Meat Inspection is your guarantee that meat which has been health inspected and passed by Federal government inspectors is wholesome and fit for human consumption. Your assurance of wholesomeness is the "Canada Approved" or "Canada" stamp. If, when purchasing meat, you notice this marking on the fat covering, you don't have to cut it off before cooking as a harmless vegetable dye is used.

Most meats can be frozen satisfactorily if properly wrapped, quickly frozen and kept at 0 degree F. or lower. Always remember, freezing doesn't improve meat, it can only keep the meat as good as it was before freezing.

* * *

Meat is one of our finest sources of top quality or complete protein — protein which is essential for growth and repair of body tissues. Meat is the mainstay of our diet and Canadian processors are continually striving to put highest quality meat onto the consumers' tables at a reasonable cost.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Do friends outgrow each other?

OCCASIONALLY they do, and that is when friendship is really tested. Inherent change, as do girlfriends, likes and dislikes. When two friends find themselves growing apart, they can either respect that such differences can occur and then fracture their friendship with a bitter fight; or else they can acknowledge that these things can happen to good friendships, and just let themselves drift apart, thankful that they have each other as well as they did.

Are women more adaptable than men?

APPARENTLY, wives especially seem able to change their ways more readily than men can. Perhaps it is just that a woman is conditioned by the custom of assuming her husband's name when she marries; and she simply obeys the biblical dictum: "Whither thou goest..." It will be interesting to see—after Women's Lib has wrought its promised changes for a few generations—if women continue to be more adaptable than men are.

Must a child sit 'below the salt'?

IT would be hard to find such a lowly position at the modern dining table; yet, even so, a child should not be forced to sit at what he considers the less-favored place at the table. He should be made to feel that he is an integral part of the family, and that he is honoring his family as well as being honored when everyone is gathered around for a meal. Dinner then might become a dining experience all the family will enjoy.

'Buy Now, Pay Later' Plan Offers Plastic Surgeries

SAO PAULO (AP) — Plastic surgery—that rejuvenating technique of the rich and the famous—has gone the way of installment plans and lot-drawing in Brazil in an effort to reach the average housewife. And men, too.

"This is a unisex plan," says Dalel Berger, a lawyer and general manager of FINAC, a Sao Paulo firm which finances car buying and has launched a plan to finance plastic surgery operations under the typically Brazilian "consorcio" system.

A consorcio is a type of credit club in which members make monthly contributions to a general fund for a stated period, usually 50 months. In the case of cars, the consorcio buys two a month. A drawing decides who gets the cars first.

At the end of 50 months, everybody has a car. Even after getting his car, a member must continue paying monthly contributions until the consorcio ends.

"Liz Taylor snatched Burton after 12 magnificent plastic-surgery operations," a brochure for prospective customers says.

"How many will you need to snatch your husband?"

The plan met initial opposition from the Brazilian Society of Plastic Surgery, which represents plastic surgeons in this country. The society wrongly believed the group was tied to a specific group of doctors, in violation of the society's code of ethics.

But FINAC only handles the money side for patients, who must get in touch with the doctor.

"The problem with an esthetic plastic-surgery operation has been having the money to get one," says Berger, explaining the "why" of a plastic surgery consorcio.

"If a Brazilian woman is willing to sacrifice part of her monthly earnings to satisfy female vanity by going to a beauty parlor or buying cosmetics, then she can also make a small sacrifice to get some plastic surgery."

Under FINAC's plan, "any woman can get her longed dream of esthetic operation," an ad claims.

Brazil has one of the world's most famous plastic surgeons, and plastic surgery is big business here. The plastic surgeon's society says more than 8,000 persons had operations last year in Sao Paulo alone.

Ann Landers
Suggestible Kidneys Told Problem Psychological

Dear Ann Landers: I feel sorry for anyone who is so inhibited that he can't urinate in the presence of others, but I'd gladly change troubles with the man who signed himself Bashful Kidneys. My problem is just the opposite.

I'm a woman, 33, and all my life I have suffered from Suggestible Kidneys. Whenever I see a water fountain, a picture of a river or a lake, or hear the sound of a dripping faucet, I have to head for the ladies room. It's gotten so bad that a joke about Niagara Falls is enough to set me off.

I've seen a urologist, a kidney specialist, and a gynecologist. They all say nothing is physically wrong with me, that it's psychological and I'll just have to overcome it. But nobody tells me how. Any suggestions?—Comfort Station Connie

Dear Connie: It sounds as if the triggering mechanism is automatic which means you're going to have a hard time changing it.

Try substituting contrasting mental images—a desert scene, a camel, palm trees, a blistering sun, miles of sand, thirst—oops, better forget that. Soon it might suggest a drink of water. Well established behavioral patterns are difficult to alter, but it can be done with determination.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's a letter that will be different. It's for all those women whose husbands are out running around. They talk about the Other Woman. Well, I'm the Other Man. Not HER lover, but HIS. Let had been staying with me a few nights a week, telling his wife he had transportation problems. (He works in a city 60 miles from his home.)

I just found out that Lex is cheating on me and I feel a strange sympathy for his wife. I took your advice although when I wrote to you, I didn't let on that my sweetheart was a guy. I threw the ham out. I'm writing to say thank you and to share the two lessons I learned. First: A cheater is a cheater and he'll cheat on everybody. Second: Just because a husband isn't interested in other women doesn't mean he's faithful.—Recovering In Durham

Dear Re: Thank you for both lessons. Maybe there's a third lesson in there someplace. If your husband is cheating, girls, be thankful it's with a woman.

Dear Ann Landers: With regard to the question asked by Stumped as to the relationship of Jim and Tad after Fay and Pete were divorced: Stumped is wrong in the belief that they have a step-brother. Allen, in common. Jim and Allen are maternal half-brothers since they share the genes of a common mother, Fay. Tad and Allen are paternal half-brothers since they share the genes of a common father, Pete.

Therefore, Jim and Tad are not related genetically, irrespective of whether Pete and Fay are married. Of course, they are no longer step-brothers after Pete and Fay are divorced.—M. Grossman, Assistant Professor of Genetics, Urbana, Ill.

Dear M.G.: Thanks for unscrambling the eggs. Your letter reminds me of the comment made by another Fay, Miss Emerson, when she divorced Elliot Roosevelt. She said, "The saddest part of this divorce is that I am losing a wonderful mother-in-law."

Greetings

May the joy of the season live in your home at Christmas bringing you true contentment. Thanks for your loyal patronage.

Workers Help Youngsters

By DORIS CLARK

Inchaled in our Saturday Night Club is a fabulous group of about 20 teen-age hoodlums. Their idea of a good time is to cause trouble, and they've been having a very good time at the "Y" on Saturday night! Fighting is their specialty, both among themselves and with others not in their group. Their damage includes torn wallpaper plugged toilets, damaged vending machines and smashed windows.

Every effort has been used to try to dissuade them from this course, but in vain. Some have already been banned permanently from the "Y", and others are on probation: one more mistake means 'good-bye".

But don't be disheartened. There is the other side of the coin. Despite bad breaks, most of the 150 kids who attend are basically decent human beings. Their chances of eventually finding the right path are greatly increased because they have come into contact with the seven dedicated volunteers who regularly give their Saturday evenings to us, giving guidance, praise and criticism as it is wanted or needed. — Youth Director, Kitchener Family Y.M.C.A.

It is a sorry state of affairs that some of our future citizens don't know a good thing when they see it. Probably, they have had more than one strike against them — broken homes, school failures — giving them the notion the whole world is against them.

But more power to those dedicated volunteers who believe in youth enough to give a whole evening every week to help 150 youngsters make something of themselves!

Dear Doris: It was with great interest that I read your recent column and the mention of Al - Anon, Al - A - Teen and Alcoholics Anonymous as a referral for one of your contributors.

Being elected as public relations co-ordinator for the Province of Saskatchewan Al-Anon Assembly I felt like cheering, for this is indeed a much needed program to acquaint the public with the many avenues of help available to anyone with a drinking problem either in the family or a relative or friend.

Help is definitely available all over Saskatchewan, with emphasis on the major cities. Just reach for a phone book. A is the first letter in the book and usually leads to help for the sufferer. I would be pleased to receive any referrals from your column. — Public Relations Co-ordinator.

Dear P.R. Co-Ordinator: I couldn't agree more. This kind of help is increasing right across Canada and a number for Alcoholics Anonymous can be found in nearly every telephone book.

We also have Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Foundations giving service in every province and I can supply names and addresses to anyone writing in. The disease of alcoholism takes a high toll of human health and happiness in this affluent and restless country of ours.

Families who have problem drinkers to cope with can get moral and practical support and practical support through all these agencies. So can the drinkers, once they recognize their state of ill health, mental and physical, for what it is.

Human relations can hurt — or bring happiness. Get Doris, a trained counsellor, to help you handle yours, sending your letter in care of this newspaper.)

Clean Up Town

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP)— The nearby community of Collingwood won a rural beautification contest award and managed to get some extra benefits out of its clean-up campaign. Working with the help of a Local Initiatives Program grant, the community demolished and cleaned up three unsightly buildings. With the salvaged lumber residents built a garage for their parsonage and a new fire hall.

Alcohol Dangers Will Be Stressed

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal health department will place increased emphasis on alcohol as a part of its fight against drug abuse, Dr. A. B. Morrison said Monday.

"We're increasing our concern about alcohol," said the assistant deputy minister of the federal health protection branch. "It's the number one drug problem in Canada."

But he warned that the emphasis placed on current drug problems would not change.

"We're having a major review of what we can do about alcohol," he said. But he refused to say what measures are under review.

Officials of the Canadian Foundation on Alcohol and Drug Dependencies met three weeks ago with department officials, including Dr. Morrison. At that time they asked the government to play a larger role in controlling alcoholism and in educating the public about the dangers of alcohol abuse.

The foundation also asked for funds to establish a national office in Ottawa and recommended that the federal government set up a program to identify and help alcoholics in the civil service.

Dr. Morrison said these measures and several others would be considered but that policy statements would have to be announced by the minister's office.

Other possible measures include increased taxes on alcohol, which was predicted several months ago by sources in the beverage industries.

As well, measures may include more research into alcoholism, funding of treatment facilities in co-operation with the provinces and a major review of present educational programs, he said.

Dr. Morrison said sources have indicated that young people are shifting from drugs to alcohol, but it's "very difficult to get hard data."

Information to the department indicates that use of LSD and chemicals, such as Speed and the amphetamines, may be decreasing, he said. But so far there is no evidence that use of heroin or marijuana is declining.

Pair Frozen

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — Police have identified two bodies found frozen in Kenora during the weekend as those of Bessie Land, 48, from the Islington area north of Minaki, and Alexander Keewaysin, 19, of Red Lake.

Food and Drug Law 'Cleanup' Advocated

HULL, Que. (CP) — The federal government should undertake "a massive cleanup" of its food and drug laws to restrict self-medication and over-consumption of dangerous patent medicines, the Quebec College of Pharmacists said Monday.

Jacques Gagnon of Quebec City, president of the 3,000-member association on which represents all the province's 2,300 licensed pharmacists, told a news conference "the federal government is indirectly responsible for thousands of poisonings every year by permitting the unrestricted distribution of patent medicines and the exaggerated advertising which accompanies them."

The college has asked the federal government to undertake four measures:

—Prohibition of all drug advertising.

—Abolition of the "archaic laws" governing patent or proprietary medicines.

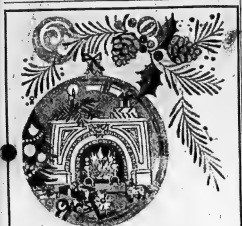
—Establishment of a public inquiry into the contents and true effects of some 2,000 freely-available drugs now made with secret ingredients.

—Modernization of the food and drug act as health officials can act more effectively in cases of poisoning attributed to medicines sold without supervision.

Michael Ripsman, one of the 17 governors of the College, told reporters the association is making a public demand for action because past approaches to the federal government since 1954 have gone unanswered.

He said the association hoped to have "better luck" with the new health minister, Marc Lalonde.

The College began its public campaign last month with disclosures that nine commonly-used and widely available patent medicines were either useless or harmful to many persons if not dispensed with advice about their use.



Russian Says Canada's Conditions 'Positive'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Russian embassador here said Monday Canada's conditions regarding any membership on a supervisory commission in Vietnam appear to be "quite positive."

But Boris F. Miroshnichenko told a news conference it is too early to comment "in a concrete way" because the fighting is still going on in Vietnam. And a prerequisite for peace is the departure of American troops from that country.

Canada has laid down several conditions that must be met if it is to send personnel to any supervisory commission. One of the conditions is that a "higher authority" be established to receive reports from the commission. Another is that freedom of movement be guaranteed.

Mr. Miroshnichenko commented briefly on the Vietnam situation during a news conference he called to mark the 50th anniversary of the founding of the U.S.S.R.

Rose Arraigned

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacques Rose, acquitted last week of a charge of kidnapping Pierre Laporte, was arraigned Monday when they were sought by police and with the forcible confinement of the former Quebec labor minister who was found strangled Oct. 17, 1970.

Rose, 25, was charged with accessory after the fact in assisting three men who already was being held without bail pending trial on a charge of murder in Mr. Laporte's death.

One of the new charges alleges he assisted his brother, Paul, Francis Simard and Bernard Lortie when the three were sought by police in Mr. Laporte's kidnapping and murder.

Taxes in Spotlight As Session Nears

OTTAWA (CP) — Taxes, a prime issue in the October Federal election, are certain to be in the spotlight early when the Trudeau government meets the p o s t-election Commons in January.

Changes due to be put into the tax system in 1973 were outlined last May 8 in Finance Minister John Turner's budget and the government has said that basically it is sticking by these.

But Prime Minister Trudeau has left the door open to possible changes in the personal income tax field because of "lessons" his government learned in the election, when voters cut the Liberal majority to one of the tightest minority positions in parliamentary history.

Commons bills to implement the budget measures died on the order paper when Parliament was dissolved for the Oct. 30 vote. Those bills or modified replacements will have to be reintroduced soon after the House resumes Jan. 4.

The main ones cover changes in the income tax, excise tax and customs tariff laws.

Chief tax changes in the budget were for corporations, in most of which Mr. Turner proposed to boost production and thereby generate more jobs.

The May budget called for reduction to 40 from 49 per cent in the maximum federal income tax rate applicable to manufacturing and profiting profits earned in Canada. A fast two-year cost write-off was included for machinery and equipment bought after May 8 for use in manufacturing or processing. Only minor changes were set for the personal income tax field.

The special deduction for those 65 and over, for taxpayers confined to bed or a wheelchair and for the blind was raised to $1,000 from $650.

A new deduction of $50 a month was introduced for students in full-time attendance at some post-secondary educational or training institutes. It can be claimed by the student or by a parent or relative supporting such a student.

One other change would provide for reduction of up to $10 in the year in personal income taxes. It comes into effect in 1973 and results from revised income tax law applying for the first time in 1972 after passage late the previous year.

Financial Boost

MONTREAL (CP) — This city will receive a financial boost in June, 1973, Kiwanis International, bolding its convention here, will bring 20,000 people and an estimated $8 million in extra tourist revenue, a government spokesman said.

Fabbro To Act For J. R. Scott

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Joe Fabbro of Sudbury will act until Jan. 13 as president of the Association of Ontario Municipalities.

Former president Russell Scott was defeated Dec. 4 in bid for re-election as mayor of Belleville.

Mr. Fabbro said Monday association directors will meet Jan. 13 to examine the group's constitution to determine whether Mr. Scott can be made an honorary member and retain the presidency.

The association's first vice-president, Val Swain, did not seek re-election as mayor of Kingston in the last election.

Allmand Studying Report on Paroles

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Warren Allmand is studying a report that could lead to significant changes in the present system of granting leaves and paroles to prisoners.

He said in an interview Monday that the report by a study group headed by Superior Court Judge James K. Hugessen of Montreal was commissioned in June when the penitentiary system was under heavy fire.

The minister, who took over the portfolio only three weeks ago, said he is reading the report and added that "it is very possible" the government might revise the parole and temporary absence system. He warned there could be more tightening of the controversial leave system.

Mr. Allmand recently toured penitentiary and other facilities in the Kingston, Ont., area and in Alberta and British Columbia.

Speaking of his tour, he said a single common complaint was that penitentiary staffs are overworked. He was increasing efforts made by former minister Jean-Pierre Goyer to increase positions in the service.

Leaves and paroles were a major issue during the recent federal election campaign with some complaints that prisoners let out of prison committed crimes and assaults. In British Columbia there was concern about sexual offenders in particular.

Mr. Allmand said that only a small percentage of leaves granted to prisoners end up as failures. Regulations on granting these leaves had been tightened, last summer so that, for instance, they were not available to dangerous sexual offenders.

The program was continuing while the service was attempting to correct abuses.

"I think we can go forward with a reform program in penitentiaries and a reform program in our parole system and also improve our security for the public," he said.

The minister said the public can be protected through better screening and better classification of prisoners so that "better risks go into the community."

The reform program itself was a protection. The public should be able to expect that a man sentenced to five years would return to the community a better man through rehabilitation techniques.

Congressional Foes Of War Plan Moves

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — President Nixon's decision to reopen full-scale aerial warfare in North Vietnam was viewed by anti-war members of Congress today as a sign that attempts to end the fighting by negotiations have failed and Congress now must try to stop the conflict by legislative action.

The possibility was raised that a new spate of end-the-war amendments would be introduced in Congress shortly after it reconvenes on Jan. 3.

President Nixon announced that he had ordered resumed American bombing north of the 20th parallel, along with the re-mining of North Vietnamese harbors, two days after his chief peace negotiator, Henry Kissinger, told a news conference that talks in Paris had broken down and that it was Hanoi's fault. Hanoi, in turn, blamed the U.S. for the breakdown.

Observers saw this move on Washington's part as another attempt to apply force on the North in the belief that intensified military action would break Hanoi's spirit and force it into a willingness to make peace.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he was disturbed by the resumption of the bombing above the 20th parallel.

"I do not think raining Hallphon and stepping up the bombing will bring Hanoi to its knees," he said. "It looks like we are back in the same old tunnel."

Mansfield said he believes the failure of the Paris talks would make it more likely that anti-war amendments would surface in the Senate, aimed at bringing an end to U.S. participation through a cut-off of war funding or through a binding policy declaration.

Senator George McGovern asserted that "over the past several days the Nixon administration has formally crushed the hopes for peace that were so artfully constructed during the months leading-up to election day."

McGovern, Democratic presidential nominee who was soundly defeated by Nixon Nov. 7, said Nixon was tied to South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, and it was the Saigon leader who had prevented the United States from making a peace.

Economic Future Stake In Gas Price Dispute

OTTAWA (CP) — The escalating Ontario-Alberta war over natural gas prices goes beyond even the massive sums of money involved.

At stake could be the economic future of the two provinces—or so spokesmen for each side argue. For individual Ontario consumers, war could mean an extra $25 a year on their gas bills in the near future.

The position of Alberta government and industry is that prices for natural gas must be raised substantially. If not, Alberta would continue to subsidize Ontario industry with cheap gas, losing not only revenue but also possible new industries the cheap gas would attract to Ontario.

A report by the Ontario Natural Gas Association (ONGA), however, argues that Ontario consumers already face high gas prices and further increases would make industry unable to compete effectively with United States interests.

It estimates that price increases proposed by the Alberta energy conservation board would cost Ontario homeowners and industries $21.6 billion over the next 30 years.

Although other provinces are involved in the dispute, Ontario is by far the largest Alberta gas customer and has opposed price increases most vigorously.

About 95 per cent of Ontario's gas comes from Alberta.

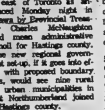
New Regions



Turmoil For County?

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The regional government proposal for nine communities east of Toronto announced Monday night in Oshawa by Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton would mean administrative turmoil for Hastings county.

The new regional government set-up, if it goes into effect with proposed boundary lines, would see nine rural and urban municipalities in East Northumberland joined to Hastings county.

"County administration would be in a turmoil," said

CARL BATEMAN
Stadles New Report

Hastings clerk administrator Carl Bateman said: "It would mean that the county will have to re-organize before."

(The reference to two re-organizations was made on the premise that regional government will also come to Hastings within the next few years).

Mr. Bateman said the addition of Northumberland county townships of Percy, Cramahe, Brighton, Seymour and Murray and the urban centres of Campbellford, Hastings, Brighton and Colborne would double the county's road mileage and add another 24,000 to its population.

It also would mean that schools and hospitals in the involved municipalities would be included in the county school system.

"All our administrative boards for the various county organizations — roads, homes for the aged, health unit and so on would have to be re-organized."

It would also mean another increase in the already expanded membership on county council will be increased to 47 from the present 34 in January 1973, while representation from the new municipalities to the west would boost this to a possible 60 or more members when the new regional government becomes effective, possibly in 1974.

Hastings county warden Carman Gibson termed the Oshawa centred regional government proposal as "pretty radical".

He admitted that at the moment it was only a proposal but noted that previous regional government proposals by the provincial government had a record of materializing. Warden Gibson agreed that another 12 or so county council members would pose problems of accommodation but suggested that before the new regional government setup became effective representation might be changed.

He said Hastings might even be reviewed with amalgamations of certain townships which would have the effect of reducing membership on county council.

Although he will have no official position on next year's council, Mr. Gibson expects the matter would be discussed at the January session at which time there could be a decision on whether the county would officially comment on the proposal.

Deseronto Reeve George Lyons, one of the two candidates for the 1973 county warden ship, said the regional government proposal for the municipalities between Toronto and Colborne was "ridiculous" and that it could result in "one awful headache for Hastings county."

He said the proposal for regional government was vastly different than what was expected.

"There were a lot of people very upset (at the meeting) they had been led to believe it would be something else."

Even members of the legislature apparently were not fully aware of the details of the proposal.

Hastings MPP Cliffe Rollins at last week's meeting of Hastings county council invited regional representatives at the Oshawa meeting but suggested the county was not directly involved.

Hastings Affected

Regional Government Closer

That regional government is getting ever closer to Hastings County was indicated at Oshawa Monday evening as Provincial Treasurer Charles McNaughton outlined a proposal encompassing three historic counties east of Metro Toronto.

The regional government area as proposed by Mr. McNaughton would cover the territory from Metro's eastern boundary to just short of Colborne with Lake Ontario as the Southern boundary and the northern line zigzagging from Uxbridge to the northern end of Rice Lake.

The area covers 1,168 square miles, and has a population of 236,000.

Election for the two-tier local government system could be held late next year and the system would be operative by the beginning of 1974.

Mr. McNaughton said he would accept comments as the proposal until the end of February. He hopes to have legislation passed by the present provincial government during the next session.

Although the boundaries for the proposed regional government system do not reach as far as Hastings, intention of the system would have a big effect on this county.

Three townships in East Northumberland — Cramahe, Percy, Brighton, Seymour and Murray — along with the urban municipalities of Brighton Colborne, Hastings and Campbellford — would be joined to Hastings.

Mr. McNaughton said there were two arguments for the proposed boundary, one being that the two above townships would be increasingly drawn toward Port Hope and Cobourg and their inclusion in the region is important if urban pressures were to be controlled.

Secondly, Colborne, Cramahe, Percy and Hastings village are clearly not oriented toward Port Hope and Cobourg but rather toward Peterborough, and Trenton-Belleville.

It was proposed that these four municipalities become part of Hastings but if convincing arguments for inclusion with Peterborough can be made, the government would be said willing to consider them.

Boy's Best Friend

The attraction was mutual when Aaron Lewis, two-year-old Deseronto tot, chose puppy at Ontario Humane Society Quinte Shelter. The society is offering large selection of pups which, it says, make ideal gifts for youngsters come Christmas.

Aaron's Christmas In Furry Wrapping

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Christmas came early this year for Aaron Lewis.

Yesterday he got his biggest gift.

Because of its special nature his mother brought the two-year-old youngster from Deseronto into Belleville so he could make his own choice.

Aaron's big Christmas present is a week-old spotted pup which he picked himself from among a wide variety at the Ontario Humane Society's Quinte shelter.

His mother, Mrs. Carl Lewis figured it important her son make his own choice of a "furry friend" since it "will be his buddy" through childhood.

Aaron himself didn't comment, at least verbally. But his face showed a long, happy partnership was being unwrapped in the last shopping day before Christmas.

The pup was only one of more than 20 for sale at the shelter, where the OHS is recent years has been processing such adoptions of small animals as ideal Christmas gifts.

Even more pups were due today, and go up for adoption along with kittens left at the shelter.

Finding homes for animals is an increasingly busy task for the OHS, said an official.

Currently, the number of animals taken into the shelter — whether strays or adoptive placements — is running around 500 a month.

Bata Strike Would Be First In 33 Years of Operations

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Should negotiations between Bata Shoe management and local union officials continue on the present course as described by union spokesman in Frankford Monday morning, Bata Canadian shoe company may be faced with its first strike since establishing a here 33 years ago.

During a press conference at the Bata and Shoe workers' union headquarters in Frankford, international representative Ian Retlly charged the company with breaking faith on present negotiations.

He said: "It appears to us the company is trying to force us into a strike action."

Union representatives say company negotiators did a complete about-face Dec. 7, after six months of talks by refusing to consider writing incentive rules into a new contract. The old contract expired Oct. 2, 1972.

To replace the present "chaotic" system of piecerate bonuses, one system incorporating all rates, written into a contract, would give union officials the ability to go to arbitration should a grievance arise.

Mr. Reilly says the union has been more than pleased with the company negotiations over the past 25 years.

"We've never had an arbitration case at Bata," he said.

"This time we got into conciliation . . . a normal bargaining process with this particular company."

The international union representative from Belleville, said Bata has traditionally held out until the last minute of conciliation, but had always "negotiated in good faith" until this time.

At the Monday press conference, he suggested certain changes in local company management may have led to what he termed a breach of faith.

Bata Shoe general manager William O'Rourke, who announced his position as March of 1970, said in a telephone interview Monday afternoon his job has been the only recent senior management change. He also says he has not met with union representatives that present bargaining is in the hands of a committee representing management.

Mr. O'Rourke declined to comment on Monday's proceedings without having first had an opportunity to study the union's position as stated at the Frankford press conference.

He did say, however, that "as far as we're concerned, we've had wonderful relations (with the workers) and depend on the people who work here. There is no animosity."

Mr. O'Rourke said Bata Shoe located at Batawa in 1939, with 250 of its European employees, including those in engineering. At present, he said, there are 1,250 employees. It is the 700 who are members of the union locals who are negotiating with the company.

The 700 are located at plants in Batawa, Campbellford and Picton.

If a strike should occur, it would be the first in the company's Canadian history, he said.

One bone of contention with the union, is the company's announced plans to call in a big-name American lawyer to negotiate Bata's position. Mr. Reilly charged this move is "another backward step in reaching a settlement." He felt an American negotiator would not understand the Canadian problem and would require time - consuming explanations before negotiations could continue. The union representative referred to the lawyer as "anti-union."

To date, 13 negotiating meetings, two conciliation sessions and a number of subcommittee sessions, have been held. The next, on Jan. 4, is scheduled to be held at the Four Seasons Hotel in Belleville, chosen by the union as a neutral site by the provincial department of labor.

Answering the charges concerning the American lawyer, Mr. O'Rourke said the solicitor has been retained by Bata for the past 20 years. "He's the man who has worked for major shoe companies in both Canada and the United States. He's just a consultant. This is nothing new."

School Systems May Avoid Regional Change

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Tacking five townships on Hastings county may, not affect its two school systems.

The provincial government's proposal to introduce regional government from Toronto almost to Colborne will add Percy, Cramahe, Brighton, Seymour and Murray townships to Hastings county.

But in setting up similar regions in the past the government has left the school boundaries untouched. This was the case in the Niagara-Welland area said is part of the proposal for Hastings-Peel.

In that case the Northumberland-Durham board of education would be preserved intact and added in the five Northumberland townships would continue to be administered from board headquarters in Cobourg.

The two-tier director of education Frank Thom said this morning it is "too early to tell" how education will be, affected. Education was never mentioned Monday night at the meeting held in Oshawa by Provincial Treasurer of the regional government scheme, nor is it included in the written government proposal.

Included in the five townships are two secondary schools (East Northumberland Secondary School and Campbellford High School) 17 elementary schools and two schools for the mentally retarded.

E. J. Boyle, superintendent for separate schools for Hastings and Prince Edward, also alluded to the history of regional government and unchanged education boundaries. Only two separate schools would enter the system if the educational boundaries are changed to include the five townships. There is a two-room school in Hastings and a six room school in Campbellford.

Eric Runacres, director of education for the Hastings county board, said the system would absorb the estimated 4,000 pupils from Northumberland without additional administrative personnel.

"We need a broader base of operation," he said. "Our 22,000 pupils is at the lower end of the efficiency curve; 35,000 to 50,000 pupils is considered the fewest desirable from maximum efficiency and services."

Mr. Runacres said he has never considered political boundaries viable as educational boundaries, but the addition of the five Northumberland townships could be a mixed blessing. They are among the most sparsely populated of the twin-counties.

"We need more people, we don't need more geography," he said.

Santa's Mail Drops

PICTON (Staff) — Postmaster Robert Carter says this year's Christmas mail volume closely parallels that of 1971 and the post currently has co-operated in meeting mailing deadlines.

The deadline for out-of-town packages was Dec. 13, while the last day for guaranteed delivery of in-town cards and packages was Dec. 17. This year more gift senders have mailed parcels early to minimize last minute confusion for postal workers.

Mr. Carter said three extra employees were hired for the holiday season in addition to nine regular workers.

The postmaster reported a sharp drop in mail to all but one address this Christmas.

Few letters have been received for Santa Claus at the Picton post office. Mr. Carter explained that since service organizations have shouldered the task of receiving letters for the Jolly Old Elf he seldom has mail delivered by regular post.

Here I Am at Last

Lana DeGazio, 11-month-old-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominique DeGazio, RR 2, Consecon, had her turn on Santa's knee Monday evening in the Pediatrics Ward of the Belleville General Hospital. But, her outstretched arms just couldn't get around him. With her on Santa's lap is Dennis Kellar, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kellar, RR 4, Stirling.

Pro Softball May Move Mound

TORONTO (CP) — The North American Softball League, encompassing teams in the eastern United States and Canada, will tamper with current fastball regulations to make life sport more entertaining, says the man who is forecasting for the league opening in 1973.

"We're going to make it profitable and exciting even if it means tampering with the rules at first," said Mitchell Litman, executive-director of Major League Softball Inc., who was in Toronto Monday to line up executive personnel for the city team.

"For instance," he continued, "the pitchers are dominating the game and we're planning to move the mound back either two or four feet.

"The fans don't want to watch 1-0 games. . . . We have to get some hits and running into the game."

Litman said the league, with franchises in six cities and plans to add two more teams to open the three-month schedule, also will consider making the base paths longer and "we may put the best nine offensive players in the lineup when the team is batting and use the best nine defensive players when they're on the field."

He said a regional sport network in the U.S. has expressed interest in televising at least one game a week and that California groups have indicated interest in joining the league.

"We have already overtures from six cities in California but we can't envision cross-country trips at this time. We're going to walk before we run."

The initial season, said Litman, will schedule weekend games only, with teams visiting cities to play Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons.

"So there is no need for players to uproot themselves from regular jobs. As for salaries, we don't expect them to be huge to start until the public is aware of the players individually and they become familiar figures."

He said pitchers might command as high as $3,000 for the 12 weekends and other players' salaries will range between $2,000 and $3,000.

"There will be some disparity in the pay scale at first until the league catches on," Litman said officers of Major League Softball are recommending that owners not go after players with open books of blank cheques.

In addition to Toronto, Franchises already have been assigned to Montreal, Washington, St. Louis, Mobile, Ala., and New Orleans.

Two more teams will be added from Memphis, Boston, Philadelphia and Charlotte, N.C., bids, with Philadelphia and Charlotte holding the inside track. Shea Dere are good stadiums available there.

During the league's first three seasons of operation, the franchises will be leased from Major League Softball Inc. for $10,000 a year.

"After those three seasons the local sponsors can acquire permanent rights to the franchise for a further fee of $20,000," said Litman. "We're going to be sure the teams are operated properly and funded properly.

"We have set up budgets for each team at approximately $110,000 per season. The sponsors can't move a team out of town, they can't throw in the cards and fold the team, they can't sell the rights to anyone else for those three years."

He said he expected financial problems at first "because we don't expect the public to come storming our doors to see the games."

Griffith Fouls Out

PARIS (AP) — Jean-Claude Bouttier of France won a second shot at Carlos Monzon's middleweight boxing crown Monday when his foe, Emile Griffith of New York, was disqualified in the seventh round for hitting low.

The crowd screamed "scandal" and "robber" when referee Georges Gendre waved his arms over his head with a thirty gone in the seventh round after Griffith had drifled a blow to Bouttier's mid-section.

The French fighter grabbed his middle and began moaning. "Oh, is la." Earlier in the round, Bouttier had turned to the crowd in agony after Griffith had landed a blow, indicating that the American's punch was low.

Lefebure to Japan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger second baseman, Jim Lefebvre, has signed a lucrative three-year contract to play for Lotte Orions of the Japanese Baseball League, a spokesman for the club confirmed Monday.

The 28-year-old veteran, who was the National League Rookie of the Year in 1965, was reported to have made $40,000 with the Dodgers. Last year he played in only 70 games, most of them before the all-star break, batting .301.

The Dodgers also confirmed that his contract with the Orions would make him the highest paid player in Japanese baseball history.

Lefebvre was with Los Angeles for eight seasons and became popular in Japan by leading the Dodgers in hitting in a 1966 post-season tour of the Orient. The switch-hitter was dubbed by Japanese writers as The Little Mickey Mantle on that trip.

The spokesman said negotiations with the popular Dodger had continued since the end of the season and he said, "Jim received an offer that was too good to turn down."

The Dodgers released him and he was waived by the other American clubs.

Resesve Clause Fated?

MONTREAL (CP) — If Alan Eagleson gets his way, players in the National Hockey League will eventually negotiate with club owners as free agents.

Eagleson, executive director of the NHL Players' Association, said in an interview Monday he has met several times with the league's governors to discuss adjustments in the NHL's reserve clause.

The reserve clause in a hockey contract binds a player to a team for the length of his playing career, unless he is traded or sold to another club.

"I'm looking over the next year to a system that will be acceptable to both players and owners, that will give a player an opportunity to leave a team on a free-agency basis," Eagleson said.

Earlier, Eagleson told a meeting of the Canadian Club of Montreal the four most important players to Team Canada during last September's exhibition series against the Russian national team were Bobby Orr, Marcel Dionne, Dave Tallon and Brian Glennie.

The four, who did not play in the series, "kept the team together and were part of the team as much as anyone else."

Eagleson said he would like to see Canadian players continue to play together for Canada in international hockey, but he indicated NHL club owners would prefer to see individual clubs play individual European teams.

He said negotiations are still under way for a six-or eight-game series between NHL teams and the Russian team in November or December, 1973.

"Of course, you never know with the Russians until it's in writing."

He said the ultimate goal is to have an international world cup of hockey contested every three or four years.

Eagleson reviewed his experiences in Russia during the Team Canada series and said the Russian players were "real the gentlemen as portrayed by some members of the news media."

Heads Roll In NFL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two low-flying National Football League birds, Philadelphia Eagles and St. Louis, Cardinals, fired their head coaches Monday while eight more fortunate teams began dreaming of the Super Bowl.

Eddie Khayat was dropped by Philadelphia after a 2-11-1 season and, further clearing the decks, the Eagles also accepted the resignation of general manager Pete Retzlaff.

Bob Hollway was fired by St. Louis after a second straight 4-9-1 year with the Cardinals. A final victory Sunday over those same Eagles wasn't enough to save him.

All around the NFL, the crowing boat was rocking.

Tommy Prothro's status with Los Angeles Rams remained in limbo. Weeb Ewbank said he would retire after the 1973 season with New York Jets. And, New York Giants gave Alex Webster another one-year contract.

No word from New England Patriots. Phil Bengtson signed on a month ago as an interim coach when John Mazur was fired and the situation remained clouded for the lowly 3-11 Pats.

Eight somewhat happier NFL teams sketched game plans for Saturday and Sunday playoff showdowns.

Oakland, 10-3-1, plays at Pittsburgh, 11-3, Saturday and Cleveland Browns, 10-4, visit Miami Dolphins, 14-0, Sunday in American Conference match-ups.

In the National Conference, world champion Dallas, 10-4, will be at San Francisco, 8-5-1, Saturday and Green Bay, 10-4, takes on the Redskins, 11-3, Sunday at Washington.

Hollway reacted with anger at his dismissal by Bill Bidwell, owner of the Cardinals, saying:

"I'm a good football coach and a winner. "I'll do well with any team I coach."

Support from Cardinal players was bittersweet.

"I really expected him to be back," said quarterback Jim Hart. "It's like taking a step backward."

However, running back Johnny Roland said "it wasn't an unknown fact that a lot of guys didn't take to his coaching philosophies."

St. Louis won its final two games to give Hollway consecutive seasons of 4-9-1 after taking over from another fired Cardinal leader, Charley Winner.

Ewbank, 66, has served New York in the dual job of head coach-general manager since the Titans of the old American Football League were renamed the Jets in 1963.

"Next season will be my last as head coach," said Ewbank. "I want to spend some time with my wife. She's a pretty good gal."

Across town, the Giants rewarded Webster for an 8-6 season, giving the former star halfback a fifth straight one-year deal.

Philadelphia owner Leonard Tose said Retzlaff, a former star, wide receiver with the Eagles, submitted his resignation three weeks ago.

Khayat, 37, went to the Eagles' owner 19 days ago and wanted to know where he stood. He found out Monday, getting the axe one year after engineering one of the NFL's top comebacks.

The former placekicker-tackle was hired as Eagle line coach in 1971 and was promoted to the head job when Jerry Williams was dropped after an 8-5 beginning to the season.

Khayat applied an iron grip, ordering players to shave beards and mustaches and ordering some to get haircuts. It seemed to work as Philadelphia rallied for a 6-7-1 over-all mark.

Nothing worked this year.

"I don't want to sound smart or glib," said Tose, "but I want a man who can take the present material plus players from the draft and make us a winner."

Retzlaff, 49, was hired four years ago when trucking executive Tose bought the team from financially-troubled Jerry Wolman for $16.5 million.

Meehan, Apps Among Leaders

MONTREAL (CP) — While the high-scoring line of Gilbert Perreault, Rene Robert and Richard Martin has added credibility to Buffalo Sabres better-performance in the National Hockey League this season, as fourth member of the club has been on the hottest goal-scoring binge in the league.

Statistics released today by the league show that lanky centain Gerry Meehan has blitzed opposition goalies for 17 goals in his last 16 games.

During his current streak, the bushy six-foot, two-inch, 200-pound native of Toronto has scored at least one goal in 13 of those 16 games.

Included in Meehan's performance are four game-winning goals in his last 11 games, a total which ties him with several other players for the lead in that statistic.

Meehan's total of 18 goals—he also has eight assists—is only one fewer than he scored in 77 games last season, and only six short of his personal high of 24 which he scored in 1970-71. All this is despite the fact he managed only one goal in Buffalo's first 15 games this season.

The Sabres currently are in fourth place in the eight-team East Division with 14 points, five fewer than first-place Montreal Canadiens.

SLY APPS

Apps has collected 29 points in his last 14 games by way of 10 goals and 19 assists. In his first 17 games he had six goals and six assists.

Included in his recent performance is a six-point outburst, three goals and three assists, during last Wednesday's 9-1 win over New York Islanders.

That tied Apps with Perreault for the most points counted in one game this season—six. Perreault scored two goals and assisted in four others Oct. 22 against Atlanta Flames.

In the scoring race, Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins leads with 48 points, including a league-leading 30 assists. Jacques Lemaire of Montreal Canadiens ,the goal-scoring leader with 27, is second with 46 points, one more than Robert and two more than Perreault.

Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks is fifth with 42 points, followed by Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia Flyers with 42 and Apps with 41. Rod Gilbert of New York Rangers also has 41, while Martin and Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer have 40 points apiece.

Buffalo is the only club with three players—Perreault, Robert and Martin—in the top 10.

Assists Help Ward Cement

SANTA ANA, Calif. (CP) — Ron Ward spent the week helping out.

He picked up a pair of goals, but his nine assists gave him an 11-point week and further cemented his hold on the World Hockey Association scoring lead. Ward now has 28 goals and 36 assists for 58 points in 33 games with New York Raiders.

Bobby Sheehan, who had gone seven games without a goal for New York, broke out with three against Quebec Dec. 13. He added two assists for a five-point game. Sheehan has 20 goals and 24 assists for 44 points, tied for fourth in the league.

Another Raider, Norm Ferguson, also is in the WHA's top 10. Ferguson's 16 goals and 24 assists for 40 points place him in a tie for ninth.

Chris Bordeleau of Winnipeg Jets remains in second place with 26 goals and 21 assists for 47 points. Terry Caffery of New England Whalers moved from a tie for seventh to sole possession of third place, with two goals and seven assists for a nine-point week. He has 16 goals and 29 assists for 45 points.

Cleveland's Gerry Cheevers leads the goalkeepers with a 2.44 goals-against average.

Skrien Picks John Payne

REGINA (CP) — Dave Skrien, who announced his resignation as head coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders Saturday, says he thinks assistant coach John Payne should be the next coach of the Western Football Conference team.

Skrien recommended Payne, an assistant since 1971, when he spoke with club president Al Sangster during the weekend.

"We'll definitely consider John," Sangster said. "But it will take us a little while to formulate our ideas."

Russians-Czechs on National Television

The Royal Bank International Hockey Tournament certainly doesn't carry the same significance as the historical September series between the Russian and Canadian teams, but for one day at least hockey fans from coast to coast will focus attention upon it.

That day will be Friday, Dec. 29 when the Russians face Czechoslovakia at Maple Leaf Gardens. The game will be televised nationally on the CTV network beginning at 8 p.m. The game promises to be significant for a number of reasons.

The meeting could very well decide the championship of the senior hockey tournament with both the Czechs and Russians considered as major contenders for tourney honors.

The Timra Hockey Club of Prague is carrying the Czech banner, but because of other international commitments, they have been allowed to add outside players for the Canadian tournament. As a result, 12 members of the Czech national team are slated to see action here.

The Moscow Dynamos, on the other hand, will be the first actual Russian team to tour Canada. Other Soviet entries here have been all-star groups picked especially to represent the USSR in international competition. The Dynamos have won the Soviet championship only twice, and not since 1956, but are always among the major powers. They were runners-up for the Soviet Cup last season and defeated the championship Army Central team 6-2 in their last meeting.

The Russian - Czech meeting should also appeal to Canadian fans because of the contrasting styles of play. The Czechs, more than any other European hockey power, play a Canadian - style of hockey, while the Russians have developed their own brand which centres on patient passing.

Another interesting point about the Dec. 29th clash is that there has been little love lost between the two hockey powers over the years. One veteran CAHA official has noted that, "They talk about how rough the Canadians are, but I think the most brutal game I've seen in international hockey was one between the Russians and Czechs."

The two clubs will be competing against Sweden, Galt Hornets, Owen Sound Downtowners and Kingston Aces in the 16-game tournament.

Bantam Minors Get Present

McInroy - Maines bantam minors earned one Christmas present over the weekend, but had to contest another.

John Jianopoulis led the Belleville OMHA bantam entry to a 10-0 victory over the Willowdale bantams with his hat trick collection of goals. Randy Hutchinson saw two of his shots hit the Willowdale netting while Rick Sproule, Jeff Gow, Howie Coons, Randy Bill, and Mike Kimball put in single goals.

In Sunday's game, McInroy-Maines met more opposition from Willowdale but still came away with a 4-3 victory.

Bobby Crawford, Jeff Gow, John Jianopoulis, and Dave McBride tallied for McInroy-Maines.

Paterno Slated for Patriots ?

BOSTON (AP) — The New England Patriots want Penn State head coach Joe Paterno to rebuild their National Football League club and are willing to offer him a million dollar, five-year contract, the Boston Globe said today.

If accepted, the Globe said, Paterno would become the highest paid coach in sports' history.

Paterno, currently preparing Penn State for the Super Bowl, has indicated he would like to move to New England.

The Patriots, who finished with a 3-11 record, are now without a coach. John Mazur resigned in mid-season and was replaced by Phil Bengtson from the San Diego Chargers' front office with the agreement that Bengtson would stay on only until the end of the season.

Centennial Srs. Blitz Napanee

Round figures are easily remembered, but the Napanee senior basketball players would probably prefer to forget their 50 point loss at the hands of Centennial.

Centennial seniors defeated Napanee 71-21 in high school basketball action Monday night. Napanee, who have fallen to win a game this season, were down 4-4 at half time. Their four points were earned on two foul shots and one basket from the field.

Randy Starrie with 23 points was the top scorer for Centennial. Vahe Farmakezian (11) and Brian Murphy (9) also added points to the total.

The Napanee midgets and Juniors fared better than the seniors as they won their games.

John Paquette (14), Dan Hunt (11), and Wayne Elliot with eight points contributed to the 43-37 Napanee midget victory. Centennial's Brent Babcock was the highest scorer of the game with 24 points while teammate Bob Thompson flurried eight.

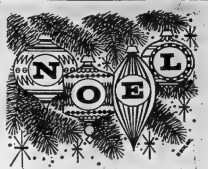
Napanee Juniors defeated their Centennial counterparts 53-48.

Rick Walters led the Napanee Juniors to a 53-48 victory over Centennial as he bagged 25 points. Andy Eadie with 16 and Rick DaSilva with 12 added support. Splinters (10), Vanderwaler (12), and Dyssayal with 16 were the high scorers for Centennial's Juniors.

North Shore Tables Turned

The roles were turned around in North Shore hockey action Monday night as Proctor's Ralph Irvine did the policing against the OPP team.

Irvine arrested the OPP scoring with a four goal effort to lead Proctor to a 7-3 win. Tom Lavender, Greg Burkitt, Rollie Berry each scored a goal apiece to give Proctor six points over second place Wellington.



Bill Walby netted two goals for OPP while Glen Wannamaker added the final. Gary Hiscrel and Bill Reagy each earned two assists from the OPP tallies.

"That's 10 knockouts in a row for my new heavy. I found him wasting his time as a hockey player!"

Ward Cornell Shuns High Hat Diplomacy

LONDON (CP) — To Ward Cornell, agent-general for Ontario in London, diplomacy is strictly a "meat and potatoes" business.

The idea of striped pants doesn't appeal in the case of this 49-year-old* schnoozcancer, formerly best known in cultural realm too, with Canada House staging a number of exhibitions featuring Ontario artists.

Despite the recent immigration-debate furore over Britain's alleged drift away from its traditional loyalty to Commonwealth countries, he says he still finds "a great respect" for Canada among the many residents of this country he meets while doing his job.

"They sort of like our expertise," said the agent-general, who described the attitude of Britons towards Canadians as "You're polite but you get things done."

He contends that a sense of "special relationship" remains in dealings between Britain and Canada, despite this country's entry into the European Common Market.

Common Market membership for Britain is going to produce difficulties for Canadian businessmen accustomed to preferential treatment here, he conceded.

"But if you have a good product established in Britain, they'll still be a demand for it, preferences or not," the agent-general went on.

Cornell, like other official spokesmen from Canada, seems convinced that, despite the negative effects of entry, Canadian men of commerce should think primarily of the new opportunities.

Apart from his work-day attitudes, Cornell demonstrates a special feeling for Britain in the course of his leisure hours too.

For instance, he and his wife Georgina, with the younger three of their five children, make a point of spending as many weekends as possible touring London and the best of other historical centres in this area of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornell live with David, 13, Michelle, 12, and Matthew, 11, at an apartment in Reeres Mews, a cosy street tucked away in the affluent Mayfair district of London.

Coming to Britain meant some tricky adjustments for the children, notably a switch to a tutorial system of education and learning to live in a neighborhood singularly lacking in playmates their own age.

Yet the vast green stretches of Hyde Park are not far away. And for Mr. and Mrs. Cornell in particular, the wealth of art galleries and other cultural establishments in the capital provide unbounded recreational opportunities.

For the plain-talking agent-general's office is no place for the moment.

Occasionally too, he drops down to the main lobby for chats with the tourists from Ontario who are constantly to be found there.

WARD CORNELL

Canadians as the 12-year bias on Hockey Night in Canada.

Running Ontario House, the province's six-storey centre in London's West End, "is not unlike managing a really good radio station," says Cornell.

He ought to know, since he used to run a radio station in London, Ont., before his 1967 plunge into a five-year stint as head of his own communications-and-management consultancy firm, Ward Cornell Ltd.

Since he arrived here to assume his new duties in May, 1972, Cornell has been implementing the Ontario government's policy of giving the London agent-general a bigger role to perform in the field of attracting tourists to the province as well as stimulating the export of Ontario-manufactured goods, services and farm products in Britain.

In fact Cornell rates himself simply as the chief executive officer of Ontario House, with its staff of 35.

But the agent-general has more than merely administer the Ontario headquarters on history-steeped Charles II Street.

A typical Cornell work day begins with his 8:30 a.m. arrival at the office—prodigiously early by British standards—and carries on in the form of staff meetings, talks with Ontario and British businessmen and briefings for provincial delegations representing anything from the packaging industry to tourism.

Then there are the luncheons and receptions which provide an opportunity not only for socializing but getting to meet top men of British business and politics.

The agent-general regards Ontario House and nearby Canada House as mutually complementary in their functions.

In an interview, he talked emphatically of "the good rapport" between his organizations and that of a man he admires, Canadian High Commissioner J. H. Warren.

There's full co-operation on such bread-and-butter matters as immigration and in the cultaught English and history at Pickering College in Ontario.

It was at this time that he began writing and broadcasting on a free-lance basis.

In 1954, he joined the broadcasting division of London Free Press Ltd., where he served as news editor, program manager and general manager.

While doing all this at radio station CFPL, Cornell maintained his free-lance activities and in 1957 started Ward Cornell Ltd.

These days informality prevails at Ontario House to the point where some visitors who happen to turn up spontaneously are admitted to the agent-general's office on the spur of the moment.

Early French Drawing Highlight of Exhibit

OTTAWA (CP) — A small chalk drawing of a rocky landscape, sketched three centuries ago by a little-known French artist, is regarded by art historians as something of a keystone picture in the evolution of artistic styles.

The drawing by Gaspard Dughet in black chalk on green-tab-blue paper, about eight by 15 inches, is in the collection of the National Gallery of Canada. A 1955 purchase, it had previously been owned by the Earl of Dartmouth in England.

Currently, the picture is one of 58 in an exhibition of 137 drawings of French masters of the 17th and 18th centuries on loan to the gallery from collections in Europe and North America.

Assembled by Pierre Rosenberg, paintings curtor at the Louvre, Paris, and originally shown at the Ontario Art Gallery in Toronto, the exhibition moves from Ottawa to San Francisco and New York in 1973.

What makes Dughet's Rocky Landscape important is that it is one of the rare works of an artist who was instrumental in the beginnings of French landscape painting of about 1650. Before that, French artists used landscapes only as a background for paintings of people, religious events, or allegories.

Dughet, who died in 1675, was a brother-in-law of Nicolas Poussin, under whom he studied and whose name he later adopted as his own. That caused confusion for later art historians. Only a few of his drawings have been authenticated, including six similar to the Ottawa gallery's now in a gallery at Sacramento, Calif.

One other Dughet drawing, View of Tivoli, from the North Carolina Museum of Art, is included in the current exhibition. Mr. Rosenberg says in his catalogue for the collection that it has been wrongly attributed to Jean Antoine Watteau but seems clearly to be the original sketch for an oil painting by Dughet now in the National Gallery, London.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.
This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).
Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Carols Draw Big Crowds

No secret motive, said a spokesman for the Hastings County Board of Education. We have left our offices to come to the schools to get into the fun of Christmas. All week administrative and secretarial staff of board officers have been joining student bodies to participate in Yuletide activities. Administrators and Queen Victoria Public School students are lead through festive songs by Don Lockyer, past principal of the school.

Radio, TV Coverage Is Tested

EDMONTON (CP) — The Progressive Conservative government of Alberta, elected in a landslide 16 months ago, has concluded its first full session with live television and radio coverage in an attempt to bring the legislature closer to the people.

Lou Hyndman, minister of municipal affairs and government house leader, says of the experiment:

"It has added a new dimension to the understanding, by the public, of what's going on in their legislature. It seems to me that, so far, the experiment has proved very satisfactory."

The experiment was watched closely by other provinces and by Ottawa because the Alberta legislature was the first in the Commonwealth to permit such coverage when it amended the Legislative Assembly Act, effective last March 15.

But, what Premier Peter Lougheed described as a "hectoric first" has fallen short of expectations. One minute and a half ago, the often-humdrum business of the 75-seat house has little audience appeal.

There was hope that speeches might become more concise as members tried to spruce up their "on camera" image but, the fall stilling, it seemed like the daily presence of cameras had been forgotten.

On the first day last March, when three color cameras were in the chamber, as many as seven members jumped to their feet at the same time during the question period.

Basic programming for the Edmonton outlets of the CBC and CTV television networks consists of spot coverage in the legislature which is packaged for a weekly show.

CFRN, the CTV affiliate, always has at least one camera on the premises—either in the news conference room or on the floor of the legislature chamber. For major announcements as many as three may be on hand.

CKXT, the CBC outlet, films and tapes portions of the daily session period for possible use in evening newscasts.

Mr. Hyndman says the reaction of the 75 members has been generally favorable.

Builders' Safety Net Developed

OTTAWA (CP) — A graphic designer has invented a safety net for use by construction companies building tall buildings.

Juan Garcia says that while he has received enthusiastic response from building trades unions he has been unable to find one Canadian company willing to try the nets.

On the other hand, two large firms in the United States are interested and one company wants to buy the invention.

Mr. Garcia's idea is for a series of nets protruding from every other floor on a high building. The synthetic rope net would be supported by glass fibre rods.

Workers or materials falling into the nets would roll onto the floor from which the safety device was extended.

Mr. Garcia, who has been toying with the idea for several years, said he received support for his idea from the Ontario Federation of Labor, provincial Building and Trades Council, the Laborers' International Union in Hamilton and the Canadian Union of Construction Workers. In all, they represent 79,000 workers.

He said he has been unable to get permission from safety authorities for a demonstration.

Vancouver's Police Watch Over Boaters

VANCOUVER (CP) — Inexperienced boaters, both in and out of their craft are a prime source of concern for the six-man squad of the Vancouver police department's marine division.

On the water, Sunday sailors often break safety and speed regulations, police say, and out of their boats, they often make thefts easy.

"No reasonable person would consider driving an automobile without first having obtained instruction," said Sgt. Harvey Brown, head of the squad. "The same degree of common sense should be applied to boating."

During the summer, the marine division's primary function is to enforce safety regulations. Often a routine check turns up a pleasure craft with no fire extinguisher on board, or an insufficient number of lifejackets.

Department of transport regulations require all craft to carry a lifejacket or floating cushion for each person on board, although wearing the jacket is not mandatory. Police, however, recommend that children and non-swimmers wear lifejackets at all times.

"It is nearly impossible to place a jacket on someone after he is in the water," said Constable Bob Jamet, a member of the marine division. "Add the panic factor and it becomes impossible."

The squad also hands out an average of 20 speeding tickets each month in the congested Coal Harbor area of Vancouver's waterfront, where there is a limit of five knots. Many more speeders receive a warning.

Boats or equipment are frequently stolen. During the winter months, when boats are in storage, theft prevention becomes the prime function of the marine squad.

Nowhere in the city is there more portable property than that located on the waterfront, said Constable James

"You can reckon on $1,000 a foot and it's nothing to see a 50 - foot inboardboat. There's probably at least $20 million worth of marine craft moored on our beat.

"Boat thefts are becoming pretty common. It's a simple matter to sand off the registered number, repaint the boat, and apply to the nearest customs house for a new licence.

"It's a simple matter to remove an outboard motor I can't see why all owners do not take them in at night, or at least padlock them to the boat."

It's taken more than 30 years to establish a modern marine division within the police department.

In 1945, the old police boat became unseaworthy, and irate boat owners complained to the police commission about boat thefts in Coal Harbor.

Two years later, the city bought a seven-year-old war surplus vessel that eventually proved to be unfit for service in the choppy waters of the First Narrows, the harbor entrance.

It remained in service until 1963, when the marine squad's two existing vessels were specially built at a total cost of $42,000.

The bigger one is a 29-foot launch with twin 250-horsepower engines capable of traveling at 29 knots, or 34 miles an hour. It is equipped with a standard police radio, an additional very high frequency link, foam and chemical fire extinguisher, plus oxygen and resuscitating equipment.

The smaller one is a jet-propelled runabout with speed and handling qualities similar to a hydroplane. The boat can hit at op speed of 42 knots

Measles, Mumps, Migraines Will Disappear in Eighties

PARIS (Reuter) — No more measles or mumps, no more migraines, no more chronic depression—that's one expert view of the health picture for the 1980s.

But the common cold will continue to bring misery every winter.

Doctors will have the necessary knowledge and technical skills to replace every part of the human body, with the exception of the central nervous system and the spinal cord, and they will have adopted the use of an artificial heart rather than heart-transplants.

Prof. Eugene Aujaleu, a former executive committee president of the World Health Organization (WHO), says people will still be falling ill in 15 years' time—but the illnesses will be different.

The 59-year-old professor, now France's honorary director-general of health and medical research and a member of the Council of Europe's public health committee, makes these forecasts in a report published recently by the Council of Europe.

In general, he says, medical advances will be a mixed blessing—curing some diseases while others take their place.

Virus infections such as measles, German measles and mumps should all disappear, and there will be a lot less influenza.

Neurological complaints such as multiple sclerosis, epilepsy and migraine will all have effective antidotes, as will depressive and manic-depressive psychosis.

But Aujaleu is less cheerful when it comes to Europe's principal killer-cardiovascular diseases.

Tweed

TWEED — Members of the Tweed Branch No. 428, Royal Canadian Legion held their annual turkey roll earlier in December with Ray Woolfrey and Andy Regan winning the door prizes.

Twenty persons won the 28 turkeys. Burton Vance, chairman of the event, expressed thanks to all who had worked for and supported the turkey roll.

Den Dunham of Ompah, is spending a week in Pennsylvania, U.S.A.

Mrs. Wilbert Tucker, Tweed, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Sgt. Gerald Stevenson of Calgary, Alberta, visited at the Guy Watkins home in Ardoch. He also reported at the hospital in Ottawa where he had undergone open heart surgery a few months ago.

The Olden Volunteer Fire Brigade is towards its full formation, and many fundraising events are being held. The Olden Township Council has supplied quarters for a fire station, and alterations are being planned by volunteer labor for the near future. Negotiations for the purchase

Although preventive measures against some of the causes might be developed, this could merely result in the onset of heart diseases being delayed until further into old age, he writes.

But it is in the field of mental illness that Aujaleu's report strikes its most sombre note.

It foresees an inevitable increase in the incidence of neuroses and little progress towards effective treatment for schizophrenia or behavioral disorders.

Boxing Rules Tougher

HALIFAX (CP) — Armed with tough medical requirements, the Halifax Athletic Commission has denuded the local area of working promoters and left the fight game in limbo. But there are indications the sport will take an upswing in 1972.

The latest episode is a stormy year which saw suspensions of fighters on several boxing programs has two Halifax promoters facing disciplinary action—one could have his licence revoked—and at least 4pro boxers banned from fighting here after tough medical tests found them unfit.

One had a serious hear tailment while three showed irregularities under electroencephalogram (EEG) testing.

Then last week the commission forced cancellation of Dec. 21 boxing card which was to involve Canadian middleweight boxing champion Dave Downey of Halifax. It was discovered that promoters had failed to file medical reports for seven boxers. Five from New York did not have current New York Athletic Commission licenses.

The promoter on the spot was veteran wrestling entrepreneur Al Zinck who blamed the oversight on his New York partner, Jay Davis. He agreed with the commission's action.

Zinck and Davis were suspended Sunday and the commission announced it would conduct an inquiry in January. This could be followed by a full investigation which would probably lead to cancellation of the vocation of licence, says Chairman Don Kerr.

Meanwhile, promoter LeRoy Jones is awaiting a January hearing at which Kerr promises some "embarassing" questions on the recent Clyde Gray-Frish Pat Murphy bout here.

The commission will also bring in welterweight contender Lawrence Hafey from New Glasgow, N.S., to explain why the commission was not informed earlier about an eye injury. Hafey was knocked out in the Dec. 5 Gray-Murphy card but pulled out while advertising still had him slated to fight.

Kerr says an eye injury claimed by Hafey proved to be legitimate, but the commission was not properly informed.

"If a man is going to fight in Halifax he is going to be medically fit," says Kerr, a marine lawyer under whose direction the Halifax commission has sprung to life.

The cancellation of the Dec. 21 program was commended Monday by Fred Mahon, prime minister-designate of the province's new recreation department.

"We cannot permit inexperienced, untrained or physically unfit individuals to, enter a boxing ring and subject themselves to possible serious injury or death," he said.

Critics say the commission abound, but find it difficult to find proper medical requirements.

They warn of bootleg fighters outside the Halifax area unless regulations are eased. Kerr answers that these contenders don't come from the fighters "who seem to be surprised and gratified that someone is taking an interest in their well-being."

Archibald Scores 30 For KC

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nate Archibald scored 30 points and had 15 assists, along with double figure support from five team-mates Monday night as Kansas City-make Kings overpowered Portland Trail Blazers 113-95 in the only National Basketball Association game played.

The Kings moved in front 32-26 in the first quarter as Archibald scored 14 of his points and added five assists. The second period went to the Trail Blazers and Portland led 51-49 at intermission.

The Kings, utilising their fast break, hit 14 of 20 from the field in the third period and 15 of 20 in the final 12 minutes for a second half percentage of 72.5.

For the Kings, Tom Van Arsdale picked up 14 of his 21 points in the last two periods. Johnny Green 13 of his 15 and Nate Williams all of his 15.

Sidney Wicks and Geoff Petrie led the Portland attack with 23 and 22 points.

NHL GETS KANSAS PLANS

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Hockey League Monday extended until Jan. 25 the deadline for a Kansas City sports group to satisfy requirements for an NHL franchise beginning in the 1974-75 season. The NHL's finance committee received, from a group headed by Edwin G. Thompson, plans for an acceptable arena on Union Station property in downtown Kansas City, and for an alternate site in the industrial district. Kansas City and Washington, D.C., were granted conditional NHL franchises last June for the start of the 1974-75 season.

GIANTS KEEP WEBSTER

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Giants of the National Football League rehired head coach Alex Webster Monday for the 1973 season. No contract terms were disclosed. It will be the fifth one-year pact for Webster, 41, who brought the Giants back from their disaster 4-10 record of a year ago to an 8-6 mark this season. He said no changes in his coaching staff are planned. The former Montreal Alouettes and Giants running back succeeded Allie Sherman as head coach in 1969.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Aries (March 21-April 19): Be confused by contradictory stories, no clear-cut sides available for partisanship.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Assume nearly everybody has some news he has not fully told. Don't keep your own counsel. Romantic ventures are sensitive.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The sensitive, yet detailed involvement of close friends in today's work and planning, on. Do your own thinking.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Divide the chores among all hands, with explicit notes on who does what, forest further comparing details and prices.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If you will just get the routine accepted so you cleared away, that will be quite good work for the day.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Caution in both business and personal matters could prove well.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): With time co-operation, you must monitor your spending and estimate what people close to you may be doing to incur obligation.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your search for local peace seems confused by contradictory stories, no clear-cut sides available for partisanship.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Assume nearly everybody has some news he has not fully told. Don't keep your own counsel. Romantic ventures are sensitive.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The sensitive, yet detailed involvement of close friends in today's work and planning, on. Do your own thinking.

Returning Mono' Rare But Possible

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you discuss "mono"? I am aware that this attacks the teen age group. My daughter first had it in college but has had recurring bouts in young adult years. Why does this return? And why is there no treatment to prevent it? I have not been aware of older people having this.

"Mono," or infectious mononucleosis, has at least a couple of other names. One is glandular fever. Another is "the kissing disease," a term which might better not have been invented.

It is, as you say, common in teenagers and young adults, but seldom seen otherwise. The rest is the only attack of it you usually confers immunity against further attacks—just as chickenpox is common in children but seldom seen in adults.

It is caused by a virus, the blood that can be precisely identified, but the effect on the patient, other than that is variable. Undue listlessness is one. Ordinarily some fever but maybe not much. Swollen and usually painful lymph glands develop.

Some young people may have a few weeks of losing all their pep but not recognized as really ill. Quite often it's attributed to "a spell of being lazy." But they recover, and go back to normal, and everybody forgets about it.

Then again, in more severe cases, the swollen glands and extreme fatigue make it clear that some sort of illness is at work. Such cases usually are diagnosed; many of the lighter cases aren't.

One characteristic of the disease is that relapses can occur, so plenty of rest and good nourishment are advisable not only in the acute stages of "mono" but afterward, too.

As to the disease "returning" after once being cured (or rather curing itself) this has been reported but is rare.

But since "mono" can resemble some diseases, I would suggest blood tests to make sure of the diagnosis.

The ailment sneaks up so

The bidding:

Pass	Pass	Pass

The Lightner slam double is designed to get partner from making a normal lead — is a highly valuable convention that will defeat many a slam, but, even so, it is not exactly a 100 percent proposition. Sometimes the opening leader is still in the dark about which suit to lead, after the double — and a failure to choose partner's suit as can cost him oodles of points.

Consider this deal where East doubled six spades to stop West from leading a diamond, the suit East had bid. The double forbade the diamond lead, but it did not automatically tell West another to lead a heart or a club.

Note that any lead but a club would have given South the slam with an overtrick and a score of 2,060 points!

But West, after considering the matter fully, came forth with a club lead and declarer went down one when East cashed no time cashing the A-K of clubs.

West's club lead was well reasoned. He realized that North, for his jump to six spades expected his partner to bring home the slam against a diamond lead.

It followed that North was virtually sure to have a long and powerful side suit in addition to good trump support — for his stratospheric leap to six.

Against this line of reasoning, West furthermore concluded that dummy's solid, or practically solid, side suit was far more likely to be hearts than clubs—since West was looking at the Q-10 of clubs in his own hand.

So, on this basis, he found his club lead just right to set the slam in the bud, and in that way scored a net plus of 100 points instead of a net minus of 2,060 points.

New Region Covers Metro to Cobourg

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Proposals for a new regional government east of Toronto to embrace nine municipalities stretching over 1,763 square miles, much of it rural, were unveiled here Monday night.

The new region, with a current population of about 236,000, would add minor chunks to Metropolitan Toronto's Scarborough borough, and Markham to the north, now part of York Region.

Major cities and towns that would be absorbed into a new region include Oshawa, Whitby, Uxbridge, Ajax, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Port Hope, Cobourg and Port Perry.

Ontario currently has seven regions where a regional or amalgamated form of government exists.

Charles MacNaughton, minister of intergovernmental affairs, said in announcing the proposals before municipal officials here that the suggested new region in the next 50 years will be the "most rapidly urbanizing part of Ontario."

The largest date for installing a new government in the new region would be Jan. 1, 1974.

Of the nine municipalities that will make up the new region, the most populous would be Oshawa, East Whitby and a 10-lot section of Darlington Township.

Port Hope, Cobourg, Hope Township and all but a small part of Hamilton Township would form another area with 38,800 residents.

Lawrence Assails Regional Proposals

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Varied reactions greeted proposals for a new regional government east of Toronto but one adverse comment came Monday night from Allan Lawrence, member of Parliament for Northumberland-Durham and a former Ontario cabinet minister.

He said the proposals which would set up a new regional government to embrace nine municipalities stretching over 1,183 square miles, was "ridiculous" as far as Port Hope and Cobourg was concerned and that the provincial government should leave the two municipalities on their own.

Both municipalities are in Durham County. The new region also would absorb other cities and towns such as Oshawa, Whitby, Uxbridge, Ajax, Bowmanville, Newcastle and Port Perry.

Indignant local government officials interrupted Monday night before Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton finished his speech outlining government ideas for the Oshawa area.

Cobourg Mayor Jack Heenan who said he was "stunned" by the announcement, expressed fear that his sparsely populated locality would suffer under an Oshawa regional government because Port Hope-Cobourg and two adjacent townships would have only four votes on the proposed 30-member regional council.

"I think the time limit to get public opinion by the end of February is ridiculous," he said. "It's completely different to anything we've been led to believe. . . . "It's too revolutionary and too complex."

Mayor Michael Wladyka of Port Hope, 65 miles east of Toronto, said: "We had no inkling about this. It ignores years of long discussions and pulls the rug from under a joint provincial-municipal task force on the future of Port Hope-Cobourg which only two weeks ago spoke of another 18 months of consultation."

Both Mr. Heenan and Mayor Wladyka said they wanted their towns to become part of a future region around Peterborough.

In Peterborough, which is just north of the affected region, officials complained Monday night that the proposals would mean isolation from the lakeshore. Mayor-elect Philip Turner said Lake Ontario must be tied in with Peterborough's role as a city.

In Oshawa Mayor Desmond Newman appeared delighted with the proposals. He had strongly argued to retain both the proposed major Pickering airport, adjacent to Toronto, and North Pickering Township within the Oshawa region.

Barrett Annoyed At Davis

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Dave Barrett, angered by the letter-writing efforts of federal Environment Minister Jack Davis, described the federal minister as "persona non grata" in any negotiations between Ottawa and British Columbia.

The premier also said statements made by Mr. Davis in a letter-to-the-editor published by Vancouver Sun last Friday have "put in jeopardy" talks scheduled later this week between B.C. and federal ministers about development of an alternate rail route to B.C. ports for Prairie grain.

In the letter, commenting on a Sun editorial on federal-provincial discussions concerning a proposed coal port development at Squamish, B.C., Mr. Davis said Mr. Barrett was "all for" the port, then stated his own personal opposition to it.

Mr. Barrett accused Mr. Davis of playing "cheap political tics" on the issue and said he would never talk to Mr. Davis privately again, but only in the presence of reporters.

Mr. Barrett vehemently denied he supports the coal port at Squamish, saying he has asked for environmental studies to be made to determine if it is ecologically safe to establish a coal port there. The study is under way now with a report expected shortly.

Mr. Davis says in his letter that he favors locating a coal port at Prince Rupert. But Mr. Barrett said his government is looking at "a number of alternatives" and is not committed to any single area as a location.

Cobourg People Are 'Raging Mad'

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — Cobourg Mayor Jack Heenan said Monday he was "stunned" by the province's regional government plan for the area east of Metropolitan Toronto.

"I'm just absolutely stunned," said Mr. Heenan as he watched Ontario Charles MacNaughton conclude his remarks. "It's completely different to anything we've been led to believe."

Mr. Heenan said the proposals which call for consolidation of 22 municipalities into nine were "too revolutionary and too complex."

"It's a civil servant's nightmare," he said. "It's got to be thought up by a non-elected person."

"I'm raging mad," said Mrs. Lenah Fisher, Cobourg deputy reeve.

Mac Lees, Cobourg councillor, said, "There's no real thought there."

Third B-52 Is Lost, U.S. Destroyer Hit

SAIGON (CP) — The war's heaviest bombardment of the Hanoi-Haiphong area continued today and the U.S. command admitted the loss of a third B-52 and said one of its destroyers off the North Vietnamese coast had been damaged by shore batteries.

The latest U.S. air bombardment of North Vietnam began at dusk Tuesday night and ended at dawn this morning, Radio Hanoi said. It followed a day of raids which left hundreds of civilians dead and thousands of homes destroyed, the radio said.

The Hanoi broadcast, monitored here, said North Vietnamese anti-aircraft crews had shot down five B-52s since the U.S. stepped up its offensive on Sunday.

Two were shot down Tuesday night—one over Hanoi and the other over Haiphong.

The U.S. command announced that the American guided missile destroyer Goldsborough was struck near the bow while engaged in combat operations off the North Vietnamese coast Tuesday. Two of the crew were killed and three more wounded.

The 1,430-ton Goldsborough was holed in the upper deck and punctured by shrapnel from an exploding shell as she fired her guns at the North Vietnamese coastline just south of the 20th parallel, a spokesman said. The ship carries a crew of 340 officers and men.

The 3,722-ton Polish freighter Jozef Conrad was seriously damaged today by U.S. planes bombing Haiphong harbor, the North Vietnam news agency said.

The U.S. command has announced the total air losses since Monday night as three B-52s, two fighter-bombers and 16 airmen. Four other B-52s were damaged.

The fighter-bombers lost were a $15 million swept-wing F-111 and an A-7.

It is the costliest bombing effort of the war.

Radio Hanoi said four U.S. fighter-bombers were shot down Tuesday night.

Earlier Hanoi radio broadcasts said hundreds of civilians were killed in U.S. bombing raids which "had not ceased since early on the evening of Dec. 18 continuing throughout the daylight hours of Dec. 19."

It said the North Vietnamese capital was carpet-bombed in three B-52 raids "causing the death of hundreds of civilians and the destruction of thousands of houses."

The radio also said its own offices were bombed by U.S. planes. It did not say whether any damage was caused but later attempts to monitor broadcasts here were difficult.

The latest raids coincided with a flare-up of heavy ground fighting near the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams. Saigon troops reported killing 134 North Vietnamese.

Postmen Vote On Pact Jan. 3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Spokesman for Canada's 28,000 union postal workers say they are not satisfied with a conciliation board report which recommends a 65-cent-an-hour increase over a two-year contract.

The negotiating team for the Council of Postal Unions voted 6-4 to reject the conciliation board recommendation, saying the increase is not enough.

With only a few exceptions, postal union officials across the country have instructed members to reject the report when they vote on it Jan. 3.

Marcel Perreault, president of the Montreal local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said his 4,000 members would move to obtain the right to form an autonomous regional bargaining unit as the end of the current round of negotiations.

Guy Morrisette, president of the Montreal letter carriers local, said the conciliation board report was "the stupidest thing I've ever heard of."

The board recommended that the maximum hourly wage for letter carriers be increased to $4.10 at the end of 15 months of the proposed contract, which expires Dec. 31, 1974. Postal clerks would get a maximum of $4.34.

Canadian Delegate's View

UN Inaction on Terrorism Said Not Necessarily Bad

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The 27th session of the General Assembly ended Tuesday on a mixed note of achievement and failure after hearing its departing president, explore the Vietnam war as "inhuman in all its aspects."

Deputy Foreign Minister Ladislaw Trepczynski of Poland, who served as president during the three-month session, adjourned the assembly late Tuesday with praise for its accomplishments but sharp words for the increased fighting in Indochina.

Although many Western observers reviewed the assembly with gloom, one Canadian delegate said the session was not a total loss—even on terrorism and the Middle East.

the UN as being a failure on terrorism," he said in an interview. "The West lost out on it but it's not necessarily a bad thing.

Apollo Makes Perfect Landing

ABOARD TICONDEROGA (AP) — Back from the moon, their adventure behind them and history made, the men of the last Apollo are sailing toward home and a reunion with their families four days before Christmas.

The flight of the most perfect Apollo mission is over after a space journey of 12 days.

Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene Cernan, Ronald Evans and Harrison (Jack) Schmitt rode the command ship America through a fiery entry into the earth's atmosphere Tuesday and a bobbing parachute fall to a perfect landing within 2½ miles of recovery ships in the South Pacific.

Splashdown of 17 at 2:33 p.m. EST 400 miles southwest of Samoa ended the $25 billion Apollo program of space science and engineering which first put man on the moon.

Plucked from a life raft and whisked to this aircraft carrier by helicopter for a hands-and-speeches welcome, the astronauts spent their first hours back on earth undergoing physical examinations by a team of space agency doctors.

After a quick check, Dr. Charles K. LaPinta, the medical team leader, said: "I am very pleased with their condition—they look fine."

After a day and a night aboard the Ticonderoga, the astronauts will fly from the carrier to Pago Pago, in American Samoa. There they will board another plane for a flight to Elington Air Force Base, near the Manned Spacecraft Centre outside of Houston, Tex., where their families await them.

Arrival at Ellington will be about 9 a.m. EST Thursday.

"I've never seen a more perfect mission than was flown on this flight," said Dr. Christopher Kraft, director of the Manned Spacecraft Centre. "Certainly that crew was the best crew we've ever flown."

Cancer Patient, Age 12, Steers Huge Carrier

ABOARD TICONDEROGA (AP) — Kevin Steen, the 12-year-old cancer patient here to view the recovery of the Apollo 17 astronauts, steered this huge aircraft carrier and said "it was fun."

Folgate said he gave Kevin the helm during the launch of a weather balloon "and he performed the course changes like an expert."

Milk Increase Seen Too Low

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The five per cent increase in the price of Grade 2 producer milk to be received by farmers after Jan. 1 fails to compensate dairymen for their increased production costs over the past year.

This is the feeling of Frank Wall, vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and of Kenneth Wright, public relations officer for the Prince Edward County Milk Committee.

At Geneva Park, the producers' bargaining agent, the Ontario Milk Marketing Board had asked for a fluid milk increase of 57 cents per hundredweight, but the Milk Commission upheld the appeal of the processors and allowed only a 35 cent per cwt. increase.

This works out to just under one per cent per quart and is less than a five per cent increase.

The 35 cents per cwt. increase raises the farm price for fluid milk from $7.05 to $7.40 in Southern Ontario and $7.62 to $7.97.

Mr. Wright says this does not represent increased cost dairy farmers have had to face over the past year.

In his own case he finds 18 per cent dairy concentrate has risen from $79.40 a ton in October to $94.60 in the first week of December.

The cost of oats has risen 34 per cent, corn and soy bean meal 23 per cent and 41 per cent respectively in a year.

Few Additions

Inclusion of five Northumberland county townships with Hastings county, a proposal made Monday by the Ontario government, would add only 200 to 250 pupils to the separate school system. However educational boundaries may be unchanged, said separate school superintendent E. J. Neville at Tuesday night's board meeting. Main concern of trustees was the addition of another county name to the title of the Hastings — Prince Edward board. Retiring chairman Ben Kroeze remarked that the board would have to use extra large paper to include the expanded title and logo on its letterhead if the amalgamation goes through.

Council Reviews Year

PICTON — Prince Edward county councillors sitting for the final time in 1972 reviewed their work and expressed optimism for the months ahead.

Hillier deputy-reeve Lewis Wight, who will return as reeve in 1973, said he had enjoyed working with retiring warden Ross Benway and regretted he is leaving.

Mr. Benway received an enscribed gavel and a Masonic ring from councillors as token of his year in office.

The ring, presented by Hillier deputy-reeve Wight was a replacement for one lost by Mr. Benway in a fire which destroyed his home and all of his personal belongings last year.

Norman Post, Ameliasburgh deputy-reeve, said in leaving council this year to embark on a singing career with his family, He wrote and recorded a song called 'My Prince Edward County Home' and has had it played on several tours. Mr. Post, chairman of the social services committee, emphasized many others received credit for promotion of the county's name for the aged. "One man can't do those things," he said.

Picton reeve Albert Pitoth, who was elected by deputy-reeve James Bird last month, said it is important for councillors to leave all controversies behind when meetings are finished. He termed his two years in council "a rewarding experience."

Bloomfield reeve Allan Anderson observed, "We don't know our destiny but I think it is right our way surely some of our ideas on regionalization will get across at Queen's Park."

Sophiasburgh reeve George Foster re-elected in another term referred to an increase in the number of councillors for the coming year. Previously 15 county councillors have been elected but this year both North Marysburgh and Athol townships elected deputy-reeves for the first time.

Pepper Avenue Water Approved

The Ontario Municipal Board has given approval for the installation of water service on Pepper Ave. in the city's northwest sector south of the CN double tracks.

The specific approval was for the issue of $28,000 in debentures to cover the cost of installing 870 feet of six-inch watermain, plus two hydrants and an estimated 20 service laterals.

Written objection to the water service had been received earlier, but at Monday's hearing at city hall no formal objection was presented — only objection by several property owners on the method of payment.

There was no question that the water service was badly needed as the area is served only by wells considered unsafe for use and by a standpipe provided by the city at the end of the street.

Lloyd Ellenton, chief public health inspector for the Hastings and Prince Edward counties health unit said one of the wells in the area had been tested many times and was found to be unsafe.

Richard Danziger, senior planner for the Quinte Planning Board, said that Pepper Ave. was considered by his department as a redevelopment area.

Neil Britton, general manager and secretary of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission estimated the cost of the proposed installation at $28,-836, made up of $18,724 for the main service line; $8,060 for an estimated 20 laterals and $2,940 for two hydrants.

Of the total, $15,399 would be assessed against abutting property owners who would also face the cost of installing private service connections.

The annual rate per foot frontage over the 15-year life of the debenture would be $1.29.

Speaking in favor of the installation was Carl Mowers, appearing for his father and other property owners.

He said residents of the area had wanted city water service for many years.

Gerald Johnston, owner of Moira Street property which also abuts on Pepper Ave., said he wasn't opposed to the water service but wanted to know whether after service was done he would be allowed to develop his property.

Main point of concern at the hearing were the cases of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Lott and Mr. and Mrs. William Tuck who own houses on Pepper Ave., but are served by a private 16-foot laneway.

They wanted city water but did not feel they should have to pay frontage charges as they had no property on Pepper Ave.

The Board agreed with their thinking and later in consultation with City Solicitor John Miller, it was agreed that the owners in questions should be charged frontage rates only on their share of the 12-foot laneway.

Budget Cutbacks For Conservation

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

BRIGHTON — Cutbacks of 402,000 in grants to 38 Ontario conservation authorities by the department of natural resources, plus lack of guarantees for 1973 grants, had conservationists worried about next year's financial picture. Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority chairman Arthur Wartman said here last night.

Speaking during a regular authority session, Mr. Wartman said on Dec. 14, the chairman's committee of the 38 provincial conservation authorities, met with provincial representatives. He said they were told a poor financial outlook for 1973 has left the natural resources ministry unable to guarantee grants.

In past years, for every dollar raised locally, the province matched on a one - to - one basis, as long as the grants were used.

Mr. Wartman said before many authorities had a chance to use all of their funds plus grants, the province chopped $402,000. The Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority was lucky. While it has a surplus of $7,425 in money raised this province therefore did not match this amount), it has only overspent its grant funds by $500.

This, he says, will be made up between the 18 member municipalities.

For 1973, the LTRCA is budgeting for $40,671, almost $5,-000 above the 1972 budget of $36,843. Mr. Wartman thinks it is wasted effort to go after an increase in light of the shaky grant situation.

Hoping for equal grants that might not materialize may put an extra burden on municipal taxpayers, he said. He plans for anything above local funds

Hercules Helps Out

TRENTON — A Canadian Forces Hercules aircraft from here has delivered 3,000 pounds of supplies from the Toronto Red Cross Society to Port-au-Spain, Trinidad, the defence department said Tuesday. The aircraft then flew to Guyana Tuesday to transport a back hoe excavator 125 miles into the interior for road construction between Guyana and Brazil. There is no major road linking them.

The plane is dispatch at CFB Trenton Thursday.

Developers Propose Sanctuary Switch

BRIGHTON — Plans for development of a 900 acre area of land south of Percy Reach in the Trent River, are being studied by the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority and the Quinte Planning Board, for study and possible approval.

Brighton Township Reeve Arnold Boes Tuesday night sketched details tentatively members of the conservation authority meeting in the Department of Agriculture building here.

Mr. Boes said Colossus Development, a Rexdale firm, purchased 900 acres of land including Potts Island in 1960. The company approached township council, outlining its plans to develop a cottage area plus between 200 and 300 acres as a wildlife sanctuary, to be turned over the conservation body.

Since that time, only a road to the property has been built.

raised, should be considered at this time.

The year 1973 is going to be a year in which the municipal representatives are going to have to watch every move, to ensure the taxpayer gets value for every dollar spent.

There's a real squeeze on, especially with this regional government talk," the chairman said.

Members were told that the $7,425 surplus will be applied against levies for the 1973 budget. This should result in a substantial decrease in levies to each municipality.

Mr. Wartman said the financial problem centres only associated with administration expenses. As far as additional grants for specific jobs, he anticipated no problem receiving these grants in 1972.

Need Seen For Warden

BRIGHTON — Hunters who are hunting deer both on foot and with the aid of dogs on sanctuary land owned and operated by the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority, have raised the ire of Maurice Harvey, chairman of the authority's fish and wildlife committee.

Delivering a report to the authority meeting at Brighton Tuesday night, Mr. Harvey called for additional patrols of sanctuary land.

He recommended the hiring of game wardens or assistant wardens, to ensure the protected areas remain so.

"It's foolhardy for any authority to set up wildlife sanctuaries without game wardens or deputy game wardens. There's no protection for the deer or other wildlife," he said.

Following the meeting, he explained the sanctuary in question is known as the Goodrich property, a 300-acre site north of Brighton. As yet there are no signs posted to warn that it is a sanctuary.

Mr. Harvey protested the delay in posting of the signs. He also indicated he will attempt to halt snowmobiles being used for sanctuary land.

He said at present the ministry of natural resources (formerly the department of lands and forests) has one game warden for the area. The conservational said between 75 and 90 per cent of his job involves paperwork. "Either the natural resources ministry should establish game wardens or the department should allow us appoint assistants," he said.

Santa Visits Grace's Place

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Some of the children living at 231 Albert Street have been there since only days old.

They aren't as bright as the "kid next door" and the woman who takes care of them doubles as mother and father.

It is Happy Half Way House where pandemonium broke out Tuesday when Santa Claus came packed with toys.

The story of Half Way House began in a small house off Canniffon Road near the rail road tracks and Grace Ince's idea that mentally retarded children must be treated as people.

Her enrolment figures showed others shared her opinion and soon she was asking her father for a loan to purchase and renovate a larger home on Moira Street East.

Once again enrolment dictated she find a still larger home which placed her on Albert Street where she says she will stay.

There are 14 children in the house...ranges from severe retardiets (IQ) range from 30 to 60, well below the normal 100. There is room for seven more children.

Tuesday's Christmas party with Santa was more than a happy time for the children but an ovation to the success story of the home's principals.

The children playing with balloons on the floor come from all across the province, from a variety of environments, some termed "unmanageable."

They sat with Santa giggling and...shouting at his antics sharing their joys with staff members, grasping their hands, hugging and proudly showing a new toy.

One child brought to Grace (she prefers not to use her last name) was described as "not fit for adoption," by a physician. The same physician said the child would never walk or do anything else.

In 10 months the child, went through 4 pairs of shoes and experienced an IQ increase from 50 to high 80s.

The child is adopted now, after spending two years in the home. Grace says "she is getting on beautifully. She needs special instructors and a special school but she'll make it."

Mrs. Ince and her board of directors both think that it is a "feather in her cap," attesting to the program.

It is that kind of a Christmas for Mrs. Ince whose biggest gift will be to watch the children open presents bought with the little money she receives from the Children's Aid society from each child's municipality.

The Rotad Angels Car Club and Cliff Heath, member of the board, wrote Santa the letter to get him to come to the Half Way House.

Mrs. Ince needs more help. "I'm a firm believer in doing something I love with very little money."

Because none of the children in the home originate from Belleville there is no municipal support available.

She doesn't want to move again. The next project is to find a residence for older children.

"I am just trying to help each child realize his own potential," she says. Some of the children will be too old soon to go to bed at 9 p.m. "I need another facility and I'll move heaven and earth to get it."

IQ tests were completed on all of the children recently for the biggest Christmas gift the children or Mrs. Ince will ever receive.

Every child's IQ increased, some by as much as 15 points.

Probation Ends in Jail Term

A Toronto man free on probation was sentenced to three months in jail Tuesday for possession of a stolen vehicle.

Tom Billings, a resident of the Salvation Army's House of Concord in Toronto, was spotted driving a 1968 Pontiac in Belleville, Nov. 28. Upon checking, city police discovered the car had been stolen.

Provincial Court Judge J. L. Clendenning also sentenced Billings to one month for possession of a stolen radio. The convictions will run concurrently.

Billings had been placed on probation for three years by a Toronto court Sept. 26.

Alarm Box

10:19 a.m. . . . Harry J. Clarke School; overheating thermostat.

12:38 p.m. . . . 5 Wallbridge Cr.; fire in ignition wires of Checker cab, no damage.

2:45 p.m. . . . 343 Ann St.; grease spill on stove, no damage.

8:37 p.m. . . . Ronald Keel residence, 20 Dundas St.; flurescent light smelling, nothing found.

10:50 p.m. . . . 285 John St.; rag smouldering on hot water tank, no damage.

Short Distance Call

There was no problem making a telephone call to Santa Tuesday afternoon for the children of Happy Half Way House at 231 Albert Street. Santa was surprised to see not one child cried while he listened to Christmas wishes. "I find in most places the children, at first, be afraid of me," said Santa.

Bookmaking Charges Bring $2,000 Fine

John Alexander Ellacott, 31, was sentenced to a $2,000 fine or 80 days in custody Tuesday by Provincial Court Judge J. L. Clendenning on four convictions involving bookmaking.

The former manager of a Front St. off-track betting shop was given two months to pay.

He had been remanded out of custody Nov. 21 while a pre-sentence report was prepared. At that time, he pleaded not guilty to all four charges.

Ellacott was fined $500 or 20 days on each conviction. Charges, laid by the Ontario Provincial Police's Anti-Gambling Branch, included keeping a common betting house, unlawfully recording bets, engaging in bookmaking and engaging in the business or occupation of betting.

Noting that Ellacott had no previous record, Judge Clendenning said he found the presentence report favorable and commented that Ellacott was not the sort of person usually found in court. But, he added, he was imposing the fines to serve as a deterrent, both to Ellacott and to others.

Maximum sentence for each charge was two years imprisonment.

Winter Works Boosted

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton's 1972-73 winter works program has received a financial boost, in the form of a $21,409 provincial incentives grant, acting works commissioner Art Hoornweg said Tuesday.

The grant, $400 above the figure requested, will be used to hire unemployed workers for a variety of jobs.

They include installation of sanitary sewers along Carrying Place Road, near the site of the proposed $1.5 million Fisher Brothers Incorporated plant, storm sewers for Chester Road and Sidney Street, plus construction of public washrooms in other Centennial Park or the government docks.

Mr. Hoornweg said when the town applied for the LIP grant (Local Incentives Program), these were the jobs planned. "However, they can be changed as long as we let them (the province) know by January 15," he said, adding the new council might want other matters dealt with other than those earlier selected.

As well as those already mentioned, he said a certain amount of curb construction is planned, but no streets have as yet been selected for this work.

As well as the $21,409, the town has requested an additional grant of $47,000 to road construction, sewers for both North Murray and Reid Street, a sanitary sewer for the downtown area near the intersection of Dundas Street East, Murphy and King Streets, landscaping for Centennial Park and the annual property cleanup campaign.

Mr. Hoornweg says the town received similar grants for the 1971-72 LIP programs, and planned for this year's works projects on the same basis.

Although no figures on the exact number of men to be hired through the Trenton Canada Manpower offices is available, he said the number of men could fluctuate between five and 15 per job, basing the figures on the duration of the job and time of year it begins.

Cam Smith, as manager of the local distribution outlet, topped company reports charts between Napanee and the greatest percentage increase in sales for the Toronto district.

The district covers all out-Niagara Falls.

The almost six per cent annual increase won a trip to Las Vegas for Mr. Smith and his wife. All expenses are paid for including spending money which Mr. Smith hopes will bring him some luck in a little casino action.

This was Mr. Smith's first year in Belleville after moving from Hamilton.

At the annual meeting, where sales competitions results were being announced, catcalls, hoots and boiers followed a second presentation.

Mr. Smith's sister-in-law was invited to draw the winning ticket for a 1973 Datsun, which ended up being won by his brother-in-law, Belleville bread salesman Joe Masterson.

All catcalls were in good fun, said a spokesman for the company.

Mr. Masterson competed against 117 other bread salesmen from the district to win the car which was delivered by company officials today.

A company representative said Mr. Masterson and the other salesmen were given a ticket to be placed in the draw each time they met or exceeded their weekly sales quota.

By the end of the year he had more tickets than any other salesman, meeting his mark 22 times during the year.

"It was totally by chance that he or any other would win the car," said a Toronto official.

While Mr. Smith was looking forward to January when he hopes to take his trip, Mr. Masterson was already making plans to sell his old car.

Council Holds Caucus

Members-elect to the 1973 city council met this afternoon for their first informal caucus session at city hall.

Purpose of the caucus session was to give consideration to appointments to the various city boards on which there are vacancies.

During the past week city hall has advertised for the names of residents who might wish to serve on city boards or committees and City Clerk Adam Stalker said today a considerable number of replies have been received.

Among the more important committees and boards on which there are vacancies to be filled are the Parks Board and Recreation Arena committee; the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors and the city transit commission.

Any appointments will be confirmed at the inaugural session of the 1973 council on January 2.

Talks Break Down

The high level talks between U.S. presidential representative Henry Kissinger and his North Vietnamese counterpart are in limbo.

This is a bitter disappointment, but scarcely surprising given the intractable nature of the discussions all along, including the routine meetings in Paris over the past couple of years.

But the pill the American people are swallowing now is all the more bitter an offering because their hopes had been built up so virtually sweet pitch. The word "charade" has been used in connection with the talks — we understand by President Nixon himself — and certainly the public image of them has been just that: Oriental smiles and furious hand-pumping and even the bantering attitude of Kissinger (what a contrast with his press conference image), together with much assurances as "the negotiations are too far advanced to permit of any failure now," not to mention "peace is at hand." These must all sit badly with an exasperated public now that it has been all to no avail.

Having said that, it must be recognized that a faulty settlement is worse than no settlement. According to Kissinger there are disagreements over the status of any peacekeeping force that might be dispatched to Vietnam, as well as other differences.

However, the unhappy fact is that peace in Vietnam is no longer at hand and there is many an aching heart in America today, among them the wives of the airmen who are prisoners in Communist hands. They are being sorely tried.

Science and Humanity

The burgeoning technology of our time, with all its mind-boggling potential for getting out of hand and for corrupting human beings and distorting their values has come in for attention from the new federal science minister, Jeanne Sauve.

Acknowledging that she was still in the process of becoming oriented to her new job and would only comment generally on the policy of her new ministry, Mrs. Sauve said in an Ottawa interview that people are the ones affected by science and technology. Stressing the human factor, she said that in developing a national policy for research, "we certainly have to include the social sciences."

How Mrs. Sauve goes about this will be interesting, for after all as the progress of technology appears its effect on human values is gradual, even imperceptible. Will she recommend, for instance, that our scientists and the public at large be offered compensating courses in the humanities? Or are we all on the slippery road to 1984, with all that that may mean in denial of human values? It will be up to people in authority like Mrs. Sauve, to ensure that the welfare of people will continue to be uppermost in our society and that the worst fears of writers like George Orwell are kept at bay.

Snake Story

A solid example of the "man bites dog" syndrome is the 18-month child reported to have put a large chunk of venomous snake in his mouth down Perth, Australia, way and survived while the snake perished.

The story should be prime material for the Believe It Or Not columns and while we are on this kind of "silly season" topic, here is another classic: Paul C. Bragg is Charlie Chaplin gentleman — while hair, handsome features, and muscular into the bargain — and he heads a group in two-hour exercise sessions six days a week at Waikiki beach in Honolulu. There is a picture of the rugged looking Mr. Bragg sitting on the grass with the familiar palms in the background and the beach beyond that again.

He is touching his toes and he is said to emphasize total physical fitness with plenty of exercise and a natural food diet.

Mr. Bragg is 91 . . . he looks perhaps 70 at the very most!

Talks Break Down

Vietnam: The 'Peace' That Is No Longer at Hand

By PETER HUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States declares to speak out about the stalled Vietnam peace negotiations and to reopen all of North Vietnam to air attack have put an unmistakable end to the euphoric climate which had briefly surrounded the Vietnam issue.

Although American spokesmen declined to link the expanded bombing with the breakdown in negotiations, the Nixon administration now seems committed to a renewal of its former strategy—to force the North Vietnamese into bargaining concessions by dint of military pressure and blockade supplemented by diplomatic efforts.

The gloom which followed Saturday's sober news conference by presidential adviser Henry Kissinger was as widespread here as the contrasting elation had been when Kissinger, in distinctly better spirits, had announced last Oct. 26 that peace was "at hand."

Even among those who don't necessarily accept the Kissinger thesis that Hanoi is solely to blame for the failure to reach a "fair and just agreement" to "end the war," there still seems to be less inclination to criticize the Nixon team than to wonder how it could have been so wrong.

Senator Mike Mansfield, Democratic leader in the Senate and a persistent critic of the war, could only express a feeling of "great depression" at the news. He said Congress, which has generally been silent during the negotiations, may give priority to Vietnam when it convenes in January if the peace talks have not resumed.

Although Kissinger is not often accused of being naive, some of his statements last October look unusually innocent in retrospect: "It is obvious that most of the difficult problems have been dealt with. . . . Having come this far, we cannot fail and we will not fail. . . ."

Kissinger may yet prove to have been right in everything but timing. And if the negotiations resume before long and are successful, his optimism about timing would be readily forgiven.

Meanwhile, his explanations for the breakdown in the Paris talks are being closely examined by friends and critics alike.

Among supporters of the administration's Vietnam policy, there is a theory that North Vietnam deliberately raised the stakes in the negotiations, believing that Nixon and Kissinger were so publicly committed to a settlement that they would eventually concede.

Some opponents contend there is evidence, on the other hand, that Hanoi only began creating difficulties after the American negotiators had themselves put forward fresh demands at the insistence of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Thieu has pressed for complete withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South and acknowledgement of its claim to sovereignty over all of South Vietnam. The U.S. appears prepared to ignore the former demand while insisting on the latter as a price for peace.

Kissinger says there is also disagreement about the size and responsibilities of a proposed international truce supervision team, an issue on which Canada, as a potential member, has also raised questions of substance.

The final verdict on the breakdown appears likely to be left, as usual, to future historians with access to more complete information about what went on in the still-secret Paris talks.

Amid The Din of Towns and Cities

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

On Dec. 8, there was an editorial regarding snowmobiles.

The person writing the article certainly has not lived on a busy street like Herchimer Ave. or he would have more to concern himself with than snowmobiles. For instance, in the summer when windows and doors are open, transports, motorcycles and the heavy trucks which are all louder than snow machines, literally shake the house when they go by. I have been watching TV and have missies go by and they can hardly be heard in comparison with these other vehicles I mentioned. Also it is a fact that many cars affect the local din.

I wonder if the writer would suggest strong laws to prevent these vehicles from operating on the open road, in built-up areas or in the vicinity of homes. As for the statement he made about snowmobiles in Manchouhard and in France, all I can say is there are many things they do in these countries that we don't need here.

As for safety concerning snowmobiles, he should see the fatalities driving 50 and 60 miles an hour in cars on this street regardless of road conditions. There have been two cars with their wheels down in the ditch in front of my house and how they were pulled out I don't know.

I agree that snowmobiles should run on the road shoulder and not on the road but let's not get the facts out of perspective as to the noise they make, etc. The snowmobilers are paying very dearly with regard to licence and insurance for their two or three months of recreation, also, for the purchase of machines and accessories.

They are definitely contributing to the economy and to entertainment.

Pies and Parliament Hill's Gourmets

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

An article appearing in the December 14 issue of your newspaper entitled Parliament Hill Pie Now Costs 15 Cents nearly broke me up! It is too bad the leaders of this great country of ours have to pay 15 cents for a pie and 55 cents for a 'standard' dinner, in the Parliament Hill cafeteria. However, if they wish more class, Members of Parliament, and higher Government officials, etc., are allowed to dine in the Parliament Hill Restaurant. There, for a mere 42 they can digest a full-course dinner plus a bottle of wine. Such bargains in Ottawa! It's worth it, though, to see where tuition fees were raised this year by some of our federal legislators. Here, our students have to pay approximately 80 to 90 cents for their 'standard' dinner. Something's wrong with the system!

The article stated that the prices charged just covered the cost of the food, plus a small profit, and that the House of Commons pays the staff of more than 100 cafeteria employees.

It's amazing how our Government can come up with countless brainstorming schemes for taxes, etc. yet they cannot figure out how to pay the salaries of their cafeteria employees without taking it out of the taxpayer's pocket. I'm not a Minister of Finance and I only have Grade 11 Economics, but I can figure that one out for myself.

Now if our Parliament Hill employees paid the same cafeteria prices as the average person does, they would have quite a bit of spare cash lying around after a year. Possibly this money could pay a part of the salaries of people hired by Government to investigate unemployment and welfare claims. They say that some Unemployment Insurance recipients are also called 'welfare bums' are taking our country for a ride.

Who is taking who for a ride? Merry Christmas and Happy T-4 Sheet for '71!

Government Is Heavy Spender

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Is the government of Ontario in financial trouble? This seems to be true. Again this year, the Government of William Davis is going to record another deficit for the people of Ontario. Our new but old Government has done it again, and it looks like some one will have to go and borrow another billion or so from the West German Bank.

The Government seems to be a little loose with our money. They only recorded a deficit for 1971 you might have thought. They could watch where and how they spent their money, but not our government no sir, they just went ahead and spent it anyway.

I guess they thought they could balance the budget by raising taxes on gasoline and tobacco, cutting the budgets of most of the Government departments, reducing the colleges and universities funds, and raising the fees to enter our Provincial Parks.

If the Government gets any more careless in the next term with our money, the Province may have to declare bankrupt, especially in view of present proposals for expansion of costly rapid transit systems.

More Parking Space

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

In a recent issue of The Intelligencer, I read that the parking is to be improved in Belleville. A lot near the upper bridge was being expanded because of the shortage of parking spaces.

I agree strongly with the city on this problem. People end up always driving in circles and become discouraged. As a result the downtown stores probably lose more business than they should.

The issuing of stamps to reduce parking rates I think would be a great idea because people don't like to have to return to their cars every hour just to put money in parking meters. I hope that more parking lots will be available for the downtown shoppers in the future.

Enter A Brigadier

Bureaucracy Haven For Ex-Army Brass

By DON O'HEARN

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

The army is getting in deeper and deeper.

Still another brigadier-general has been added to our force of public servants.

George Bell, 52, has been appointed an assistant deputy minister in treasury. Officially, the assistant deputy in charge of administration.

And old hands around here are cursing in frustration.

For the public service is being loaded up with retired army officers. And they simply aren't good for the service.

A few years ago some misguided genius here hired W. A. B. Anderson as head of the Ontario Civil Service Commission.

(This was back in the Roberts days when there was more than one misguided genius among top-rank civil servants).

Mr. Anderson was just retired from the army.

As boss of the civil service he had the final say in all government appointments. And also, of course, was in a position to push applicants forward.

A consequence was that soon we began to see a distinct army tinge in our public service.

Retired majors, colonels and brigadiers began appearing in senior jobs throughout its many branches.

M r. Anderson undoubtedly was acting in good faith.

He would believe wholeheartedly in army people. How could he think anything else. He had spent his life with them.

And this isn't to say army people aren't good people. They are. But at running armies.

And this is distinctly different from running a public service.

An army is run on regimentation. It has to be. For at times quite unreasonable demands have to be made on the men in it. To have these followed there must be blind obedience to orders and to rank. There is absolute rigidity. And originality, initiative and flexibility are muffled.

It is super-bureaucracy.

And this is just what any civil service doesn't need more of.

Like with the army invasion we are getting it here.

In some departments now, for example, there are strict rules of precedence. Clerks can only talk to their immediate seniors. And the immediate seniors can only talk to their immediate seniors.

And the impact on morale, let alone efficiency, is showing through.

If the government wants to take care of retired army men let it set up rest homes. But let's not have them around with a government machinery which already is messy enough in spots.

English-speaking American settlers in Texas declared their independence 137 years ago today — in 1835—defying the Spanish government of Mexico, traditional rulers of the land. An army under Santa Anna set out to overthrow the Americans. After inflicting two bloody defeats on the outnumbered settlers, at the Alamo and the Massacre of Goliad, the Mexicans were conclusively defeated at the battle of San Jacinto. With Sam Houston as president, Texas maintained its independence 10 years before joining the United States.

Dear Doris: Regarding the tuberculosis sanatarium at Saranac Lake — you called this I'm not a estate" Mr. Trudeau Sanatarium". What would Trudeau be doing in the state of New York except on a vacation?

For your information, which I hope you will have the honesty to transmit to your readers, I wish to inform you that this worthy sanatarium was erected by the goodwill and the wealth of the well known Will Rogers. A plaque at the entrance of the grounds bears this testimonial. Unless Trudeau bought the place with his fortune he has no right of claims-Saranac Lake is one of my favorite visiting grounds.

You owe an apology to Will Rogers. He was a very humble man. Was he living he would have regarded the matter as a joke on Trudeau. I do not understand how one can write publicly and not firstly acquire oneself with correct information. This was a — Colossal Error.

Dear Colossal: Relax. Trudeau is a common French name. -

Dr. Edward Livingstone Trudeau, himself a victim of TB at-25, pioneered in the fight against tuberculosis — or consumption — which was in his time almost a sure killer. He found that long periods of rest and fresh air could reverse the verdict. In 1884 he founded the Adirondack Cottage Sanatarium, later renamed The Trudeau Sanatarium.

Dr. Trudeau's autobiography makes fascinating reading, and through it and my personal visits I, too, fell in love with the Saranac Lake area. I am delighted to hear that Will Rogers, a great humanitarian, provided the wherewithal for the creation of such a blessing to mankind.

Dear Doris: I guess it is me who signed "Depressed at 20".

I saw something in what Twenty-Seven and Still Trying had to say; and I agree that I cherish the time I have to myself, as I am a "self person".

I'd like to give those books she mentions a try, if you could please send me the names of them.

You are right that there are further complications. Besides resenting the children when they really bug me, I feel a lot of resentment for my husband, especially the evenings he goes in the pub after work and phones home about 8.00 or later. I just swell up in my throat and can't or won't speak to him, then I bang the phone receiver against the telephone and hang up. He won't share these friends with me.

Yet I admire him as I know of a lot of girls who got pregnant and not one of those boys could take the responsibility like my Joe. But still I feel as much resentment. I call it "one of those love-hate things".

Everyone thinks I'm a perfect little mother and wife, but if they knew what was going on inside me, I don't think they'd believe me. — Still Depressed At 21.

Dear Still: Good for you for taking help from a thoughtful and understanding reader who has been through the mill.

(Talk it over with Drois by writing to her in care of this newspaper. This Canadian social worker can shed new light on your problem.)

Dear Doris: I am 23 years old, and I know a guy who is only 19 but thinks and acts like he's in his middle twenties. I keep wanting to call him. I even have dreams of him and me getting married and having his baby some day.

He phones me once in a while, but not as often as I'd like him to. Please help me.— Very Desperate.

Dear Very: It is a lovely, agonizing dream, but that is all it is, right now. He is not ready, at 19, to make up his mind; and you could cool him off forever with a few desperate phone calls.

He knows you are there. He likes your friendship. If there is more to come — like real love — he has to discover it and start acting the part of an interested male.

Fill in your time with some new things to do, new people to see, and other boys, preferably closer to your age.

The Experts Say

Yule Logs and Wassailers Revival of Old Customs

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — If you're looking for a spare Christmas custom or two to add to your list, there are some old ones slipping into disuse that might be pleasant to revive.

A Yule log might be a bit tricky, unless your fireplace is cavernous, but if you are able to keep a log burning from Christmas to Twelfth Night, save a charred bit of it. An old French custom holds that the charred log, stored under a bed, will protect your house from harm through the coming year.

It is believed the Yule log might be an off-shoot of pre-Christian New Year bonfires marking the time when the days begin to lengthen.

While you're burning your log, you can roast chestnuts over the open fire. A cook at Black Creek Pioneer Village says she roasts them on a shovel. If you have a fender, you might put them on the bars. The skins should be slit first, so the nuts won't explode and it takes about 15 to 20 minutes, depending on how close they are to the fire and how hot it is.

If you do want to roast chestnuts, buy them for that purpose. A Canadian chestnut tree with edible nuts is a rare item nowadays.

To go with the chestnuts, there is mulled cider as the Toronto Historical Board serves it at Mackenzie House.

With one gallon of cider, you need one lemon, cut into quarters, two three-inch cinnamon sticks and a cup of brown sugar. Heat in thoroughly and sprinkle cinnamon in each cup as you serve it.

The traditional wassail bowl, once served to wandering carollers, is slightly less innocent. A recipe supplied by the British Information Office calls for two quarts of ale, one three-inch cinnamon stick, nutmeg and cloves. Bring it almost to a boil and just before you start to serve it, add a cup of brandy.

You can also float apple halves in the bowl, if you like, or bits of fruit cake. Once, wassailers poured part of their drink aboard the roots of apple trees and tied the cake on the trees for the birds. They apparently hoped to ensure a good crop in the coming year.

If you have spare enthusiasm on New Year's Day, you could emulate the Governor-General and lieutenant governors and have a levee. A century ago it was a fairly common custom in Canada's young towns.

Early governors held a levee, as their successors still do, to which the men of the community came to pay their respects.

It has also been a day on which to visit friends and family. In French Canada, there has been a tradition of visiting the head of the family to ask a blessing, la benediction du Jour de l'An.

Ann Landers

Dog-lovers Justify Their Dirty Rugs

Dear Ann Landers: I want to respond to that woman who couldn't understand why 50 million Americans were so crazy they'd talk dogs in below zero weather, spend a fortune on getting them clipped, inoculated, registered, licensed, and trained, buy them special food, beds, collars and coats, and even hire sitters to keep them company when they rebel against kennels at vacation time. The woman signed her letter "The Rugs in My Home Are Beautiful."

My answer is a four letter word. Love. I feel sorry for the lady with the beautiful rugs. She doesn't know what she's missing.—Midland Michigan

From Texarkana, Delaria: d'm one of those "crazy nuts" who walked six miles in the wierd narian with a sick puppy when no other transportation was available. I also stayed up all night to give my puppy warm milk at frequent intervals. Our canine friends are like members of the family. I can't imagine a life without them.

From Topeka: The nuts in my house aren't beautiful but I wouldn't trade them for the most magnificent rugs in the world if I meant one dog in my life.

From Memphis: People are becoming more and more suspicious, unpredictable and irresponsible. A dog, remains a faithful friend to the end and his gratitude is unfailing. I could never do for my morale what my dog does.

From Cleveland: A dog is a bit of mischief wrapped inside a furry coat. If you ever saw the face of a child light up at the sight of a puppy, you'd know what it means to have a dog in the house.

From Big Rapids, Mich.: People have dogs in their lives for the same reason they marry, have children, or nurture friendship. Love and mutual respect are the basis of life's best relationship's, whether between people and people or between people and dogs.

My thanks to all who wrote such heartwarming letters in behalf of your pets. We've also heard it said that dog is man's best friend, and my mail attests to the fact that the feeling is mutual.

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from the girl who was raped when she foolishly accepted a ride on the highway with a strangler, made me sit down and write to you even though its 1:30 a.m.

I am not an old fogy and I'm not a prude. I'm 34 years old, a former model now the mother of two little girls. When I tell what has happened to so-called fashions I am not surprised that rape in the United States is at an all-time high. Anyone who wants to check the figures will see the unmistakable correlation between rape and the advent of miniskirts, the bralets craze, the body-stocking look, hot pants, see-through blouses, and necklines slashed to the navel.

Some of the girls dress in such a provocative manner that they look as if they are advertising their bodies for sale—or rent. It's no wonder they are victims of assault. Comment please.—Eye Sore

Dear Eye: It is much too simplistic to infer that rape is the result of scanty or provocative attire. The criminologists do not support that theory. I agree, however, that current modes of dress, both male and female, do reflect the drastic change in society's sexual attitudes. And interestingly enough, the hemlines also reflect the economic trends. When hems go up—so does the stock market!

Poinsettias, the most popular Christmas flower in the Belleville area are quickly disappearing. Miss Nancy Wormald, a Christmas employee at a local flower shop places more of the shop's greenhouse poinsettias with azelias, another popular Christmas flower.

Poinsettias Need Care Especially for Christmas

The poinsettia is probably the most popular potted plant at Christmas time, says John Hughes, horticultural specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. A colorful show is provided by the bright red (sometimes cream) bracts that surround the true blossoms. If you receive a poinsettia as a gift, remember that it needs special care to last for the holiday season.

Poinsettias require a high light intensity and temperatures of about 62 degrees. The plants will do best when placed in a sunny window. Keep them out of drafts and rising air currents from heat registers.

Briton Freed in Argentina

LONDON (AP) — Ronald Grove, the British businessman kidnapped earlier this month in Argentina, has been released by his captors, the Vestey company announced here early today.

Lord Vestey, joint head of the company which employed Grove as its general manager for Argentina, announced that the freed captive is "fit and well" and was taken to the British embassy in Buenos Aires for a medical checkup."

A Vestey spokesman said: "Obviously a ransom was paid for his release but we can't say at the moment how much."

The spokesman said that after prolonged negotiations Grove, with a blanket over his head, was taken by car by his captors to a series of places.

Finally, he was picked up by a company car early today.

The spokesman said Grove had so far only had a brief conversation with Vestey's representatives in Argentina. As far as was known, there was no physical contact between Grove's kidnappers and Vestey's men, he added.

Lord Vestey said arrangements will be made Thursday for Grove to give a news conference in Buenos Aires.

Grove, 64, was seized Dec. 19 as he drove to a golf course. He has lived in Argentina for 28 years.

Lord Vestey, 31, immediately took over the company's efforts to secure his release from his kidnappers, believed to be left-ist guerrillas.

Last Thursday the Buenos Aires afternoon newspaper Clarin reported that a $1 million ransom had been paid for the vanished executive. That report was denied in London Monday.

Javelin Executives' Homes, Offices Searched

MONTREAL (CP) — Documents were seized in weekend searches of homes and offices of five executives of Canadian Javelin Ltd. and the law office of a member of the Quebec national assembly, RCMP said Tuesday.

An RCMP spokesman said the seizures were part of an investigation into the personal affairs of former Newfoundland premier Joseph Smallwood.

"It's part of an investigation based in St. John's of dealings between him and several companies of which Javelin is one."

All documents seized from the executives and from the office of Harry Blank, Liberal MNA for Montreal-St. Louis, were sent by the RCMP's commercial fraud squad to St. John's, the spokesman said.

More than 100 cases of documents were seized from the company executives alone.

Police said Mr. Blank's office was among those searched because he represents "one or more" of the persons involved in the investigation.

Mr. Blank said the documents taken from his office were sealed. A request for their return would be presented soon to a Newfoundland judge.

Mr. Blank said in an interview he had never met or had anything to do with Mr. Smallwood or John C. Doyle, chairman of Canadian Javelin Ltd. but that he was taking legal action against the company on behalf of a client.

SEATTLE (AP) — Boeing workers began dismantling Tuesday a $10-million mockup of the firm's proposed supersonic transport plane, unveiled with much fanfare several years ago.

CP News Roundup

Queen Will Pay Canada Two Visits

LONDON (CP) — Commonwealth leaders have agreed to meet in Ottawa next Aug. 2-10 and the Queen is reported ready to make two trips to Canada in order to appear during the conference, Informants said Tuesday.

The Queen's final commitment is a second flight to Canada next year will depend on formal completion of arrangements for the prime ministers' meeting. But informants said it is "not unlikely" that she will fly to Canada in June and again in August.

On a London visit early this month, Prime Minister Trudeau invited her to be in Ottawa when the heads of government meet and the Queen accepted the invitation in principle.

She is already committed to visit Toronto and other parts of Ontario starting June 25 followed by a trip to Charlottetown June 30 to participate in the Prince Edward Island Centennial.

Meanwhile the Commonwealth secretariat, headed by Toronto-born Arnold Smith, has surveyed the wishes of Commonwealth leaders and concluded, with their agreement, that the Ottawa meeting should take place Aug. 3-10.

Grants Made

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Marc Lalonde said Tuesday the federal government already has tentative plans to continue its New Horizons program for the elderly next year.

But the amount of money allocated will depend on the success of projects undertaken in the first year of operation, he told reporters after announcing the first 78 grants under the $10-million program.

Man Safe

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Police have called off their search for a 24-year-old man whom they thought had become lost while searching for a Christmas tree Sunday.

Cpl. Al Boehl of the Warren detachment said the man, Daniel Ralph Laidlaw, has been found at his mother's home in Halifax.

Fees Defended

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis said Tuesday he cannot see how anyone can quarrel with increased university tuition fees.

He said a student is asked to pay $65.) to $650 each year while it costs the province $3,000 each year.

Tighten Paroles

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — An official of the National Parole Board said Tuesday a more lenient parole policy in effect for the last two years apparently has been abandoned because of an increase in parole violations.

Charles Brooks, acting district representative of the board, said that in the first 10 months of 1972 there were 4,201 paroles granted out of 7,490 applications, while in the same period of last year, 5,188 paroles were granted out of 7,018 applications.

Hard On Ears

TORONTO (CP) — Two McGill University scientists have found that most Eskimos who have used snowmobiles and rifles extensively have become permanently deaf to high-frequency sounds.

Dr. James Baxter and Daniel Ling did a study of noise hazard to Baffin area Eskimos for the federal health and welfare department. The results were published in the latest issue of the Canadian Journal of Otolaryngology.

Near /End

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former president Truman remains semi-conscious and in very serious condition. His doctors say he cannot last indefinitely with his deteriorating kidneys performing inadequately.

Police Charged

VITORIA, Brazil (Reuter) — Two policemen, an assistant police inspector, a district attorney and a lawyer were under arrest Tuesday charged with participating in the hired killing of a 16-year-old girl, police said. The girl was found with her throat cut and arms severed earlier this month in this state capital north of Rio de Janeiro.

Both Public, Doctors For Better Relations

OTTAWA (CP) — Both the public and medical profession have expressed wide-spread interest in improving relations and communications between the two groups, the chairman of a special study into doctor-public relations said Tuesday.

Response to the 10 public hearings "was more than we'd expected," said Edward A. Pickering of Toronto, appointed last summer to head the $200,000 study for the Ontario Medical Association (OMA).

He made the comment at the end of the final hearing in Ottawa. The hearings began Nov. 1 in Kingston and covered all areas of the province.

The interest in better relations between doctors and the public was "shown not only by the health professionals—doctors, nurses and social workers," he said. Individuals also submitted many briefs and local groups such as chambers of commerce, farmt unions and labor organizations.

Several topics recurred among the briefs—"about 256 of them"—presented, Mr. Pickering, a retired Toronto businessman, said.

One of these major themes was use of allied health professionals to take over some of the jobs now considered to be solely the doctors', he said.

"Another that has come up is the question of more lay representatives."

During some of the briefs presented here, it was suggested that representatives of the public and other services should be included on medical review boards.

A brief presented by the Ontario Hospital Association stressed this point, saying that in hospital doctors should acknowledge the leadership of administrators and boards in over-all hospital management.

Michael Cassidy, a member of the legislature for Ottawa Centre, also said the public should have more say in what kind of health care and medical care they want and need.

"I am glad that you have accepted the view that the lay man is competent by holding these public hearings," he told Mr. Pickering. "And I hope you will tell the medical profession that it's credibility (with the public) is very low right now."

Mr. Pickering told reporters that fee-for-service had been another recurring theme. It, too, had been discussed in the hospital association, brief.

"The association recommended that some doctors, whose work is primarily within the hospital, should be on a salary basis rather than on fee-for-service. They included in the list of possibles som surgeons who do not have an outside practice, doctors who do, x-rays and doctors who do the laboratory procedures.

R. V. Hicks, a Toronto lawyer and member of the committee helping Mr. Pickering, said that there had been "an unusual absence of representations criticizing doctors income levels."

Airlines Work Out New Fare Structure

ZURICH (Reuter) — A group of leading North American and European airlines have worked out a provisional air fare structure for North Atlantic routes to take effect on April 1 next year, a spokesman for Swissair said today.

Last week, a nine-day Geneva conference of 40 airlines flying these routes broke up without reaching agreement on a new fare structure to compete with charter airlines.

Following talks held last Friday, the European and North American airlines concerned were free to arrange bilateral or trilateral provisional fare agreements, the spokesman said.

Swissair had organized a fare structure with the participation of Trans World Airlines and Air Canada based on three different seasons and nine categories of fares.

The main airlines involved in the talks were Pan American World Airways, TWA, Swissair, Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM), Sabena, Air France and Air Canada.

The Swissair agreement and any others require approval from air traffic authorities in each country, the spokesman said.

The main new categories are: First-class normal, economy normal, 14-to 45-day excursion, an advance payment excursion fare, a 14-to 21-day individual inclusive tour fare, youth fares and affinity fares.

The spokesman said the new fares within 14-to 45-day excursion fare between Zurich and New York will be about $307, compared with $370.60 for the present such excursion, and $209.60 for the present 22-to 45-day fare.

The economy and first-class fares remained unchanged.

Indian Police Forces Sought

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — The Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians wants reserves in Ontario policed by an all-Indian force.

A motion passed by the executive at a meeting at the Mohawk Institute last week calls for talks with government officials, the provincial police commission, the RCMP and the solicitor-general to establish the force.

The move follows a meeting with retired RCMP deputy commissioner W. H. Kelly, who headed a government commission hearing on policing Indian reserves.

The association would like the force to operate under an RCMP appointment rather than provincial jurisdiction since Indians themselves come under federal jurisdiction.

The all-Indian force would have standard uniforms distinct from other police forces and proper police training "so that the quality of on-reserve police is equal to that of off-reserve."

The association suggests that grants be made available to build police stations on reserves. "The present ratio of one police constable to 500 reserve residents is inadequate and should be increased."

The association also called for an amendment to the Assessment Act to exclude reserves since it feels it is wrong to tax non-Indian interests on reserves.

It claims the province collects between $200,000 and $500,000 a year on property leased by non-Indians on reserves.

"We are opposed in the concept of taxing anything on reserves," said Harry Laforme, an association spokesman.

Fugitive Given Six-year Term

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A prison escapee, Michael J. Gardner, 24, of Oshawa, who held up a Kingston area couple at knifepoint was sentenced Tuesday to an additional six years in jail on a variety of charges.

Judge F. E. D. Baker sentenced Gardner to three years for the theft of an auto while armed, two years for break-in and malicious destruction to property, one year for escaping from the Collins Bay penitentiary farm annex, and one year concurrent for another break-in.

Gardner had 284 days remaining to serve on a parole violation when the latest series of offences was committed within three days in October.

William M. Robinson, 22, of St. Catharines, will stand trial here Dec. 27 on similar charges.

Assistant Crown attorney John Bett said Gardner, armed with a hunting knife, forced entry to the residence of an elderly couple.

"The couple was tied to a chair while a knife was held at their heads," Mr. Bett said. "A shotgun was stolen and the telephone wires were cut . . . before the car was stolen."

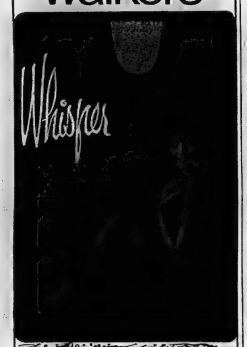
The vehicle later was found abandoned at Toronto International Airport.

He said break-ins occurred at two other Kingston area homes from which clothing, a gun, cartridges, boots, camera, knives, old coins and watches were stolen.

In one of the dwellings, furniture was slashed with knives and paint smeared over the premises. Property damage was estimated at $3,500.

Bell Dismantles TV Firm Cable

OTTAWA (CP) — A small cable television system serving 210 households in southern Quebec has become the first casualty in the growing conflict between cable systems and Bell Canada.



Robert Short, president of the Canadian Cable Television Association, said Tuesday that Bell Canada tore down part of the cable system of Transvision Magog Inc., late Monday night. The company serves a thinly-populated area by the shore of Lake Memphremagog, south of Magog, Que.

Mr. Short called Bell Canada's action "childish and irresponsible."

No Rush

OTTAWA (CP) — Because construction on the proposed natural gas pipeline in the Western Arctic is at least 18 months away, there is no great rush to build the Mackenzie highway, Environment Minister Jack Davis said Tuesday.

Cattle Saved

Barn Blaze Loss $50,000

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Loss estimated at approximately $50,000 resulted Tuesday as fire destroyed a large L-shaped bank barn on the farm of cattle buyer Michael Levine on Highway 14 near Marshlin View.

Last in the blaze which started about 10:30 a.m. were 10,000 bales of hay, 2,000 bales of straw and one silling cow.

More than 100 dry cows and springers secured in stanchions and another 140 in a loafing barn and adjoining yard were saved from the blaze.

Electrical wiring and equipment was lifted by Ameliasburgh deputy fire chief Roger Flower as a possible cause of the blaze.

But the loss could have been much greater if it had not been for the fact the fire was spotted early and for quick work in freeing the stanchioned cattle.

Mrs. W. Bosma, who with her husband, lives at the Levine farm, said smoke was noticed coming from the barn shortly after 10 o'clock.

Her son Bob who happened to be home from his regular job along with two men passing in a truck started helping the cattle and driving them to safety.

Only one sick cow which could not get to her feet was lost in the fire.

Mr. Levine and his farm helpers were at the barn only minutes before the fire was noticed.

"We had just gone over to the next farm when one of the men noticed the fire. It seemed only minutes," said Mr. Levine.

By the time he and his men got back to the burning barn most of the cattle tied in stanchions had been freed.

"I wish I knew the names of those two men who helped free the cattle," said Mr. Levine as he expressed commendation for their efforts in freeing the cattle.

The roof of the main barn had already fallen in by the time Ameliasburgh volunteer firemen arrived. There was no chance to save the main structure but part of the adjoining loafing shed was saved from the flames.

Silage in one of the three closeby concrete silos was spoiled when fire ate through the wooden doors and ignited the feed.

Baled hay and straw in the burned-out barn was expected to smoulder for several days.

Mr. Levine's big worry last night was how to provide accommodation for his 240 shivering cows.

Murray Howe of Bloomfield offered the use of his barns until other accommodation was found.

"But I've no way to get them there — I can't get the trucks," he said.

Still on the Hoof

This cow may appear disconcerted but at least it was still intact — along with rest of 240-head herd — after being rescued from a Mountain View blaze that left big barn a smouldering ruin in background. Loss was estimated around $50,000.

Break-ins Investigated

TRENTON — Town police today are investigating two overnight break-ins that netted thieves approximately $200 in cash and goods.

Thieves smashed a rear window at the Schelmuet Lunch bar at 150 Dundas Street East. Approximately $117 in watches, cigarettes and other items were stolen, Constable Fred Nokes investigated.

And at the Speedy Coin Wash, near the Trenton A and P food Store, thieves jimmied coin-dispensing machines. Total damage and cash loss was reported at $80 by investigating constable Harold Nasmer.

Investigation is being handled by Constable Roger Dingman of the criminal investigation office.

Collision Breaks Arm

PICTON — A Prince Edward county farmer was admitted to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon with a broken arm received in a two vehicle collision on Talbot St., Roger C. Flake, 28, Ye-ville was injured when his truck collided with a car driven by Ralph Richards, 32, of Demorestville.

Mr. Richards and his passenger, Wayne Mitchell, received minor injuries. Mrs. Flake a passenger in her husband's truck, also suffered minor injuries. Total damage to the police at $2,500.

Plowing Times Queried

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County roads are plowed no earlier on weekdays than on weekends as road conditions in Hallowell township following a storm last Friday provoked comment from deputy-reeve Keith MacDonald.

At a county council session Tuesday night he claimed the roads were plowed later on weekends and last Sunday morning plows did not appear until 9 a.m. Hallowell township road employees had difficulty in reaching work on county roads.

County engineer Donald Clark said that plows start at four or five a.m. each day following a storm and do not go out earlier on school days. He said he drives 70 miles through the county last weekend checking road conditions and experienced no problems in travelling.

He admitted he did not visit the West Lake area where many problems later were reported. The engineer added the roads at East Lake, West Lake and Salmon Point seemed hardest hit by the storm.

Sophiasburgh reeve George Foster said county road 15 near Demorestville was not clear on the weekend and he stressed ratepayers want better service on the county and township roads. No complaints have been made regarding lates for this according to reeve Foster.

Trenton Annexes 38 Acres

TRENTON — Annexation of approximately 38 acres of land by the town of Trenton from Murray Township, has been approved by the Ontario Municipal Board, town industrial commission chairman Paul Tripp announced Tuesday.

Reason for the annexation, he said, was to provide additional acreage for construction of a $1.5 million juice bottling concern. Earlier this month, it was announced by Montreal - based Canadian firm, Fisher Brothers Incorporated, would locate in Trenton.

Fisher Brothers produces apples and other bottled fruit juices under the brand neme FBI.

Mr. Tripp indicated this was the final planning hurdle to be jumped, and construction should begin soon. The 100,000-acre plant, to be located on former CN rail property on Dufferin Street

Woman Killed

A Parry Sound woman was struck by a car and killed as she attempted to cross Highway 2 Tuesday night.

Nellie Margaret Evenii, 5j, had been staying with her daughter at RR2, Trenton.

She was making her way across the four-lane road just west of Bayside when a car, driven by Kazimiers Muszynski of RR2, Trenton, hit her.

Provincial police said the accident occurred shortly before 9 p.m.

near the Quaker Oats plant, should be ready by July of 1973.

The industrial commission chairman said the 1972 town council, which he was a member, approved installation of services along the Carrying Place road. These services are required by FBI for their plant.

FBI vice-president this month said his firm expects to produce an annual sales volume of between $7 and $8 million, by 1978. One statement welcomed by local apple producers was that the firm plans to use "all the apples for processing from your area."

The Same In Any Language

Practising Silent Night carol in Mohawk for school concert at new Tyendinaga Reserve community centre, sign held by these youngsters proves Christmas message is same in any language — happiness. Concert participants (from left) were Lori Hill, Vaughn Maracle, both 8, and nine-year-old Alan Brant, Chrystal Maracle.

Mohawks Open Centre

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — The main auditorium in the new Mohawk community centre saw its first stage production Tuesday night — the annual Christmas concert of public school students.

The event marked another phase in the construction of the new centre — which has been in the building for more than a year, replacing the reserve council house which was destroyed by fire in mid-1971.

The project has gradually materialized with the availability of funds, raised by the Mohawks themselves, government grants and community donations.

Dances and other events were organized to continue the money-raising as soon as the basement of the new structure was finished earlier this year.

But last night's concert was the first big event held on the main floor area, where various finishing touches have yet to be added to the interior.

About 200 youngsters from reserve schools participated in the program.

Schools Get 15 Per Cent

Graduates Get Building Boost

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

How important are the physical surroundings of a school to the amount of learning that goes on in it?

Rev. Louis Casartelli of the Hastings - Prince Edward separate school board came up with an answer after a recent conference on school architecture.

The design of a school has about 15 per cent responsibility for the final product, he quoted school architect Peter Manning, as saying.

Father Casartelli of Maynooth said the architect figures and evaluation of "final product" were closely questioned.

Mr. Manning recommended smaller schools on larger sites, with more flexible classroom space inside and a variety of terrain and vegetation on the outside.

The architect recommended a more realistic attitude toward capital costs of construction — the building budgets should be based on cost per child instead of cost per square foot of school space.

First Meeting Jan. 10

The inaugural meeting of the 1973-74 board of education for the Hastings - Prince Edward separate school system will be held Jan. 10 at Nicholson Catholic College.

The first regular meeting of the board will take place Jan. 16 at the board office on George St., Belleville.

The election of a chairman and vice-chairman will take place at the inaugural meeting and ratepayers will be invited by newspaper and radio advertisements and by announcements of their parish priests to attend the meeting.

Ben Kroeze, chairman for the last two years, did not run for re-election this year. Vice-chairman of the outgoing board was Mrs. Lillian O'Connor of Marmora.

Mail Comes Saturday

Belleville post office today confirmed that letters will be mail delivery this Saturday — the last general working day before Christmas.

But the reduced schedule of services for the Christmas - New Year holiday includes:

No postal services Dec. 24-25 or Dec. 31 in city or rural areas.

Street letter boxes will be cleared Dec. 26 and Jan. 1 on a Sunday schedule, although there will be no mail delivery.

Getting Dolled Up

CFB Trenton firemen collected 48 cartons of toys to be distributed to area needy children. Lieut. Bill Dawson holds an armful of dolls to be given to the Trenton Kiwanis Club who will look after the distribution. Before toys were packed, each was checked for damage, scrubbed and washed. Toys and food hampers will be handed out Dec. 23.

Ten Teachers Hired

Ten new teachers will be hired by the Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board in January.

The board, in common with others in the province, will begin hiring early in an attempt to have "first chance at the best teachers" as superintendent E. J. Neville put it.

In former years, when teachers were scarce and appointments climbing, the staff turnover was about 25 per cent a year. Last year, with a surplus of teachers and a decline in enrolment in the two counties' separate schools, the turnover was only 12 per cent.

Administration expects about the same number of resignations this year, but wants to begin early to fill the expected vacancies.

Knocked Down

A Keller Drive woman was taken to Belleville General Hospital Tuesday after being struck by a car in front of city hall.

Mrs. Joan Kenny, 12 Keller Dr., was crossing Front St. from the west side when a vehicle driven by Terrance Whatsam of Picton knocked her down. Mrs. Kenny's husband was called to the scene by city police and took her to hospital with cuts and bruises.

She is recovering at home.

Students Won't Be Studied

Should high school students of sociology be given elementary schools to study a pupil for a report?

Separate school superintendent E. J. Neville doubts that they should, and has refused permission to allow such students to report on separate school pupils' classroom activities.

Trustee John Greenville, a teacher of history at Prince Edward Collegiate, believes the experience valuable for the high school students and said he thinks they should be allowed in the classroom under carefully controlled conditions.

The board's policy committee will investigate the issue and report later.

Mr. Neville said he had had three requests for such studies of elementary school youngsters and has insisted on the approval of the parents, the principal and the child's teacher before such a study is allowed.

"If a high school student goes into a classroom to study one child he invariably has to study other children and this is an infringement on the rights of the others in the class," said Mr. Neville.

Mr. Granville added that he would also like to check out the high school student's teacher, and determine the calibre of student selected for the study.

Rev. Louis Casartelli questioned the competency of high school students to carry out a study of that nature.

Zdenek Kvarda wondered whether or not a request should come from the high school student's board of trustees.

"Is not our first responsibility to our students, the benefit or harm a sociological study will do them?" asked Austin Scott.

Mr. Neville said he would be willing to consider a request for a study from the principal of the high school student, but he was concerned about the possible harm an unfavorable report could do to the elementary school pupil. No one present could answer the question of the eventual disposal of such a report by a student.

Detour Bypassed

TRENTON — Motorists who have been circumspect in a proverbial bit, waiting for work to conclude on Dundas Street West here, are now able to bypass the detour routes in existence since the early fall.

The three-block stretch, from Campbell to Flindall Streets, was opened to traffic Friday, Dec. 15, after many weeks of delay in the road surface work.

No pavement has been laid but town engineer Eric Hounsom says a problem with a supply of gravel will be kept on hand to ensure an adequate surface will be maintained during the winter months.

He said poor fall weather conditions contributed greatly to delay in the widening project. As well, Public Utilities and Bell Canada workmen were changing their systems in the area and certain delays occurred.

But the major factor that delayed road widening and paving was an initial five-month delay at the start of the work because of the holdup of approval from the Ontario Municipal Board. Work was to have begun in April, but did not get under way until September.

Proposed Program Set Up

Areas to be investigated, he indicated, could include courses of study, the types of parent-teacher interviews parents want and whether or not the present types are satisfactory. He also suggested that the committee study what kind of information parents are seeking about the system, and try to answer their questions.

The fire was eight hours old before Mr. Fiskle finally heard about it.

Beef Preferred On NFL Menu

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. Pro football's beef merchants, preparing marketing lists for next month's college draft, put a passing strongboy from Louisiana State and a 250-pound defensive giant from Purdue on top.

Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers isn't so highly regarded.

Bert Jones of LSU, 6-foot-3 son of former Cleveland Browns passsticker Dub Jones is a near cinch to be the first quarterback plucked by the National Football League.

"You've got to look to the big boys early, too," said a Minnesota Vikings spokesman. "A tough, agile 210-pounder won't be available for long."

Among undergraduate giants scouts look heaviest upon Bull ermaker bouncer Dave Butz. He stacks 280 pounds on a 6-foot-7 frame and is deemed fast.

An Associated Press survey of National Football League talent procurers, coaches and front office operatives showed varying thoughts on the elusive, but small Rodgers.

"He's an off-sizer at 171 pounds," said one. "Rodgers has some great abilities, but I look for the wave of big guys and a few other offensive backs to go before him."

The general opinion was that the 1972 crop of seniors is excellent over-all, especially among linemen. There are good bets at quarterback, but a shallowness in runners and wide receivers.

Gary Huff of Florida State is a strong No. 2 choice behind Jones among quarterback prospects.

Otis Armstrong of Purdue appears destined to be the first running back selected in the NFL first round Jan. 31. Few scouts seem high on Greg Pruitt, a 175-pounder from Oklahoma who was second to Rodgers in Heisman balloting.

There's always a little-known small college ace picked early in round one. The best bets this time are 6-foot-5, 255-pound Wally Chambers, a defensive end from Eastern Kentucky, and 6-foot-7, 276-pound John Eastmark of Tampa.

When it comes to tight ends, the scouts turn almost unanimously to Charlie Young, 6-foot-3, 230-pounder with No. 1 ranked Southern California.

"If we needed a tight end," said an NFL club spokesman, "I'd snatch Young because he just might start from the day his rookie season begins."

Big offensive linemen are precious items with pro teams and the current crop has more than its share.

Among them is Paul Seymour, 250-pound Michigan offensive tackle and brother of Chicago Bears receiver Jim Seymour.

Best Retires -- Just In Time

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — English soccer's playboy superstar, George Best, retired before he could be fired Tuesday when his team's patience ran out.

The six-man board that operates Manchester United said Best was being dropped along with team manager Frank O'Farrell "in the best interests of the club."

However, Best, who has "quit" before, wrote a retirement letter to be delivered at the Manchester United board meeting.

Best, just finished a 14-day suspension for missing training. Earlier, he was reported missing although associates said George was bouncing around London's pub circuit with girls on each arm.

Manchester United tried to peddle Best, and teams from the United States, Spain and Holland showed interest along with other British clubs.

A combination of the asking price—$720,000—and Best's personal reputation made them shy away.

Best's letter to his owners said he wanted to confront them personally, but was "afraid of having my say face-to-face since I might not have been completely honest."

He concluded, "... and this time no one will change my mind."

Harris Discovers NHL Problems

MONTREAL (CP) — When right winger Billy Harris was the No. 1 choice in the National Hockey League amateur draft last June, it was predicted he would follow in the footsteps of such successful predecessors as Gilbert Perreault of Buffalo Sabres and Guy Lafleur of Montreal Canadiens.

But Harris, who was drafted by New York Islanders, one of two expansion teams in the league this season, has found nothing but disappointment in the early going.

Perreault earned rookie-of-the-year honors after being picked No. 1 in the 1970 draft, and while Lafleur did not catch the rookie award last season, he did manage a respectable 29 goals in his initial year.

Harris describes his play so far this season as "not good," and adds "I'm not happy with my play at all."

The Islanders are here tonight for a meeting with the Canadiens, leaders in the league's East Division, in one of seven scheduled games.

The fact Harris feels disappointment cannot be attributed to his play alone. Being the first draft choice of a new team—the weakest aggregation in either NHL division—he is expected to form a nucleus all by himself.

When the new World Hockey Association ripped into the Islanders' list of draftees and made off with eight of them, Harris' load became heavier.

"People are expecting too much of him," coach Phil Goyette says. Harris agrees.

"Yeah, I know they do," Harris said. "I've been trying to tell myself this is a team game. We're having a lot of problems with guys trying to do it all themselves."

They have won three games in 30 starts, while losing 24 and tying three.

Phil Esposito

Espo Top Athlete

TORONTO (CP) — Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins, lifetime National Hockey League scoring champion and leading scorer over the Soviet Union, was named Tuesday as 1972 winner of the Lou Marsh trophy.

The award was put up in 1936 to commemorate the late sports editor of The Star and is given to the outstanding Canadian athlete of the year as selected by a committee of sports editors on the basis of nominations from the public.

This year, Esposito was a unanimous choice. Others considered well up in the voting were Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont., pitcher for Chicago Cubs of the National League, who had his sixth 20-game season in succession; Herve Filion of Angers, Que., record-holding harness driver; jockey Sandy Hawley of Whitby, Ont., closing in on the North American riding title, and Paul Henderson of Toronto Maple Leafs, who scored the game-winning goal in the final three meetings with the Soviets.

Knights Stop Selects

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Strengthened with players from other Ontario Hockey Association Junior A teams, London Knights defeated Moosonee Selects 6-3 Tuesday, handing the touring Russian team its first loss in seven Canadian exhibition games.

Bob Gainey, one of three players picked up from Peterborough Petes, scored two first-period goals. London centre Denis Marsh had one goal and two assists. London's John Held got a goal and Denis Potvin and Ian Turnbull, both of Ottawa 67s, each scored once.

Alexander Golikov, Vyacheslav Solodukhin and Sergey Kapustin scored for Moscow.

The Knights took considerable steam out of the Russian skating game with some solid first-period checks, then skated to a 3-1 lead in a wide-open second period. The Knights outscored the Russians 3-2 in the final period.

After a scoreless first period, Turnbull scored at 6:11 of the middle period but Golikov tied the score 39 seconds later. Potvin gave London a 3-1 lead about six minutes later with Moscow a man short. Held added another before the period ended.

Moscow, which outshot London 33-34, peppered Knights goalie Peter Crokes with 16 shots in the second period while his teammates drove 12 at Victor Kostyukov in the Russian net.

Gainey's first goal at 2:39 of the final period gave London some breathing room but Solodukhin narrowed lead to two goals mid-way through the period. Gainey scored again at 14:05 and the Russians shot back with a goal by Kapustin 49 seconds later.

Referee Jim Lever gave London nine of the 17 minors in the spirited game, dominated by the Knights forechecking. When Potvin and Turnbull drew almost back-to-back penalties in the first period, the Russians failed to get a shot on net and only managed one shot up to 17:30 of the first period.

Three of London's goals came on power plays.

Foul Olympic Play Charged Against ABC

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. said Tuesday that the organizing committee for the 1976 Summer Olympics in Montreal has "through secret and non-competitive procedures" made it impossible for any network to outbid the American Broadcasting Co. for the United States television rights.

In a cable to Lord Killanin of Ireland, president of the International Olympic Committee, Cyrdon B. Dunham, NBC's vice-president and general counsel, said his network has been advised by a member of the Canadian organizing committee that ABC had been assured of negotiating terms that "granted ABC a right to meet any other offer and, by meeting it, retain U.S. rights against other bidders."

Dunham called such assurance "flagrant departure from the standards and ideals for which the Olympiad stands" and said it gave ABC "no preferential a position that the ability of any other party to obtain is less than adequate."

ABC television rights has been nullified in advance and the bidding procedure has been made a sham."

ABC televised the 1972 Summer Olympics while NBC aired the Winter Games.

ABC officials were unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Grid League Seeks Funds

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — The Northern Football Conference will seek government funds to conduct a feasibility study on senior football in Northern Ontario, it was announced Tuesday.

Frank Sarlo, a Sault Ste. Marie lawyer, was named to conduct the study by the league executive meeting in Sudbury Saturday. An application will be filed with Sports Canada for a $500 grant to cover part of the study.

Apart from studying the senior football structure, Mr. Sarlo also is to look into the possibilities of obtaining financial help from the federal and provincial governments.

Another announcement Tuesday was the naming of Gary Costello, general manager of the Sudbury Spartans, as team executive of the year.

Financial Lift For Lifters?

by

Eric Emerson

Sports Editor

The Quinte area's most prominent amateur athlete is no longer the Quinte area's most prominent amateur athlete. Why?

It isn't because of the dull practice grind. In fact after 16 years of lifting toes and toes and toes of weights, Price Morris finds that among the things he misses most about competitive weightlifting is practice. "You miss working out with the guys three or four times a week," admits the second man to represent this district in the Summer Olympics, "it's a routine that you get into over the years."

And it isn't because, after 18 years, the "old man" can't hold his own in the weightlifting ranks. During the past year he had enjoyed his greatest success ever winning a berth on the 1972 Summer Olympics team; capturing the Canadian championship of his weight division; and being named top lifter in both Ontario and Canada for his 1040 pound total, an achievement that had eluded him in the previous 15 years.

And it certainly isn't that he hasn't received the fruits of his weightlifting labor — the trip to Munich, a ticket to the 1967 Pan-Am Games in Winnipeg, the '70 World Championships in Columbus Ohio and the '71 Pan-Am competition in Cali, Columbia and other global junkets.

Why then does an athlete retire at his competitive peak, unless maybe it's a small matter, like pride?

"I might still be competing if the right people made it worth my while," says Price, "sure I had the money to compete in the Munich Olympics, but it came from the wrong people, people like Jack Yardmen helped raise funds and that's not right. It should be the government that comes up with the money."

Is he carrying idealism to extremes when he expects the country whose standard he carries to help with things like lost wages when he competes abroad?

Maybe he suffers from that same kind of "poor relation" feeling that Apollo Barbell Club coach Ken Carr-Brain gets when he tries to raise funds for his organization.

"You're always always begging. People look up and say, 'Oh, you again'," relates the Apollo founder.

Now this isn't a desperate plea to raise weightlifting to the status of, say, ice hockey in Ontario. In fact we have one veteran editor who cringes, then belches "Not another blinkety - blank weightlifting story!", whenever the subject comes up.

As a spectator sport weightlifting might not be there with bowling and five pin and stud. You have to be pretty much "into" the sport to really enjoy it.

However it is a sport and the most successful one practised in the Belleville area. In the 27 years the Apollo Bar Bell club has been in operation, Carr - Brain estimates that they have produced "10 or 12 national champions."

The annual awards banquet to honor provincial champions from this city, most often consists of four or five weightlifters, the odd wrestler or archer and occasionally a hockey or softball team.

In spite of the honors they've garnered over the years the Apollo club practices in Carr-Brain's Boswell Street garage and raises money through small projects like selling weightlifting pins.

There is apparently money, government money, available for minor sports in Ontario, Premier William Davis announced last Wednesday "a major program to provide more financial aid for amateur sports in Ontario.

"In this way the various sports associations will be able to encourage more participation in their activities, develop a province - wide program . . . and ensure that competitive experiences are available for their top athletes," the premier is quoted as saying.

Of course it's highly probable that not one penny of the grant money will be devoted to weightlifting, apparently the Department of Youth and Recreation feels it is not a popular enough sport to merit public support.

"It burns me up," said Carr-Brain, "our association works with the Youth and Recreation people a few years ago and apparently they're not interested in champions, only a sports pyramid with a broad base of participants.

"They insist that we hold clinics to help develop leaders who will in turn start another group. It works in basketball, but it won't work in weightlifting."

Why won't this concept work in weightlifting?

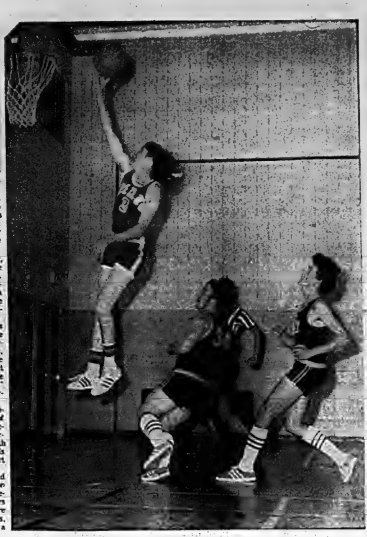
"It's a very technical sport, like fencing," claims the Apollo head, "because of this it takes longer to develop co-ordination. It requires more coaching and it takes a lot of time and patience.

"When a boy begins to show promise in this sport, he's already about six years at it."

Apparently, some other provinces do recognize the validity of weightlifting.

"Quebec has a fabulous weightlifting program," says Carr-Brain, "they have a full time coach and they organize three trips a year to Ontario to compete, as well as other places."

If other provinces can see the benefit of supporting weightlifting why not Ontario?



If the Apollo club can turn out national calibre lifters under existing (or nonexisting) programs, wouldn't they be that much better with the proper training facilities and experience?

In short, is a sport where one athlete is willing to put in 1,000 hours of training any less worthwhile than one where 500 competitors will train for two hours?

Towers Tie Trenton 2-2

Belleville Towers Food City novice juniors came out of Tuesday's hockey action with a 2-2 tie with Trenton Rotary.

Goalgetters for the Belleville novices were Tim Jacques and Dan Rose while Rick Cole and Mark Turcott tallied for the Rotarians.

Centennial Too Late

Centennial's Bob Vanderwater and top scorer David Dent were too late to block Quinte's Mark Gallupe as he dropped two points to add to his total of 18. Gallupe led the Quinte senior team to a 71-65 victory over the Chargers and a berth in the Quinte Invitational Basketball Tournament December 27-28.

Jim's Keep Unbeaten Flavor

The Intelligencer put a torch to Jim's Pizzeria's 10 game winning streak, but the Gas House Hockey leaders retained their unbeaten flavor with a goal in the final 10 seconds to salvage a 3-3 tie, Tuesday night.

Winger Bill Dunn scored from a scramble in front of The Intell net at 19:50 of the third period to leave Jim's with a 10-0-1 mark in 11 outings this season.

Intell had taken a 3-2 lead on a third period goal by Larry Fritz who deked the opposing defence and beat goalie Bob Harrison. The pizzamen had opened the scoring on a deflection by Ralph Boomhower, but Fred Sickle evened the count at 1-1.

Jim's grabbed a 2-1 lead in the second frame on Carl Boomhower's backhander before Bruce Symons scored from a scramble and Fritz added his marker to give Dispapermen a 3-2 lead and set the stagefor Dunn's marker in the dying seconds.

Goalies Warren Hay of The Intell and Bob Harrison of Jim's were the individual team standouts.

In other Gas House hockey action, Rollins' Scotty McLaren scored the third period tie up against Wilson Concrete. Wayne Harrison and Keith Dickey tallied one goal apiece in the 3-3 contest. Garry Thompson, Mike McDermott, and Bob Cormier tallied for Wilsons.

Saints Top Centennial For Tournament Berth

By AL ZABAS
Staff Sportswriter

Though it's a slow way to travel, dribbling will take you far if you do it right.

The Quinte Secondary dribblers bounced the basketball right to Kingston for the Queen's Invitational Basketball Tournament with their 71-65 victory over Centennial. Quinte's win ended an exhibition game playoff series which saw the Saints beat Prince Edward Collegiate 53-39 and Centennial defeat BCI 54-51 to place in the final.

The victory over the Chargers did not come easily for the Blue and Grey as Quinte coach Jim Murray was the first to admit.

"They're a real bunch of scrappers," said Murray, "several times I felt we were on the verge of opening it up and then they came back on us."

Quinte won the Belleville berth in the Queen's Tourney on some outstanding play by Terry Collins and Mark Gallupe and some errors made on the part of Centennial.

Collins was the master of the boards Tuesday night as he grabbed 18 rebounds, 13 of which were defensive.

Gallupe's shooting from the field kept the Chargers in a catch-up game as he dropped seven of his 18 shots in the first quarter to start the Quinte's on the victory road.

Quinte led by 18-5 lead in the first quarter," said Charger coach Bruce Faulds, "and it's hard to play catch up basketball against that good a team."

Centennial did not give the Quinte team much rest, however, as they persistantly threatened. At one point in the fourth quarter, with Centennial behind 55-51, only turnovers saved the Saints from a tie-up.

Quinte's Rick Meagher stole the ball twice on Charger cross court passes for scoreboard make - up. Vahe Parmakserian, who according to coach Faulds did not play one of his better games, lost the ball to the Quinte forwards for a score which pulled the Saints out of reach.

Coach Faulds recognized the turnovers as a significant factor in their loss.

"We were hurt for 10 points in the first half on turnovers," said Faulds. "In the last half, we lost about half a dozen for the same reason. Our guards turned over the ball to the Quinte press, and then it's a three on none on the basket."

The Chargers made a last ditch attempt for the win in the fourth quarter when they went into a full court press.

Quinte coach Jim Murray said after the game that he "wondered why they didn't go into it earlier." But the old hydra of a short bench raised its head as two Centennial starters did not play. Al Millar was out with a cast on his leg while Terry Richardson has not practiced for several weeks and, though dressed, did not see court time. The Chargers only put seven men on the Loyalist College court throughout the game.

"We were putting on a full court zone press and then dropping back to a man to man, if they beat us," said coach Faulds, "and they did."

The Saints did not take the top scorer honors, however, as Centennial's Brian Murphy chalked up 22 points for the Chargers. David Dent with 17 and Vahe Parmakserian with 14 points contributed to the Charger scoring while Quinte's Calhoge totalled 18. Don McTaggart dropped 14 into the hoop while Collins added the same for the Saints.

The Quinte team will make their appearance on the Queen's University courts on December 27-28. Senior high school teams participating in the two day tournament will come from Oshawa, Peterborough, Cobourg, York Mills, Cornwall, Sudbury, and Kingston which will have three representatives.

Trenton Teams Swept by Picton

Not all visits to distant places are pleasant as Trenton cagers discovered Tuesday night. All three Trenton basketball teams went down to defeat at the hands of Prince Edward Collegiate.

The Picton seniors extended their win streak to 5-1 with their 77-74 victory over Trenton. Kevin Quinn's overboarding was a big factor in the win, according to Picton senior coach Dave Stewart.

Quinn was the Picton high scorer with 24 points while teammates Doug Dersnah and Dave Culmer scored 22 and 21 respectively. Don Armstrong with (27) and Elden Garrett (23) dropped Trenton's basket.

The Picton's juniors won their game in the third quarter as they outscored Trenton 13-4. Tim Barrett, who dropped 19 points throughout the game, earned 10 in the third while Jim McAdams hooped all seven of his points.

The 42-25 Picton victory saw Trenton's Hingee and Alexander score nine and eight points.

Kent Quinn led Prince Edward to a 46-36 victory over the Trenton midgets with his 18 point total, Bob Tapp (nine) and Joe Hance (eight) shook the netting for Picton who now hold a 3-2 record.

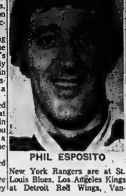
Split-Second Timing Gives Bruins 3-2 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins climbed to within a point of East Division leading Montreal Canadiens on the strength of an over-anxious minor official in Philadelphia Tuesday night.



With the Bruins leading the Penguins 3-2, paced by Phil Esposito's two power-play scores, the faceoff was in the Boston end of the ice with eight-second remaining.

Centre Bryan Hextall, facing off with Esposito, knocked the puck out of the linesman's hand. The official properly called for another Penguin in the faceoff circle, but the Pittsburgh players charged that a second had ticked off.

Their protests were ignored and play resumed. Hextall beat Boston goalie Ed Johnston in the ensuing scramble, but, you guessed it—time had expired a fraction of a second before the score.

It was the only game played Tuesday.

The Penguins and Boston are the only idle National Hockey League clubs tonight when New York Islanders visit Montreal Canadiens, Atlanta Braves entertain Toronto Maple Leafs, Vancouver Canucks against the Sabres at Buffalo Philadelphia Flyers at Chicago Black Hawks and Minnesota North Stars at California Golden Seals.

PHIL ESPOSITO

Esposito's 19th and 20th goals gave him 50 points and a four-point lead over Montreal's Jacques Lemaire in the individual scoring race.

Earlier in the day the ranger centre ace, who played a big role in Boston's Stanley Cup triumph last spring and more recently in Team Canada's victory over the Soviet Union, was named 1972 winner of the Lou Marsh Trophy in Toronto.

The award, honoring the former sports editor of The Star, is given to the outstanding Canadian athlete of the year as selected by a committee of sports editors on the basis of nominations from the public.

Eddie Shack offset Esposito's first-period goal and after Mike Walton's unassisted score had given the Bruins a 2-1 lead at 10:17 of the middle period, Al McDonough got the equalizer about five minutes later.

Cub Great Dies at 72

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles (Gabby) Hartnett, one of the all-time heroes of Chicago Cubs and a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, died early today. Hartnett, who was 72 today, entered hospital in Park Ridge Dec. 7 suffering from cirrhosis of the liver.

The husky, ruddy-faced catcher spent 19 seasons with the Cubs through 1940. He was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1955.

His most famous feat was a home run late in the 1938 season which catapulted the Cubs to the National League pennant.

The blow came as darkness settled on Wrigley Field and the Cubs were in a 5-5 slugfest-tie with Pittsburgh Pirates whose once commanding lead had shrunk to one-half game.

With two out, Hartnett connected on an 0-2 Mace Brown pitch to put the Cubs in first place. The Pirates never recovered and a few days later Hartnett slammed a bases-loaded double against St. Louis Cardinals to help the Cubs clinch the pennant.

In the 1932 World Series between the Cubs and New York Yankees, Hartnett was catching when Babe Ruth hit his famous "called" homer off Charley Root.

Hartnett had replaced Charlie Grimm as Cub player-manager in July of 1938 and was released as manager after the 1940 season. Gabby's big league career ended in 1941 as pitcher-coach for New York Giants.

Hartnett's lifetime major league batting average was .298. He led NL catchers in fielding seven times and caught 100 or more games in 12 seasons, eight of them in succession.

Kells Could Revive League

TORONTO (CP) — The National Lacrosse League, which folded last week with the withdrawal of the Windsor and Toronto franchises, will live again if his ideas materialize, says Mal Kells.

Kells, who coached Brantford Warriors to the NLL finals this year before losing to New Westminster, said he is prepared to leave Brantford for Toronto—with a few stipulations thrown in.

And he feels locating in Windsor franchise in Oshawa would be beneficial because most of the team's players live in the Oshawa area and travel was cited as a reason for the club's withdrawal.

Failing this, Kells said Tuesday there are people in the Buffalo-St. Catharines area interested in operating a team.

McDonald Jogs Memories

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Remember the name Brian McDonald.

Eleven World Hockey Association teams will after Tuesday night.

The hard-working right winger with Houston scored four goals, two of them 10 seconds apart in the third period, to carry the Aeros to a 7-5 win over Los Angeles Sharks.

The 5-foot-8 180-pounder, last year with Sabre Dogs Gulls of the Western League, was certainly no threat to the league scoring leaders until the Los Angeles-Houston encounter.

He had scored only four goals in his previous WHA games.

In other games Tuesday, the scores were: Quebec Les Nordiques 7, Ottawa Nationals 3; Minnesota Fighting Saints 7, New England Whalers 5; New York Raiders 7, Philadelphia Blazers 2; Chicago Cougars 6, Cleveland Crusaders 1.

Chicago is at Philadelphia in tonight's only game.

McDonald's third and fourth goals of the night in the third period and Ed Hoekstra's sixth of the season enable the Aeros to take a 7-3 lead.

Los Angeles rallied behind three power-play goals by Barry Cranbrey, Gary Veneruzzo and Howie Heggedal to make the Sharks respectable. Houston's John Schella was serving a five-minute penalty.

Ted Taylor and Gord Labossiere had given Houston a 2-0 lead. Jim Watson scored the two earlier goals, matching McDonald's second-period scores before 2,315 Houston fans.

Quebec outscored the Nats 4-1 in the final period in front of 5,671 at Quebec Coliseum to put the game out of reach.

J. C. Trowbridge, Pierre Guite, Alain Caron and Michel Rouleau were the Quebec marksmen in the third before Jack Gibson ended the Ottawa scoring.

Michel Parizeau, with two, and Rejean Gineux scored in the first for the Nordiques. Wayne Carleton in the first and Brian Gibbons in the second completed the Ottawa scoring.

The game was interrupted briefly in the second period by a fight between Gibson and Giroux.

The Fighting Saints spotted New England at 3-0 lead then rallied behind goals by St. Paul, Minn., fans to win with three unanswered goals in the third period.

Wayne Connelly's two goals led the Saints, his second at 9:27 of the third provided the winning margin with an insurance score by defenceman Mike McMahon.

Keith Christiansen, Fred Speck, Billy Klatt and Terry Ball also tallied for Minnesota. Tom Webster and Terry Caffery notched two each for the Whalers. Eastern Division leaders. The other went to defencemen Brad Selwood.

Selects Meet Marlies

TORONTO (CP) — Moscow Selects, who Tuesday night lost their first game in seven Canadian exhibition contests 6-3 to a beefed-up London Knights club, will meet toughened Toronto team tonight.

Two of players with the Knights, were among the scorers Tuesday night.

Now the Selects, taking on the league-leading Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, will find themselves contending also against Denis Ververgaert and centre Reg Thomas, the OHA's two top scorers from London, plus defenceman Doug Ferguson of Hamilton Red Wings and Peterborough's Jim Turkiewicz.

Toronto Marlboros won their 23rd game without defeat Tuesday night by tying Oshawa Generals 2-2.

"The Russians want to dress players for the game," said Marlie manager Frank Bonello. "We only carry 19 forwards and the two London players will give us four lines.

"We're missing Marty Howe from our defence because of an injury and the two additions will give us three good pairs."

CAMPBELL RECOVERING

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, was reported "resting comfortably" in a Montreal hospital Tuesday following gall bladder surgery. Campbell, 67, underwent the operation Monday and was expected to be confined to hospital for another 10 days to two weeks, a league spokesman said.

Champ Repeats

SAALBACH, Austria (AP) — Defending champion Annemarie Proell of Australia won her second World Cup skiing event in 24 hours today when she clocked the best time in the giant slalom after taking the downhill Tuesday.

The 19-year-old champion from Salzburg staged and raged down the 1,926-metre Mount Asterain course in one minute 17.17 seconds. The course was flagged with 48 gates and dropped 357 metres.

It was her third World Cup triumph this season and gave her an overall total of 16—a record. Jean-Claude Killy of France, now a pro, set the record with 18 cup wins.

The powerful Austrian team placed five girls in the top 10 of the giant slalom as the Kreiner sisters, Kathy and Laurie, of Timmins, Ont., also broke into the select circle. Kathy was eighth in 1:20.39 and Laurie 10th in 1:20.67.

Austria's Monika Kaserer was second in 1:18.62 and Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein third in 1:19.65.

Lamoureux, McCleave Choices for Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau announced Tuesday he will nominate Robert McCleave, Conservative MP for Halifax-East Hants, for the office of deputy Speaker when the House of Commons sits Jan. 4. He confirmed in the same announcement that he will nominate Lucien Lamoureux, Independent member from Stormont-Dundas, to serve once again as Speaker.

Tuesday was Mr. McCleave's 50th birthday.

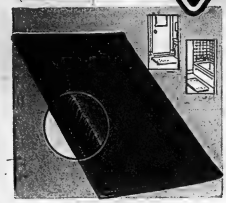
Davis to Talk to U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Environment Minister Jack Davis said Tuesday he will discuss the Great Lakes water quality agreement with U.S. authorities in a Washington visit early in the new year.

Mr. Davis said in an interview that reports indicate the U.S. government will stand by its commitments for the next two years, "but we are going to have to continue to question whether they are meeting this objective."

The Ontario government, with federal support, has invested a lot of money in cleanup efforts.

Service to End Friday



TORONTO (CP) — The experimental Barrie-Toronto commuter train will end Friday, Liberal MP Barnett Denson announced Tuesday. He said Canadian National Railways needs the equipment during the Christmas rush.

Carols from Kings Yule Favorites

CAMBRIDGE, England (CP) — "Carols from Kings," when the famous King's College Choir of Cambridge sings its Christmas service at Lincoln Cathedral, is a sign that the holiday season has really begun in Britain.

Although the choir's Christmas tradition dates only from the 1930s, its combination of carols, hymns, biblical narration and prayers has been widely imitated throughout the Anglican Church.

During the Christmas period the choir also will record for television the Childhood of Christ by Berlioz with the London Philharmonic Orchestra.

The choir is an elite corps of virtuoso singers whose ages range from nine to 23. Their musical tradition goes back more than 500 years. The founder of the college chapel was King Henry VI, who started to build it in 1441. He founded a college choir consisting of six lay clerks to sing the male voice parts and 16 boy choristers to sing the treble parts. His statutes given in 1453 directed that the choristers were to be "boys of honest conversation" and under 13 years of age.

The chapel was finished in 1536 and ever since apart from a short interruption in the civil war when Oliver Cromwell banned choral services, the choir has sung in it regularly. The alto, tenor and bass parts now are sung by 13 choral scholars who are undergraduate members of the college. The number of boys remains at 16.

The boys are selected annually at a competition which attracts entrants from all parts of the British Isles.

"We expect little of them at the age of eight. We just look for general intelligence, a good ear and promise, rather than actual vocal ability," said David Willcocks, director of music.

"I asked one of the candidates how old he was and he said 'Seven sir, how old are you?, He is in the choir."

The boys sing for two hours every day during term time and take part in eight services a week in the chapel.

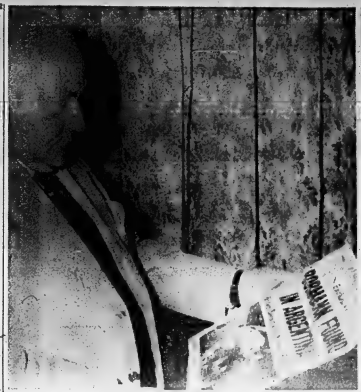
"We insist that the boys learn a musical instrument as well so that when their voices break they have something they can enjoy for the rest of their lives."

The undergraduates stay only three years so the composition of the choir is constantly changing.

"Some people regard this lack of continuity as a disadvantage but I see the constant influx of new, young, keen boys and men as a positive advantage," said Mr. Willcocks.

"They are conscious of the tradition they have to maintain."

His own links with King's go back more than 30 years. After singing as a treble at Westminster Abbey and studying music at Clinton College he won an organ scholarship to King's in 1939 and returned after the Second World War to take his degree. In 1957 he was recalled to King's as director of music.



Each summer tours are made to other countries, the last being to West Africa where during a three-week visit to Ghana, Sierra Leone and Nigeria the choir sang to capacity audiences.

Before we went," said Willcocks, "we learned an African song, copying the pronunciation from a tape sent to us."

In one of the concerts at the Kumasi Arts Festival local choirs joined the King's College choir in rehearsing and performing Handel's Hallelujah Chorus and a number of hymns.

Gradual Theft

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Jack Haste, a Coldwater resident, called police after his cedar rail fence began to disappear a piece at a time. A police spokesman said they were investigating the gradual theft of the fence, and that regular checks of the state property were being made.

He's Not Bormann

Social Gap

CALGARY (CP) — Indians are caught between their native society and the white society, said Indians speaking at the University of Calgary. Andrew Bearrobe, a University of Calgary student, said one of the Indians' biggest problems is integration. To improve the integration system, the problem must be tackled at its source, the reserve, he said.

Two Years Late

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP) — Some things are slower than the Christmas mail. Jim Mackie of the Pembroke Book Store said he had given up on an order of books he had ordered in October, 1970. They finally arrived —two years later.

New Republic of Minerva Is Facing War With Tonga

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — The president of the Republic of Minerva (current population: zero; elevation: -3 at high tide) says the world will soon sit up and take notice of the "newest and smallest nation on earth."

But for now, Morris C. (Bud) Davis, 46, conducts Minerva affairs of state from the provisional capital—his living room in this Los Angeles suburb.

He has never seen Minerva, which consists of two coral reefs lying near the Tropic of Capricorn, underwater most of the time. Minerva, named after the Greek goddess, is 900 miles north of Auckland, New Zealand and 280 miles south of the capital of Tonga.

Davis says he plans to visit Minerva next summer, but right now he is concentrating on averting a war with neighboring Tonga, which claims the territory.

North Minerva is a circular atoll 4½ miles in diameter. South Minerva, which is 17 miles away, is a coral outcropping in the shape of a figure eight, about 3½ miles wide and eight miles long. At low tide, the reefs thrust three feet above the water. At high tide, they disappear.

Davis, who formerly was an electronic engineer, is president of a company called Caribbean-Pacific Enterprises, which was formed for the specific purpose of establishing a new nation somewhere.

There are seven stockholders with a total investment of $250,000 in the project, Davis said in an interview.

"We figured we really couldn't straighten out our own country," so we would start over somewhere new. We searched through history books, libraries and nautical charts for any place in the world that was unclaimed."

The group could find only two unclaimed places, Minerva and Conway Reef off the coast of Australia, which has since been claimed by Australia.

On Jan. 16 of this year, two members of Caribbean-Pacific Enterprises and three crew members set sail from Fiji for a two-day, 380-mile voyage to the reefs.

Once there, they laid claim to the reefs in the name of the Republic of Minerva and raised the Minervan flag—a gold torch of liberty on a blue (for the sea) background which was designed by Davis.

But King Tupou IV of Tonga, general of the 100-man Tonga defence force, led an expedition-ary band accompanied by Tonga police in June and declared Tongan sovereignty over the reefs.

Davis said the Republic of Minerva plans to negotiate with the king. "We certainly don't want to go to war over it."

WHITE ESKIMO — Harold Horwood

Harold Horwood takes the reader into Northern Labrador, a land of fears o m e beauty and powerful nature spirits. Here three cultures — Indian, Eskimo and White — meet. The central character is Esaw Gillingham, a superb hunter and a born r e l e l. When he came down from the hills dressed in white and bringing a load of white fox skins, the Eskimos took him as a "white spirit" of their friends. The novel shows the varying ways of life and thought of the three cultures through a series of episodes with Gillingham as the central figure.

RULE BRITANNIA — Daphne Du Maurier

Suppose in the near future the European Community should go bankrupt and Britain be forced into union with the United States. Against this background, Daphne Du Maurier tells the story of a retired elderly actress nicknamed "Mad", her granddaughter Emma and six adopted boys. When American troops land in Cornwall, Mad declares war on these interlopers and abetted by the boys, puts into operation a program of resistance.

THE DAY IN SHADOW — Nayantare Sahgal

This is the story of Simrit and Raj. Simrit is lost and saddened as she copes with the shock of divorce. In trying to build a new life, she turns to Raj, a young member of parliament. The setting is Delhi and behind the m a i n characters is India and a new breed of politician, believing that Hinduism must adopt an active stance and thus revitalize itself.

TO SEIZE THE PASSING DREAM — Ted Beckman

James McNeill Whistler was a bon vivant, a wit — and a great painter. In this biographical novel, Ted Beckman describes the artist's relationship with his mother and his mistresses, brings to life his celebrated feuds, and traces his friendships with Oscar Wilde, Swinburne, Toulouse Lautrec and many other great names. Here, too, are the stories behind his most famous paintings.

THE ODESSA FILE — Frederick Forsyth

The life — and death hunt for a notorious Nazi criminal unfolds against a background of international espionage, involving rackets equipped with nuclear warheads and Bubonic plague. The Israeli intelligence service is locked in struggle with an SS organization. By the author of "The Day of the Jackal," this novel almost convinces one that the Nazis are again about to take over the world.

THE DOCTOR'S REPUTATION — Elizabeth Seifert

The many admirers of Elizabeth Seifert's Bayard books will welcome this new story about people of that pleasant town. Here is a delightful romance. Here also is the story of the hospital in a time of crisis. Bitter rivalry between the head of Union Hospital and chief of Creighton Memorial Hospital changes the lives of people and threatens the existence of Creighton.

THE AUGSBURG EAGLE: THE STORY OF THE MES-SERSCHMITT 109 — William Green

The "Augsburg Eagle" was a fighting aircraft, but no ordinary warplane. It was perhaps the most famous of all single-seat fighters — Messerschmitt's 109. From its appearance in Spanish skies it displayed all the characteristics of the true pred a t o r y bird. For years it symbolized the air power of Germany's Third Reich. No warplane had a more adventurous career than did this "Eagle" from Augsburg.

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF NEEDLECRAFT — Ida Riley Duncan

Here is an enjoyable a n d practical method to make many lovely things. With this book anyone can quickly and easily learn to embroider, applique, monogram, or crochet. There are detailed diagrams, stitch-by-stitch directions and illustrated patterns to explain he steps necessary in making baby clothes, hats, rugs, afghans, and many m o r e hand-crafted goods.

THE BEST AND BRIGHTEST — David Halberstam

This book is the result of much research and many personal i n t e r v i e w s from which journalist David Halberstam has drawn brilliant portraits of the men w h o came to power in the Kennedy years. These were McNamara and Bundy, Dean Rusk, Maxwell Taylor and Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnston themselves. The author tells us what kind of men these are, and how each of them reacted at crucial moments, and what legacy their decisions left Amcrica.

A SURGEON'S WORLD — William A. Nolen, MD

Dr. Nolen tells what happened to him after he went from the hectic world of New York Bellevue Hospital to practice in Litchfield, Minesota. With directness, humor and c o m passion, he offers a look into the medical world: how doctors get along with one another; how they deal with nurses, etc. He reveals how patients appear to a doctor's eyes, gives advice on how to choose a doctor, and many other endlessly fascinating aspects of the medical profession.

ELIZABETH AND PHILIP — Judith Campbell

This is a portrait of the marriage of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip in the year of their silver wedding anniversary. Over 25 years of married life. Elizabeth has been Queen for 20, and she and Philip have been very much in the public eye.

U.S. Moves For Long Dickering

WASHINGTON (Reuter) The White House appears set for a long roundtable diplomatic manoeuvring with Britain and Moscow in its efforts to reach a peace agreement in Vietnam.

Although the Soviet Union described the bombing raids as brutal and demanded that they be stopped, the administration let it be known it was counting on Russian—and Chinese—help in reopening the so-called secret negotiations between the Americans and North Vietnamese.

Airliner Passenger Opens Fire

NEW YORK (Reuter) — A passenger about to board an airliner at Kennedy International Airport today grabbed a gun from a U.S. customs agent and opened fire on the agent and another customs man after he was asked to open a bag for inspection.

WHA Struggles Through

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The World Hockey Association has struggled through its first half-season and although attendances have been disappointing, the new league is still alive, even if it isn't exactly frisky.

In only two of its 12 franchises, New England and Quebec, has the league done well at the gate. The Chicago club now is working on its third set of owners and the New York club is being operated by the league after being perilously close to financial disaster.

Still, league officials see hope on the horizon. For one thing, average attendance has been 7,000, about 1,000 more than the WHA had hoped for when it started. For another thing, there is a moderately lucrative national television contract with the Columbia Broadcasting System.

"Right from the start, we've been ahead of schedule," says Gary Davidson, the young WHA president, who also lived through the growing pains of the American Basketball Association when it first began operations.

"We're looking at two million attendance in our first year. We're on national television both in the United States and Canada and our position regarding the rights of players to determine their own destiny has been upheld in court.

"Relatively speaking, we're probably three to five years ahead of where the American Football League and American Basketball Association were at this point in their history."

All of that sounds good but the last line of game summaries, the line reporting the attendance figures, has been depressing in all too many of the WHA games. Philadelphia, which spent huge sums to lure stars such as Derek Sanderson, Johnny McKenzie and Bernie Parent away from the rival National Hockey League, drew fewer than 800 fans show up for a game against New York earlier this month.

Owner Bernard Brown, obviously upset about the numbers game, has hinted that he would like to unload some of the heavy salary load his Philadelphia team is carrying. The most likely candidate to take the home is Sanderson, who signed a $2.6-million contract but has been injured for most of the season.

The New York club, called the showpiece of the league by Davidson, is locked into a contract that includes a $22,000 rental for every game it plays in Madison Square Garden. It didn't take long for that price tag to take its toll and the club has been running the franchise since last month while entertaining bids from prospective new owners.

The Raiders have averaged about 4,000 a game although attendance doubled to 8,000 last Sunday when Bobby Hull came to town for the first time with Winnipeg Jets.

That's what GB WHA expected when it pooled its resources to come up with the nearly $3 million it took to lure Hull away from Chicago Black Hawks of the NHL. But legal problems have limited Bobby's activity and crowds so far have been less than the league had hoped Hull would attract.

"We knew we weren't going to play before packed houses," Hull admitted. "But if we can keep playing exciting hockey the fans will come."

So far, the fans have failed to arrive in most of the WHA cities. March of the dubs average game attendance has been produced by New England Whalers, who have averaged almost 10,000 fans a game for contests played in Boston Garden.

But the team must play the majority of its remaining home games in smaller Boston arena where crowds have been much slimmer. As a result, the Whalers are hoping to switch some of those Arena games to the Garden.

In Quebec, les Nordiques have averaged better than 7,000 in the 10,000-seat Coliseum. Ticket prices range between $3.50 and $7 but the team is begginning to match the popular junior hockey Quebec Remparts in attendance.

Elsewhere, the picture is bleak. The biggest problem has been in Ottawa where the Nationals are attracting an average of fewer than 2,500 fans a game. The Ottawa 67s junior hockey club has been outdrawing the WHA team by 5-to-1. There was a rumor last week that the team might be moved to Milwaukee but club officials denied it.

"We're in Ottawa to stay with our team," said general manager Buck Houle, "no matter what stories you may hear."

Minnesota Fighting Saints and Alberta Oilers are anxiously awaiting the opening of new arenas. The Oilers, averaging 3,300 in the 5,200-seat Edmonton Gardens, will have longer to wait. The Saints expect to move into the new St. Paul Civic Center Jan. 1.

Fred Grothe, president of the Minnesota club, said "a heavy player payroll dictates an 8,000 fan average attendance as a break-even figure." That's 3,000 more than the Saints have attracted.

"We're disappointed with the attendance, but I am still inspired," said Grothe.

Things could have been worse financially for the Saints had Grothe succeeded in signing Pete Mahovlich of the NHL's Montreal Canadiens to a lucrative WHA contract.

"We had him just about signed," the Saints' owner said, "but he changed his mind at the last minute because of some pressure in his family.

"We offered him a bundle, and it would have put quite a dent in our budget. When we lost him, it freed this money and permitted us to sign two or three players."

Bill Hunter, owner of the Alberta franchise, knew he would take a red-ink bath before the season started. Even if the club sold out all of its 39 games in the 5,300-seat arena, the gross gate would be $1.2 million.

"It's impossible to operate a major league franchise in any sport on that budget," he said. "We have to take many of the other owners, is in for the duration.

Wicks Makes NBA Improvement

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Referee Leo Wicks has been promoted to the National Basketball Association, it was announced Tuesday by San Diego's National League basketball team which has been "pirated" to Washington by a "self-generated ad hoc owners committee including a handful of congressmen . . . proposing a preferential deal enjoyed by baseball owners anywhere in the country." He said the deal included free rent up to one million attendance.

Van Derlin claimed Kuhn "suggested the terms of this deal in a confidential letter to me and hoc committee chairman Congressman Bernie (Robert F. Kennedy) Stadium secondly as local property tax-payers responsible for getting off their own stadium bonds."

Washington, which has been without a baseball team since the American League Senators moved to Dallas-Fort Worth last year.

San Diego's city attorney, John Witt, said Monday the city would not be party to financial arrangements proposed by the Washington committee include "free rent up to the first million attendees, park advertising rights, security, maintenance and the rich harvest from au-tograph parties."

"The people of San Diego, of course, will be paying the taxes over, first of all as national tax-payers supporting the D.C. Belleville.

"The franchise is secure and we have no plans for moving," he said.

The spirit of the owners is best demonstrated in Chicago where brothers Jordan H. and Walter Kaiser have added the Cougars to their stable of sports ventures which already include the Lakeshore Racquet Club and the Arlington Tennis Club. The team has averaged just over 3,000 a game but the Kaisers are unconcerned.

There is no limit on how long the Cougars can swim in red ink, according to Jordan Kaiser.

"We're taken the larger viewpoint," he said. "Either the WHA will be a going venture or it isn't.

"We have no question that it will be a successful league. Franchises have a substantial value. So it really isn't too important how much you make or lose in the short term. We're in this as a long-term thing, primarily for the development of sports centres."

One of the bright spots of the WHA's first half-season has been the TV package negotiated with CBS. The network signed a five-year contract with the league with rights building from $150,000 this season to $1 million in the final year of the agreement. The first nationally-televised game will be shown Jan. 7, one day after the league's All Star game in Quebec City.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was also committed to televising 4 games, of which four remain.

Also in the WHA future is a series of six exhibition games with a Czechoslovakian national team, which will probably take place after the season ends.

"We anticipated a three-year period before would get to our break-even average of 8,000 fans a game," said a WHA spokesman. "Now it looks like we'll get there next year."

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Basketball coach Warren Reynolds of North Carolina A and T State University has devised what is known as Reynolds' Rationale in analyzing team prospects.

Starting and ending of the team are divided into five categories and ranked by three pluralds of ability, according to the university brochure.

For example, quickness draws these comments:

Superstar—Faster than a speeding bullet.

Star—As fast as a speeding bullet.

Starter—Not quite as fast as a speeding bullet.

Substitute—Would you believe a slow bullet?

No prospect—Wounds himself with bullet while attempting to shoot.

Under the strength heading we find:

Superstar—Stronger than a locomotive.

Star—Stronger than a bull elephant.

Starter—Stronger than a bull.

Substitute—Shoots the bull.

No prospect—Merely smells like bull.

Then there's the communication heading that is followed by:

Superstar—Talks with God.

Star—Talks with angels.

Starter—Talks to himself.

Substitute—Argues with himself.

No prospect—Loses those arguments.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

THURSDAY, DEC. 22

Aries (March 21-April 19): Remember that the difficulties and petty tangles around close relationships are a consequence of people really caring.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Stall any formal action. Technical advice, based on misunderstanding of the real state of affairs, will be out of context.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): If you own something in partnership, this is likely the day you buy a bit of a hassle over here the line is drawn.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): While firmly presenting your views, keep on being fair and reasonable. Your emotions range further than the readily visible facts.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Intrigue and romance filter through the day's doings, by turns, according to what you make of the many changes of mood.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The first thing you know you've let somebody you care about talk you into more than can be conveniently managed.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Higher position, greater rewards are forecast—and you may be able to glimpse how they come about from today's hard work.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Now is another day to give a tested routine another turn, for the same reasonable results you had before.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It seems easier done than you had thought; plunge on with developments, but stay rigidly within your budget.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It's better to make bright remarks about today's events than sulk, since people will do things without asking you anyway.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Experiments, dealing with unfamiliar lines involve extra stress and more attention to details than you're willing to give.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): The last thing you will be in the mood to do is the only thing to do. Take a conservative approach to spending.

The bidding:

Opening lead—jack of hearts.

Declarer would surely play more accurately if he could always see the defenders' cards. However, in some deals it is not necessary to actually see the adverse cards; declarer can visualize them just as effectively as if he were actually looking at them, because the bidding or the plays already made tell him everything he needs to know.

Consider this hand where West leads a heart. South wins with the queen and certainly doesn't have to be an Einstein to figure out that West, who opened the bidding, probably has every one of the 12 highcard points missing.

So all that declarer has to do is find a way of making nine tricks based on this crude assumption.

This is not particularly difficult, once South puts his mind to the task. After winning the heart, he plays a low spade at trick two. If West goes up with the king, South has nine top-grade tricks consisting of three spades, two hearts and four diamonds. He then plays a club and in that way establishes trick number nine.

The lazy declarer — who finishes up after considerable effort to diagnose which cards are missing, or how they are divided — could easily misplay the hand. He might win the heart with the queen, cross to dummy with a diamond, and try a spade finesse.

West would win with the king, force out the ace of hearts, and South would eventually go down one as a result of his failure to think ahead.

Tomorrow: A tough combination.

Reactions Differ To Reply on Drugs

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Some time ago I printed a letter from a heroin user as his explanation of why he had turned to drugs. He listed the shortcomings, or what he felt to be shortcomings, of his parents, "the establishment," the church and so on.

I wish I had the space to print even a sampling of the replies—including two or three that pummeled me. For instance: "As I read the words of the anonymous writer, I heard a cry in between the lines. HELP. A cry for help. Your response which displayed a sarcasm served only to make that cry louder. I found your reply unprofessional, kindness nor understanding in your reply. 'Do you rather opportunity for you, Doctor, and you blew it.'"

Then, other side, and more numerous by far, were ones toned like the following:

"Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was astonished to think your anonymous correspondent could really believe what he wrote.

"I'm 14 and considered a 'normal teen-ager. I often disagree with my parents and the establishment, whoever that is, I suppose, but I must agree with

THE INTELLIGENCER, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1972 21

"If this person feels so much is wrong, just talking about it isn't going to solve it. Get involved. Join a group that agrees with your beliefs and work—not just to change things.

"I myself belong to 'Up With People' and I believe that with the help of thousands of other teen-agers I have changed a way of thinking.

"I've tried drugs and got high, but when the novice does the world hasn't got any better. I have discovered a high unknown to millions. I'm not sure of high I get when I know I've helped someone who really needed it.

"Now to answer your question." (Specifically my question was why anyone, knowing what drugs can do, starts to use them in the first place). "I can remember I was not too young when I was in junior high. It was a big thing to smoke cigarettes. Social pressure started millions of kids on cigarets. It's those same kids and this same pressure that's the cause of our drug problem.

P.S. I'm not a Christian."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How long can birth control pills be kept before they are no longer effective? I get a six-month supply. Will they be all right?

Can't give an exact answer because the keeping qualities depend to some degree on the coating of the tablets and whether they are in a sealed container.

When someone takes a medication daily or several times a day, buying in quantities of 100 is reasonable. With most of the birth control pills, you take 21 a month, so a six-month supply would be reasonable. Or a three-month supply, if you want to play extra safe.

Some of the containers will have a printed expiration date, so check that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would running every night, as an exercise, be harmful or beneficial to one with bad varicose veins but no other known medical problems?

Leg activity (walking, running or whatever) is beneficial for a person with varicose veins. I don't say it will correct the varicose veins, because it can't, but it will encourage circulation which has been impaired by the faulty veins.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: I'am going to be doing quite a bit of driving in New York State in the next few weeks. Do I require any special car insurance coverage?

ANSWER: All motorists travelling in New York State, both residents and non-residents, must carry the required minimum amounts of liability insurance as established by the New York Motor Vehicle Financial Security Act. The minimum amounts are $10,000 for injury or death of one person in one accident, $20,000 for injury or death of two or more persons in one accident and $5,000 for property damage.

Because the law decrees that financial responsibility to these amounts be maintained for the entire time a motorist is in New York State, anyone intending to travel there should check the following before commencing the trip.

1. Be sure your insurance is the right kind. Liability insurance covers losses to persons by injury, death or property damage caused by your vehicle for which you are legally obligated to pay. Collision or comprehensive insurance does not satisfy the New York State law.

2. Be sure the insurance will be inforce during the full period that you will be in the state.

3. Be sure your insurance meets the $10,000 - $20,000-$5,000 requirement.

4. Be sure your insurance complies with the form required by New York State law; check with your insurance agent.

5. If you will be driving a vehicle owned by another person, check to be sure that you are covered either by the owner's insurance or by a policy in your own name that covers you while driving another's car.

Although the law does not requi'e non-residents to carry proof of his insurance with him while he is driving in New York State, CAA strongly recommends that he does so. Should he become involved in an accident or traffic violation, the state usually will give the non-resident an opportunity to procure either his policy or other satisfactory evidence of financial responsibility before it takes action.

Compulsory insurance laws in the States of Massachusetts, New York and North Carolina, require that motorists carry a minimum amount of liability coverage for the entire time they drive in those states. It is thus illegal to drive without that coverage either before or after an accident. New York's law, explained above is unique in that it applies to non-residents as well as residents.

QUESTION: In planning our trip south this winter we understand that there is some place with a great display of flowering azaleas and camellias. Can you tell us where this might be and how best to reachit?

ANSWER: Most likely you are referring to the famous Cypress Gardens, Magnolia Gardens, and Middleton Gardens near Charleston, South Carolina.

Cypress Gardens, 20 miles north and 4 miles east of U.S. 52, are in a setting of giant cypress trees growing out of a fresh-water lake. The profusion of azaleas, camellias and other colorful plants provides an unforgetable picture. The lake and the 250 acres of gardens are part of the land of Dean Hall, once a great rice plantation, built in 1725.

Paths are well marked and boats are provided for those who prefer to see the gardens in that way. Trip fee is 75 cents. Open daily 8 to 6, February 15th to April 30th. Admission $2.50, children over 13 with adult $1.50 under 12 free with adult.

Magnolia Gardens are located on Ashley River Road, (SR 61), 10 miles from junction with US 17. The estate, known as "Plantation-on-the-Ashley, dates back to the early 18th century and has always belonged to the Drayton family. The gardens are amongst the most beautiful in the world. They were started in 1830 and now cover 25 acres with magnificent displays of azaleas, about 700 varieties of camellia japonica, fine specimens of the magnolia grandiflora and many other flowers. The camellias bloom from Thanksgiving to the first of March and the azaleas are at their best from that time to mid-April. Open February 15 to May 1, 8 to 5. Admission $2.50, children under 12 free with parents.

Middleton Gardens, northwest on SR. 61, are 14 miles from junction with US 17. The oldest landscaped gardens in America, they were begun in 1741 by Henry Middleton, later president of the Continental Congress, who sent to England for a landscape gardner to direct the activities of 100 slaves. The work is said to have lasted 10 years and the garden became famous, even in England, before the Revolution. Arthur Middleton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, is buried in the family tomb on the estate. His son, Governor of South Carolina, obtained through his friend the celebrated French botanist Andre Michaux, the first camellia japonicas ever brought to this country. Of the four plants set out by Michaux, three are still alive and bloom after more than 180 years.

The camellias bloom from December through March, and azaleas during March and April and other flowering plants periodically. A restored stableyard features spinning and weaving, candlemaking, a blacksmith shop, carpentry, farm animals, mule drawn wagon rides and cow milking. The gardens are open all year 8 to 5. Admission for adults $2.50, students (12 to 18) $1.25, children 6 through 12, 75 cents.

The best way of getting to Charleston is by Interstate 95 south from Baltimore to Santee, S.C., and US 15 and Interstate 26 from there.

Spanish Sahara Desolate

LA GUERA, Spanish Sahara (AP) — Mamacita y Antonio—"Everyone calls me Mamacita," she says gaily—gazing lazily out of the second-floor window at the dusty scene below.

La Guera's 600 residents had already fled from the dry heat outdoors and escaped to the shade of their homes, leaving the little town seemingly deserted.

A few rows of crumbling, whitewashed buildings reflected the brilliant sun that beats down mercilessly at high noon.

Beyond them lay a peninsula and the ruins of an ancient fort that overlooks the shimmering Atlantic Ocean and now is a favorite spot for fishermen.

Here and there one could see a camel, a square-peaked tent the desert nomads call home and an occasional taxi that crosses nearby Nouadhibou, in Maurjtania.

Immidiately below, a smartly uniformed Spanish policeman and his African deputy, both wearing sunglasses, casually patrolled the empty street that winds by La Paella, Mamacita's restaurant.

"Sand, nothing but sand," said Mamacita unhappily. "There's a hospital in town. That's about all there is to see. The whole country is nothing but sand. It's disgusting."

But that is not the whole story of this desolate Spanish "province" in northwest Africa, described aptly once as "Spain's African sandbox."

To the north, where foreign newspaper men are not permitted without permission from Madrid, Spain is mining more than 1.3 billion tons of rich phosphate deposits.

About 15,000 Spanish Foreign Legionaires, tough desert fighters patterned after the legendary French force, guard the economic stake here.

Spain's Fosfatos Nacional de Industrias has invested more than $250 million to exploit the deposits, the richest in the world, discovered in 1947 at Bu-Craa, about 60 miles from El Aaiun, the sleepy capital.

The high-grade ore is transported to El Aaiun's port by a 60-mile conveyor belt built in 10 sections as partial protection against saboteurs.

The threat of sabotage is ever present in Spanish Sahara, a troubled territory of 102,000 square miles carved out of the desert, which neighboring Morocco and Mauritania both claim historically belongs to them.

There are persistent reports, denied by Spain, of clashes between the Spanish forces, armed with jeeps and helicopters, and both local residents and armed raiders from Morocco.

"We have occasional trouble," said a Spaniard in La Guera. "But generally the Africans are peaceful, not like in other countries."

Lighthouse Is Losing One of Its Founders

TORONTO (CP) — Lighthouse, Canada's much-publicized and well-travelled rock orchestra, will be losing one of its co-founders after a New Year's Eve concert here.

But Paul Joffert, who played piano and vibes, will continue behind the scenes.

He is taking over administration of the half-dozen or so companies formed as Lighthouse grew bigger and better along the road to success.

Among those companies are H. P. and Bell Management, which manages Lighthouse; H. P. and Bell Productions, which produces for Bob McBride and the Flying Circus; Lighthouse Orchestra Ltd., which handles all Lighthouse concert business, and Skip and Paul Productions which takes care of Lighthouse recording.

"Lighthouse had reached a certain point where the time requirements of our various artists for . . . recordings and promotion could not be adequately handled by myself when we were away on long road tours," Hoffert said in his announcement.

Larry Smith will take over on piano and vibes and Rick Stepton on trombone.

The other members remain the same: Bob McBride, Ralph Cole, Al Wilmot, Don Dinovo, Dick Armin, Dale Hillary and Skip Prokop, the other founding father of Lighthouse.

The group denied rumors that other members of the group will be leaving. The rumors began when some members, including lead singer McBride, began recording on their own.

The newest Lighthouse album, Sunny Days, was released recently, close on the heels of the hit single of the same name.

Hoffert will end his Lighthouse stage days at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens Dec. 31.

Calgary Not Burglar-proof

CALGARY (CP) — Harry Keeney blew into town to case the joint.

And his findings probably encouraged the local burglars.

Mr. Keeney, a Los Angeles investigator, said less than three per cent of Calgary homes are burglar-proof.

Mr. Keeney held an information-packed two-day session before members of the Insurance Agents' Association of Alberta to show how insecure most doors, locks and windows are.

He also criticized locksmiths for not informing the public about deficiencies of many locks on the market.

Third Bomb Hits Bakery In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Police intelligence squad officers questioned bakery operators today about a possible extortion racket after two persons were injured Wednesday night when a bakery was damaged by a bomb blast.

But a police spokesman said the investigation has turned up little information and business owners said they have no enemies and could not understand why the bombing occurred.

It was the third time in the last two years that the bakery has been bombed and the 14th bombing in the city this year of Italian businesses. Police also checked the possibility of vendettas between families.

Anthony Basco, 20, and his wife Frances, 19, were admitted to hospital with multiple lacerations after being hit by flying debris.

Police said an explosive device, possibly a dynamite bomb, was tossed onto the roof of the Commisso and Rocco Bakery, blowing a six-foot hole in the roof.

The explosion also caused heavy damage to a barbieria and restaurant operated in the building by the bakery owners. A tool and die plant behind the building had its windows and door blown in.

The injured couple was standing at a meat counter in the middle of the bakery and closest to the explosion. Police Inspector Charles Webb said 10 employees and another five or six customers escaped injury.

In the last two years the bombings have included four other Metropolitan Toronto bakeries and owners have been victims of shotgun attacks.

Thieu, Hanoi Warned

U.S. Serves Ultimatums

SAIGON (AP) — President Nixon has told President Nguyen Van Thieu he will cut off all military and economic aid to South Vietnam if Thieu refuses to sign the peace agreement Nixon expects Hanoi to agree to in the near future, high-level South Vietnamese officials said today.

Nixon also told Thieu not to try to circumvent U.S. peace efforts by making proposals of his own, to be did on Dec. 12, the officials reported. They said Nixon considered Thieu's proposal—made while Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho were negotiating in Paris—untimely.

Nixon's reported ultimatum was contained in a personal letter delivered Tuesday by Gen. Alexander Haig, who flew from Washington as Nixon's emissary. Thieu discussed it with his National Security Council and then sent a reply by Haig, but what he said was not revealed.

The South Vietnamese sources also reported that after the breakdown of the Kissinger-Tho negotiations on Dec. 13, Nixon sent North Vietnam an ultimatum giving it 72 hours to agree to his demand that Hanoi recognize South Vietnam as a separate state.

When he received no reply, Nixon ordered heavy military pressure brought to bear. Mining of North Vietnamese ports above the 20th parallel was resumed Dec. 17, and the next night hundreds of U.S. bombers launched the heaviest attack of the war on the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial heartland.

Nixon told Thieu he has plans for the land war in such a fair and just agreement and predicted it would be concluded in the near future, the Vietnamese officials reported. They said Nixon urged Thieu to join in signing an agreement because the United States has all the means to achieve a reasonable peace.

Nixon was reported to have told Thieu in the strongest terms that South Vietnam would be cut off from military and economic aid if he refused to accept the Nixon's peace terms.

Kissinger told a news conference in Washington last Saturday that a settlement was 99 per cent complete. He refused to disclose the issues blocking the settlement, but South Vietnamese officials said it was North Vietnam's refusal to agree in principle to recognize South Vietnam as a separate state.

Thieu's peace proposals to which Nixon objected called for an indefinite ceasefire beginning immediately, release of American and North Vietnamese prisoners of war and direct negotiations between North and South Vietnam and between South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

The United States would be excluded, but presumably it would continue to guarantee Thieu's survival by the threat of renewed air and naval attack.

Five Die in Tavern

Eight Killed in Ulster

BELFAST (CP) — A furious wave of violence crashed down on Northern Ireland Wednesday, taking the lives of eight persons and giving the province one of its worst days of bloodshed in the three years of civil strife which have cost more dead than the 1922 Irish civil war.

The killings, climaxed by the slaughter of five persons enjoying a drink in a Londonderry tavern, came as the British government accepted new proposals for tying terrorists in the courts.

As security forces struggled to keep pace with the growing death list, the neighboring Irish Republic appeared to have a diplomatic row brewing with Britain.

Informed sources said police in Dublin had uncovered a British spy ring inside the most confidential closets of the republic's police force. They said two British secret agents and at least two Irish police officers had been arrested.

London spies, the informants said, had been stealing Irish intelligence reports on activities of the Irish Republican Army which is fighting a guerrilla war against the British in the turbulent North.

The hail of bullets which swept Northern Ireland killed six Roman Catholics and two Protestants, police said. Since 1969 the known toll of violence has risen to 676—10 more than were slain in the civil war of 1922 to 1923.

The day began with a flurry of bombings that panicked Christmas shoppers but brought no casualties. Then assassins struck home in Belfast, Clonmore and Londonderry.

First to die was a Protestant member of the volunteer militia, the Ulster Defence Regiment. George Hamilton, 28 was shot in the back by a sniper.

Next a Roman Catholic, David McAteese, 37, year-old father of four, was gunned down near his Belfast home as he waited for a bus. Another Catholic—an unidentified 19-year-old—was shot in a lane at Clonmore.

Finally came the massacre of Annie's Bar as the Top of the Hill pub in Londonderry was known.

Two masked men kicked the door open as some 40 people were crammed into the bar to watch a televised soccer game. A getaway car, its engine racing, waited outside.

Each raider opened fire with a burst of sub-machine-gun bullets and four persons fell dead. Another man died in hospital. Four more persons were wounded.

Air War Toll Is Mounting

SAIGON (AP) — Losses on both sides mounted today as hundreds of U.S. planes continued to pound the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial heartland of North Vietnam. Hanoi said it shot down seven B-52 heavy bombers Wednesday night from heights as high as eight miles.

The main Hanoi newspaper said the U.S. fliers retaliated and may targets for the North's sophisticated missiles.

North Vietnam also charged that President Nixon had lost his senses and said:

"The criminal bombings made by the U.S. aggressors have only dimmed the prospects of a peaceful settlement. The U.S. aggressors can never bully the Vietnamese people. The Vietnamese people are determined to fight and fight hard till complete victory."

The U.S. command announced the loss of three more B-52s as the heaviest raids of the war continued.

A total of 12 crew members are missing in two of three B-52 crashes, the command said.

Six other crew members brought their crippled B-52 near home, then parachuted to safety in northeast Thailand Wednesday night.

The announcement raised total losses acknowledged by the U.S. since the heavy attacks began Monday night to six B-52s and two fighter-bombers downed and 27 fliyers missing.

North Vietnam said its forces have shot down 13 B-52s and 14 fighter-bombers, including seven B-52s and an F-111 swingwing fighter-bomber on Wednesday night.

Radio Hanoi reported that the American raids wiped out entire villages, wrecked thousands of homes and destroyed many economic, cultural and social establishments. One broadcast said the Kye, Ear and Thrust Institute of the Bach Mai Hospital in Hanoi was hit Tuesday and many doctors were killed and wounded.

North Vietnam said that, according to initial figures, U.S. bombs by mid-day Tuesday had killed 225 persons and wounded 326.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported the U.S. bombs left parts of two residential areas in the North Vietnamese capital in ruins. It said a movie house and workers' quarters were "almost fully destroyed" less than two miles from the center of the city, and "heaps of broken bricks and debris is all that was left from many houses" in a suburb.

In Washington, Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedheim refused to agree with a reporter's characterization of the attacks as "terror bombings."

"We are striking military targets," Friedheim said. "We do not strike civilian targets."

Pentagon officials reported the raids had caused "very significant damage" to military targets. They said these included railway yards, shipyards at Haiphong, command and control facilities, trans-shipment points, communications facilities, vehicle repair facilities, power plants, railroad bridges, rolling stock, truck parks, MiG fighter bases, air defence radar and anti-aircraft missiles and gun sites.

Nixon-Kissinger Rift Tale Denied

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — The White House firmly denies a rift exists between President Nixon and Henry Kissinger, but reports persist that Nixon has tightened the reins on his chief Vietnam peace negotiator.

"Any speculation that the president and Dr. Kissinger are not unified (on Vietnam policy) is absolutely without foundation and untrue," presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Wednesday before Nixon flew to his home here to spend the Christmas holidays.

There's been a unity of point of view on how to proceed," he said. " . . . At no time . . . has there been a division between the president and Dr. Kissinger regarding the negotiations."

Kissinger himself has rejected what he called a "mischievious" theory that his relations with the president are frayed. "That is totally, 100 per cent wrong," he told one journalist.

Nonetheless, Washington's corps of Kissinger watchers—plus some of Kissinger's former Harvard colleagues—sense that all's not that well between the president and his assistant for national security affairs.

Armed Bandits Abduct Two Policemen in Northern Ontario

VIRGINIATOWN, Ont. (CP) — Two armed bandits held up the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce today and escaped in the town's only police cruiser with an undetermined amount of money and the bank manager as hostage.

The pair drove off in a hail of bullets but later released manager Bob Emmell unharmed.

The police car later was found on the Quebec side of the Ontario-Quebec border, which is just three miles from here, with three flat tires and bullet holes in its windows.

The robbery occurred as a transfer of money was being made into the bank for a mining payday in this community 35 miles east of Kirkland Lake, Ont.

The town's police force—chief William Hopkins and Constable R. F. Hughes—had brought the cruiser around to the bank to keep an eye on the transfer.

The shooting apparently began after Dave Mann, a town hall employee, heard a report of the robbery at the police station—which is in the town hall—and ran to his nearby home and got a gun.

Shots were exchanged at the bank, with no one hit.

Eyewitness accounts were not clear on the sequence of fast-moving events but the two bandits wound up in the police car with the two officers giving chase in a civilian car which they commandeered.

Early reports said that the two policemen had been kidnapped with the bank manager.

The abandoned police car was found on the Quebec side of Kearns, an Ontario community on the provincial border.

The cruiser was about two miles past the border. Mr. Emmell had been turned loose earlier, just about on the border.

The bandits had abandoned the cruiser to take over a second car, which police said they later found. They expressed belief the pair may have doubled back.

Provincial police moved into Virginiatown to take charge of the investigation and cordoned off the looted bank branch.

There was no immediate word on how much was stolen. Friday is payday for 400 employees of Kerr Addison Mines. The same bank was robbed of more than $50,000 on Aug. 24, 1970, and the robbers have not

Post Office Plan

Trenton Mayor Disappointed But Sees No Holdup

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Despite his disappointment at the Ontario Municipal Board's approval of plans for new municipal offices and an enclosed parking garage downtown, Trenton Mayor Duncan McDonald foresees no holdup in signing of a construction agreement.

The OMB Wednesday announced its approval of construction of the proposed $375,000 complex, but the issuing of up to $363,100 in debentures. As well, the board said no referendum will be necessary for work to proceed.

Two final items have to be dealt with for the job to get under way, Mayor McDonald said. Council must give final reading to a bylaw that must be passed authorizing the Trenton construction firm Mirvan - Wiggers Ltd., for the job. The contract with the company must also be signed.

He feels these steps will be a mere formality.

"Some members of council have requested a meeting of council Thursday night. I can not see any reason why it shouldn't go through now that the OMB has approved it and the majority of council members are in favor of it," he said.

The mayor, who has made no bones about his opposition to the plan, said Wednesday "naturally I'm disappointed in the decision of the board. With an expenditure of this size, I am concerned about the effect it will have on our getting approval next year for a lot of necessary work in the town."

He said $32,500 in taxes was set aside to help reduce the 1972 capital debt of this proposed project. The money will be taken out of current funds, to be spent in 1973 as work proceeds.

In order each year to raise additional funds to pay for the building, taxpayers will face an increase in the mill rate of seven mills.

This approved plan is the third prepared for the town and has been the cause of heated opposition and a major topic during recent municipal elections.

In September, the OMB called a public hearing. It was the result of this hearing that led to the announced decision by the board.

In his report to the town, OMB member H. H. Lancaster, who headed the September hearing, wrote: "It appears the town's main reason for acquiring the land was to gain a good central site for the construction of a new and sorely needed municipal office building.

"Considerable evidence adduced at the hearing indicated that the present municipal offices, located on Dundas Street east of the Trent River and opposite from the town's central core, were very old and quite inadequate for present and future needs of this growing community."

Mr. Lancaster also included in his report the fact that the town parking authority, that will manage the parking garage, provides a fee structure of between 35 and 40 additional and permanent parking spaces in the downtown core. The evidence of the authority's auditors indicated that the increase in parking space provided will be sufficient to meet the needs of the area.

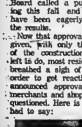
Most Are Glad Issue Settled



TRENTON — Since the town of Trenton purchased the former federal building property on Dundas Street in the downtown shopping district, its future has remained a constant question to residents.

Twice, taxpayers voted for plans to develop the property. In both cases, for a variety of reasons, the plans fell through and the building remained as it was until this year when all but the old post office tower was demolished.

Much of the town was split by plans to construct a combination municipal office-parking garage on the site. Some felt the site should be used for commercial development. Others felt parking facilities such as those proposed, would do nothing but good for the future of the area. Almost all agreed the site, as it stands today, is an "eyesore".

The Ontario Municipal Board called a public hearing this fall and residents have been eagerly awaiting the results.

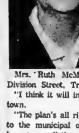
Now that approval has been given, with only the signing of the construction contract left to do, most residents have breathed a sigh of relief. In order to get reaction to the announced approval, several merchants and shoppers were questioned. Here is what they had to say:

E. M. "Ted" Parker, retiring town councillor and owner of Morton-Parker Ltd., silverware manufacturers, has long expounded on the merits of the project.

"This has been a continuing eyesore since I got on council.

"Decision of the OMB is very gratifying. It indicates the value of the project. The plan is a valid and useful way to utilize this property.

"By resolving this question at this time, it will enable the new council to turn a hand to many other areas of concern for the town, that the Council won't be required their undivided attention apart by arguing the pros and cons of it."



John Seawright, manager of the Household Finance office in Trenton located three doors west of the proposed complex site.

"I'm for it, first of all. I think it would improve the main street of Trenton.

"It will put the municipal offices into the centre of Trenton, not on the other side. It's going to be an attraction and will promote the growth of the area.

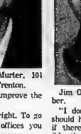
"I think it's a good idea to keep the tower. It leaves a bit of culture. I don't think the money will be poorly spent." (Mr. Seawright also commented on the Bank of Montreal's plans to locate in a building under construction immediately adjacent to the old post office site. He said their move, plus that of the Bank of Commerce, next door to the lot, indicates the business a new parking complex and municipal offices building generates.)

Mrs. Ruth McMurter, 101 Division Street, Trenton.

"I think it will improve the town.

"The plan's all right. To go to the municipal offices you have to go all the way across the river. I haven't got a car, but they haven't got enough parking space around here.

"It looks like a mess and I was worried that they were never going to do anything."



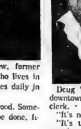
Douglas Pettigrew, former Trenton resident who lives in Brighton and teaches daily in Trenton.

"I think it'll be good. Something is going to be done, finally.

"I feel that originally the town should not have become involved in buying the property since it didn't have any definite plans for the property.

"I work here in Trenton and do most of my shopping here.

"Parking's always been a problem. A parking lot is a lot better than having waste space. Now it would be really nice if the town took on free parking as the merchants could benefit from the shopping dollar. There are no parking meters in Brighton and it's a joy to shop there."



Jim O'Krafka, Trenton barber.

"I don't think the building should have been taken down if there was anything feasible that could have been done. I voted twice to keep the building.

"Now that it's down, it has to be put to some use. If the town fathers think it should be used, I'm in full accord with it.

"Parking is necessary for a town to survive."

Doug Whitney, 72 Bay St., downtown tobacconist and clerk.

"It's not a good idea.

"It's too much money to spend on something we don't need.

"We need a parking lot, something that's not going to cost that much.

"The revenue they're going to get off it won't be enough to partly pay for it.

"I think the municipal office idea is good. They should also bring the police office over here to a better location. They need a new building."

Christmas Buying Starts Earlier, Holds Steady

Christmas comes earlier each year, say major Belleville merchandizers.

But, despite a shopping season that seems to start sooner and grow longer annually, consumers were still busily plying downtown stores and suburban plazas in the search for gifts and goods this week.

The cash-register bells of Christmas continued to peal with pleasant persistence for city merchants as the annual holiday shopping spree entered its final days.

Indications are Bellevillians and their neighbors have been peeling off dollar bills in record amounts since season buying began to gather impetus in the past five to six weeks.

Retail purchases this year are up an average 14 per cent across Ontario. Although no snap statistics were available for city downtown stores, purchasing has been such that retail spokesmen were confident Belleville was running parallel with the provincial pace.

"Business, for the most part, seems to be tremendous," said Roger Porter, Belleville Downtown Association president, after a quick canvass of major stores in the city's commercial core.

"I think it's probably due to the fact people are earning more, have been saving more — and now are spending more."

Some stores, he said, quoted him purchase increases ranging up to 40 per cent on some stock lines.

Similar optimistic reaction came from Ward Shaw, manager of Quinte Mall, the big northend shopping centre which is in its second Christmas.

Despite poor weather last Friday and Saturday — as the last weekend before Christmas is the key point on the buying curve — crowds still thronged the mall.

As a regional shopping centre — with a big, 1,700-car parking lot — it attracts shoppers into Belleville who'd take dispersed downtown and elsewhere, to round out a day in town, he believes.

"And by every figures yet, because we're still right in the middle of things. But we hope for a nice increase," said Mr. Shaw.

Willingness to spend extra for quality could be emerging among Quinte customers.

"I think a lot more people are paying for better quality — and getting value for it. The days of the trend," said the mall manager.

Spokesmen at the west end Bowery Discount Department Stores and the east end Belleville Plaza also found Christmas buying up.

Some toy lines — especially those advertised on television — were such hits shelves were soon wiped clean and repeat orders ran into hundreds, major items also being able to fill demand in some instances, said a Towers official.

Serious Christmas consumer buying began anywhere between six to eight weeks ago, some merchants estimated.

"It's getting earlier and earlier every year," said the Towers spokesman.

Despite this, business was still holding steady this week, although choice had been drastically narrowed in many areas by earlier demand.

Said one merchant: "Now, the customers are picking up anything they can get their hands on — everything's so depleted."

If in Doubt Take A Cab

For most people, the next 10 days might be called the party season. Many in the work force begin their celebrations at the office. Some wait for weekend get-togethers. Christmas Eve offers another chance to toast the season. And the brief escape climaxes with New Year's Eve's rite.

But wherever the party, one staple is sure to be found. It seems as appropriate as mistletoe or Auld Lang Syne. The popular ingredient is liquor. Even tee-totallers are known to sip wine during their turkey dinners.

But such traditional devotion, so widely practised, still has its drawbacks. Hospital staffs weep with tales of holiday merriment turned into sudden disaster.

As most people know but many fail to acknowledge, the majority of Christmas tragedies occur on the roads. Despite massive campaigns by safety councils and police forces, the drinking and driving syndrome habitually recurs during this busy season.

Police chief Douglas Crosbie says Belleville drivers are lucky.

"There's only a couple of miles to drive here — not time to get caught."

He compares the situation to Toronto where downtown party - goers are often faced with a 20-mile trek to their homes in the suburbs. Traffic is also heavier, he adds.

"If only people would think what it can cost," laments Chief Crosbie, "it could be your life, your livelihood . . . almost anything."

City police have already increased the number of patrol cars on the lookout for tipsy drivers. So far this month, they've hauled in 12 compared to 15 in all November.

Chief Crosbie anticipates the next three nights will be the busiest for his men until Dec. 31. That's the night all available staff is called in for duty.

While advising drivers to forego that extra drink, Chief Crosbie also urges party visitors to take advantage of Belleville's fine taxi service.

Both Central and Checker Cabs will have men on extra time to meet the expected demand. That could mean more than 70 cars waiting to transport people around the city.

From one side of Belleville to the other costs only $1.25, and additional passengers are another 25 cents. It could be the bargain of a lifetime.

Warden's Job Has Light Side

PICTON (Staff) — The office of county warden has its lighter moments, according to Ross Benway of Prince Edward. Warden Benway recalled that he was contacted this summer by a concerned woman who had discovered a cat dropped near her home. It had had a litter of kittens and she felt the warden ought to know what to do with them.

He also mentioned a letter from a patient in a care centre complaining that staff members there had stolen three pair of his friend's "unmentionables." He was seeking intervention from the warden.

Near Miss

A 10 - year - old cyclist escaped serious injury Wednesday when his bicycle slid on a patch of ice, spilling him in front of a moving car.

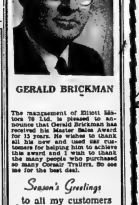
John Alan Cook, 10 Harriet St. was heading south on North Front St. when the incident occurred.

Driver of the car, Donald Keel of RR 7 Belleville trimmed on his brakes and avoided hitting the boy. Damage to the bike totalled $25.

John, who suffered several bruises, was taken home by his parents.

Exclusive Release On Brief Queried

PICTON (Staff) — Circumstances surrounding a press release of Prince Edward County council's brief outline ing a proposal for county government were questioned this week by Hallowell reeve, George Vincent.



Mr. Vincent, during a council session Tuesday night, said the brief was released to the Picton Gazette first and later to two other newspapers serving the county. He requested an explanation for this action.

Allan Anderson reeve of Bloomfield and chairman of the county government committee termed it "an oversight." He said, "Mistakes can be made and I'm not going to say any more."

When questioned by reporters after the brief appeared in the local paper, reeve Anderson said he had authorized its release but expected all papers would receive it simultaneously. He suggested county warden Ross Benway should have been responsible for the release in any event.

The brief was given to the local press by county clerk Thomas Walker who claimed he "forgot" to issue it to two other newspapers.

The Intelligencer received a copy of the brief from warden Benway after it had appeared in the Picton Gazette. He said he was upset to learn of the method of release.

All-Indian Police Possible

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — The two-man police staff here could become part of an all-Indian force on Ontario reserves if a recent move by Indian groups brings official action.

A motion passed by the executive of the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians at Brantford last week called for a meeting with provincial and federal police officials and representatives of the solicitor - general's office to establish the force.

The Bay of Quinte Mohawks here are members of the association.

The move follows a meeting with retired Royal Canadian Mounted Police deputy commissioner W. H. Kelly who headed a task force on policing reserves.

The all-Indian force should have standard, distinctive uniforms and police training.

The association also calls for opportunities for advancement within the force and an "adequate pay and pension plan".

Chief Earl Hill here says the proposed force would have a central administration and its members likely could be transferred to any reserve in the province.

At present, this reserve has two resident constables policing its population of 1,200. They were appointed by the RCMP and given training at Aylmer police college, says Chief Hill.

The officers are paid about $5,500 a year, provide their own transportation and work long duty shifts.

"They're full-time officers, but they're underpaid," said the chief.

Creation of the new force would improve work conditions for such reserve officers and — with availability of government funds — see them better equipped.

The Association requests that the force operate under an RCMP appointment rather than provincial jurisdiction. It feels since Indian affairs are under the federal Indian Act, local police authorization should also be under federal mandate.

Private Service Held for Family

A private funeral service was held Wednesday afternoon at the John R. Bush Funeral Home for members of the Robert Copeland family of Mississauga, killed in a certain crash in the Niagara district.

Tenants Will Share Christmas Bonus

Bellevillians will go short a Christmas bonus totalling several hundred thousand dollars this year.

The cash — in property tax rebate usually sent tenants by landlords towards the year's end — is out of direct circulation for good.

In return, they get a tax credit.

The rebate, introduced in 1968, last year totalled $2½,000 in Belleville, says city treasurer Frank Morrell. Property owners received the refund — $59 for each residential unit — as a property tax credit. Landlords in turn passed it on to tenants as cash.

The scheme of 10 drew political criticism and was abolished this year in favor of an income-tax credit.

A reminder of the change has been issued by Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton, who says the new system will be administered for Ontario by the national revenue department.

The property tax credit will come as an income tax refund cheque, not a reduction in income tax. However, I should advise Ontario homeowners that as usually the case, new property tax credit, 1972 municipal taxes must be paid during 1972," he said.

Mr. MacNaughton said the new system will increase the total property tax burden by at least $160 million. Low income groups will benefit most and the plan is also being extended to include rental boarders, he said.

The property tax credit plan is restricted to Ontario residents and applies to principal residences only. Residents in homes for the aged or tax-exempt institutions are not qualify.

Benefits to individual taxpayers will vary "because we have linked property taxes to income and, therefore, to the individual's ability to pay," said Mr. McNaughton.

The majority of Ontario residents will receive more money back under the new plan, he added. Some will receive about the same as last year, while high income earners will receive less.

Homeowners, tenants and others who may be eligible — including roomers and students living on-campus — will receive instructions on how to claim credit and calculate property tax credit with 1972 income tax return forms.

Passerby Helped

Prompt action by a by-passer on Tuesday afternoon prevented a serious fire at the farm barn of Walker Nortas, RR 2, Picton. A tractor owned by Mr. Nortas caught fire in the barn but was hauled outdoors by a bread delivery man who was driving by. He hooked the tractor to his vehicle and drew it into the barnyard. Damage to the tractor was not extensive. The barn did catch fire but only a small amount of damage was reported. The blaze was extinguished by the Sophiasburgh fire department.

Kroeze Steps Down

Chairman of Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board, Ike Kroeze of Picton presided over his last meeting of the board Tuesday night. Mr. Kroeze did not run for re-election. He was manager of the Loew Gelatine plant in Trenton, now closed, and told fellow trustees it is doubtful if he will remain in the Quinte area. Also resigning from the board this year are Gerald Walsh of Read and Ed Courreyer of Picton.

New Trustees Inducted

Two of the five new trustees on the Hastings - Prince Edward counties separate school board took the oath of office and pledge of allegiance Tuesday night, at the last meeting of the 1970-72 trustees. Angus Yorke of Read and Hugh McNulty of Tweed were sworn in by Superintendent E. J. Neville, along with members of the old board who have been re-elected. This was the second meeting of the board attended by newly elected trustee Mr. Yorke, who functioned only as an observer.

Regional Administration

Regional government, like it or not, is almost upon us. It represents progress, on paper at least. But will it evolve in orderly fashion, with a minimum of disruption and having regard to the democratic rights of all? Or will it manifest itself as another bureaucratic nightmare with some areas being disenfranchised and being ruthlessly tied up in an unwieldy and perhaps uncaring whole?

Certainly there will be enormous problems adapting to any new order. Hastings clerk administrator Carl Bateman, for example, envisages county administration "in a turmoil." Specifically, it would involve reorganizing twice because he sees regional government coming to Hastings county as well within the next few years.

In other words, if the scheme announced by Provincial Treasurer Charles McNaughton goes through, Hastings county will be faced initially with absorption of all rural and urban municipalities in East Northumberland and subsequently with the prospect of regional government of its own. The technicalities of all this are formidable and there has been critical reaction here and elsewhere in Hastings. It would mean an additional population of 24,000. Overall the plan involves re-designation of the geographical locale of communities west to the fringes of Metro Toronto.

While we view as inevitable changes such as these, the Government has a responsibility to hear the views of the communities and people concerned. But it appears that the Government is proceeding with indecent haste in announcing an end-of-February deadline for public opinion to be mustered. Regional government, of necessity, is a plant of slow growth and the Government must realize it cannot stampede change or attempt to alter overnight the habits and practices of years past. Let us make haste slowly in these matters, for we require time to digest not only the immediate impact of these far-reaching proposals but also the details. This cannot be done adequately in the space of only a couple of months. It is absurd to expect otherwise — unless of course the Government spends acceptance of its proposals as a mere formality. And this, as is already apparent is far from being the case.

Election's Impact

In a pre-election interview in October, Prime Minister Trudeau was asked simply, what he had done between 1968 and 1972 and what was left to do.

Said Mr. Trudeau: "Well, we've been pursuing four goals and we want to continue to pursue the same four goals. We've had policies, programs, which follow from these policies, and we will now want new programs to follow from those. What have we done so far?

"I'll start with naming the four goals: integrity of the nation; the pursuit of more social justice; economic growth; and individual fulfillment. . ."

It was all pretty platitudinous and Mr. Trudeau, in his elaboration of the foregoing, did little to excite feeling in the country, confirmed by the voters, that the Government had been largely unresponsive to the wishes of Canadians. Now, however, we have been witnessing a change for the better. Since the election the Government has been listening more attentively and Mr. Trudeau has acknowledged as much.

We see it in the cabinet changes, in the removal of Secretary of State Pierre Goyer as Solicitor-General, he being the minister responsible for what had come to be a fiasco of a situation regarding parole — the releases of prisoners who then proceeded to run further afoul of the law. We see it also in the watering down of the bilingualism bill, the government, in its minority situation, finally heeding the complaints that jobs and livelihood were at stake. We see it in moves to tighten up the immigration laws, but above all we see it in the new Prime Minister Trudeau — a man somewhat chastened, a shade more respectful of both media and public, a man more careful of his temper and his tongue.

In short, minority government has its uses.

Parole Policy Under Study

PCs Erik Nielsen Shadow Cabinet's Solicitor-General

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Parole Board Chairman T. G. Street and Penitentiaries Service Commissioner F. A. Fagoy were twin targets of wide public criticism when former Solicitor General Jean Pierre Goyer was their boss.

Things may or may not be much different with Warren Allmand, a Montreal Liberal MP with seven years of parliamentary experience, taking over.

But they will be very much different — perhaps a whole new penal world — if and when Prime Minister Trudeau's government falls. Conservative Leader Stanfield takes over and Erik Nielsen moves in as Solicitor General.

He is in training" now in Mr. Stanfield's "shadow cabinet" as Conservative Committee Chairman in charge of the affairs of the Solicitor General's Department.

Mr. Stanfield has insisted that his deployment of Conservative MPs as committee chairmen does not necessarily mean they will assume those portfolios should he take power.

But the odds, on past government records, are that they will.

And if it happens, then Mr. Street and Mr. Fagoy, who so openly have resented public criticism of their performance, better be prepared for an accounting.

Mr. Street has recently finished yielding "unfair" to charges by former Judge Maurice Mullin that too many dangerous criminals are at large.

It did not matter that the former judge cited findings by Judge Leslie Bewley that in the Vancouver area alone 52 criminals with serious records, free on parole, committed fresh crimes. Mr. Street in his cries of "foul" was joined by Parole Board member Miss M. L. Lynch who termed the Mullin expose "chastity".

Commissioner Fagoy, whose prisons turn out so many convicts on parole, holiday and special passes, has been equally sensitive to public criticism when these criminals on leave are guilty of further outrages including murder.

Mr. Nielsen, for starters, is not at all sure of the propriety of civil servants counter-attacking the public for daring to question their performance.

As a veteran parliamentarian —which neither Mr. Goyer nor Mr. Allmand are — he is very aware that it is the public who pays both the bill for crime and the salaries of Parole Board Chairmen and the Penitentiaries Commissioner and their staff.

And unlike Mr. Goyer, who has said he feels the civil criminal come first, Mr. Nielsen insists the protection of the public is the overriding priority.

While he waits for Parliament to open, Mr. Nielsen is studying the track record of Mr. Fagoy and Mr. Street.

And this has to be no ordinary study, for Mr. Nielsen is no ordinary man.

He it was who uncovered the strange adventures of Lucien Rivard, the narcotics pedlar who escaped while watering a prison rink during a heat wave.

And it was he who discovered the disappearance of Yves Geoffroy, the convicted wife-killer who vanished on a Spanish honeymoon when out on one of those weekend prison passes.

Erik Nielsen through the years has been responsible for other cringes exposes that have caused acute embarrassment to the Liberal government, and several pain to the Parole Board and the Penitentiary Service.

How is he going about studying the Fagoy and Street "track record"?

Well, for one thing, there are the records of federal statistician K. A. Hold, director of a special division of Statistics Canada who, with a staff of 20, compiles court, prison, crime, police and parole figures.

And Mr. Hold has told a Senate Committee investigating the parole and prison system that 40 per cent of paroles commit serious crimes within five years of their release.

He has cited the case of a man who had been convicted 20 times of indictable crimes and then been given parole.

And he has testified that the Penitentiaries Service and Parole Board tend to avoid using statistics because they seem to feel that all the figures will do is show the failure rate and be a source of embarrassment.

Then there are the further figures of Statistics Canada, showing that between 1962 — the last time the death penalty was carried out — and last year the murder rate in Canada has increased an incredible 98.3 per cent.

There were 117 murders in 1962 and 232 in 1969.

The rate has risen from 1.4 murders per thousand of population to 2.4

And there have been warnings from the various police associations — from Montreal's where they had 100 shootouts with criminals last year to the national organization — that, as it was put recently, "Ottawa does not know what is going on".

And the people have to not know, the police associations have made clear, are the Parole Board and the Penitentiaries Service.

Of all this, and more, Mr. Nielsen has been taking note.

"What's all this talk about peace — Christmas hasn't come yet."

Rivalries Militated Against Caribbean Federation

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Yet another tiny Caribbean nation will emerge next July 31 when the Bahamas officially announces its independence from Britain.

So much again for the long-dead concept of a single Caribbean, multi-island nation, a Western Hemispheric Indonesia, bound by common economic necessity and the lingua franca of the former colonial power.

Next on the list will probably be British Honduras unless it is gobbled up by Guatemala, its angry neighbor which claims the British crown colony is part of its national territory.

British Honduras as a separate nation will be less viable than any which have taken the independence road since Jamaica first did in 1962—unless by Anguilla also wins its independence.

After next July, there will be five English-speaking and independent nations in the Caribbean: Jamaica, Barbados, Trinidad and Tobago, Guyana and now the Bahamas. The Bahamas, a multi - island country in its own right has had full internal self-government from British since 1969, except for defence and foreign affairs.

Premier Lynden Pindling and his leftward-leaning Progressive Liberal Party won a landslide victory last September largely on the promise that it would seek independence from Britain. As of next July, the Bahamas will become the 33rd member of the British Commonwealth. Premier Pindling himself will be in charge of the Bahamas delegation to the London.

It's much too late to lament over the failure of these relatively tiny places to merge as a single state in the 1960s or 1960s. Jamaica should have been the leader.

Indeed, she was eager to fill that role as the largest and predominant island and national community not only among the larger islands which have become separate states but also among the smaller ones of the Eastern Caribbean.

But this was the very reason a single Commonwealth nation did not emerge. The seed was there. There was jealousy and suspicion of the larger islands' Jamaican leadership and a Jamaican bureaucracy would dominate the new country.

One only has to look at the upheaval which took place in the University of the West Indies, which once had ancillary colleges in Guyana, Trinidad and Barbados to see how difficult it would be for Jamaican-based institutions to participate in a single nation.

In Jamaica itself a few years ago, a growing radical student movement bounded the main campus of the University of the West Indies, which is near Kingston, serve only Jamaican students, as well as the building of a new University of the West to instruct in "genuine Jamaican" subjects was organized.

Meanwhile, the even smaller islands dependencies of Britain in the Eastern Caribbean, like Grenada and Antigua also hankered for independence.

The idea of linking their tiny economies in a larger family can one, whereby Jamaica would purchase more of their agricultural products and they would buy Jamaican manufactures, Jamaican tourism, North American ones, has also fallen on hard times.

The EFTA, the Caribbean Free Trade Area, under which the above scheme was proposed, is the nearest thing to the single nation concept, but in the harsher realities of economic self-preservation.

Trade does not take place because each new dependency has to pay for a separate trading role. The disunity among the islands proceeds.

Balanced Budget: Remote But Possible

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

Premier William Davis may have another spectacular up his sleeve, and in this case, if true, a very surprising one.

What would the betting be that the premier, or his treasurer, would this winter announce a balanced budget?

Very high odds! In the pattern of today where about the last thing we expect are governments producing balanced budgets, they certainly would be.

Yet the possibility still is there.

Figures recently were released for the revenues of the federal government in the first half of this year.

They were dramatically big, much larger than had been predicted.

Similar figures are not released by the province, which still can operate on the principle that the public should know as little as possible about its government.

But the federal pattern is a pretty reliable one.

There are differences in the revenue sources of the two levels of government, but if revenues are up in Ottawa they also will be up here.

And so, though the third quarter of the year was not as flourishing as the first half and the bonanza may be lessened a bit, there appears little doubt that revenues will be up to the point where the predicted deficit of 500 million dollars for the current year will be much reduced.

When it comes to working out next year's budget this high level of revenues, first of all, should be maintained.

And spending could be re-tively reduced quite a bit.

The government's big program to cut down on new building in schools, universities and hospitals is a drastic one.

This spending has been capital outlay, which normally would mean it would be amortized over a period of years.

Under our Ontario accounting approach, however, while some of it has been amortized a good deal of it has been paid out in current revenues.

So the program should show quite a substantial reduction in expenditures in the 1973 budget.

The combination of the two would mean that an Ontario government might actually promise a balanced budget—for the first time since Leslie Frost was premier.

Ugandan Asians Express Thanks

Letter to The Montreal Gazette

The Intelligencer.

This letter is an unsolicited testimonial in support of the Belleville YMCA.

For the nominal sum of $10 he learned to swim in the span of 10 weeks and in addition, there were added benefits that accrue to a newcomer-all for associating with his peers.

This was my first contact of this nature with the Belleville YMCA and if all their activities stepped into the Canadian escorted buses (that took us to the airport), a new hope began to surge into the blackness of despair that had gripped us in Uganda. The great reception accorded to us in the Canadian planes made us look forward to the new life we had been given. Our bodies did not even feel the cold as we boarded Canadian soil for the first time, as our hearts were warmed by immigration personnel, Canadian army, immigration, customs and manpower personnel and the social workers for providing endless hours in overcoming our initial difficulties and in endeavoring to put us on our right feet.

We would like to express our thanks to various societies, newspapers, radio stations and other individuals who helped us in countless ways in our hour of need.

But, it is the local population here that have made us feel most at-home and it is to them that we are most thankful. It is gratifying to note that it is the human being who is considered the greatest asset of this country. It is really the Canadians' liberalness, forbearance, friendliness and acceptance of different races, cultures, religions that make us feel we will fit easily into the Canadian mosaic. We are already getting adapted to the new circumstances, and are sure that very soon we will be Canadians — even in thought.

The Canadians have done all that they could have done for us — now, it is our turn.

THE UGANDAN ASIANS

The above letter contained more than 100 signatures.

Support For The YMCA

For the youth are on a par with the YMCA and (I feel confident in my opinion), a shame if the cutting of the grant by UGS in 1974 were responsible for eliminating or even curtailing such things as swimming classes for our youthful beginners.

I quite realize that there is divided public opinion about the financial future of the "Y" but as a citizen of Belleville I would surely hope that the UGS and the Belleville YMCA can reach a solution that will allow this organization to fulfill its need in the community.

Sierra Club Requests Hydro Line Inquiry

TORONTO (CP) — The Sierra Club of Ontario asked Wednesday for a public inquiry into Ontario Hydro's proposal for a transmission line from Kingston to Oshawa.

In a release the club, an affiliate of a North American conservation group, said it has asked that an independent expert scrutinize and conduct hearings after Hydro has settled its route.

The publicly-owned utility wants a 500,000-volt line that would link a giant generating station under construction on Lake Ontario near Kingston with a grid system for power transmission at Oshawa.

Earlier this week the province announced it favored building a consultant firm to determine a route of minimum environmental impact.

Needs Exercise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's personal physician said Wednesday his seemingly healthy patient doesn't get enough exercise.

Maj.-Gen. Walter R. Tkach told reporters after Nixon underwent a two-hour annual physical checkup at the naval hospital in suburban Bethesda, Md., that the president's health "continues to be fine."

The only notable change from last year's findings, said Tkach, was a slight drop in blood pressure.

Cut Pollution

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Detroit Edison Co. of Detroit, Mich., which for years has been emitting high concentrations of sulphur dioxide into the air over Windsor, says it will cut back operations if Windsor's air pollution index rises above an acceptable level.

James Auld, Ontario environment minister, Wednesday described the company's action a breakthrough and praised Morton Sterling, director of Michigan's Wayne County air pollution control division.

LONG POINT, Ont. (CP) — An angry Lake Erie has caused considerable damage to cottages and trailers in this resort area 50 miles southwest of Brantford.

A series of winter storms early in the week and last weekend undermined shorelines, washed away concrete patios, and tore off porches.

HARRISTON, Ont. (CP) — More than 200 ratepayers decided Wednesday to organize protests against plans to dump one-quarter of Metropolitan Toronto's garbage in Minto Township, about 90 miles northwest of the city.

The ratepayers voted to set up a committee and to urge area councils to add one or two mills in their tax rate to provide funds for hiring a lawyer and other expenses.

Union Asks Embassy To Help End Strike

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Toronto union official has appealed to the Canadian embassy in Washington for help in settling the country-wide elevator strike now entering its fifth month.

James Hughes said Wednesday that the five companies which have been struck by the 2,800 members of the International Union of Elevator Constructors, "seem to have lost all interest" in a settlement.

...Mr. Hughes, business manager of the union's Toronto local, said in a telegram to Labor Minister John Munro that the five companies are controlled in the United States, and he believes Canadian diplomats in the U.S. capital may be able to influence negotiations.

The union represents men who install and maintain elevators.

Construction company officials in several Canadian centres say the strike has halted millions of dollars worth of building projects.

The elevator companies involved are Armor, Otis, Canadian Westinghouse, Montgomery and Turnbull.

Labor Minister Fernand Guindon of Ontario has ordered senior staff meetings, following a recommendation by the Toronto Apartment Builders' Association that its 50 members halt work on 100 apartment tower projects. Such a work stoppage would affect about 15,000 construction workers in Metropolitan Toronto.

In Ottawa, union officials have established an employment agency to help strikers find temporary jobs.

About $2.25 million worth of construction has halted in Winnipeg since the strike began. The scheduled January opening of a Winnipeg hospital has been postponed, and the strike has discouraged prospective occupants of a new grain commissioners building.

About 210 men belong to the Manitoba local of the union, which also covers part of Saskatchewan and Northwestern Ontario. About 70 of the members are in Winnipeg.

In Edmonton, Robert Bodnar, president of the Edmonton Construction Association, said most of the city's big building projects are in the early stages, while elevator installers would not be involved.

A spokesman for the Alberta government said supervisory staff of the elevator companies are "coping well."

The union has agreed to retain its sites in British Columbia.

Teachers Get Extra Pay So Board Budget Not Cut

TORONTO (CP) — The separate school board in Metropolitan Toronto will give its 2,800 teachers an additional $870,000 in their Dec. 29 pay cheques.

The money is what the board would have paid them if they had accepted the board's last contract offer.

The teachers, working without a contract since Aug. 31, rejected the offer Nov. 15.

Trustee Vincent Pelletier said if the board didn't pay the money, which was budgeted for salary increases in 1972, the ministry of education would cut the board's budget in 1973 by $11 per pupil, or $335,000.

Ottawa Sympathetic To Provinces' Role

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is flexible and sympathetic toward provincial desires for a greater role in cable television and telephone regulation, Communications Minister Gerard Pelletier indicated Wednesday.

He said "it is very natural" that provincial governments have become interested in cable, since the rapidly-developing and locally-oriented cable industry does not have as much of an interprovincial character as other parts of the broadcasting industry.

The minister also raised the possibility of a reorganization of federal and provincial structures for regulating telephone companies. The reorganization could take the form of two-tier regulation, with provincial authorities on one level and a federal regulatory authority on the other.

Mr. Pelletier's comments came during an interview in which he reflected on the major issues in the communications portfolio, to which he was appointed almost a month ago.

The soft-spoken, 53-year-old former journalist said one of the basic elements in federal communication policy is that development of communications technology must be co-ordinated with social and cultural communications needs.

Mr. Pelletier said he was selected as communications minister because of his experience as secretary of state with social-oriented programs—which are becoming a significant role of the communications department—and because he spent four months looking after the new department when its previous minister, Eric Kierans, quit the cabinet.

Although asserting flexibility about provincial requests for more jurisdiction in communications, Mr. Pelletier made it clear that there is a limit to such flexibility:

"The attitude of the federal government has been and still is that we'll do everything we can to prevent a partitioning of the broadcasting system."

If cable were allowed to develop on its own, with no authority restraining it to ensure it did not economically damage broadcast stations, many radio and television stations might go bankrupt.

"But even while maintaining this position I think that there are many, many adaptations that can be envisaged and I think that the federal government has been showing considerable of flexibility, telling the provinces 'well, let's sit and discuss it and see where we can go.'

Wants Privy Council Emergencies Cell

OTTAWA (CP) — A report prepared for the government by a retired army general recommends a permanent cell within the Privy Council Office to anticipate and respond to emergencies, including civil disorder and insurrection, reliable sources said Wednesday.

The Privy Council is the cabinet secretariat and operates as an adjunct of the prime minister's office.

The report by Lt.-Gen. Michael Dare, retired vice-chief of defence staff, was submitted in October and already is the subject of sharp controversy in government circles. It may never be made public.

Safeguarding internal security now rests with the solicitor-general's department and the RCMP, for which the department is responsible. The justice department also is deeply involved, and one source said he could "just see an awful dog-fight developing" over jurisdictions if the government decides to set up the crisis centre.

And sources say Gen. Dare's report can't help but have implications for the future of the Emergency Measures Organization, responsible for planning in the areas of natural disaster and nuclear attack.

Radioactive Pellet Lost

NEW YORK (AP) — A pill-size radioactive pellet got away from workmen in one of the Consolidated Edison Co.'s subterranean cable networks here Wednesday, forcing the city to evacuate residents of a nearby apartment building and continue pelling the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) to join in the recovery.

The pellet, described by officials as an isotope, Iridium 192, was retrieved four hours after it had slipped from its protective lead box

Major Finds

The major finds of crude oil and natural gas were in the frontier areas — the Mackenzie River delta, the Arctic islands, of the East Coast and exploration in the shallow gas regions in southeastern and east-central Alberta. Price increases and government policy has spurred exploration. (CP Newsmap)

Price Hikes and Discoveries Fuel Canadian Oil Industry

CALGARY (CP) — Price increases, petroleum discoveries and government policy pronouncements fuelled the oil industry in 1972 and moulded its direction for the ensuing year.

The major finds of crude oil and natural gas were in the frontier areas—the Mackenzie River delta, the Arctic islands and off the East Coast—where they gave further encouragement to an already rosy picture.

More encouragement came in November when the field price for crude oil was raised by 10 cents a barrel to give an average price of $2.92.

Alberta—which produces more than 80 per cent of Canada's natural gas—also kept producers happy by announcing it would push for a 50-per-cent increase in the well-head gas price.

Gas prices have remained static for years at about 16 cents a thousand cubic feet but rising demand and pressure from producers fo a better return have developed.

The effect of the price increases has been to spur exploration in the established areas, particularly the shallow gas regions in southeastern and east-central Alberta.

Not all government policies got the welcome accorded Alberta's stand on gas pricing.

Oil executives were less than happy when Premier Peter Lougheed told the industry it could afford to give the province another $70 million a year, either in higher royalties o. a new reserves tax.

The industry now pays about $200 million a year in royalties, bonuses and leases.

To sweeten the deal a little, the government included a plan to encourage drilling which has been lagging in the last couple of years.

No outside incentives have been needed in the North where Panarctic Oils Ltd., the consortium of private companies and the federal government, made its first oil strike since starting the search four years ago.

The find, on Ellesmere Island, goes with four major gas discoveries, all of which are in structures described as "elephants" because of their size.

In the Mackenzie delta, Imperial Oil Ltd. has added oil and gas discoveries to previous finds and is completing an artificial island, Immerk.

In the mouth of the river to serve as a drilling platform for several wells.

About $100 million is to be spent during the next northern drilling season by the many companies which have spread their activity along the coast and across the Islands.

Working alongside the exploration firms is Canadian Arctic Gas Study Ltd. which is preparing plans for gas and oil pipelines down the Mackenzie River valley.

An application to build is expected early in 1973 but Hans Maciej of the Canadian Petroleum Association said the national energy board is not likely to decide until thoroughly airing the environmental, sociological and technical aspects of the lines.

Mr. Maciej predicted an application soon for an underwater pipeline from Sable Island, 175 miles east of Halifax, to the mainland.

Mobil Oil Canada Ltd. and Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. have found gas and condensate in the area.

Such a line would require a settlement by the federal and provincial governments o f their dispute over ownership of offshore resources.

Another government decision is needed on northern land regulations—the rules for converting exploration permits into reserve leases—which were suspended two years ago for change and have yet to be reinstated.

On the production side, natural gas sales are expected to rise 15 per cent from 1971 to eight billion cubic feet a day, says the Canadian Petroleum Association.

With cards of Christmas past before her, Mrs. Jeannette Abel, Victoria Ave., Belleville, wonders if cards of today aren't too contrived for the basically simple message they express.

Christmas Past Brings Wishful Thinking

By JOANNE MacKENZIE
Staff Reporter

Do you remember when people delivered Christmas cards personally or when it only cost a cent to send a card?

Mrs. Jeannette Abel, Belleville, purchased an old trunk and came across, among other things, several old Christmas postal cards.

The cards are dated 1909 and bring to mind times when people got together visiting door - to - door and life was less hectic.

Mrs. Abel feels the Christmas cards today are much too contrived when all they need be is plain and to the point.

Another interesting aspect, Mrs. Abel points out, is the cutting down of pollution when people use post cards. You don't have to worry about envelopes, and you can have an interesting stamp collection as well as a post card collection.

Of course, Christmas postal cards are practically non-existent now and prices continue to go up for cards expressing best wishes.

When you stop to think of the future of all those cards you receive at Christmas — "many throw them out as if they mean nothing" — post cards may not be a bad idea.

Bagpipers Attend Manor Party With Traditional Pipes and Kilts

The Trenton Armed Forces Base Bagpipers visited Hastings Manor Wednesday afternoon along with Santa to celebrate the Christmas party with the residents.

A 'first' at the manor, the many Scottish natives and veterans enjoyed hearing their favorite melodies from the Old Country.

Patients in the Special Care Unit were also visited by these kilted bagpipers.

Residents came out of their rooms to see their musical visitors march through the entire manor, playing Scottish tunes.

Santa also appeared during the afternoon to visit residents, including the Special Care Ward.

Christmas gifts were individually distributed in the auditorium for those who were able to attend the party in the auditorium and ones in their rooms.

A Christmas carol singsong was conducted by the manor's women's auxiliary.

Craftroom personnel and the Hastings Manor Auxiliary combined their efforts to make this Christmas an especially happy memory for all.

Have A Haggis Holiday

A pleasant surprise visited Mrs. Isobel Huggins at the Hastings Manor Wednesday afternoon. The Trenton Armed Forces Base bagpipers marched through the Manor and visited all residents. Mac MacDiarmid (left), Norm Jackson and Larry Chevrier stopped to chat with Mrs. Huggins, 86 years old and born in Dundee, Scotland.

MARRIAGE NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Baldwin, Stirling, are pleased to announce the marriage of their daughter Patricia Ann to David John Larmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Larmer, Fraserville.

Rev. L. L. Sutherland, Belleville, officiated at the ceremony which took place on December 16, 1972.

Attendants were the brides' sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Carnike, Consecon.

Cyclamens for Christmas

The beautiful cyclamen is often the choice of those giving a potted plant during the Christmas season. This popular plant has round, marked leaves and flowers ranging from white to several shades of red. However, cyclamen is difficult to keep in home conditions.

Cyclamen should be provided with a temperature of 60 to 65 degrees during the day and 50 degrees at night. Otherwise the flower buds will blow open and the foliage will turn yellow rapidly. The plant requires good light, but should be shaded from hot sun.

If you want to bring your cyclamen into bloom again next year, rest the plant after blooming. Reduce watering, and temperatures to about 50 degrees. This will help bring the corm into a dormant state. Repot the corm in June in a general potting mixture. The upper half of the corm should be out of the soil to prevent the leaf and flower stems from rotting.

During the summer the plant can be grown outdoors in a shaded location.

Celebrate 50th Anniversary

On December 20, 1922, a wedding ceremony took place in Holyness Movement Church Madoc, uniting Stella Storring and Ernest Reid.

The couple took up farming at Halloway where they now reside.

Celebrating their 50th anniversary, the Reid's had the company of their three sons, 16 grandchildren, relatives and friends.

Congratulations were received from Clarke Rollins, Prime Minister Trudeau and many other well-wishers.

Ann Landers

Irate Executive Husband Disagrees with Bedhopper

Dear Ann Landers: I am dominated by a hornet's nest
owner that letter from Asheville,
North Carolina. He signed himself "The Hedonist."

"Hed's" ridiculous statement that every man either cheats on his wife, or would like to if he was sure he could get away with it, is hogwash. I'm 34, a successful executive who has had my bed-hopping before marriage. I have no interest in fooling around. The question Don Juan should be asking himself is, "What am I trying to prove?"

My wife is all the woman I could ask for. Since she works overtime to make our home happy, all my extra time and energy belongs to her. Marriage beats romping around in a motel room with some dingaling who is trying to escape boredom.

"Hed" should spend a few hours a week with a psychiatrist and get his head together. He'd find it more profitable than his present program.—Happy At Home

Dear Happy: You sound like a mature male who knows the difference between sex as a contact sport and love. The latter can bring to a relationship a dimension of beauty and strength. The former is a temporary prop for a sagging ego, a waste of time, a snare and a delusion.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the teen-ager whose lookalike cousin died touched my heart. She felt sad because her aunt and uncle couldn't stand to be around her. Whenever she showed up, they left.

That sounded like me, 32 years ago. Only it wasn't my cousin, it was my son. My husband and I wanted a large family but God sent us only one son and one daughter. My brother and his wife were blessed with three sons and two daughters. When our boy was 15 he died in a sudden illness. My brother's twin boys were 16 at the time. I couldn't help but feel that God had been unjust to take our only son when my brother had four. I realize now how foolish I was but I couldn't help it then.

For a few years I could not bear to be around those twin nephews. They looked so much like you have spent hours in the kitchen.

Ice creams, ice milks and sherbets are delicious and time - saving desserts all by themselves since they come in such a variety of flavors. With just a little extra effort, you can make your own dessert combination in parfaits. Ice cream snow balls and ice cream pies.

Parfait glasses are nice to use if you have them, but this type of dessert is just as impressive done in a sherbet dish, or any other small goblet or glass. It is the alternate layers of sauce or fruit, and ice cream topped with the bon-like layers through the clear glass that is so eye-appealing.

Just pick your own favorite sauces and frozen fruits-product-use the parfait ideas listed here:

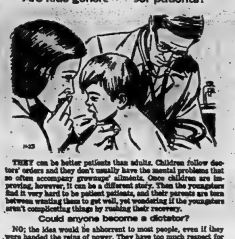
Pineapple — Mint: For the sauce, drain one 14 oz. can crushed pineapple. Measure the syrup; add water to make 1 cup; simmer with ½ cup sugared sugar for 5 min. Cool. Add pineapple, a few drops of peppermint extract, and tint a delicate green. Alternate layers of vanilla ice cream and sauce.

Mincemeat: Alternate layers of coffee ice - cream and prepared mincemeat and top with whipped cream and a red cherry.

Never-Fail-To-Please Parfait: Sample layers of chocolate marshmallow sauce and chocolate or vanilla ice cream. Top with whipped cream and chocolate chips or nuts.



Ice-cream snowballs can be scooped up with a big spoon (an ordinary scoop, rolled in chopped nuts or other coatings and served with a topping of sauce, fruit or jelly. Keep them in a bowl and pass a variety of sauces, allowing the guests to help themselves.

Snowballs can be made several hours ahead and arranged on a tray in rows in the freezer. Try some rolled in chopped walnuts, pecans, or almonds and topped with rum-butter sauce.

BUTTER-CARAMEL SAUCE
¾ cup white sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ cup white corn syrup
¼ cup butter
½ cup light cream
½ tsp. vanilla extract or rum flavoring
In saucepan, combine sugar, salt, syrup, butter and ½ cup of the cream. Cook slowly, stirring frequently, to 230 degrees on candy thermometer. Add the other ½ cup of cream and cook to 240 degrees F. Remove from heat and add vanilla or rum flavoring.

Miss Beat of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Are kids genera[illegible]or patients?

THEY can be better patients than adults. Children follow doctors' orders and they don't usually have the medical problems that so often accompany grownups' ailments. Once children are hospitalized, however, it can be a different story. Just the youngsters find it very hard to be patient patients, and their parents are torn between wanting them to get well, yet wondering if the youngsters aren't complicating things by rushing their recovery.

Could anyone become a dictator?

NO; the idea would be abhorrent to most people, even if they were handed the reins of power. They have too much respect for others to want to control them in any way. Of course, this doesn't mean that there aren't potential Hitlers in every walk of life. Tom Waiter and waitress who deliberately ignore a patron derive pleasure in thinking they control that person's ability to enjoy the meal they might eventually eat before him.

Tired Shopper Didn't Pay?

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: To the 18-year-old boy who signed himself "Distressed": I, too, have walked out of a store with articles that hadn't been paid for. He said he was tired from studying.

I believe him completely. This I have done myself not once, but at least four times. Each time I was rushing, and had my mind on other things. Automatically I put things in my purse or pocket, or walked out with some groceries in my hands. It never was a big amount, had I been caught, it would have been very difficult to explain.

Perhaps your admission could help this boy. You could use my name if it will help, and send this letter to him, to present to authorities. — L.K.

Dear L.K.: Good for you. I find myself hoping you risked the ire of the storekeepers and returned your unintended loot. Did you?

By now you will probably have read Distressed's second letter in a November column, reporting great relief that the case was successfully squashed by an astute and helpful lawyer. Thank Heaven! He signed his second letter "No Longer Distressed".

And thank you for your effort to witness for him. That's what I call practical help.

Dear Doris: I would like to have some information on nutrition. If you have a booklet or some ideas how to start on nutrition with a family where there are four children — they eat a lot of junk food! — I don't know—Where To Start

Dear Where: Junk food is right. Your kids and thousands of others nibble away on packaged, processed, devitalized nibble-junk. The closer we can come to nature's product, the fresh, uncooked vegetable, fresh fruit, whole grain cereals, the better. Whole wheat bread contains life - saving vitamins, which are largely lost in refined white flour. Polished rice has its life-germ layer rubbed off before ever it gets to our tables.

Ice cream, to which many boys and girls are practically addicted at an early age, is mostly animal fat (cream) and sugar, in concentrated form. Candy is concentrated sugar and a real threat. Before refined sugar the body was never asked to deal with concentrated sugars. Hope I'm better — a natural, and not so concentrated, sweet.

Where to start? With Canada's Food Guide, of which I am sending you a copy. It outlines minimums to nourishment needed each day. I am also sending the names of good books on nutrition.

Put some apples where those hungry kids will grab them. Make carrot sticks up and leave them handy. Then study the rules; and get your young people interested in reading the literature themselves.

Dear Doris: What is "weight training"? Does it teach you how to put on weight or take it off? A friend said it would help me physically since I have had an illness. — Up and Down

Dear Up and Down: Sounds like a good idea—but that's not it at all. Weight training is the development of muscular tissues by exercises using weights to lift. Like the strong man at the circus.

Only not so strenuous as that. If a person is trying to get his strength back after a long illness, he can start with a few bends and stretches and then move into weight lifting gradually! Maybe only trying to heft the bar itself without anything heavy on it, at first.

Some people concentrate on special spots: a golfer will use weights to strengthen wrists and arms. A sprained ankle can be brought back to strength much faster with weights. Ask your Y.M.C.A. man about it. That's where I got this information. Then make sure your doctor approves.

(There is helpful Canadian literature which may shed light on your problem. Write to Doris about it, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.)

Makeup Tips For Holidays

TORONTO (AP) — Alive and healthy is the look to aim for during the holidays.

A new hairdo should be short and natural-looking. If you've enjoyed streaking your hair, try a sunkrest for a change, with the light color fanning out from the brow and up through the front of your hair.

Pablo of Elizabeth Arden suggests eye makeup in soft, shimmery shades of aqua, with a silver shadow under the eyebrow to accentuate the eyes.

"Apply cheek color not in one unnatural circle on the cheek. Put that blend rouge on the cheekbones, temples and bridge of the nose to look as if you've just come in from a walk in the sun."

Lipstick should have color, pale shades are no longer fashionable.

Doll Houses Built for Kids

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Marian and Jim Montgomery are a house-building and furniture-designing team whose clients are little girls.

The Montgomerys build and furnished four doll houses for the Children's Aid Society to give away.

The idea began in 1971 when Mrs. Montgomery was packaging Christmas presents for the Waterloo County Children's Aid Auxiliary. One of the gifts was an empty dollhouse.

"It looked so vacant," she said. "I couldn't imagine a little girl receiving a doll house without furniture, so I bought some. Later I heard of how much fun the little girl had with it. It started me thinking."

She told her husband about it and he volunteered to build some doll houses. He is the architect for the houses and furniture, she is the interior designer.

Bourassa Appears Strong in Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa's Liberal government moves into 1973 looking stronger than ever despite another crisis-marked year in 1972, a year in which the government's authority was challenged in massive, province-wide strikes.

Already crisis-seasoned by the political kidnappings of October, 1970, the government was faced with a union revolt in April this year when a "common front" of more than 200,000 publicly-paid workers walked off the job, throwing hospital and other services into chaos throughout the province.

And in May, general strikes completely shut down some communities as union members protested the jailing of top labor leaders for advising some hospital workers to ignore back-to-work injunctions in April.

Overthrow of the government was one of the aims of the striking unions and the cabinet almost split at the height of the strikes in May when two ministers, dissatisfied with federal-provincial relations, threatened to resign.

But Mr. Bourassa held his government together and rode out the labor crisis to emerge late in the year with byelection indications of strong popular support. He also claimed the government had restored social peace and order by dealing even-handedly with the labor crisis.

The two byelections in October not only suggested the government had regained the esteem of Quebecers, they also forced a re-evaluation of opposition forces in the province.

Both Parti Quebecois and Unite-Quebec candidates lost their deposits to Liberal winners in Gatineau and Duplessis ridings, but their relative positions were an upset in terms of the conventional wisdom about current Quebec politics.

The Unite-Quebec party, previously the Union Nationale, was largely written off as a political force after it was reduced from the governing party to 17 seats in the 108-seat Quebec national assembly in 1970.

But it ran second in the Gatineau byelection, suggesting it still is taken seriously by the voters.

The separatist Parti Quebecois, widely regarded as a growing political force in the province, ran third in Gatineau and held its own in Duplessis.

The provincial Creditistes, meanwhile, split into two warring camps early in the year after Camil Samson was ousted as leader. The rival factions led by Mr. Samson and interim leader Armand Bois settled their differences during the summer, however, and have scheduled a leadership convention early in 1973.

Meanwhile, Mr. Bourassa's government is showing signs of preparing to act on the province's sensitive language question.

The Quebec Liberal party's annual convention tackled the subject of school languages in November and Education Minister Francois Cloutier suggested recently that a Parti Quebecois bill on school languages was introduced late in the year because the separatist party feared government action which would steal its nationalist thunder.

Strengthening the status of French in Quebec would be action on a key promise Mr. Bourassa made in 1970—that he would make French the province's working language.

Action on the language issue would also boost speculation that arose late this year that Mr. Bourassa might call an election for the fall of 1973, after only 3½ years in power.

Whale Kills Banned For Canadian Ships

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Banning declining stocks, Environment Minister Jack Davis announced Wednesday an immediate ban on whaling of any kind on the East Coast by Canadian ships.

He told a news conference the number of whales in each category are in the few thousands and should be two or three times as high to maintain a maximum sustainable yield.

The president of Atlantic Whaling Co. of Williamsport, Nfld. wasn't so happy.

Denis W. Munroe said the company was disappointed by the decision which will eliminate about 200 jobs in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia.

"We have trust that the federal government will treat the industry fairly and will compensate the workers," he said.

Officials of the environment department will discuss the matter of compensation to whalers and ship owners, Mr. Davis said. He suggested some of the fast whale-catching ships could be chartered as fisheries patrol vessels.

During the last few years, the whaling companies, located at Williamsport and Dildo in Newfoundland and Port Blandford, N.S., have been operating under quotas set by the federal government. A quota of 120 whales was allowed each of the companies last year.

Whaling has been under ban in the United States which also forbids importation of products made from the mammals.

Bahamas Independence Effective Next July

LONDON (AP) — The governments of Britain and the Bahamas agreed Wednesday on the main terms of a new constitution that will give full independence to the sprawling island colony next July 10.

A communique at the end of eight-day talks between British and Bahamian delegates announced an independent Bahamas will apply for membership of the Commonwealth, the United Nations and other international organizations.

During the talks, Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling said his government also intends, after independence, to renegotiate his country's main treaties and agreements with foreign countries.

This will include Bahamian accords that give the United States naval, air force, weapon-testing and space-tracking facilities.

The communique gave no details of the new constitution for the Commonwealth of Bahamas, as the new state will be called.

But delegates reported privately its form will not greatly disturb existing arrangements which provide for:

—A two chamber legislature.

—A cabinet system of government under a prime minister responsible to parliament.

—A governor-general as representative of the Queen.

A report of the conference, with full details of the proposed constitution, soon will be presented to the British and Bahamian Parliaments.

The Bahamas now has the status of a self-governing colony with British responsibilities confined only to control of its defence and foreign affairs.

Crippled Woman Gets Gift of New Violin

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — This is the story of a crippled woman who lost the violin she loved in a house fire and the people who got her another one for Christmas.

Marie Gauthier, 55, lost both her legs some years ago and when fire recently struck her home in the northwestern Quebec town of Dupuis, she nearly died.

She dragged herself out of the burning house to safety and had to leave behind all her possessions, including the violin that she prized.

Romeo Auclair, a logger who is a distant relative, learned about the fire when he visited Dupuis and felt he had to do something to help.

When he returned to his home in Nipigon, Ont., he tried to find a violin for sale at any price, then appealed to the public through a newspaper article.

The story in the Port Arthur News-Chronicle—now the Thunder Bay Chronicle-Journal—drew more than 30 offers from across northwestern Ontario.

Two were accepted one from an unnamed reader and one from a Thunder Bay woman, Cathy Berube, whose late father was raised on a farm in Gaspe, Que.

She wrote:

"Mom and I decided that if you think you could make use of dad's violin, we would be more than pleased to donate it for such a cause."

The violins, both in need of repair, were given to Simon Duguay of Nipigon, a fiddler of some repute in his younger days who learned from an uncle the art of fixing old violins.

Mr. Duguay interrupted repair work on a 55-year-old instrument from West Germany, Taking the best of both donated violins, he built and shipped off Mrs. Gauthier's Christmas violin.

Still Seized

PAPINEAUVILLE, Que. (CP) — The RCMP have seized a still capable of producing 200 gallons of alcohol a day on a farm near here.

Squads from Ottawa and Montreal charged three men Tuesday in connection with the raid. Names have not been released.

Retired May Be Stopped From Drawing Benefits

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is considering a move to stop employees retired at age 65 from collecting unemployment insurance benefits, an Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC) spokesman said Wednesday.

Under federal law, a person retired at 65 by his company can draw benefits for periods up to a maximum of 51 weeks after retirement, depending upon unemployment ratesin the region in which he lives.

The spokesman said the possible change in legislation is "one of the things" the government is looking at in attempts to improve unemployment insurance laws.

He said there was no question that, as the law now stands, persons retired by their company at 65 can stay in the labor force, and, if they cannot or will not find a job, receive UIC money.

High-paid executives could end up receiving company pensions, old age benefits and unemployment insurance under the present law. Senior executives could receive the maximum UIC payment of $100 a week.

But persons receiving unemployment insurance in this way would become ineligible once they apply for the Canada Pension Plan.

Moira Secondary School students yesterday finished making up 40 Christmas dinner hampers for needy families from the list supplied them by Christmas Sharing program. The students' efforts will be displayed in the school entrance for the next two days before they begin the delivery operation. Schools are the mainstay of the Christmas Sharing project, taking over the major task of providing for underprivileged families. Money Is Root of Postal Unrest

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Insufficient wage offers may lead to rejection Jan. 3 of a national postal contract, says the president of Belleville's letter carriers.

Jim Campbell said this morning all other aspects of a conciliation report made public Monday are satisfactory.

But he maintains that salary proposals, which recommend a 65-cent-an-hour increase in a contract expiring Dec. 31, 1974, are based on false premises.

"The past two or three contracts have taken about 10 months to negotiate," said Mr. Campbell. "We figure the 65 cents will put us through until October of 1975. We're worried it will take a long time to negotiate a new contract."

Mr. Campbell said that in two years, the extra 65 cents will not be enough to meet rising costs. The fact that the raise is planned in three stages further reduces its impact.

A bulletin issued by the executive of the Council of Postal Unions, representing agents for the country's 22,000 postal workers, stresses the monetary issue is the only bone of contention.

"I guess everything else was what we wished for," commented Mr. Campbell.

The president of Local 45 insists Belleville workers will look at their own needs when making their decision.

"We're not going to take any advice from the big cities," he said. "We've got our own minds."

One union spokesman in Montreal called the conciliation report stupid while another called for replacement of union negotiators.

Most of the city's 78 postal employees have not yet received copies of the report. The letter carriers executive was issued two copies but postal clerks are still waiting for theirs.

Mr. Campbell said he was loaning his report to other carriers who take it home at night to read. The situation has many workers upset, he said, especially since reports to union members during the past 18 months of negotiations have been scarce.

Don Matthews, Belleville president of the Canadian Union of Postal Employees, is concerned about publicity stating that the national executive is urging members to turn down the report.

"Only six of the 10 negotiators want to turn it down," he said. "Four say they'll accept the report, and one of those is our chief negotiator."

He was referring to Jim Maines, vice-president of the Letter Carriers of Canada.

Suspenseful Christmas For Seven in Quinte

A Christmas-week bonus — with the suspenseful glitter of big - money possibilities — suddenly materialized for a lucky seven Quinte district dwellers today.

That's the total of tickets held by Belleville - Trenton area residents in the latest Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes draw in Dublin.

The seven — including a Belleville and four Trenton-and-area ticket holders — are among nearly 300 Canadians in the running for top prizes of up to $116,000.

Identities of the seven were not immediately learned this morning.

By hometown, horse, number and nom-de-plume they are:

Belleville — Persian Lark, QOE 73968, Sam.

Trenton — Coffee Royal, RXB 64531, Lucky; St. Sixth in, QJR 78527, Two Per Cent; Wind Ruah, RXK 934.75, Saint Jude.

Tweed — Snipkin, RTK 63291, John Pearson.

Chairman To Be Named

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward school trustees tonight will elect a new chairman and vice-chairman for the coming one-year term of office.

Chairman for 1972 was Scott Marysburgh trustee James Ploeger and vice-chairman, Clare McFaul, trustee for Hillier.

It is expected that new committees also will be named.

Hospitol Will Transfer Some

Lennox and Addington County General Hospital will attempt to maintain its obstetrical department through 1973 by transferring some elderly chronic patients to nursing homes. The hospital was threatened with loss of its 18-bed obstetrical ward because of provincial cuts in health care spending. The 200 women a year who bear babies at the hospital would have to go to Hotel Dieu in Kingston or Belleville General Hospital, where few of their doctors have hospital privileges.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following calls Wednesday night.

8:03 p.m. . . . Dekoro Stelside: overheated furnace.

11:34 p.m. . . . Edith Cavell School of Nursing: automatic alarm malfunction.

Nature Trail Needs Volunteers

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

These days, they could post another sign among the many markers spotting the 235 miles of the Quinte-Hastings Recreation Trail.

It would be starkly phrased: Volunteer Help Wanted — Urgent.

Lack of community awareness about the trail's ongoing upkeep is causing concern among its originators.

Since the trail was first blazed this year across Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, it has won widespread administration and approval.

As intended, it has attracted plenty of people as beneficiaries — but few as working benefactors.

What's needed is more voluntary public participation in the ambitious environmental undertaking to ensure its perpetuation.

So far, there's been a signal shortage of such a response, indicate those who initiated the scheme just one year ago.

Government funds launched the project, and hopefully, more may be forthcoming this year to expand the project as originally envisioned.

But a basic need is continued maintenance — without which one trail official expresses the fear the scheme "could return to nature."

Such broodings emerge as the trail ends its fourding year, launched by a $155,000 Local Initiatives Program grant from the federal government.

Now, its organizers await word on whether an application for a $73,000 LIP grant will be approved for 1973.

But, paradoxically, such funding is seen as contributing to lackluster community interest in the trail's future upkeep.

Because it was created by public funds, people may conceive of the trail as a government accomplishment requiring no outside help, suggests Grant Harvey, co-ordinator for the initial undertaking which dramatically linked 40 nature trail from Lake Ontario to Lake St. Peter in North Hastings in six months last year.

"I think people probably figure that with the money spent so far — and since the first allocation was sizeable — that this was sufficient. They may feel all that's now needed is to go ahead and use the trail."

When initiated last year, the scheme was officially fostered by the Belleville and District Employment Committee — a group that includes labor and local government membership keeping a weather-eye on district employment and economic conditions.

Once it became a reality, an organization was needed to keep the trail as an ongoing project. What emerged was the Quinte - Hastings Recreation Trail Association, its membership formed from those who had helped initiate and co-ordinate the original scheme. It's this group which has the responsibility for operating the trail as an ongoing reality.

As the project enters its second year, the group still remains a co-ordinating crew without sufficient rank - and - file membership to infuse the volunteer effort needed to guarantee trail upkeep, says Mr. Harvey, now secretary - treasurer of the association.

Earlier this year, suggestions were drafted to involve age groups and individuals in the trail zone to join.

"But the response so far has not been fruitful," says Mr. Harvey.

association only has about 30 members.

What's needed is membership that will provide suggestions and ideas of trail upkeep and development — and a willingness to pitch in with some time and muscle, if required.

"Somewhere along the line we're going to have to get people to voluntarily work to help maintain the trail. Otherwise, it'll just go back nature," believes Mr. Harvey.

The trail drew active response throughout its first summer and autumn — used by hikers, school groups, committia, says Jim Staveley, Canada Manpower counsellor, a driving force in the trail's evolution who became president of the association.

The trail drew admiration for foresight from environmentalists in Ontario and abroad, and inquiries about its use and expansion are continually being made, he says.

"There is fantastic interest — yet not that many members have signed up with the association," says Mr. Staveley.

Among such expansion proposals is a suggested branch trail, running from near Desoronto through the Tweed - Actinolite area, joining the main route near Moira Lake.

The $73,000 LIP grant now being sought would be used to extend the trail about 25 miles north from Lake St. Peter to Whitney, linking in with Algonquin Park. (The extension would create 24 winter jobs).

But lack of members creates a problem of circular frustration, indicates Mr. Harvey.

The association has little cash. A reserve of $500 built up from sales of trail maps, a grant from the employment committee and the sparse membership fees, is almost exhausted.

Without new membership, the association cannot afford to advertise — and therefore possibly attract more members and fees. (Membership cost $5, $7 for families, $10 for groups).

Since it's already mapped for use, the trail might not entirely disappear, says Mr. Harvey.

"But, without the degree of controlled maintenance necessary, bit by bit it would be fragmented."

Pedestrian Hit

A pedestrian crossing Dundas St. East Wednesday evening was hit by a car and taken to Belleville General Hospital.

Bruce Edward Seames, 29, of 70 South Foster St., was treated for injuries to his right leg and released.

He was attempting to cross the street near the Canadian Hotel when the car, driven by John Ahern of 150 Catherine St., struck him. The accident occurred at 10 p.m.

Dick Lumbers Chamber Head

A director of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce for the past three years and a member since he came to the city 12 years ago, Dick Lumbers, of Lumbers Studio, has been elected chamber president.

Mr. Lumbers succeeds Frank S. Folwell, who held the top chamber post for the past year.

Vice-presidents named at yesterday's meeting were George Thompson, local Bell Telephone manager and Walter Streit, assistant manager of the downtown branch of the Royal Bank.

Mr. Thompson succeeds this Frank Foley, who during the past year was very active and brought in many new ideas for the chamber.

Mr. Foley bowed out of the chamber executive because of business pressures. Larry Soden is Chamber of Commerce treasurer.

Lot's Popularity Grows with Use

Belleville and district motorists are beginning to appreciate the convenience of the new attendant - manned Don-Har parking lot on Upper Front Street while they are shopping in the city's downtown district.

"They are starting to come — the use of the lot is encouraging," stated Doug Row of Smith's Hardware, one of the merchants on Upper Front Street who will benefit by the extra parking lot.

"Customers appreciate the attendant - manned lot — they don't have to rush back to feed the parking meter."

For customer convenience Smith's Hardware has tidied up the rear of its property and provided a rear entrance.

The Don-Har parking lot on the west side of Front Street immediately south of Skinner's barbershop has been in use for several years but this year the city parking authority expanded the lot by acquiring property to the south along the river.

Two old warehouse properties — one formerly known as the Pigden Garage and the other owned by Smith's Hardware — were razed, the area levelled and enclosed by railing.

Temporary pole lighting has been installed and the area surface treated in readiness for paving next year.

Parking meters were taken out and replaced by a lot attendant. There is parking space for 112 cars.

Area merchants are co-operating by passing out parking certificates to their customers.

"In essence we are offering" free parking for our customers", said Mr. Smith.

The expanded parking lot has been in use for about three weeks but Mrs. Kay Manderville, parking authority chairman, is still unable to give an official report on its use, due to the authority supervisor being away on holidays.

"However, when we developed the lot we expected it would take a while before it would get much use," she said.

Are You A He Or A She?

Gerry Joyce, public relations director for the Quinte Home Builders' Association, had difficulty Wednesday completely describing the goods on the auction block. The live lobster was one of several items auctioned at the meeting to provide funds for the association's activities in the new year. More than $400 was raised through the sale of donated articles.

A Yuletide Pageant

The problems of a choir boy (Andrew Kellogg) who couldn't sing, are depicted in an hour-long musical production by Sir John A. MacDonald Public School. A Christmas angel (Brenda Watson) comes to the choir boy and gives him the courage to sing. More than 60 voices combine to form the choir for the musical to be staged again this evening beginning at 8 p.m.

Transport Firm Extends Limits

The Belleville area now has a direct commercial road transport link with the New England region of the United States.

Maislin Transport Ltd., the Montreal-based carrier with a branch terminal here in Belleville, has announced outright purchase of one of the oldest New England transport operations — H. S. Welch Co., of Brattleboro, Vermont.

The acquisition extends Maislin operations — directly linking New England markets with those of Ontario and Quebec.

Directly linking New England markets with those of Ontario and Quebec, the acquisition extends the Canadian carrier's operations, which already include interstate services between New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

Youth Charged

TWEED (Staff) — Ontario Provincial Police in Madoc have charged a youth with possession of stolen goods following investigation of a Dec. 7 theft at the home of Patrick O'Connor, RR3, Marmora.

Keith Mercone, 17, was charged yesterday with the offence. About $273 of the goods out of a total valued at $825, taken from the O'Connor home were recovered from a stall at the rear of the Marmora arena. Mercone will appear in court in Madoc early in January.

Items taken from the Marmora village bylaw enforcement officer's residence included money and travellers cheques, a camera, religious tokens, a tape recorder, binoculars, three watches, a wallet, a portable radio and a pair of gloves. Items not recovered by police included the watches.

Rustlers Active

Cattle rustling has hit Cambridge township in Lennox and Addington county, with 28 head of cattle valued at about $10,000 stolen since spring. Almost all disappearances have been reported from the Newburgh and Centreville areas northeast of Napanee. Most of the stolen cattle disappeared one at a time, with three being the largest number reported missing in one month, says Constable Dave Galloway of the Napanee detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Lawson Sizzles, Derek Departs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Line-mates Danny Lawson and Andre Lacroix combined for six goals Wednesday night as Philadelphia Blazers came from behind for an 8-5 World Hockey Association victory over Chicago Cougars.

An estimated 2,000 at Convention Hall saw right-winger Lawson score his 22nd, 23rd, 24rd and 26th goals of the season and Lacroix, a centre, registered his 17th and 18th. Don O'Donoghue and Pierre Henry got the other Philadelphia goals.

The Blazers trailed 4-3 going into the final period, but took the lead for good on Lacroix's two goals in the first six minutes.

Darrel Rubbo scored twice for Chicago, which was outshot by Philadelphia 39-35. Reg Fleming, Butch Barber and Dan Lodboa scored the other Chicago goals.

Derek Sanderson, the $2.6-million centre who's been put on the trading block by the Blazers, did not attend the game and was reported to be in Boston to confer with his lawyer Robert Woolf. The lawyer said Sanderson was visiting with the "real" management of the Blazers, but a Philadelphia spokesman described the absence as unauthorized.

Selects Sting Marlies

TORONTO (CP) — The touring Moscow Selects, stung with their first defeat of an eight-game Easter Canadian tour the previous night, defeated Toronto Marlboros 9-6 in an exhibition hockey game Wednesday night.

Sergey Kapustin, an 18-year-old, said to be a sure bet for the Soviet national team in another year, scored three goals for the visitors, two while the Moscow team had a man in the penalty box.

Alexander Martynyuk, who played briefly for the Soviet national team in its recent series with Team Canada, and Vladimir Devyatov added two each for the Selects who completed their tour with six wins, one loss and a tie.

Michel Tilow completed the scoring for the Selects as 14,826 Maple Leaf Gardens fans saw the Moscow club hold a commanding edge in the play, particularly in the second period when they outshot the Marlboros, first-place club in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series, 29-10.

Jeff Wignall, Glenn Goldup, Wayne Dillon Paulin Bordeleau, Brad Winton and Mark Howe replied for Toronto scoring.

The OHA club was strengthened by Bordeleau's recovery and Reg Thomas of London Knights, the team that nailed the Soviets with their only loss of the tour Tuesday night, defencemen Doug Ferguson of Hamilton Red Wings and Jim Pankiewicz from Peterborough Petes.

Both clubs opened the game with sound positional play and hard checking. The Selects survived numerous penalties to Vladimir Popov and Titov, including a period of 11 seconds when they were two men short.

Marlboros were shorthanded two men for 33 seconds later in the first period but again the penalty-killing unit held the opposition scoreless.

The Soviets began to take the play to the Toronto one early in the second period when Kapustin and Martynyuk each beat starting Marlboro goaltender Mike Palmateer for two goals on a combination of superlative playmaking and a sagging Toronto defence.

Kevin Neville came on in relief of Palmateer in the Toronto goal and held the Moscow team in check for the remainder of the period and the visitors held a 4-2 lead heading into the free-scoring third period.

Tennis, Anyone?

TORONTO (CP) — Moscow Selects departed for home today, several of the players without the gifts they received in London, Ont., prior to Tuesday night's exhibition game—a set of golf clubs.

The golf clubs, gift of a Canadian sporting goods company, were presented the Russian players in pre-game ceremonies.

There's only one thing missing—golf courses.

The Soviet Union is devoid of the lush layouts that dot the North American countryside. And there are no immediate plans to build any.

But there may be one saving grace.

Andrey Starovoitov, chef de mission for the Selects, says there is a game in Russia similar to golf.

"We call it prodky," said Starovoitov through Interpreter, Michael Ryshak. Although the rules were scant, Ryshak left the impression the game could be played on a miniature golf course.

Not all the Selects, who completed their eight-game tour of Eastern Canada with an 8-6 win over Toronto Marlboros Wednesday night, were impressed with their clubs.

One sports store owner reported that three men, who identified themselves as Russian players, entered his store Wednesday to exchange their golf clubs for something more feasible—new skates or Canadian dollars.

Sabres Make Prophet of Punch, Two Points Out of Second Place

Punch Imlach boasted when Buffalo Sabres joined the National Hockey League three years ago the franchise would be the first of the post 1967 newcomers to win a Stanley Cup.

It wasn't a surprising statement from one whose previous NHL career as general manager-coach of Toronto Maple Leafs had been liberally sprinkled with anecdotes predicted on success.

Some of his wishful predictions were bound to backfire, but on the whole his percentage of success about evened out the reverses. So few wih the know in hockey circles were noticed snickering into the back of their hands.

Some well-chosen junior draft picks later, combined with astute trades and the patience to allow others to mature, are all paying off for the Sabres and Imlach, currently convalescing from a recent operation.

Buffalo continued to haunt the hierarchy of the NHL's established East Division by dumping Vancouver Canucks 6-3 Wednesday night and remain just two points out of second place.

New York Rangers moved into a share of second with Boston Bruins, idle Wednesday night, by edging St. Louis Blues 5-4 while leading Montreal Canadiens moved three points ahead of the pack with a 4-2 victory over New York Islanders.

Elsewhere, Chicago Black Hawks downed Philadelphia Flyers 4-1 on the strength of Chico Maki's two third-period goals, Atlanta Flames—with one of the best-ever records for a first-year club—beat Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3, Detroit Red Wings defeated Los Angeles Kings 4-1 and Minnesota North Stars nailed California Golden Seals with their 20th loss of the season, 5-2, at Oakland.

PUNCH IMLACH

The Rangers return home against Atlanta tonight while Vancouver goes against the Islanders, also in New York, Detroit is at Boston and Los Angeles in Philadelphia.

Imlach, considered one of the shrewdest executives in the NHL, has had the satisfaction of seeing his top junior draft choices in each of Buffalo's three season's develop into front-line operators from the start.

Gil Perreault, the No. 1 junior pick three years ago, won the Calder Trophy in 1970-71, while setting a rookie goals and points scoring record. Richard Martin established a rookie goal-scoring mark last season while just missing out in the Calder voting.

This season, defenceman Jim Schoenfeld, a rugged performer not averse to keeping the opposition honest with his bone-jarring checks, has added to Imlach's genius for selecting Grade A talent.

Perreault and Martin, along with Rene Robert, from Buffalo's French Connection line-the top producing unit in the league to date.

Martin scored twice against the Canucks as did another rookie, Hugh Harris, and Perreault picked up two assists as the Sabres extended their unbeaten string at home this year to 18 games before another sellout crowd of 15,668.

Pete Stemkowski: who played for Imlach on the last Stanley Cup team in Toronto in 1967—one of four NHL championships during Leafs' «Imlach-era»—scored twice at St. Louis and set up New York's clincher by Bruce MacGregor in the second period.

The Rangers spotted St. Louis an early 2-0 lead before snapping three behind Bluet rookie goaltender Wayne Stephenson to carry a 3-2 lead into the middle period and opening a 5-2 margin.

The Blues had a 33-30 edge in shots in the final two periods but were only able to solve veteran Ed Giacomin's netminding until third-period scores by Mike Murphy and Garry Unger.

Chuck Lefley's go-ahead goal at 9:18 of the second period broke-up a tight contest at Montreal and subsequent scores from Guy Lafleur and Cournoyer solidified the Canadians' victory.

Perreault Third

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gilbert Perreault of Buffalo Sabres moved into third place in National Hockey League scoring Wednesday night, ahead of teammate Rene Robert.

Perreault picked up two assists in Buffalo's win over Vancouver Canucks and now has 46 points on 16 goals and 30 assists. Robert has 45 points.

The Pack Is Back!

by

Eric Emerson

Sports Editor

Picking the Grey Cup winner was easy. An eight-year-old child could have done it. Hell, I did it.

I mean, any fool could see that Ottawa would oust Montreal in the semi-finals. And CJBQ's Dick Lovering picked Winnipeg over Edmonton in the west to bring his predicting record to one - in - eight - million, so you can see how easy THAT one was. In the finals there was no one else to pick but the Hamilton Tiger Cats and the Saskatchewan Roughriders. And in the Grey Cup game, you must have known that Chack Ealey and company were shoo-ins.

So with all this vast knowledge of armchair quarterbacking at my fingertips, why didn't I let you know? Well I feel badly about that; as badly in fact, that I'm about to let you in on the little secret of what's going to win the Super Bowl.

My crystal ball is sitting directly in front of me with my Sporting News chart sheet and original copy of Tex Maule's "How to Pick 'Em". I'm getting vibrations. This message is coming. It's a team from someplace cold. They're a proven quantity. They have a fine coach They're the . . . Minnesota Vikings.

Certainly, just like I've been saying all year, "the Minnesota Vikings are going to win the Super Bowl." They've got Fran Tarkenton, and the best defensive line in football and Clint Jones and Bud Grant and, oh yeah, they've already been eliminated.

Well I never did believe in crystal balls, or Tex Maule for that matter. Wasn't he the dummy who wrote in Sports Illustrated that the Baltimore Colts would dismember Broadway Joe's Jets in a runaway Super Bowl?

The winner of this year's NFL grand finale will be the Green Bay Packers. You heard it here first.

"Now why pick the Packers," you may be asking yourself. "Didn't they finish with a crummy 10-4 mark and the Dolphins wind up unbeaten?"

The answer to that is yes, and yet. Sure the Packers' 10-4 mark was only tied for fifth best in the NFL and sure Miami was 14-0, but that's what makes me such a great predictor. I can judge the intangibles.

For one thing, the Green Bay lineup represents an ideal blend of age and youth, a blend that is personified best in their backfield corps.

Dave Robinson is one of the two remaining starters from the Lombardi glory years. The veteran left linebacker, one of the most intelligent men in the NFL, is said to be having one of his finest seasons in years and that means that there are few, if any, better corner linebackers in the entire league. On the other side is Fred Carr, a Lombardi draft pick, but unable to oust Lee Roy Caffey from a starting position until the lean years of late.

The middle man in the Pack's linebacking trio is sophomore Jim Carter, drafted originally as a fullback, but good enough to assign veteran Ray Nitschke to specialty team duty and benchwarming. Nitschke was the man voted best at that position on the NFL's 10-year all-star team.

Cornerback, generally considered to be the "hardest" position to play in professional football", is another Green Bay strength despite the inexperience of Ken Ellis and Willie Buchanon. The latter, a rookie with 9.4 speed, is probably the biggest single addition to the team.

The defensive line, anchored by Carl Clarence Williams, is youthful but aggressive. In fact hitting is the key to the Packers' defense. They could beat some teams with more talent by out-muscling them.

Offensively, Scott Hunter certainly isn't one of the leagues better passers. But then, didn't the Pack win for years with fellow Alabama alumni who wasn't a great passer either - a fellow by the name of Bart Starr?

Hunter's backfield mates, Jim Grabowski and Mac-Arthur Lane are in the Green Bay mould of Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung. They're big, fearless and fine blockers.

The team's gibbest offensive weapon, however, is kicker Chester Marcol. The rookie is dangerous from anywhere inside the 50-yard line and sometimes he's dangerous outside of it. He's also proven to be the key factor in a number of playoff games.

Jim Turner's three field goals won for the Jets. Jim O'Brien won the Super Bowl for the Colts with a key kick. And Garo Yyremian was a major factor in propelling the Dolphins into last year's final. Marcol could do the same thing for the Colts.

Green Bay flew Washington this weekend in a semi-final game, and while George Allen's oldtimers are a fine football team, they seem to have slipped in their last outings. They can be had.

Once having cleared this obstacle, Dan Devine's crew will likely face Dallas in the NFC final. What always happens when Green Bay plays Dallas in the NFC final?

Now safely past Washington and Dallas, we're keyed for the "Super Bowl" meeting against the Oakland Raiders. Now can you name me a bigger bunch of losers than the Raiders? (O.K., maybe the New York Rangers).

Following this simple, irrefutable logic it should be obvious by now that I've managed once again to hit the nail right on the head.

The Pack is back. You read it here first.

Quintes Outshoot Kingston, Aces Outscore Belleville

KINGSTON (Special) — Senior "A" OHA entry Kingston Aces won their fourth straight victory Wednesday night as they defeated Belleville Quintes 6-1.

The victory, however, was not as sweet as it might have been as the Aces are having the same attendance problems as the Quintes are in Belleville. The game was played to 616 fans — the smallest turnout in the Ace's nine-year history.

The Aces, however, did not play as well as the score indicates, according to Belleville coach Wayne Brown.

"We could have won the game," said Brown. "We played well for 50 minutes. They scored on us within three minutes in the first period and four in the third," he said.

Though the Aces were outshot in the first period 15-12, three of Kingston's shots beat Quintes' goalie Karl Bagnell for unanswered goals. Mike Flanigan and Bob Collins had an Kingston's four tally. The third goal was credited to Charlie Convery as the puck bounced off him from a Quintes' pass across the face of the ice, according to Lionel Boyer, the playing director of the Quintes in coach Wayne Brown's absence. The three Kingston tallies came with 3:17 minutes of each other.

"We made Kingston's goalie look good," said Boily. "We were so anxious to score that we were fighting the puck. It's strange that we outshot them 40-34 and still lost by what looks like a slaughter. We outplayed them."

WAYNE McCONNELL

Most of the Quintes shooting was "too high and right at the goalie" according to coach Brown, in a game which saw only seven minor penalties handed out by the referees. The two five minute majors went to Quintes' defenseman Greg Marchen and Aces' right winger Les Colligan for a second period altercation.

The Kingston team had no scoring trouble in the third as Bob Oaple, Pat Brownell, and Tom Carty beat Bagnell for a goal apiece within a time of four minutes.

Russian Hockey Stars Worth Admission

Three players alone should be worth the price of admission on Jan. 5, when the Moncton Dynamos meet Belleville's Quintes at the Memorial Arena.

The threesome, all of whom saw action for the Russian national team against Team Canada, is headed by centre Alexander Maistev.

The 23 - year - old pivot is a veteran of international hockey, having represented the Soviet Union in 94 games prior to the September series. Described as one of the top forwards in that country, Maistev collected five assists against the NHL stars, usually centring the top line with wingers Yakushev and Alexander Yakunbev. He is listed as the Dynamos' number one attacker.

The other members who competed against Team Canada are defencemen Vitaly Davidov and Valery Vasilev.

Davidov, captain of the Dynamos, is the oldest player on the team at the age of 36. He is a long-term veteran of international play.

Vasilev, picked as one of the key players on which the Soviets hope to rebuild their National Team, is 23 years old. He has seen action in only 37 games for the nationals, but managed to display the Russian concept of an offensive type of rearguard, scoring a goal and two assists against Canada's best.

Belleville team officials report that there are "about 900" seats still available for the Friday night game, which gets under way at 9 p.m. The arena doors will open for ticket holders one hour earlier, while any remaining seats will not go on sale until 8.45 p.m.

Minors in U.S. Tourney

It's a rare occasion that a house league hockey team can see tournament action, and even rarer that they should travel to the United States to see it.

But the Dairy Queen peewee majors will be doing just that. Dairy Queen peewees, along with the McInroy - Maines bantam minors, will be going to Cazenovia, New York, to play a three day tournament after Christmas.

The tournament, slotted for December 26-28, will be played on the ice of Colgate University in Syracuse.

John Kunetsky, coach of the first place Dairy Queen team, said that he "believes that it's the first time that a house league team has been invited to an international tournament.

"It's a good opportunity for a house league team to see some tournament excitement," said Kunetsky, "they're generally not involved with travelling or playing with stronger teams.

"Basically the tournament is a good will effort on the part of the organizers. They emphasize it's primarily a little fun, not on cut-throat competition."

According to Gord Bell, coach of the McInroy - Maines bantam minors, the invitation came from people he became acquainted with when he played ed for the Syracuse entry in the American Hockey League.

The Belleville teams will tour Colgate University while they are at the six team tournament. Beside teams from Cazenovia and Hamilton, New York, the other three teams will be American.

The Dairy Queen team will play its first game on Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. while McInroy-Maines bantams will see action at 5:30 p.m. Both teams will be taking on Cazenovia.

Bell Helps Junior Goalies

Gord Bell, former goalie with the Belleville McFarlands who won the 1959 World Amateur Hockey Championship in the Senior "A" division, was at the Metro Junior "B" Baseball practice Wednesday night.

According to Bell, Boccals coach Moe Mantler had asked him to Memorial Arena to take a look at goalies Bob Moore and John Barnside and "give them pointers if they needed them."

New Faces In NFL Pro Bowl

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Kilmer and Norm Snead, a pair of late-blossoming veterans, were named Wednesday to quarterback a new-look National Conference team in the Pro Bowl.

There are 21 new faces on the 40-man NFC roster for the National Football League all-star game Jan. 21.

Kilmer, Washington Redskins' fiery 33-year-old leader, became a Pro Bowler for the first time in a vote of National Conference head coaches. Four other Redskins made it.

Snead, 33-year-old New York Giants standout who led NFC passers, wasn't around last year, but made it earlier with two other clubs—in 1964 with Washington and in 1966 as a Philadelphia Eagle.

Despite all the newcomers, the NFC squad includes defensive tackle Merlin Olsen of Los Angeles Rams, in his 11th straight Pro Bowl, and cornerback Mel Renfro of Dallas, who has made it nine times in a row.

There are other familiar names such as Dallas Cowboys tackle Bob Lilly and Chicago Bears line-backer Dick Butkus.

The American Conference team, named earlier, is quarterbacked by Daryle Lamonica of Oakland Raiders and Joe Namath of New York Jets. It is dominated by nine Miami players and eight Raiders.

John Gilliam of Minnesota Vikings and Gene Washington of San Francisco 49ers were named as starting wide receiver for the NFC. Larry Brown of Washington heads four 1,000-yard gainers at running back. He will start with John Brockington of Green Bay Packers; Ron Johnson of New York Giants, and Calvin Hill of Dallas.

Chester Marcol of Green Bay, placekicker, and punter Dave Chapple of Los Angeles were the only rookies picked by the NFC. Ron Smith of the Chicago Bears was selected as a kick returning specialist.

Inter-League Play For Baseball?

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball club owners have been summoned to a joint meeting in Chicago Jan. 11-12 to discuss inter-league competition and adoption of a designated pinch-hitter-for-the-pitcher rule.

While not included in the formal announcement by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, the meeting is expected also to discuss the proposed transfer of the San Diego National League franchise to Washington, D.C., and player contract negotiations.

Owners hope to avert a strike such as delayed opening of the 1972 season for 10 days. Recent contract talks have provoked some controversy between

Mincher Quits

Oakland (AP) — Veteran first baseman Don Mincher, who helped Oakland Athletics win the World Series last fall, has announced his retirement from baseball.

Mincher, 34, asked the Athletics Wednesday to put his name on the voluntary retirement list. He played 11 major league seasons with a lifetime batting average of .249 and hit 200 home runs.

Official Denies Olympic Charges

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerry Snyder, vice-president of finance for the Montreal 1976 Olympic Games organization committee, said Wednesday the American Broadcasting Corp. has a tentative agreement with the committee for United States television rights to the Games.

He expected there would be an announcement by both committee and ABC within "48 hours" to clarify the situation.

He denied reports that any money has changed hands and said there are several contract conditions that have to be fulfilled by ABC before a final contract is signed.

Corydon B. Dunham, vice-president and general counsel for the National Broadcasting Corp., charged Tuesday that the ABC had already obtained exclusive U.S. rights to televise the Games through "secret and non-competitive procedures."

Snyder said the organizing committee hopes "to meet sometime tomorrow (Thursday) and have a statement on Friday."

The local organizing group has no final say in the matter because the finance committee of the International Olympic Committee must approve the signing of any television contract or agreement.

The Montreal Star reported Wednesday it had learned from a reliable source that the organizing committee had already sold exclusive rights to ABC "for an amount in excess of $20 million without entertaining competitive bids."

The newspaper also said the money had changed hands, "presumably to provide the committee with badly-needed funds."

In a cable to Lord Killanin, IOC president, the NBC official said his network had been advised by a number of the Montreal organizing committee that ABC had been assured of negotiating terms that "granted ABC a right to meet any other offer and, by meetiad it, retain U.S. rights against all other bidders."

Michels Talks with Als' Owner

MONTREAL (CP) — John Michels, an assistant coach with Minnesota Vikings, said Wednesday he will be back early next month for further discussions on the head coaching job with Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

Michels said he met with Sam Berger, Alouettes owner, for 2½ hours Wednesday and "we discussed each other's football way of thinking."

Michels, who played in the CFL in 1956 with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, is one of several candidates expected to meet with Berger and general manager I. Albrecht about the vacant coaching job.

Sam Rutigliano, offensive coordinator with New England Patriots of the NFL, said Tuesday he covered "solid ground" during a meeting with Berger and Albrecht about the coaching job.

The chief mentor's spot with the Larks became vacant earlier this month when Sam Cleaverly resigned after a three-year tenure.

Michels said in an interview before meeting with Berger that he is mildly familiar with the Alouettes roster.

"I haven't done any research on the players but I've talked to several people in the CFL and from what I gather the personnel is more than adequate."

During the 1972 season, there were reports on rampant dissension amongst the Alouettes who slipped from a Grey Cup win in 1970 to a 4-10 won-lost record last season.

Michels says he knows all about the dissension but feels this could be cured by winning and if he got the coach's job, he would be aiming at the Grey Cup.

"You have to remember that a football player is a strange breed of person. A player has a great deal of pride—and when that's stacked sliding people almost always point to dissension. The best way to combat that is to win—then everything's rosy." Michels says he is a "flexible disciplinarian" so far as handling players is concerned but to win the Grey Cup, he would take the measures necessary.

"If it takes strictest methods then that's what I would do. But the team should pull together without having anyone to crack the whip. And a coach should react accordingly."

Loyalty Split

NEW YORK (AP) — Marie Lombardi will be pulling for Milwaukee Redskins but a pinch of her heart will be following Green Bay Packers in Sunday's first round playoff game in the National Football League.

"I have a warm spot for Green Bay, naturally, because we were there for so many years, but I have to root for Washington. After all, I am an officer of the team," the widow of one of football's most famous caches said today.

"After Vince passed away in 1970, they made me an official. I think the theory was that there couldn't be a National Football League without a Lombardi."

Mrs. Lombardi, blonde, blue-eyed and vivacious, is in New York promoting the Vince Lombardi Trophy, a 42-pound block of granite which will be presented Jan. 18 in Houston to college football's outstanding lineman.

The award is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Houston with proceeds going to the American Cancer Society.

More Stars to Follow?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Lefebvre, agreeing to a contract making him the highest-paid American to play baseball in Japan, feels other "big name" players will follow him to the Orient.

"I think there will be big names announced very shortly," the former Los Angeles Dodger infielder said Wednesday. "I know who they are but I can't say."

Lefebvre, who has a three-year contract to play for the Lotte Orions of the Japanese Baseball League, believes any player leaving the U.S. professional leagues for Japan will go with the blessings of baseball commissioners in both countries, as well as the teams involved.

"There's a mutual understanding and mutual respect for the player's contract between the two countries. There's no way a player can jump from one to the other."

He had to be waived by the other U.S. major league teams and be released by the Dodgers. The Dodgers received $100,000 in compensation, according to the report from Tokyo.

Harrelson Switches His Swinging From Baseball to Golf

MIAMI (AP) — Ken (Hawk) Harrelson hasn't clipped his wings since leaving baseball two years ago to pursue a golf career.

But he has cut his hair, taken up religion and talks about a "big different image."

"The last year and a half has been the most humbling in my life," said the once-flamboyant and outspoken Hawk, who has failed in two attempts to earn a card to play regularly on the Professional Golfers Association (PGA) tour.

"I feel exactly as I did when I was in the minor leagues of baseball," said Harrelson.

"I knew I was going to make the big leagues and I know I'm going to make the big leagues of golf."

Harrelson's earnings in golf don't approach his expenses, and most of his efforts are in small Florida events when he has not been a smashing success.

He can only play in three PGA events this year, and he plans to spend his time playing in Florida, the Caribbean, Europe and the Far East to sharpen his game.

Money, the Hawk says, is no problem. Harrelson has a patron—Si Haddad of Arlington, Va.

"I turned down this year probably $25,000 to $30,000 worth of stuff (promotions)," Harrelson says. "Si and myself felt we shouldn't do it. It would take too much time away from golf.

"I have disvalved myself of about everything that would take my mind off golf," he said of investments such as a Boston restaurant he obtained in his baseball days.

"If I don't make it now, it'll be nobody's fault but my own."

"This competition here is a lot better than (except)kin you'll find in baseball," said Harrelson, explaining he didn't expect to find instant success in golf.

"It takes so much control—you just can't be volatile. This is a gentleman's game, the game that requires a lot of finesse, total concentration."

Harrelson thinks he can hit a golf ball as far as anyone, but said his progress as a pro was delayed until he learned from Jack Nicklaus the importance of accuracy rather than distance.

"I've shortened up 60 yards off my tee shots the last six months," said Harrelson."I'll lengthen it out again, but this time, I'll have control."

Another influence on Harrelson has been former baseball manager Alvin Dark.

"He's very close to the Lord," said Harrelson. "He's done a tremendous lot to help me along that path.

"I'm not saying I'm a saint by any means; I still raise hell," he notes. "But I'm now a religious person. I stay close to the Big Fellow."

Harrelson, a standout in 1968 when he belted 35 home runs and drove home 109 runs for Boston Red Sox, was baseball's first player to sport long hair.

Today Harrelson wears it respectably trimmed. But there is still pizazz in his lifestyle.

"I got a penthouse in Miami. I drive a new Eldorado. I've got a fabulous wardrobe," he said.

"I have been offered a lot of jobs—TV jobs, commentary, pro golf jobs at country clubs, six or seven of them. A couple of jobs in public relations," he said, adding his starting salaries would be about $20,000.

"I don't worry about money, man. I can make a lot of money," he said.

Return to baseball?

The Hawk said various baseball executives have suggested that he return. But "I've never missed it."

Pigs Face New Disease

LONDON (CP) — British's pig farmers face a bleak Christmas season with a virulent new disease ravaging their animals. Experts are puzzled over the nature and cause of the sickness.

In less than two weeks, more than 4,000 swine have been slaughtered along with sheep, 233 cattle and a goat believed to have come in contact with diseased pigs.

Veterinary scientists now believe the slaughtered swine were infected by a rare type of disease, caused by a virus similar to one which decimated swine in Italy in 1966 and was detected in Hong Kong in 1971.

Initially, the sickness was diagnosed as foot-and-mouth disease and officials of the agriculture department say they are still having extreme difficulty trying to find any differences in the symptoms of the two illnesses.

The virus is not believed to affect animals other than pigs, although this, too, is uncertain, agriculture department spokesmen say.

Jailed Woman Freed

TORONTO (CP) — A charge of common assault was withdrawn Wednesday by a woman whose testimony sent her neighbor to jail for two nights for a mental examination.

Provincial Judge Topper Bigelow sent Mrs. Jenn Burjan to jail on the basis of testimony by Mrs. Erwin Witt, of Toronto. Judge Bigelow left the court room before Mrs. Burjan's lawyer could object. A Supreme Court order freed Mrs. Burjan. The charge arose in September after a dispute over a porch the Witts were building onto their house.

Mrs. Witt said that Mrs. Burjan, a Hungarian immigrant who cannot speak English, had thrown mud and turned a garden hose on her during the dispute.

Mrs. Burjan pleaded not guilty to the assault charge but did not testify before being ordered to be examined.

Psychiatrist David Common found nothing wrong with her mental health and she was ordered released by Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes.

Bufferin Under Attack

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec College of Pharmacists continued its attack on patent medicines Wednesday, adding four more to its list of potentially harmful or ineffective patent medicines.

In a speech here, college president Jacques Gagnon named Alka-Seltzer, Carter's Little Liver Pills, Bufferin and Preparation H suppositories.

Last month it named nine other readily-available patent medicines—Dristan, Sinep Lambert, Bisodol, Rolaids, Madelon, Anacin, Midol, Ex-Lax and Bronz-Seltzer.

Prices to Go Up, With More Jobless

PARIS (CP) — Canada is likely to experience substantial price increases and continuing high unemployment in 1973, says the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD).

The OECD, in its economic forecast for 1973, says that in Canada "the outlook for prices is a matter of concern."

A sharp increase in food prices this year had accounted for a large measure of the current inflation in Canada but "price increases could become more generalized as the economic expansion matures."

"At the same time, however, the entry of young people into the labor force is likely to continue to prevent the unemployment rate from declining substantially.

"Unemployment may, in fact, remain in the neighborhood of six per cent through much of 1973, a prospect that may make the appropriate policy stance particularly difficult to decide."

Canadian interest rates would likely continue to move upward but expansion of the money supply might decrease moderately through the next year, the report forecasts.

"The recovery of activity since 1970 has proceeded some what unevenly. But over the period as a whole the rate of growth of real output has been above potential.

"Present policy and recent indicators suggest that real growth will remain strong throughout 1973."

Half Union Members To Seek '73 Contracts

TORONTO (CP) — Collective agreements affecting 440,000 workers, half the total union membership in the province, will have to be renegotiated in 1973, the labor ministry reported Wednesday.

Of these, 228 pattern-setting agreements involving 74,000 workers, will affect the construction industry, 136 more than in 1972.

The ministry's survey shows that of the 2,403 non-construction agreements expiring in 1973, there are 1,200 in manufacturing, including the pape, food, beverage and electric products industries.

In transportation, about 58,0 employees will be seeking ne contracts, compared to 9,0 this year. Another 55,000 civ servants will negotiate agre ments with the federal treasur board, and upwards of 31,00 with local governments.

More than 15,000 teachers are other educational workers will have their agreements expire.

Appeal Court Rejects Press Privilege Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. federal appeals court Wednesday rejected the appeal of John Lawrence, Washington bureau chief of the Los Angeles Times, in his attempt to protect confidential materials.

The U.S. Circuit Court for the District of Columbia gave Lawrence until Friday to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court his conviction for contempt for refusing to turn over subpoenaed tape recordings to a lower court.

District Judge John J. Sirica ordered the newspaper man jailed Tuesday "until he purges himself of contempt" by surrendering the tapes, but the circuit court ordered him freed about two hours later pending further consideration of the case.

The appeals court ruled Wednesday that Lawrence must surrender the tapes, but stayed execution to give Lawrence until 5 p.m. Friday to seek action by the Supreme Court.

The material Lawrence refused to turn over is a recording of two Times reporters' interviews with Alfred C. Baldwin III, to be a key government witness in the trial next month of seven men accused in the June 17 break-in and alleged bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters at the Watergate hotel and apartment development here.

Mowat Pleased

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian author who tried to save a 40-ton whale from death in a Newfoundland pond sighed with relief Wednesday when the federal government announced a ban on whaling on the east coast.

Farley Mowat, author of A Whale For the Killing, told a news conference:

"It's the best damn Christmas present I can think of. Not for us—but for the last great lords of the ocean—the whales."

Prices Expected to Rise

Increased material costs, a shortage of lots and high labor rates will push up prices of new homes in 1973. Housing starts are expected to drop during 1973 to about 240,000 from an expected 250,000 in 1972, John Hurlburt, president of the Toronto Home Builders' Association, says the average price for a new single-detached home in Metropolitan Toronto will increase by as much as $6,500 to an average of $44,500. Houses are under construction at a development northwest of Toronto. (CP Photo)

Town-teen Catches Up In Drink, Dope, Smokes

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — The town-teen is catching up with his metropolitan counterpart in the use of liquor, drugs, glue-sniffing, cigarettes and marijuana, a survey taken in this central Nova Scotia town of 13,000 indicates.

Normally described as an agricultural, educational training and light-manufacturing community with strong religious background, the recent survey shows that the teens are into the drug scene.

The survey was conducted among more than 2,000 students in Grades 7 to 12 from three schools in the area. The results shocked some residents.

On a weekly basis, about 39.4 per cent of students said they used tobacco while 19.7 per cent said they used alcohol. Some 5.1 per cent reported smoking marijuana at least once a week.

Some 30.2 per cent said they used tobacco daily, compared to only .3 per cent who used alcohol and .7 per cent who smoked marijuana daily.

At least 9.7 per cent said they had tried tranquillizers and 8.5 per cent had used LSD at least once in the previous six months. Some 4.5 per cent had tried barbiturates and 4.3 per cent opiates.

The survey found that the use of drugs such as tobacco, alcohol and marijuana was slightly higher among the boys than girls. But girls were more likely to try glue or tranquillizers.

It also found that drugs experimentation starts before Grade 7 in many cases, but that there is a particularly rapid gain in use between Grades 8 and 9.

The survey also gave a profile of a drug user. He is most likely to have a poor academic record, to be less interested in organized activities and to come from an unstable family where drug use was acceptable.

The report said: "It was apparent from the results of the study that the use of drugs by the parents influenced the children."

The survey showed that in a majority of cases, students whose parents did not use drugs were less likely to try them than students whose parents used even the so-called "acceptable" drugs.

More than 70 per cent of the students felt that drug education should be introduced into the school system before Grade 7 and an even larger number supported the more general idea of school drug education.

Heroin Thefts Exceed Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Narcotics stolen from the New York police department's property office may total almost four times the amount disclosed last week and an around-the-clock inventory was under way today in the case of the vanishing heroin.

Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy disclosed Wednesday that the magnitude of thefts from the office where evidence is stored goes "well beyond the scope of my original announcement." But he declined to specify the amount.

Last week he said that 80 pounds of heroin seized in the 1962 "French Connection" case was missing. That amount of the drug would have an estimated street value of $16 million and would supply about 71,000 addicts for 100 days, narcotics officials said.

Police and government sources were quoted today as saying that another 88 pounds of heroin and 131 pounds of cocaine plus cash and jewelry also are gone.

This is, without doubt, the worst instance of police corruption I have uncovered," said Murphy, whose campaign to root out police corruption has generated much controversy here.

He ordered a complete inventory at six police department locations where narcotics contraband is stored. Department records show that more than 1,300 pounds of heroin was seized between 1951 and September, 1972.

The New York Times quotes a "high source in city government" as saying police investigation has found that in addition to the 80 pounds missed last week, 88 pounds of heroin and 131 pounds of cocaine have been stolen from the department.

The source said the heroin and cocaine might have been stolen as recently as last January, more than a year after Murphy's appointment as police commissioner, The Times reports.

The Daily News reports that a "high police department source" said a considerable amount of impounded cash and jewelry is also missing from the evidence vault. About $1.5 million in cash is known to have been kept at the property clerk's office, the source told The News.

In the "French Connection" instance, Murphy said, the heroin was removed from a property material substituted. It has been dubbed the "French Connection" case because the successful 1932 investigation inspired the book and later the movie by that name.

Pushers Picked Up

TOKYO (AP) — Police said they arrested 382 gangsters and 50 others during the first 10 months of this year for illegally selling pep pills and other stimulant drugs. The number of suspects was double that of the same period in 1971, they said.

Stuttering Blamed on Ear Defect

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Nearly everyone knows someone who stutters, and until recently there was virtually nothing a stutterer could do about the problem.

Now, though, a professor of psychology at Hollins College here has become widely known for his "cure" for stuttering.

Since 1969, almost 90 people have completed Dr. Ronald L. Webster's training program for stutterers—and have learned to speak fluently.

Webster's program is founded on his conclusion that, probably because of a malfunction of the middle ear, stutterers make the sounds of speech incorrectly.

Two muscles in the middle ear contract a fraction too slowly, he believes, thus creating a kind of echo effect when the stutterer hears himself speak.

The sound of his voice is a guiding cue for speech. And, since the stutterer gets cues that just an instant later than normal speakers do, he misses it, Webster reasons.

In the professor's training program, stutterers are first taught, the sounds of speech. The program teaches them the precise movements necessary to produce the distinct sounds of English.

If carefully learned, the training becomes" Dr. person's natural speech pattern so that the middle ear's confusing signals can be ignored. The program also emphasizes "gentle onset." Stutterers are reminded to start their sounds softly.

Webster has been conducting experiments with a device for correction of the middle ear malfunction, but results to date are inconclusive, he says.

A Sight to Behold

Lia Van Lent of Christchurch, New Zealand, applies makeup for the first time since going blind eight years ago. The 23-year-old woman, who lost her sight while trying to remove a knitting needle from a 2-year-old, woke up Friday to find her sight restored. She had been hospitalized for a year and endured four operations following the accident. "The Lord and the doctor have gone hand in hand in this," she said of the sudden change. (AP Photo)

Space Veteran Glad It's Over

NEW YORK (AP) — "OK, guys, take five and then knock it down," the floor director told the stage crew milling about the Apollo 17 anchormen's set at the ABC studio here.

Frank Borman stood up, removed his lie-clip microphone and said a quick goodbye to Frank Reynolds and Jules Bergman, his on-air colleagues during ABC's coverage of the last Apollo moon flight.

Borman had helped ABC cover U.S.'s missions to the moon since the Apollo 14 flight and seemed glad it finally was all over.

At about this time four years ago, he was heading for the moon as the commander of Apollo 8. On Christmas Eve, he, James Lovell and William Anders became the first men ever to circle the moon.

In December, 1987, he and Lovell, piloting the Gemini 7 spacecraft, established what then was the endurance record for space flight—14 days.

Would he have liked to have been on this last U.S. moon flight?

"A lot of people have asked me that," he said. "But I was very happy with what the Apollo 8 mission accomplished.

"If I had stayed on in NASA I'm sure that I would have had another Apollo flight, probably an early one. But I really thought nine years in the space program was enough."

Borman is a senior vice-president for Eastern Air Lines. He took temporary leaves to work for ABC during the Apollo missions.

Did he want to set foot on the moon?

"No," he said. "On Gemini 7 we proved that man could live in space for two weeks—the length that Apollo 17 took—and on Apollo 8 we proved that you could go to the moon and back.

"I thought I had done my share. I had no great personal desire to set foot on the moon."

SANTA SUSANA, Calif. (AP) — Actor James Arness, star of the Gunsmoke television series, has donated a 960-acre ranch north of Los Angeles to the Brandeis Camp Institute.

The ranch, with houses, corrals, barns and outbuildings, is next to 2,250 acres of institute land in the Simi Valley. Arness' property was said to be worth $2 million.

"It was a very ecumenical act of philanthropy by Mr. Arness, who is not himself Jewish," Dr. Max Bay, president of the Jewish youth organization institute, said Wednesday.

A spokesman for Arness said the actor raised crops, cattle and horses on the ranch since 1960.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Singer Kate Smith, 65, a radio and early television star, was out of hospital Wednesday after a two-week bout with pleurisy.

Miss Smith arrived Dec. 4 to attend the a n n u a l meeting of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association and wound up in Ochsner Infirmary shortly afterward.

"I missed the convention and I didn't get to see a thing," she lamented before heading back home to Lake Placid, N.Y.

ROME (AP) — A judge granted provisional liberty Tuesday to Simic Radisan, a young aspiring actor from Yugoslavia who spent 11 months in jail charged for stealing 63 cents.

Radisan came to Italy last April and police arrested him on a Rome street May 15. They found a wallet in his pocket containing 270 lire.

Police said Radisan stole the wallet from a parked car. He said he found it on the ground.

Radisan's case joins a string of others that have brought an outcry for reform of Italy's pretrial detention system. There is no bail here.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vocalist Helen Reddy, whose latest hit song is I Am Woman, gave birth Tuesday to an eight-pound, four-ounce boy in hospital.

Miss Reddy and her husband, manager Jeff Wald have named their son Jordan Sommres.

LONDON (Reuter) — A London newspaper says that King Bhumibol of Thailand, a saxophonist, will play with the Rolling Stones when the British pop group tours the Far East next month.

The columnist William Hickey of The Daily Express says that what the 44-year-old monarch really wants is an opportunity to sit in with the Rolling Stones.

The report says it was not yet clear whether the concert will be in public or private.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

FRIDAY, DEC. 22

Aries (March 21-April 19): Romantic and sentimental factors enter strongly into all decisions, and you are apt to be very impulsive.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): There's no point in trying to rush an incomplete deal through today, unless it's quite trivial in nature.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You may feel that it's necessary, but you're in a better position for having had the patience to listen to the whole story.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Indications are for a favorable period in material affairs. The social factor looms skipping completely new procedure.

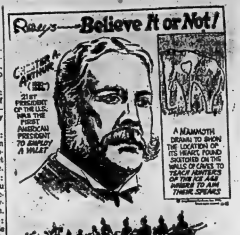
Leo (July 23-Aug. 23): Others are more than willing to offer practical assistance, also round up all the help you need. Share cheerful news or a joke.

Virgo (Aug. 24-Sept. 22): Just because what you are working on must be kept confidential doesn't mean it has to be something contrary to the rules.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): This promises to be one of the most sociable days you've had in weeks. Make the most of a chance to meet new contacts.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Intuition wavers, but take the initiative, move directly ahead. Ask for what you want. Tidy up your work-week neatly.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are apt to feel like a sort of missionary in new territory—perhaps you really are. Enjoy the mood and do your best.



Capricorn (Dec. 23-Jan. 19): It's your turn to check up on how well organized your ventures are and help others to get their ventures into better shape.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Remember your friends as you count your blessings. The collective effort should include verifying details to avoid duplication.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Pitch in to clear up the tangle of work and business details. There's an extra question added by every story that you hear.

Salt Restriction Not Automatic

By G.C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 77 and had a heart attack a year ago. Several doctors recommended a salt-free or low-sodium diet although I have absolutely no symptoms of excessive water retention.

Nobody gave me an explanation for the necessity of this very uncomfortable diet, even mentioning that salt is hygroscopic and therefore holds water.

However, every animal's circulation is based on water and I always thought that sodium content in the blood is necessary.

There's nothing automatic [illegible] about restricting salt (sodium) after a heart attack, provided heart, liver and kidneys are functioning well.

You say you have absolutely no symptoms of water retention, but I wonder whether your doctors may not have discovered some subtle signs of fluid retention that don't notice. Examination of the lungs or poking the tissues may have revealed swelling or congestion that is not apparent to you. In such a case it's certainly better to start taking precautions early in the game rather than waiting until the congestion is severe.

For another (but often related) matter, you may have some elevation of blood pressure.

You are quite right that sodium (salt is sodium chloride) is hydroscopic. It does indeed tend to hold water in the body tissues, unless the vital organs are in full normal operation and can prevent any excessive water-logging.

You are correct, too, that some sodium content is necessary in the bloodstream. But what you are doubtless overlooking is the fact that taking salt is not the source of sodium. Even if you used no salt at all or ate no salt foods, you would still get some natural salt or sodium in some of your food—enough for your needs.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I never married children and when I found I was pregnant I took some turpentine and sugar and also black drought because I was told it would get rid of the baby but it didn't.

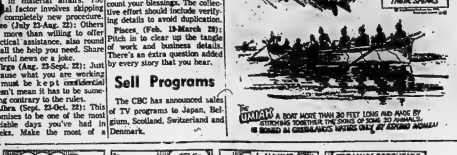
Now I have two children. Not twins; I did the same thing twice. They are in their teens now but I have been extremely worried for fear I harmed them.

I've been trying for years, without success, to make people realize that none of these home remedies will work. Consequently I don't know what black drought is, under that name, anyway. As to the turpentine, it undoubtedly irritated your stomach but I don't see how it could have harmed the babies.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor says I can't have lupus erythematosus because my antinuclear antibody titer is 1. I have some of the symptoms and a North reddish rash between my eyebrows and into my eyebrows. Is there any other method of detecting lupus?

The "red" rate is usually elevated in systemic lupus; hence with a normal rate, the diagnosis may be questioned. There are other special blood studies which then can be used (L.E. cell test, and certain blood protein determinations).

There are other causes of a rash resembling that of lupus—seborrheic dermatitis, allergy, and the like. With that possibility in mind, I suggest biopsy, if you have not already done so.



Note to "Worry": High blood pressure is one common cause of wheezing. Other are noises, so of course controlling your blood pressure is one thing to do.

♣A Q 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♥	Dble	4♥	5♣
5♥	Dble	6♥	Dble

Opening lead — ace of diamonds.

Good card reading and good technique are a difficult combination to beat. Consider this deal where South gets to six hearts and has to play exceptionally well to bring home the slam.

Looking at all four hands, it would seem that the contract must fail after West leads the ace and another diamond. Declarer ruffs and apparently must rely on a chi finesse to make the slam. But actually South has a far greater chance for success if he relies on a squeeze to make the contract.

He realizes that West, for his double of a heart, is almost sure to have the king of clubs as well as four or more spades. Accordingly, after ruffing the second diamond lead, he plays five rounds of trumps to produce the following position:

	North
	♠K5
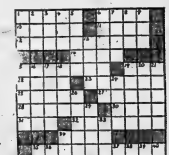
	♦J6
West	East
♠Q J 8 3	♠10 6 2
♣K 10 9	♣8 7 3
South
♠A 9 7 4
♥A Q
♦K Q 10 9
♣A Q 4

Declarer now leads the eight of trumps from dummy, discarding the queen of clubs, and West cannot discard successfully.

If he parts with the ten of clubs, declarer simply plays a club to the ace, ffcering the king and thus making the rest of the tricks.

If West discards a spade instead, South cashes the K-A of spades, ruffs a spade, and likewise makes the remainder because his nine of spades has become a trick.

There is no escape for West. He must inevitably bow to good card reading and good technique.



Tomorrow: Double-dummy problem.

Manitoba Election Depends on Ottawa

WINNIPEG (CP) — After a year of fence-mending by political parties in Manitoba, voters are wondering just when in 1973 they'll get a chance to test the strength of the corral.

Premier Ed Schreyer, who led the New Democratic Party to power in 1969, feels that general elections, required by law every five years, in principle should be held every four.

But he's as uncertain as the next Canadian about when a federal election might be called and doesn't want a Manitoba vote to conflict with the federal re-run.

His Conservative and Liberal opponents profess to be spoiling for a fight. And it appears they'll be going their separate ways in their efforts to unseat the government.

Talk of a Liberal-Conservative coalition, or at least of single-candidate arrangements in selected ridings where it was felt the NDP might be beaten if the opposition vote weren't split, had been handled around for more than a year.

It began to fade when Liberal Leader L. H. Asper entered the legislature in a June by-election. He took the former Conservative seat of Wolseley, in west-central Winnipeg and has since been on a ceaseless round of public appearances and smiling conventions.

Sidney Spivak, who succeeded former premier Walter Weir as Conservative leader in 1971, later emerged from a rancorous convention in Brandon with a loud vote of confidence.

The mid-November meeting determined to patch up internal differences and pull together behind the leadership of the 44-year-old Winnipeg lawyer ad former industry minister, leaving any thought of a common anti - NDP front as a closed book.

The New Democrats were left with 29 members in the 57-seat assembly after Portsland MLA Jean Allard quit the caucus in April and former cabinet minister Joe Borowski went in June, both to sit as independents.

Conservatives have 20 seats and Liberals four, just enough to give them official party status. There is one Social Credit member and one seat is vacant through the death in November of Gordon Beard, a highly respected independent from Churchill.

Late in the year, disclosure of a working paper on economics prepared for the NDP government prompted Liberal leader Asper to issue a challenge for an immediate election on the issue. He termed it a Manitoba Manifesto.

Mr. Schreyer said the paper did not constitute government policy but declared many of its proposals were not as radical as the Opposition was trying to make them appear.

The 1972 legislature session ended on a sour note for the premier as 12 NDP members joined Conservatives in voting down his resolution on aid to private and parochial schools.

Soon after this vote Sidney Green, who had quit as minister of resources and urban affairs to oppose school aid, rejoined the cabinet.

Another highlight of the session was legislation that will bring about $28 million worth of relief to Manitoba property owners in the spring of 1973, when they file their 1972 income tax returns. They will get rebates on part of their municipal school taxes, tied to their taxable incomes.

Throughout the year, a three-man inquiry continued its efforts to unravel the Churchill Forest Industries tangle. The timber and paper operation at The Pas, started by the former Conservative government, was placed in receivership in 1971 after receiving about $92 million in provincial loans.

More B-52s Lost

U.S. Continues Massive Raids

SAIGON (CP) — The U.S. bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong raged on today without any indication of a letup while Hanoi said it shot down three more B-52s for a total of 15 in five days and veteran Communist Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap broadcast a defiant speech.

The U.S. command reported the loss Thursday of two B-52 heavy bombers and two fighter-bombers, with 16 airmen missing. This raised the toll since the massive attack began Sunday to eight B-52s, four fighter-bombers and 43 airmen.

Radio Hanoi announced a total of 34 American planes downed, including three B-52s and two fighter-bombers at dawn today.

Giap, who has been fighting in Vietnam since the days of the original war with the French after the Second World War, said U.S. bombs may raze Hanoi and Haiphong but they would not bend the will of the Vietnamese people.

Giap, new minister of defence in North Vietnam, said: "The U.S. hopes to bend the will of the Vietnamese people by mass bombings of North Vietnam. This will prove to be an illusion. Hanoi, Haiphong and other cities may be bombed and even razed but the will of the Vietnamese people will never give."

North Vietnam today identified 10 more U.S. airmen it said were captured during the bombing raids. It said six were from B-52 crews.

Hanoi's Vietnam news agency said eight of the prisoners appeared at a news conference in the North Vietnamese capital Thursday. It indicated all had been injured.

The report said the other two flyers were so badly hurt they could not appear.

At the U.S. command announced the loss of the two B-52s near Hanoi Thursday, as well as two fighter-bombers near Haiphong port. Radio Hanoi reported that buildings hit during air raids included a camp housing U.S. airmen downed in the Vietnamese war.

Giap's speech, excerpts of which were broadcast over Hanoi radio today, accused the United States of starting the Vietnam war "the largest and bloodiest of its kind as well as the largest popular struggle since the Second World War."

The general, North Vietnam's top military strategist and commander of the Communist troops who dealt the final defeat to the French forces at the garrison of Dien Bien Phu in 1964, said in the past Vietnam had defeated invaders much greater than herself—a historical reference which also covers massive military campaigns by the Chinese into North Vietnam in the past centuries.

"We have defeated the war of subversion by Eisenhower, the special war of Kennedy, the limited war of Johnson, we are defeating and we will defeat the war of agression conducted by the Nixon administration."

Radio Hanoi said that among other buildings hit in the latest bombing raids were the Chua Quan Su pagoda—the biggest Buddhist temple in North Vietnam—the Cuban embassy, and the Egyptian embassy.

China said one of its merchant ships was damaged in Haiphong harbor during a raid Wednesday and its crew "gravely endangered." China said it "strongly protests this provocation on the part of U.S. imperialism."

Hanoi reported earlier the bombing sank a Polish ship in Haiphong and damaged a Soviet ship.

North Vietnam has reported sections of Hanoi and Haiphong levelled, entire villages wiped out and hundreds of civilians killed or wounded.

U.S. officials indicate about 100 of the eight-jet B-52s are being used each day. This means the B-52s are dropping some 3,000 tons of bombs a day on North Vietnam, and hundreds of fighter-bombers are also flying daily strikes.

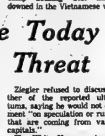
Nixon Will Receive Today Thieu's Answer to Threat

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon receives today South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu's response on a reported threat to break off all talks if Hanoi refuses to sign a peace agreement.

Gen. Alexander Haig, Nixon's deputy assistant for national security affairs, was to arrive in Miami today after conferences with Thieu and Indochinese leaders.

He was to meet with Nixon and Henry Kissinger at the barfront compound here where the president and his wife are spending the Christmas holidays.

The presidential emissary was "bringing communications with him from President Thieu," said White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler, who confirmed that Haig had carried a private letter to Thieu from Nixon.



Ziegler refused to discuss contents of the letter. Nor would he confirm or deny reports quoting ranking South Vietnamese officials as saying that after the Paris peace talks broke off Dec. 13 Nixon gave North Vietnam an ultimatum of 72 hours to sign an agreement or face heavy air and naval attacks.

The South Vietnamese officials also said Thieu's delay in Thieu threatened a cutoff of U.S. military and economic aid if Thieu refused to sign such an agreement.

Ziegler refused to discuss either of the reported ultimatums, saying he would not comment "on speculation or rumors that are coming from various capitals."

The White House spokesman repeated that the United States stands ready to negotiate a settlement on that "we are pursuing every channel, every avenue" in search of peace.

He also repeated that the United States would stay in touch with North Vietnamese negotiators through an exchange of messages, but he would not elaborate.

Catholic Gunned Down

BELFAST (CP)—Northern Ireland's religious warfare claimed another victim late Thursday as a massive hunt went on for the gunmen who killed five persons in a sub-machine-gun attact on a crowded tavern.

The latest casualty was James Mullin, a 25-year-old Roman Catholic who was left dead in the coastal resort of Bangor, 15 miles east of Belfast, as he waited for a friend to drive him to his night job in a carpet factory. He leaves a wife and a four-year-old boy.

Police said Mullin's killers must have known about his movements. The gunmen pulled up in a car and when Mullin was about to board his, fired shots rang out from the parked vehicle and Mullin dropped to the ground, dying almost immediately.

Pace of Life Quickens In Town in Judean Hills

BETHLEHEM (Reuter) — The pace of life is beginning to quicken again in this tiny town nestling in the rugged Judean hills as it prepares once again to celebrate the birth of Christ.

Drawn by the thought of praying on the spot where Christians believe Jesus Christ was born in a manger, thousands of men, women and children from all parts of the world are flocking to worship and to see Bethlehem's streets and shrines.

Only just over 1,000 will be able to gather on Christmas Eve in the Franciscan St. Catherine's Church beside the underground grotto that marks the original stable and birthplace of Jesus. Even fewer will be able to descend to pay homage in the small cramped site itself, beneath the ancient Greek Orthodox Church of the Nativity.

Police Continue Hunt For Virginiatown Thugs

VIRGINIATOWN, Ont. (CP) — Police continued a search today for two masked gunmen who Thursday forced their way into a bank, took an estimated $60,000 and then fled in the township's only police car with the bank manager as hostage.

The search spread across the Ontario border into Quebec where the abandoned cruiser was found, three of its tires shot out, about 15 miles from this mining community near Kirkland Lake.

Police said one of the bandits may have been wounded in an exchange of gunfire. Blood was found in the car.

Bob Emmell, manager of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce branch, said the men smashed their way through the front door. Armed with a machine-gun and pistol, they handcuffed and herded the staff to the rear of the building.

He said they wore construction helmets, stocking masks and overalls and began lumping money from one of the vaults into two canvas sacks.

Meanwhile outside the building, a service station operator had served with a rifle and slashed himself across the street.

He had been alerted by June Marsh, the town clerk, who was on the telephone to the bank when the men burst into the building.

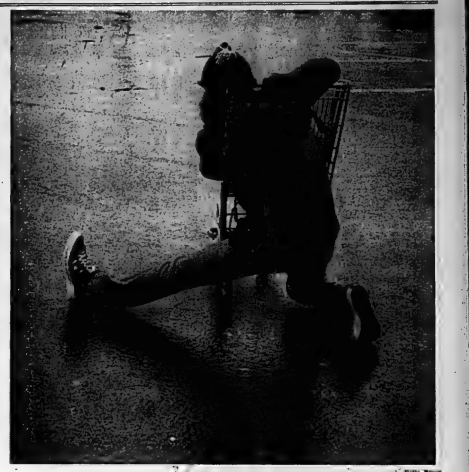
There was an exchange of gun fire between the robbers and the station operator.

In response to Mrs. Lamb's call, Police Chief William Hopkins drove up to the front of the bank in his cruiser.

Mr. Emmell said he was taken by the robbers to the car and the police chief was ordered away. Mr. Emmell was put on the floor before they drove away.

Another motorist tried to ram the fleeing cruiser but shattered seven shots were fired through his windshield.

Mr. Emmell said he was released at the Quebec border and then hitch-hiked back into town.



The bank was believed to have had at least $80,000 ready for a mine payday. A similar payday robbery in 1970 netted thieves $50,000.

Police said they believe a third car was used by the bandits to get away after they dumped the police cruiser.

News Briefs

Airport Radar Faulty

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal officials say a preliminary investigation shows a blind spot on a radar screen may have contributed to the collision of two jetliners in which nine persons were killed. "Like every other radar system, the damn thing has flaws," said Neal Callahan, public affairs officer of the Federal Aviation Administration, told reporters Thursday.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former president Harry Truman continues to react favorably to treatment for his weakened kidneys, exhibiting what doctors describe as "remarkable strength" and a tenacity for life.

Man Shot to Death

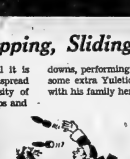
MONTREAL (CP) — A 31-year-old man was shot and killed Thursday night in an east end automotive parts shop, police said. Johnny Lalberte of Montreal died before reaching hospital. A man walked into the shop, fired five or six shots, then drove off in a car police said.

POW Camp Near Target

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has accused the North Vietnamese of violating the Geneva convention by locating a bomb-damaged prisoner-of-war camp too close to likely targets of American air raids. Radio Hanoi reported Thursday a number of residents of the camp, nicknamed "Hanoi Hilton," were injured. It was not clear if any of those hurt were American prisoners.

Oppose System

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — The therapeutic abortion committee at Civic Hospital wants all such committees abolished and abortion made a matter between a patient and her doctor.



The report to the hospital's board of governors, the committee said Thursday that abortion committees have little value in view of the number of abortions refused this year at Civic.

Only eight women were refused and 234 abortions performed.

Leaves Restored

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Just in time for the holiday season, privileges including temporary leave have been restored to prisoners at the Joyceville institution, prison officials say.

The privileges were withdrawn when prisoners held a six-day sit-down strike to protest the end of an experiment which let them visit outside their cells in the evening. The strike ended Nov. 20.

'Ho! Ho! Ho!'

Protection Not Asked Says Baker

TORONTO (CP) — Joe Racco, whose bakery has been bombed three times in two years, said Thursday he has never been asked to pay protection and knows nothing about organized crime in Toronto.

He said he doesn't know of any reason for the bombing Wednesday which ripped a six-foot hole in the ceiling of his bakery and sent two people to hospital.

Police have offered a $3,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the bombing of the Commisso Brothers and Racco Italian Bakery.

It was the 14th bombing of an Italian-owned business here this year.

"We don't have any reason for the bombing," he said. "But it could be jealousy. We've got a good business here. I have a new car. I have a nice home and I have a wife and three kids.

"I came to Canada 22 years ago and I worked for two bakeries and then in 1957 I started my own. I delivered bread from door to door for 14 years. It's my life. I guess people figure I'm making too much money, and they're jealous."

Mr. Racco said he has no explanation for the bombing of his store in 1969, or of one a year later which he thought at the time had been meant for a neighbor.

Nor can he give reasons for the 1969 shooting of his partner, Tony Commisso, and of a shooting incident involving his brother, Cosimo Racco, and Cosimo's wife the same year, even though the latter occurred while Cosimo was putting a car into Joe's garage.

"I've never been in trouble with anyone. My record is clean and the police department knows that.

Churchmen Deplore Bombings

TORONTO (CP) — The heads of the two largest Protestant churches in Canada have appealed to President Richard Nixon to end the "deplorable" bombing of North Vietnam.

Most Rev. E. W. Scott, primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, and Rt. Rev. N. Bruce McLeod, moderator of the United Church of Canada, said in a telegram to President Nixon that the resumption of bombing "is a highly improper response to the breakdown in negotiations at the Paris peace conference."

The churchmen said many clerics "feel it is a deplorable act which cannot but put the day of peace further out of our reach and cause untold death and destruction."

A spokesman for the Ontario Retail said stores in the city would maintain regular hours until Saturday when they would remain open until 9 p.m. rather than 6 p.m.

This three hour bonus is the only change for the holiday season.

Liquor outlets will stay with normal hours.

Spokesmen for both outlets said the sales were average for the season with the "big rush" expected today.

For the first time Monday closing normal will be open Christmas eve until 9 p.m., giving a three-hour increase in viking and dining time.

No bars will be open in the city with Christmas Eve falling on a Sunday.

Post Office Plan Gets Go-ahead from Council

By ELMER BONTER
Staff Correspondent

TRENTON — A half decade of indecision about the development of Trenton's old post office site ended last night when Mayor Duncan McDonald signed the contract to signal builders to start construction on municipal offices and a parking garage.

The expenditure the Ontario Municipal Board approved for the project amounts to $353,-100. It is to be raised by a debenture issue repayable over a period of 20 years.

But the special meeting called last night to consider final acceptance of the planned complex and the contract for its construction received strong objection from councillor F. J. Aziz, one of three incumbents defeated at the polls in the December election.

"I feel this council has no right to force a major decision on new councillors when they'll have to accept the responsibility of rifling the money."

He was also critical of the meeting being set two hours early in his estimation.

He suggested time for a 9 p.m. meeting instead of 7 p.m., so that councillor George Brown could attend. "I don't think this council should be a full council to rule on such an important matter."

Replied councillor Stan Ketcheson: "I've favored development of the old post office property for four years and I don't think this council should pass old business on to a new council."

Added councillor Paul Tripp, "I contacted councillor Brown earlier today and learned he had not changed his position in two years."

The result of the four-to-one recorded vote on the bylaw approval: Yes — councillors Ketcheson, Tripp, E. M. (Ted) Parker and George Greer; Nay — Councillor Aziz. Councillor Brown was absent.

A spokesman for Miron - Wiggers Ltd., the Trenton construction company awarded the contract for building the complex, reported the date for construction to commence had been set for this coming Wednesday, Dec., 27.

Miron - Wiggers' successful bid for the job was $364,541 with an additional $2,258 for a performance bond.

Company principal Frank Miron informed council he was prepared to hire town labor employed and welfare recipients since his employees are all engaged with previous company commitments.

The complex, when completed, will include modern municipal offices on one level and a two-storey parking garage, providing 35 to 45 additional spaces in the downtown core. The building will be identified by the old stone clock tower left standing as a lone sentinel when the former federal building was torn down and the site cleared.

Overnight Rain Paralyses Traffic

Sheets of ice greeted Quinte residents this morning as freezing rain covered the district with a slippery coating.

Drivers and pedestrians ventured forth with caution, quickly discovering roads and sidewalks were treacherous thoroughfares.

The rain began shortly before midnight and continued in fits and starts until around noon today. The CFB Trenton weather office said a warm mass of air in the atmosphere, combined with low ground - level temperatures, produced the hazardous conditions.

The dismal weather is expected to continue throughout the weekend although warmer temperatures will mean — at the worst — periods of freezing drizzle.

Road crews worked all night on main Highways and in Belleville, sand and salt trucks hit the streets at 3 a.m. A spokesman for the Public Utilities Commission said side streets had not been reached in time for the morning traffic rush but were treated shortly after.

Many schools in Hastings and Prince Edward County were only half full as school buses stayed home rather than risk icy back roads. Officials closed the schools an hour ahead of time this afternoon, giving students a head start on the holiday.

Provincial police report main arteries are clear, although ice patches left many drivers in the ditch this morning. Most township and county roads are still dangerously slippery.

In Belleville, only a couple of minor accidents were reported as drivers exercised caution.

Student Put On Probation

A high school student who broke into Stirling businesses on three occasions was given a suspended sentence and three years probation in Provincial Court Thursday.

Allan Crossman, 19, of Stirling, committed his first offence in November, 1970. Late last winter, he performed two more break-ins, leading to his arrest by provincial police.

The grade 13 student at Centennial Secondary School was ordered to observe a 10 p.m. nightly curfew, except Fridays when he can stay out until 11 p.m.

Arson Charged

A Belleville man accused of setting fire to two downtown apartments last October will face trial at the next session of county court.

Terrence Brown was charged by city police Oct. 16, two days after fires occurred at 209½ Front St. and 42½ Bridge St. East. His preliminary hearing was held Thursday in Provincial Court.

Averaged, the cost of ice control to date is $228 a mile and snow plowing $102. These figures, totalling $334 a mile per winter exceed the budgeted figure of $230.

Parks and a friend broke into an air force associates building on Sidney Township's fourth concession Nov. 8, 9 and 11, taking a record player, liquor, cash and other items valued at $278. Only $175 worth was recovered.

On Nov. 11 he was caught by city police attempting to force a door at Dixie Lee Fried Chicken on Colemans St.

Lack of Serviced Land Said Stifling Building

Because of the lack of serviced city land, Belleville is moving into the homebuilding background.

Statistics released at Wednesday night's meeting of the Quinte Home Builders' Association showed Belleville's single dwelling home total this year increased by 28% compared to 235 similar structures built in Sidney Township.

Through what was termed "an acute lack of serviced land" in Belleville, the trend of home building has switched somewhat to high density apartment complexes.

More than 200 apartments (single units) were begun in the city in the past year.

Community protest to these structures and more stringent regulations on apartment building is impeding this construction, throwing doubt in the minds of Quinte home-builders as to the future of city housing construction.

"The only answer to the problem is changing some of the bylaws or creating new ones to open up any available land in the city," said the homebuilders' past president, Sandy Loewen.

"Short of this, the city will have to annex land bordering the city."

"Because we are not building enough ones in the city, we are losing a great amount of assessment revenue," he said.

Mr. Loewen claims the city is losing a large portion of the assessment on the 1,500 homes constructed in the Quinte region this year.

"It comes to a lot of money when these homes are selling at an average of $20,000."

This total number of homes built reflects a record year for Quinte home construction, which in the past has averaged, approximately 800 annually.

Already unhappy with the city construction picture, Mr. Loewen and homebuilder president Mike DeMark feel the problem is going to get worse.

"Unless they increase the serviced land in this city, less and less homes will be built," said Mr. Loewen.

Mr. Loewen sees the official city plan standing in the way of stimulated housing growth for Belleville.

"It is coming too slow and is-say overdue," he said about the plan. "I don't think what they have now will be any good for us."

While Belleville's housing construction picture seems to be losing momentum, Trenton is on the upswing.

That municipality had 218 homes at least started this year, more than a 100-home increase over the previous year.

Because of the availability of land in Sidney Township and the shortage in the city, Mr. Loewen believes population will be spread over an increasingly large area, making water and sewer servicing a costly proposition.

"If we don't get serviced land in the city or annex bordering land, population distribution will spread like wildfire, irritating the water and sewer servicing question."

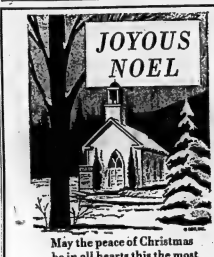
Santa Arrives In Marmora

MARMORA (Special) — A snow storm and freezing temperatures failed to keep jolly old Santa from paying a visit to Marmora.

Santa arrived on the back of a fire truck so his reindeer could rest up for the big day ahead.



Sponsored by the Marmora merchants, Union Locals 4854 (Marmoraton Mining) and 6181 (Armstrong Bros.), the Fire Dept., Canadian Legion and other interested citizens, Santa was accompanied on his visit by music, floats and clowns.

A large crowd of children and adults was on hand at 1:30 for the parade as it made its way through town led by Roy Frost dressed in a colorful jacket and hat.

Although the parade was not large, it was evident that a good deal of work had gone into the assembling of the different entries, especially the ones displaying a creche. Choirs from St. Andrew's Church, Sacred Heart School and the Earl Prentice School sang carols and clowns of all sizes and shapes wandered in through the crowd to distribute balloons to small spectators.

And last, but not least, Santa arrived riding on a bright red fire truck until he reached the centre of town. There he left his seat to greet the children and give each one a bag of candy.

Following the parade hot coffee was served at the Town Hall in the chilled participants.

May the peace of Christmas be in all hearts this the most joyous of seasons.

Official Scotches Malicious Rumor

More Departmental Bureaucrats Than Farmers!

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — This is a great place for rumors, exaggerated stories and even downright lies. Like any big business, public or private, some people spend a percentage of what should be working hours dreaming up stories of scandals and spreading fascinating items of trivia. There was a case in point recently when the writer was given a hot tip. "There are more employees in the Canada Department of Agriculture than there are farmers in Canada" was the message.

It sounded like a great story — the sort of juicy morsel that would titillate readers, trigger indignant letters to the editor and, hopefully, cause a minor storm in the Commons.

At first glance it seemed it might just be true. As everyone knows, taxpayers are bowing under the growing weight of a federal bureaucracy that adds more public servants to the payroll every year. And most people have been aware that the number of farms, and farmers, has been on the decline. Marginal farmers are being forced out of business. Dairy farmers have been crying to their milk — some of it deliberately spilt. The government encourages the big farm concept by pointing out the economic advantages of combining several small farms into one more profitable operation.

But more Agriculture Department employees than farmers?

"Horse – manure!" was the succinct comment from a top who should know. Dr. G. M. Carman, the director of the department's information services. And he provided some figures to back his forthright reply.

The 1971 census shows there are 368,128 farmers in Canada. As of October, the employees of the department numbered 8,881 plus another 1,400 part-time and casual people, for a total of 10,281. Simple arithmetic shows this to be a ratio of fewer than one employee for every 35 farmers.

If provincial agricultural employees were added, the ratio would be less, but still far off the reported more than one for one.

One of the problems in defining who is a farmer. For census purposes, anyone working an acre or more of land and selling at least $50 a year to produce, is classified as a farmer. In fact, many of these people are only part-time farmers and derive the greater portion of their income from other employment.

The census also reveals that Canada's total farm population is not quite a million and a half. About 250,000 of the total farms are owner-operated and there are 335,000 of the 368,128 farmers reside on the farm they work.

On the departmental side the 8,881 full-time Agricultural Department employees are split into seven general branches. Not too surprisingly the largest is involved with agricultural research at the experimental stations and elsewhere. They number about 3,200. Other major divisions have to do with the health of animals, production and marketing and the Canada Grains' Commission.

Unlike some other federal departments, the bulk of the employee strength is not concentrated in the capital area. Only the 18,231 total, only about 2,600 are based here.

But the Ottawa-Hull metropolitan area is home to about one-quarter of the total number of employees in federal departments and Crown corporations and agencies. Two-thirds of all employees reside in the 19 major metro areas of Canada with the balance in non-metro areas or outside Canada.

While the Department of Agriculture is one of the largest and most important in the federal scheme of things, there are several other departments which are as large or larger.

The Post Office with its 46,600 employees, ranks first. Other big ones are National Defence with about 40,000, National Revenue with 21,000 and Transport with about 18,000.

From time to time the cabinet mounts an austerity drive, and freezes the size of department staffs. But these hiring freezes never seem to last long. The departments and agencies are usually able to convince Treasury Board they need an increase in their establishment when the spending estimates come up for their annual scrutiny.

With the government embarking on new and expanded programs and taking over more inspectors to check into fraudulent claims for unemployment insurance benefits, the number of federal public servants will continue to rise.

At the moment, the public service numbers around 272,000 not including Senators, MPs, members of the armed forces or judges. The monthly payroll exceeds $179 million, excluding overtime.

Any way you look at it, the federal government is big business. Even if there are not as many employees in the Canada Department of Agriculture as there are farmers.

Traffic and Noise

A reader has made an interesting comment on the vehicular and noise situation in Belleville, suggesting in effect that snowmobiles are small bananas nolsewise compared with other vehicles.

He says that his home on Herchimer Avenue — in summertime with the windows open — literally shakes with the passage outside of transports, motorcycles and dump trucks.

We can believe this readily and question why some speed limit is not enforced for vehicles on a busy residential route like that. Contrary to "Concerned Snowmobiler's belief, we are all too familiar with what Wordsworth, even in his day, termed the "din of towns and cities," and specifically with residing for a time on one of Belleville's busiest arteries.

We still maintain however that there is a case for keeping snowmobiles — which seem to be no quieter than they ever were — away from private residences and off both rural and urban roads.

The Massachusetts law which we quoted recognizes the rights of non-users, including the right to privacy and freedom from excessive noise, by ruling that the machines do not operate, without permission, within 300 feet of an occupied house. What the snowmobilers pay for these, insurance etc. does not afford them the right to run at random on roads and in and around residential areas in either town or country.

The appropriate by-law in Belleville permits snowmobiling in parks and on highways during designated hours. The operator of course must be insured, "and the owner of a motorized snow vehicle," the by-law continues, "shall not permit any person to drive the said vehicle unless the driver is so insured." Some of the operators we see around are of quite tender years. Are they insured?

Then again, on the issue of noise, the by-law says "no person shall operate or drive a motorized snow vehicle unless such motorized snow vehicle shall be equipped with a muffler in good working order and in constant operation to prevent excessive or unusual noise and excessive smoke, and no person shall use a muffler cut-out, by-pass or similar device."

It would be interesting to know just how many obey this aspect of the by-law.

School News

Hastings County Board of Education's four-page news tabloid — our first issue came out last month — gives an interesting new dimension to the educational scene in these parts. There is coverage of school events all the way from Belleville to the northern parts of the county. Dealing with the school scene and education generally, "Education Hastings," as it is called, affords staff and students alike broad insights into the county education system.

At the moment the publication has to do mainly with school events, but there is a "Viewpoint" corner. In this particular issue, trustee J. M. Hutchison makes the point that it is absolutely essential that neither the trustee nor the person in need of information forgets or deliberately short-circuits the regular progression of problem solving. "Equally it is important that if you have some dissatisfaction with the system, you inform your trustee. Where knowledge is withheld, action is absent. . ."

An accompanying article asks for readers' views on the publication. In this connection the cost of the publication to the taxpayer is a pertinent question. But it seems to us to be money well spent.

Editorial offices are listed as the board's headquarters at 208 Bridge Street East. Editor is L. F. Reid, a superintendent with the Hastings County board, and there is an editorial board of ten from the school system.

Tricky Driving

Before the winter weather set in we mentioned the deep ditches on either side of Bell Boulevard running from North Front Street to Sidney Street and warned of the potential for accidents there. A picture on our front page last week confirmed our fears; it showed a plow-equipped truck which slid off the road into a snowbank. In the absence of any guard-rails this is one route which demands particular caution.

Belleville, The UCS and The YMCA

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

In reading The Intelligencer with regard to the controversy between the YMCA and the United Community Fund, I could not help thinking that the people of the city of Belleville don't real realize the value of an institution such as the YMCA in its many years of service to this community.

I have been a member of the YMCA practically all my life and I can recall when I used to work after school to make enough money to pay my fees to the YMCA so that I could take part in their program on Saturday. Even though I walked four miles to the YMCA every Saturday afternoon, I enjoyed the programs and fellowship over these years.

The YMCA has produced a program that is for physical education and character building and these are the main programs of this institution, and this has been going on ever since the YMCA was instituted in Belleville. We all are aware that most people know that the Salvation Army has given relief and assistance to those in need in this area, and they have been praised for this by the people in every community where they serve, but there are many people who do not realize that the YMCA program is to teach young people in building their character and their physical bodies, so they will not have to be taken care of by an institution such as the Salvation Army.

Reading a recent article with regard to the problems of youth the provincial minister of health points out that the YMCA, along with the Church, is one of the few places where young people can stand and not be influenced by drugs. In fact, the YMCA is one of the few democratic Christian organizations outside the Church that is working in a community for the benefit of the people.

Belleville is spending in the neighborhood of $700,000 a year for parks and recreation which amounts to about $20 per person. Surely the people of Belleville cannot begrudge the United Services or the city itself, in giving $10 or $15 to the YMCA which uses this money for the benefit of the people. The community of St. Vital, a suburb of Winnipeg gave over $200,000 toward the building of a new YMCA in that city, and many cities across the land contribute extensively to these institutions.

Because I know the YMCA so well, being a past president of the Y and past vice-president of the National Council of the Y, I feel very much of the criticism of the YMCA is unjust, and if we want to continue to have democratic and Christian principles maintained in our society, institutions such as the YMCA must be supported by us all.

I personally feel that the people of our city should give their support to such a worthy organization, and especially those of us who can afford to support the Belleville Family YMCA and do so to the best of their ability.

Just another viewpoint regarding the decision of the UCS to reject the YMCA.

In my opinion this is a decision that should have been made a long time ago. As to its (UCS) right to do so, it is obvious to everyone who contributes and canvasses for the UCS that the Y, in a lot of people's opinion, is a liability, and possibly the more money the UCS Annual Appeal has not been entirely successful.

I think it is generally accepted that literally hundreds of volunteers work for various groups in this city, and there are no expensive payrolls involved such as the Y has, which is fortunate enough to have its own building with the taxpayer footing the bill.

To my way of thinking it is also bad that charitable solicitation changed its name to the UCS and brought in a professional to lead it. To me it lost its identity. At least I thought it was the original intent.

Furthermore, I don't think the UCS should stop here with the Y. I can see some of other groups, such as the BMSA. This is not a charity that is a self-sufficient organization, but monies received from the UCS is just turned over to the City of Belleville to help defray the cost of operating the local Arena, and there is no way you can call that a charity.

This will hardly come to pass though, as the UCS knows that the BMSA appeals very strongly to the citizens of Belleville, which unfortunately is just the opposite of the Y.

I also think it would be a mistake for City Council to get involved, or in other words for them to pressure the UCS, which I am sure it will do.

If as the Y states that it has the support of the people of Belleville, why do they not opt out of the UCS, and make an individual appeal to the citizens?

Unemployment Twist In Cartoon Angers Readers

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

On Dec. 19 The Intelligencer elected to depart from its usual good taste. The cartoon on the editorial page was a reprehensible lampooning of the unemployed.

In his treatment of the subject, the cartoonist chose to treat the symptom rather than the cause. Unemployment results from the failure of the free enterprise society, not from some imagined desire on the part of the victims to opt for a handout existence.

Typical of the kind, the artist portrays his unfortunate subjects as down at their rag-tag and bobtail individuals readymade for the epithetical adjectives frequently reserved to the hack politicians of the day, "bums, freeloaders" etc.

It is too bad that these who are the victims of the lack of foresight, and vision of our elected coterie of lawyers, doctors and businessmen should have to carry the burden of their total failure to come to grips with a problem our system has created.

Not long ago it was fashionable to attack the UIC for delayed benefits and so on. Now that the mileage has gone out of that issue, some of the unemployed themselves become the whipping boy.

Confronted by a problem that politicians and journalists alike have no solution to, it's much easier to attempt a solution by publicly suggesting Canada has some 500,000 ne'er-do-wells who have deliberately put themselves out of work in order to enjoy massive government handouts.

The vile taste of The Intelligencer's distasteful cartoon of Dec. 19 reflects your paper's editorial policy.

You search for the reason of excessive and intractable unemployment, and with every appeal logic you find it. The unemployed are the cause of the high rate of unemployment.

You sacrifice the victims of the stalling economy by defiling their reputation collectively and blaming them for their plight. You kick them when they're down.

From Progressive Conservatism your paper has graduated to Reactionary Orthodoxy.

Role of the OMB Reviewed

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer Queen's Park Bureau

One of the important pieces of business at this short session was the tabling of a report by the select committee on the Ontario Municipal Board.

With municipalities today spending such a large share of their budgets, they have a very much control over our quality of life the board has a very significant place in the control of our public affairs.

Following the preparation of this report, and depending largely on how much of it the government accepts, it may not be quite so significant in future.

The committee doesn't by any means recommend the killing of the board, as some people had thought it might, but it does shift some of the controls it now has directly to the government.

One of the most important of these changes would take away control of local capital financing.

At present, pretty well every capital expenditure a municipality makes, from the smallest sewer job, has to be approved by the OMB.

The committee felt, among other things, that this has meant undue delays and would move the capital control to the treasury. This probably makes sense—though the board's capital controls have not always been a waste. They have kept local governments spending position.

One of the reassuring points in the committee report is the stress that there should be more citizen participation in local affairs.

It pointed out that particularly in planning and zoning matters there had often not been sufficient knowledge of the problem by people affected.

A great deal of the time of the board was spent on these matters and in many ways adjudicating on them was beyond the board's competence.

Hopefully it would see much more citizen involvement in the early stages of planning and zoning and recourse to the board for appeals only.

The objective is a good one. The more citizen involvement we have the better our government is going to be.

But whether it is practical or not is another question. For experience seems to show that left on their own, neither politicians nor citizens usually have all that much love for involvement.

President Thomas Jefferson got the U.S. Congress to pass the Embargo Act 165 years ago today—in 1807—by which, for a time, all foreign contact was forbidden. France and England were at war and between them were grabbing American seaborne commerce. Jefferson believed the warring powers would abandon their decrees blockading each other. He was wrong. The law was repealed and was forced to repeal the act four days before he retired from the presidency in 1809.

1871: Belgium and Luxembourg formed an economic union.

Guaranteed Wage Urged in Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — A report on welfare policy in Manitoba says the government should institute a guaranteed annual income plan as a supplement to, not a replacement for, the existing welfare system.

The report, prepared by Prof. Clarence L. Barber of the University of Manitoba department of economics and commissioned by the provincial government, says such a plan should be introduced into the social allowance system because it could provide an incentive for welfare recipients to seek employment.

The report, which deals with all aspects of the government's social welfare system, was released today.

It says a guaranteed income plan would cost more than the existing welfare system, but it would break the poverty cycle among persons capable of working and remove many of them eventually from social assistance.

Prof. Barber said the government should guarantee a basic income, scaled to family type or size.

If the family unit's income fell below the guaranteed level, the government would provide a supplement. In addition, the recipient would be encouraged to work without having the full amount of his earnings deducted from the supplement received under the guaranteed plan.

The report says a major fault in the existing social allowances system is its failure to provide adequate incentives to seek and obtain employment. With minor qualifications, a family unit's social allowance now is reduced dollar for dollar when extra income is earned.

Prof. Barber gave several reasons why a guaranteed annual income plan cannot entirely replace the existing social assistance program:

—A guaranteed income would not be an adequate substitute for old-age pensions for beneficiaries whose incomes had been well above the poverty line;

—Private pension plans, the Canada Pension Plan and the Old Age Security Fund could not be adequately replaced, although a guaranteed income could be an alternative to the existing guaranteed income supplement;

—For some beneficiaries of social assistance, such as the aged or infirm in nursing homes, the cost of basic needs would exceed the income guarantee levels usually proposed.

York's President Facing Criticism

TORONTO (CP) — Many deans and members of faculty at York University have lost confidence in the school's president, David Slater, university sources indicate.

Most say the root of the crisis is a feeling by some deans that York's administration, designed for the small university York was in the early 1960s, is incapable of dealing with an operation as large as the present school.

Principal Albert Tucker of the affiliated Glendon College said in an interview this week that "the leadership just wasn't there" to cope with problems encountered by York.

The crisis became public recently with the resignations of York's academic vice-president, Walter Tarnopolsky, and the dean of administrative studies faculty, Barry Richman.

University sources indicates that the leadership crisis actually came to a head this fall during a scare over the university's budget.

The budget shortfall was first estimated at $4.1 million, the recalculated at $2.4 million. Economy moves and a small surplus from last year trimmed it finally to $765,000.

But Dr. Tucker said the when the original estimate was put forward there was "a kind of panic" among administrators and faculty members. Fears increased when some university officials suggested as many as 180 faculty members might have to be dismissed.

The budget problem, Dr. Tucker said, eventually led to tension between Dr. Slater and some deans, especially Harry Crowe of Atkinson College.

Dr. Tucker said Dr. Slater expressed fear that there was a lack of confidence in him as president and particularly wanted a vote of confidence from Dr. Crowe. Dr. Tucker said the York president gave Dr. Crowe five minutes at a committee meeting to pledge his loyalty, and Dr. Crowe declined.

The railways and the Associated Non-Operating Employees, representing 35,000 non-ops, met Wednesday and Thursday. The eight non-op unions met individually with the railways during the last two weeks.

A union spokesman said: "We asked for a mediator so as not to prolong our attempts at reaching a settlement." If a mediator was available, talks could resume in the second week of January.

Women Hit World News In '72 Year-end Review

By CAROL KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sport and politics are providing a worldwide showcase for women's abilities as the 1970s advance.

The Munich Olympics of 1972, though shadowed by the tragedy of the massacred Israeli hostages, produced three memorable gold medallists for the female ball of fame—Russian gymnast Olga Korbut, British all-round athlete Mary Peters and Australian tennis swimmer Shane Gould.

Petite, attractive Olga enchanted the Munich crowds with her superb gymnastic feats while the achievement of pentathlon winner Mary Peters was all the more impressive since the Belfast girl had done her training under nerve-wracking conditions in the bomb-torn Ulster capital. Not surprisingly, Mary was voted Britain's sportswoman of the year in several polls.

Election campaigns in both Canada and the United States brought women into the news spotlight both as politicians and campaigning wives.

Shirley Chisholm was the first black woman to run for U.S. president; energetic Eleanor McGovern gave much-needed warmth and vigor to husband George's ill-fated campaign, and first lady Pat Nixon showed up for the first time as a seasoned campaigner.

Prime Minister Trudeau's wife Margaret, however, chose to play a resitively low-key role in the Canadian election campaign, which brought journalist-broadcaster Jeanne Sauve into Trudeau's new cabinet as minister for science and technology.

In Britain, Baroness Tweedsmuir, 57-year-old Scottish daughter-in-law of the former Canadian governor-general, took on Africa and the Iceland fishing dispute as special responsibilities in her role as a junior minister at the foreign office. She is the first woman to hold such rank in the tradition-bound headquarters of British diplomacy.

Prime Minister Heath meanwhile countered criticisms that his government was failing to control rising prices by appointing housewife Peggy Fenner to a new junior ministerial post with responsibility for overseeing food prices.

More ob barriers fell in Britain during the year. Even the venerable London Stock Exchange will admit women to full membership from March 25.

Continental Europe maintained a slower rate of emancipation, though the first French woman ambassador, Marcelle Campana, took up her post in Panama. One of the first girl students admitted to the elite Ecole Polytechnique, she scored the school's best marks in 1972.

A bill for equal pay was approved by the French National Assembly but observers cast doubt on its effectiveness, noting that France has had only four women members of the government since 1946, and only one of cabinet rank.

In West Germany, which held elections in November, it was noted that the number of women members in the Bundestag—parliament—is declining, in contrast to Communist East Germany, where almost one-third of the deputies are women.

However, Chancellor Willy Brandt's Social Democrats, largest party in the new Bundestag, elected West Germany's first woman Speaker, Annemarie Renger, 53. Mrs. Renger's office gives her precedence over all other West German citizens except the federal president.

As 1972 approached, speculation was in the air again about the future of Israel Prime Minister Golda Meir, now 74, and whether a new leader would come to power in Jerusalem.

In the arts, Britain's veteran actress Dame Sybil Thorndike celebrated her 90th birthday and Greek-born Amalia Fleming, widow of the penicillin pioneer, published a book about her experiences in battling the Greek military government over political prisoners.

Shirley Temple Black, former child star turned politician, underwent surgery for breast cancer and announced it publicly to help reassure women about the operation.

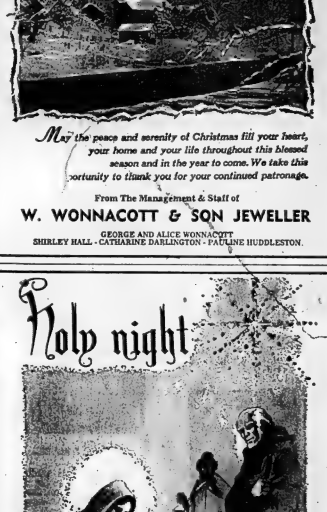
Amaryllis Grown Indoors Need Good Drainage

Amaryllis, or Eastern Star, is one of the most brilliant spring-flowering bulbs. However, it doesn't have to be limited to growing outdoors. Many new amaryllis hybrids are suited for indoor gardening, says John Hughes; horticultural specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. They may be white, rose, scarlet, crimson, or striped.

For the best results, buy large bulbs. Amaryllis take two to four years to flower from offsets, and longer from seed. If the plants are grown from seed, the flowers will not come true.

Pot the bulbs in 5" to 7" pots in a soil mixutre of equal parts of soil and peat moss. Good drainage is essential. The upper third of the bulbs should be left exposed above the soil. Water well after potting and then sparingly, until good root growth is obtained.

Amaryllis thrives in a location exposed to full sunlight with temperatures around 60 to 70 degrees. Feed the bulb frequently with a balanced fertilizer. When plant starts to flower, move the bulb to a partially shaded location with cooler temperatures. This helps bring out the brilliant colors and keep the flowers in good condition longer.



With proper attention, the amaryllis can be kept to flower again in your garden next spring.

Roman Pottery Near Essex

FOULNESS, England (CP) — Pottery finds near an industrial site in Essex have led experts to believe that the Romans introduced pottery to Britain more than 200 years earlier than had been estimated. The discovery revealed Roman pots dating back to the first century —previously it had been concluded that this style of pottery was first seen here in the third or fourth century. "After a more detailed study of the area we should be able to prove the point conclusively," one archeologist said.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Do happy people live longer?

LET'S put it this way: Those who are happy have a spring in their step. They tingle (which could mean that the blood circulates better, increasing the steady rebuilding of cells and the carting away of "old" material). Happy people have a lighter outlook on life; they have less tension and stress; they need fewer psychological "booster shots." Anyway, what can they lose? Even if happy people don't live longer than grouches, they enjoy life more.

Is a beaver's memory too convenient?

NO; give the adolescent the benefit of the doubt when it looks as if he would forget his head if it weren't fastened to his neck by his long hair. So, what if, it seems, he very conveniently forgot to feed the dog? Perhaps the dog had snapped at the teener long ago and now—with so many more important matters on his mind, such as homework (hah!) and girls (you bet) he is apt to remember only the planned things.

Can love surprise a man?

YES; and a woman, too, although it is hard to find a woman who would admit love came to her as a complete surprise. A man, however, can be stunned at how love can come to him so unexpectedly. Yet, basically, the man who may have had some preconceived but false notion of love may be more surprised and vulnerable because the love that finally bowls him over is entirely different from what he ever thought love would be like.

Successful Living
Motivation Key to Diet

By DOBIS CLARK

Motivation is a most important factor in weight reduction. All people should be asked, "Are you really serious about losing weight?" Most obese people are serious until mealtime, then they say, "I'll do it tomorrow."

As you grow older you require less food. So the real grandmother of 75 years of age — not you 40-year-old grandmothers — will eat and require 1-3 to ½ as much as your teen-ager.

Little increases in daily exercise and small cuts in total food input can bring down weight over a long term haul. The small piece of pie (200 calories daily not used up) puts on a pound in about two weeks, and 26 pounds per year.

This is really sinning on a very minor scale, but in about two years you become a big, all-around sinner up some 52 pounds. — Canadian Celiacio Counters.

She is erratic and he lets her do like they did in her home when it comes to shopping. He does not want to quarrel with her. Should I tell him about these bills? — Me-In-Law.

Dear Doris: I am one of nine basketball cheerleaders in senior high school. We need ideas for raising money for new uniforms.

Also, we need ideas for raising spirit at pep rallies. I'm sure other cheerleaders have ideas to contribute. — Cheerleader.

Dear Cheerleader: I'm sending you several money-raising ideas.

As for the pep rallies, now is the time for all good cheerleaders to come to the aid of the party. A good one can add tremendously to the complexion of the players and the fun of the evening. How about it, my cheerleader readers?

REDDITCH, England (CP) — Women soccer stars are having a tough time these days, says one top scorer in Worcestershire. Jennie Crowe, 19, the demon centre forward for a local ladies eleven, quit the sport due to "blatant discrimination against women footballers by referees." Her decision to resign came after she was sent off twice in one week for using unladylike languages on the field.

Ann Landers
Don't Nourish Self-pity Time Fillers Suggested

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is for the woman who signed herself A Loser. She said, Old people can go to a home. Sick people can go to a hospital. Drug addicts can go to a treatment centre. But where do unwanted wives go? Well I can tell her.

After making sure your house is clean, the meals are prepared, the washing and ironing and mending is done, take a nice, long walk. Enjoy the beauties of nature. Get some exercise. Then go drink several glasses of water. You'll eat less and it will help to keep your weight down.

Go to the library and learn something. There are thousands of books there about subjects you've never heard of. And it's free. Go look around your neighborhood and see if there's a tired mother with a house full of kids who would just love an afternoon a week off. Go to church. God will listen to you anytime. Go to the nearest children's hospital and ask if they'd like someone to read to the children. Go to a veteran's hospital. There are lonesome men in there who need someone to write letters for them, or do errands.

There are so many places you can go—if you really want to. Or would you rather sit around feeling sorry for yourself?—I Works

Dear It: Thanks for some common-sense advice. The trouble is, too many people would rather sit around and feel sorry for themselves.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter who just turned 16 is four months pregnant. I noticed Nancy was getting heavy and asked her several times if she had anything to tell me. She said no, so I took her word for it.

The father of Nancy's child is a terrible kid who is only 17 and has been sneaking around with her although my husband has told him repeatedly to stay off our property.

The boy's parents are decent people but they never could manage this boy. He has two older brothers who are fine. No trouble. Nancy wants to get married and keep the baby. The boy says he will marry her if he has to but he has one more year of high school and would rather not. Also he says he has another girl he likes and she might be pregnant. He isn't sure.

My husband is fit to be tied. He says that as it is going to marry Nancy—no ifs, ands or buts. He wants to know if there is a law that can force this marriage if both parents are in favor of it.—Trouble

Dear T.: There is no such law, and even if there were, why in the world would your husband want his daughter to get stuck with a rat?

My advice is to contact a home-for unwed mothers. Your daughter does not sound as if she is ready for motherhood. The baby deserves a better break. These days adopted children are hard to come by and thousands of eager couples are waiting to give a child a loving home.

Dear Ann: I married a man who had a vasectomy before I met him. He had had a previous marriage and thought he would never want any more children. He said the doctor gave him complete assurance that the operation is reversible. Is it? I want a family.—L.A.

Dear L.A.: Some men think having a vasectomy means never having to say you're sorry. But your husband's case proves that it ain't necessarily so. The chances of reversing a vasectomy are good. Any man who considers this surgical procedure should view his sterility as permanent.

'Deck the Halls' Artistically Yet with Economical Ease

Anything people throw out, believe it or not, can be used in your home this Christmas to make cheap, colorful and conversational decorations.

When you have to make do with what little you have, Christmas can still be an elaborate, inexpensive occasion.

Lindsey Jackson, Belleville artist, has a bagful of suggestions for any person who can't afford expensive Christmas decorations. The cost of tinsel is too expensive, Lindsey said. Not mentioning the tree, and lights.

This artist suggests garbage as her prime source of Christmas decorations. Her ideas are found in women's magazines which spur other decorating suggestions. Lindsey's suggestions for tree decorations include: egg cartons, pipe cleaners, chicken bones, lace, machinery, metals, copper wire, popcorn, cookies, nuts, wool, beads and even eggs.

Why can't Easter eggs be Christmas eggs?

Lindsey's philosophy about Christmas decorating is very basic and economical. "I believe holidays are dying out because of the worry everyone has about having a good time . . . The basic, enjoyment at Christmas is found in the earthy people. They make do with what little they have.

Lindsey has no religion. To her, Christmastime does not have a religious theme. She places a dove at the top of her tree. In the past, she has used baby dolls.

Acrylics and water paints create colorful Christmas paper for wrap and cards.

Children have their decorating ideas also. Brown paper bags cut out with a child's drawing provided a delightful surprise for any parent or grandparent.

These paper bags may be used as wall paintings afterwards.

Lindsey also suggested that any paper including newsprint, can be used for wrap.

Buffalo pins, bought in an art store are used with acrylics or water paint for designing your cards or gift wrap.

Stamps made from corks, potatoes, Brocleum cuts or wood dipped in ink brightens any plain wrapping paper.

Paper or cloth bows made from the standard bow design add variety and economy to your Christmas wrap also.

Haskies, scraps of cloth, garbage bags, shelving paper, wall paper or foil designed with your own artistic hand make ideal wrappers.

"Don't throw out your Christmas pudding wrap," suggests Lindsey, "use it for a colorful gift wrap or a tree decoration."

Christmas decorations are another expensive part of Christmas. This artist does not use lights on her tree.

"If one doesn't have the money, he can do without," said Lindsey. "Clothes hangers, bent in fitting shapes covered with colored tissue paper and placed under the overhead light casts a warm and cheerful glow on any Christmas tree."

Phone Call From England

A phone call from an aunt and uncle in Bournemouth, England, made the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Grills a memorable one, December 8.

An room house was held on Dec. 16, with approximately 200 guests attending at Westminster United Church Auditorium.

Best wishes were received Mrs. Michener, Prime Minister Trudeau, Robert Stanfield, Premier William Davis, George Hees, Richard Potter and friends and relatives.

The original account of the wedding published in The Intelligencer in 1923 was read by Fred Ash, brother-in-law of Mr. Grills.

The couple has resided on a mixed fruit and dairy farm in Sidney township. They have two sons, Gordon Grills, Scarborough, and Gerald, Belleville and five grandchildren.

Turn To Sugar

Potatoes stored below 39 degrees gradually become sweet as the starch is converted to sugar.

Slides Highlight Meeting

Slides of the British Isles, shown by Mrs. George Flower and Mrs. Albert Walbridge, highlighted the December WF meeting of the Prince Edward Belleville Ladies Club.

The meeting, catered by the Victoria Park workers, was attended by approximately 120 people. Mrs. F. Henderson presided, opened the meeting.

Carols were sung with Mrs. W. Weese at the piano.

The winner of the draw was Mrs. G. White.

Mrs. F. Bedell and Mrs. F. Henderson expressed their thanks to all involved.

Keep Beets

Beets can be kept for two to three months at temperatures of 32 degrees fahrenheit and relative humidities of 90 to 95 per cent.

Paw-sing to Ponder

Lindsey Hallam of Belleville and her manx cat, Horatio, prove that home-made decorations for a Christmas tree can be pleasing to the eye and economically practical.

Christmas Meet a Success For Women's Auxiliary

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary held a Christmas Dessert Luncheon December 19 at Education Hall.

The social committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. G. G. Field had made the tables very festive using as centre decorations samples of the tray favors made by the CGIT of many churches in the city. Mrs. Ben Burley, past president presided over the election of officers for 1973.

Those elected were president Mrs. C. D. Ashley; 1st vice - president Mrs. S. B. Bochnek; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. G. A. Wilson; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. C. A. Campbell; recording secretary Mrs. F. M. Till; corresponding secretary Mrs. J. R. Sisson; treasurer Mrs. T. R. Golden.

After the luncheon, Mrs. J. E. Nelles, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. H. W. Adams, treasurer, reported a bank balance at the end of November of $1,281.26.

Mrs. S. B. Bochnek, coffee and gift shops, presented the auxiliary with cheques of $300 from the coffee shop and $360 from the gift shop. She stated that these shops would be closed on December 24, 25 and 26 and again on December 31, Jan 1 and 2.

Mrs. J. R. Sisson, chairman of the handicraft section of the gift shops, reported that the handicraft committee has been very busy doing 15 per cent of the business in the shop. The sweet trees have been a particularly popular item. The knitted items are also very popular and she expressed an especial thanks to the women from Madoc who have been contributing beautiful knitted articles.

Mrs. A. B. Duffy stated that the auxiliary membership was growing rapidly. They now have 350 members of which 105 are new members.

Mrs. George Wilson, chairman of Volunteer Hospital Services told of Santa's visit Monday to the hospital. The 70 little patients in pediatrics had a Christmas party with a puppet show and then a visit from Santa and his elves. She was assisted in the arrangements by the junior volunteers.

The older patients were not forgotten. Santa went on to third level and then to the Rehabilitation, 4th level.

Mrs. F. H. Bowler co-chairman of the Opportunity Shop, then presented a cheque for $1,200 for the past month. This shop will be closed from December 20 to January 4.

Mrs. Allan Twigg and her committee are set for Christmas day when they will look after the tray favors made by the CGIT and will see that every patient gets a gift from the auxiliary.

The hospital auxiliary annual meeting will be held at 1.30 Tuesday, January 16. The Hon. Dr. Richard Potter, minister of health, province of Ontario, will be guest speaker.

Wheat Harvest Up

The 1972 prairie wheat harvest was estimated at 533.3 million bushels, up slightly from 529.6 million bushels in 1971. Industry spokesmen fear that prairie producers, in response to higher wheat prices, may go overboard next spring in wheat planting. (CP Newsmap)

Australia and New Zealand Recognize Republic of China

From REUTER-AP

Australia and New Zealand announced today they have recognized the People's Republic of China.

Statements by the respective Commonwealth governments issued in Canberra and Wellington said each government recognizes Peking "as the sole legal government of China."

Both Australia and New Zealand have new Labor governments.

In Wellington, Prime Minister Norman Kirk of New Zealand said diplomatic relations with China were established forthwith and that relations with Taiwan (Nationalist China) had been terminated. The diplomats from Taiwan would leave New Zealand by the end of January.

In Canberra, Prime Minister Gough Whitlam said Australia would withdraw its diplomats from Taiwan before Jan. 26.

The change of policy follows the election victories by the Labor parties in Australia and New Zealand within the last month.

In Wellington, Taiwan announced it had lodged a strong protest over the move by the New Zealand government, which it said had seriously damaged the traditional relations between them.

As well as recognizing China, Australia has agreed also to establish diplomatic relations with East Germany, and now has relations with all Communist states apart from Albania, North Korea and North Vietnam.

Diplomatic sources in Canberra said that the decision to recognize China meant that from today the assets held by Taiwan's government in Australia had passed to the Peking government.

But it was understood these assets are small.

In a statement, Kirk said non-official contacts will be maintained with Taiwan for trade to continue. An exchange of ambassadors with China will take place at an early date, he said.

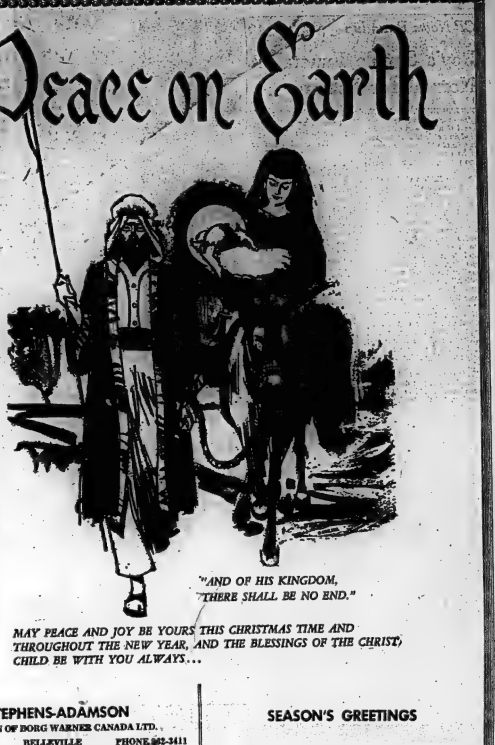
Kirk said that New Zealand will henceforth follow a more independent foreign policy.

In Canberra, Whitlam has sent a "strongly-worded" protest note to President Nixon over the renewed bombing of North Vietnam, government sources said today.

Ten-Second Test Stops Drunk Driver Starting Car

WARREN, Mich. (AP) — A 10-second test to prevent an alcohol-or drug-impaired driver from starting his car is being experimentally evaluated by the General Motors Corp.

The engineering staff at the GM Technical Centre in this Detroit suburb is testing a steering wheel which controls a needle on a "dial in the instrument panel. When the ignition is turned on, the needle starts to fluctuate. The objective is to steer well enough to keep the needle in a shaded area, allowing the driver to start the engine.



If the driver's reactions are impaired, the needle swings back and fourth outside the designated area, a red "reset" button lights and the starter is immobilized.

The driver has two more chances to pass the test. He pushes the "reset button" and the needle again begins swinging.

Whenever a driver is able to keep the needle in the centre shaded area the "pass" button lights and the car can be started.

GM officials say early experimenta indicate a 50 per cent intoxicated failure rate among persons with a blood alcohol concentration of 0.1 per cent or more, the limit of Michigan's implied consent law. No failures have occurred among sober persons currently tested, officials said.

Boy's Simple Funeral Normal for Eskimo

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — Criticism of the simple funeral of a boy who saved the life of an Arctic pilot is another example of white society imposing its cultural values on Eskimo people, says a 26-year-old Eskimo.

The two Eskimo victims of a Nov. 8 air crash in the Northwest Territories were buried in Edmonton this week. Two persons, both representatives of the territorial government, attended the ceremony.

Ald. Dave Ward of Edmonton, who is establishing a scholarship fund in memory of the Eskimo boy, said secrecy surrounding the funeral was "disgusting." He felt more people should have been allowed to honor the boys' efforts to save the pilot's life.

However, Peter Erneck of Yellowknife, editor of the bilingual Eskimo newspaper Tukidlivhut, said the simple funeral proceedings were perfectly normal by Eskimo standards.

"It is our custom that once a person is dead, you don't want to see him again," he said in an interview. "If the families had wanted to see the bodies, they certainly would have asked."

"When my father died in Churchill last year, I contacted my sister at Repulse to ask if she wanted him to be buried in his home community. She wanted to remember him the way she last saw him, not the way he was when he was dead. So my father is buried in Churchill."

The N.W.T. government, which paid funeral expenses for the two Eskimo crash victims, asked relatives in Spence Bay whether they wanted the bodies there. The relatives said no.

Mr. Erneck said a grave does not have the same value in Eskimo communities as in white communities.

"Eskimo people very seldom go to visit the grave of a dead person."

Buy Land

TORONTO (CP) — Claude Bennett, Ontario minister responsible for planning a new community northeast of Toronto, said Thursday that expropriation proceedings will begin for the required land by Feb. 9.

Mr. Bennett, minister without portfolio, said persons will have 30 days to file notice of their objections after the province has applied to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval to expropriate the land.

The community, known as Cedarwood, is designed for about 200,000 people. The government has purchased less than 35 per cent of the 35,253 acres required.

List Stolen

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Records containing names of needy families who qualify for Christmas gift donations, have been stolen from the office of a local charitable organization.

Harold Knight, executive director of the Community Welfare Council of Brantford and Brant County, said the records were the only items stolen by thieves who broke into the Christmas exchange headquarters Wednesday.

Firm Protests

OTTAWA (CP) — A Montreal-based drug company has sent a telegram to Health Minister Marc Lalonde protesting the "undue haste and implementation of unwarranted and harmful legislation" on amphetamines.

Regulations to control amphetamines go into effect Jan. 1 and Dr. A. B. Morrison of the health protection branch said Thursday he saw "no reason to change that expectation."

Service Back

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian transport commission ordered Thursday Bell Canada to restore cable television lines that the company tore down in southern Quebec Monday night.

A Quebec Superior Court judge had made a similar order Wednesday and service was restored Wednesday night.

Betting Illegal

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — A firm operating five off-track betting shops in this district and 19 persons connected with it were convicted Thursday of engaging in illegal bookmaking.

Provincial Judge Marc Girard found Greenback Investments of Toronto and the individuals guilty on five counts each. He will impose sentences Jan. 23.

Oppose Freeze

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian section of the United Automobile Workers will oppose any attempt to extend the United States government's wage freeze into Canada, the union's Canadian director said Wednesday.

Motorists' Friend

Nancy Smith, a part time office worker, demonstrates a device, called Gripper, to help cars stuck in snow extricate themselves. Gripper, invented by Mrs. Smith, is a 14-inch cast-metal plate that goes under the rear tires of a car stuck on snow or ice. (CP Photo)

Three Men Offer Eyes for $5,000

TORONTO (CP) — Three Toronto area men, searching for a way to make an otherwise bleak Christmas more cheerful, each have offered to sell one of their eyes for up to $5,000.

Anne Wolf, executive secretary, Ontario division of the Eye Bank of Canada, said Thursday each of the men has a family but no money, and is making the offer as a last resort.

Two of the men made the offer by telephone and the third by letter.

"It's really a terrible situation to be in and to make the offer, they must be at a pretty desperate stage in life," said Mrs. Wolf.

She said she urged two of the men who telephoned to seek welfare assistance, but "they simply get angry. They feel another solution to their problem has fallen through. No doubt they tried other places and failed too."

She did not identify the three.

Mrs. Wolf said she has received other letters which don't mention an eye sale, "but you realize what they are after."

She said the eye bank reaches a peak of legal donations between Dec. 12 and Jan. 5 because "people are more emotional at this time of year and a little more aware of the needs of their fellow man."

Hormone Is Produced By Synthetic Means

WASHINGTON (AP) — Identification and synthetic reproduction of the biologically active portion of human parathyroid hormone, the regulator of calcium in the bloodstream, has been achieved by American and Swiss scientists.

The U.S. government's National Heart and Lung Institute (NHLI) said Thursday the achievement opens the way to determining whether the man-made product could be used to treat or improve understanding of certain neuromuscular, bone and kidney diseases associated with parathyroid abnormalities.

The institute said the development resulted from collaborative research efforts by scientists of NHLI, the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn. and laboratories of Ciba-Geigy, Ltd. in Basel, Switzerland.

Explaining that the secret of the chemical structure of the active principle of the hormone was obtained from an analysis of the natural hormone, the NHLI said:

"Parathyroid hormone is normally present in such small amounts that hormone-secreting tumors obtained at surgery were used as the source of hormone for these studies.

"Yet, as uncommon are these tumors, that two years time and the co-operation of more than 150 institutions and individual physicians and surgeons in 11 countries were required to obtain the hundreds of frozen tumors needed for an adequate yield of hormone. These glands were collected worldwide by Dr. Claude Arnaud and colleagues at the Mayo Clinic."

Four Bombs In Mail At Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — In the midst of an avalanche of Christmas mail, post office security alert has been intensified here to guard against letter bombs entering the city.

A mail bomb campaign by Palestine guerrillas directed against prominent Jews has spread to Toronto, as post offices outside Canada have intercepted four letter bombs with Toronto addresses. Two of the bombs were bound for non-Jews.

To date, eight mail bombs have entered Canada—six to the Israeli embassy in Ottawa and two to Montreal Jews — but recipients had been warned and none of the letters exploded.

Convicted

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Anthony Crouchman, 35, a one-time candidate for Sarnia aldermen, was found guilty Thursday of stealing $12,200 from an English medical secretary.

Margaret Chatburn, 31, flew to Canada from England to give evidence at the trial. She said she met Crouchman aboard ship when immigrating to Canada in 1968.

Canadian Armed Forces Cut To Lowest Level in Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's armed forces have been reduced to about 83,000 men and women, the lowest level in many years.

Through attrition and reduced recruiting, the integrated forces have been brought down from more than 80,000 at the beginning of the year and 90,000 at the beginning of 1971.

The 85,000 is the ceiling set in the defence department white paper three years ago that also wrote defence department spending to about $1.8 billion a year until the end of the current fiscal year in March.

The white paper set this year as the target for the 83,000 figure and a defence official said Thursday that figure has been reached.

The figure compares with the peak of 787,000 in uniform during the Second World War and the 35,000 the three forces felt to in the immediate post-war years.

Korean War and NATO commitments drove the force up to 120,000 in 1959 and 1960 and to a peacetime high of 126,000 in 1965.

Since that time the size has been gradually declining, helped in part by integration of the three services.

The breakdown of the present force is about this: Mobile Command 30,000; Maritime Command 16,500; Air Defence Command 9,000; Transport Command 7,000; Training Command 12,000; various forms of communication 3,500 and NATO forces 5,000.

The figures do not take in to account staff at national defence headquarters, those on detached duty around the world and others in such places as Cyprus.

But while reducing numbers, the forces recruited more French-speaking Canadians.

The defence department is seeking to increase the percentage of Francophones to about 28 per cent, the same proportion as in the general population.

The proportion is now about 17 per cent of the 83,000 men and women, compared with about 16 per cent at the beginning of the year.

Defence officials say there is little trouble in recruiting for such traditional French regiments as the Royal 22nd Regiment, known as the Van Doos. Potential Francophone recruits are also told about French-speaking units, including a destroyer.

Windsor Busmen Strike

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — An estimated 12,000 Windsor residents who ride the bus to work daily in this city of 200,000 had to find another way to get to their jobs today when 184 members of the transit union went on strike.

The city's buses stopped rolling at the end of Thursday's runs as the members of Division 616 of the Amalgamated Transit Union walked out.

The union set up picket lines outside the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway's garage at 2 a.m. today and announced plans to picket city hall.

Union officials have said that a big stumbling block in contract talks has been a refusal by the city administrator to become involved.

The company is governed by a city-appointed board of directors, but administered by Lincoln Trent Management Ltd. Lincoln Trent has been negotiating for the city.

First Task for Haidasz Is to Explain His Task

OTTAWA (CP) — The first thing Dr. Stanley Haidasz must do with his new cabinet responsibility — multiculturalism — is explain it.

It is a task complicated by the vagueness of his position relative to the citizenship branch of the department of the secretary of state.

Citizenship, directed by Bernard Ostry, assistant undersecretary of state, has been responsible for multiculturalism since it became official policy under Prime Minister Trudeau in 1971.

It was not until after the Oct. 30 election that Dr. Haidasz became the first minister of state for multiculturalism.

Now assembling a staff of 11 to assist him, he tried Wednesday in an interview to explain how he fits into the existing pattern.

"I report to . . . rather I deal with the undersecretary of state (Jules Leger) and him (Mr. Ostry). Or rather they report to me. I mean they report to me and I deal through them with my officials here in Ottawa and in the region."

Dr. Haidasz's personal staff is separate from the multiculturalism staff within the branch.

Asked how much the election result influenced creation of his office, Dr. Haidasz said:

"Mr. Trudeau is the best man to answer that question.

"I had been making representations before about how there should be a cabinet minister or someone responsible for liaison with ethnic groups."

Multiculturalism has been defined by the prime minister as a policy which by fostering confidence in one's own ethnic identity might assure the cultural freedom necessary to "help break down discriminatory attitudes and cultural jealousies."

Recount Request Official

A judicial recount will be held on the aldermanic results of the Dec. 4 Belleville municipal election.

Civic activist Clarence Young filed a recount request Dec. 20 at the county clerk's office. He had until Dec. 21 to make the request.

Mr. Young questioned the standing of the 19 aldermen elected in view of the changes in the ranking order after a revised count announced Dec. 7.

Of particular concern to Mr. Young was the difference in the standings of the leading candidates, Stu Meeks, first alderman to have topped the polls, later dropped to third place by 1,500 votes. Ald. Arnold Orr dropped from second place to sixth by 800 votes. Mr. Young also noted the lateness in obtaining returns election night, with the two advance polls among the last to report in and two polls unreported until recently.

Mr. Young raised by private subscription the $100 required as security for the cost of the recount. The money must be deposited with the affidavit requesting the recount.

Because no county judge has been appointed to succeed retired Judge J. C. Anderson, it is expected Judge Gerald Smith of Napanee will make the recount.

Quinte Planning Board Members Ask Meeting with Consultants

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Communication and co-operation problems came to a head between the Quinte Planning Board and consulting firm Totten, Sims and Hubicki, Thursday night.

Deputy Planning Director Frank Stokmanis, at a meeting of the special committee handling Belleville's official plan, called "a top level conference between the principals of both groups to iron out everything once and for all."

Schedule breakdowns, unanswered correspondence and confusion led to flareups at recent planning board meetings.

Alderman Arnold Orr said before the meeting the problems between the two groups would have to be resolved soon if both bodies are expected to achieve the most desirable results for the city.

In his initial address, the city's deputy planning director urged the meeting be held with the utmost sweet in the opening days of the new year to resolve any problems concerning the co-operation between the planning board's staff and the consulting firm.

Ald. Orr, said he hoped "he was not treading on anyone's toes, but we are not going to pass any plan for the city before it comes under close scrutiny by our staff, necessitating the need for close contact.

"I hope we can get co-operation back on the tracks."

Mr. Stokmans commented, "we seem to be growing apart. We ask questions and get no answers."

He said the director of planning for the consulting firm will be asked to meet with Quinte Planning Board chairman Jack Bush, Belleville city manager, director and deputy planning director to discuss proposals.

Asked what alternatives were available if talks did not go well, Mr. Stokmans said "we won't fire them, we've already spent $13,000. I'm sure we'll get the co-operation we want."

A spokesman for the consulting firm, representing them in the Belleville project was quoted to have said, "leave us alone and we'll get the job done.

"This isn't what we want," said Ald. Orr. "We want a mutual co-operation as was outlined at the beginning of the meetings with the firm."

Jean Wells, representing the firm at the meeting said, "the conference should be called to clear the air."

A criticism lodged against the firm was the disruption of the original schedule.

The schedule outlined certain phases as 1) initial study, 2) alternatives, 3) drafts of official plan.

Mr. Stokmans said the initial study was "incomplete," only one alternative was finished and the already-started official plan was based on these two incomplete works.

Mr. Stokmans hoped the "top level conference" would sort this out.

School's Out

Students in public and separate schools in Hastings county will have a 10-day break during the Christmas holiday. Today is the last day for classes in 1972, and students will return to school Tuesday, Jan. 2 for the 53-day winter term that ends with the start of the nine-day mid-winter break March 17.

Altered Tickets Ruled Invalid

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Drivers awaiting trial on traffic offences other than speeding have again been granted a reprieve.

Provincial Court Judge J. L. Clendening dismissed 11 cases under the Highway Traffic Act Thursday for improperly issued tickets. The cases, all involving Ontario Provincial Police summons, were referred to him by justices of the peace.

Acting on instructions from Crown Attorney John Pringle, the OPP was drawing a line through all references to speeding, leaving only the words "did commit the offence of." The offence was then written on a line provided below.

Judge Clendenning, in a six-page ruling, declared such tickets null and void. He said the ticket, used by police forces across Ontario, is a statutory form that cannot be altered.

He then dismissed cases from Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga Townships.

The decision should affect Belleville drivers as well, all of whom fall under Judge Clendenning's jurisdiction. City police were recently directed to adopt the cross-out procedure by the Crown Attorney's office, making many tickets invalid in the judge's eyes.

Constable William Ross, court officer for Belleville OPP detachment, said officers have been instructed to issue long summons when handing out tickets for offences other than speeding. Belleville police are following the same guideline.

The standard ticket can still be used for speeding offences.

Last August, Judge Clendenning ruled the ticket was duplicitous since persons being charged could not be certain whether the offence was speeding or something else.

Since, then, the decision has been upheld by the Ontario Court of Appeal and many police forces have gone back to issuing long summonses for offences other than speeding.

Some continued to use the brief form but crossed out the word speeding, a tactic that may be nullified by Judge Clendenning's ruling.

Forty Turkeys Is Just A Start

Jim Boughen is supervising Christmas dinner at Hastings this year.

Which means cooking maybe two score turkeys, gallons of soup, bushels of potatoes and a plentiful supply of plum pudding.

Not to mention cake, fruit and other trimmings — in kingsize quantities.

It is, in fact, the biggest Christmas dinner produced in the Quinte district.

Mr. Brougheh is director of dietary services at Belleville General Hospital and, with his staff, has the Christmas menu organized well in advance.

This year, he estimates, there will be about 300 for dinner at BGH — both patients and staff.

Providing the traditional turkey - with - trimmings fare for such a number means cooking about 40 birds.

But, since it's a hospital service, catering is flexible and can adjust to meet any increase in demand, points out Mr. Boughen. Plenty of extra stores are always in stock to meet any sudden increase.

This year, dinner again will be available to husbands or wives visiting spouses spending Christmas in hospital, says Mr. Boughen.

Such a kingsize catering service has the problem familiar to every housewife — food-price inflation, and it's just that more complicated.

Unlike the domestic shopper, the hospital can't increase its budget to meet the change when prices rise as they have in the cost for meat recently.

Belleville General is a public institution and budgets are set at the start of each year.

Hastings To Get Preview

Hastings municipal officials will be able to learn at first hand how the regional government setup for the area west of Toronto could effect this county.

Clarke T. Rollins, MPP for Hastings, said yesterday that because of the concern expressed locally following his Dec. 8 meeting in Oshawa, he would have officials from the ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs come to Belleville to talk to county council and other interested parties.

Mr. Rollins said the date of the meeting had not been determined but it would be following the inaugural session of Hastings county council, possibly late in January.

At the Oshawa meeting, Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton outlined the proposed boundaries for the new regional government area which would take in the territory from Metro's eastern boundary to just west of Colborne.

Under the proposal, five Northumberland townships — Cramahe, Percy, Brighton, Seymour and Murray, along with the urban municipalities, would be attached to Hastings county, resulting in an additional 12 or more members on Hastings county council.

Mr. MacNaughton said he would accept comments on the regional government proposal until the end of February.

Another Bet Shop Operator Guilty

Another off - track betting shop manager has been convicted of bookmaking.

John Ballance, now a Napanee service station employee, will be sentenced Jan. 25 after Provincial Court Judge J. L. Clendening receives a pre-sentence report. The judge found Ballance guilty of keeping a common betting house.

Four other charges, including recording, bets, engaging in bookmaking, engaging in the business or occupation of bett ng, and transmitting bet ting information, were withdrawn by Assistant Crown Attorney Glenn Deline.

Ballance, 22, was manager of an off - track shop at 192 Front St. from June 20 to August 26, 1971. He was charged on the latter date following a raid by members of the Ontario Provincial Police Anti-Gambling Branch.

Another Front St. shop manager, John Silacott, was fined $2,000 by Judge Clendenning Tuesday on four counts involving bookmaking.

Constable Russell Clare of the anti - gambling squad, an investigator in more than 50 off-track shutdowns, said he found nothing unusual about the shop. A thorough search of the premises failed to produce any off - mutuel tickets, proof that bets were being placed at licensed racetracks.

Asked to comment on the shop's finances, Constable Clarke replied that it was a "running very much in the hole."

Ballance later testified the shop was supposed to exist on income made through the sale of racing programs.

A Toronto lawyer known as Farl-Mutuel Messenger Service ownership was registered in the name of Jack Edward Garreau, 36, pleaded guilty to 18 counts of false pretences in Belleville and Kingston between Oct. 11 and Nov. 13. He was sentenced to three months on each conviction.

Using the name Jack Reid, Garreau passed 10 bad cheques in Front St. shops within the space of one week. Five of them were for ladies' coats valued at under $200 each.

He used a different alias on six occasions in Kingston the month before, obtaining, among other things, a television set. The cheques were inscribed in the name Irvin Tilley of Prince Albert, Sask.

Counsel Bruce Karton of Trenton told Judge J. L. Clendenning that Garreau has spent more than half of the past 20 years in custody. He urged that the man receive psychiatric treatment for a neurotic condition brought on by alcohol. The judge said it is a matter custodial officials should consider.

Garreau, who disappeared from Landry Crossing Correctional Institute Oct. 5 while out on a pass, faces another charge later in Kingston for escaping custody.

Ten other charges were dropped.

Biggest Dinner of All

Biggest Christmas dinner served in the city is at Belleville General Hospital where this year dietary services director Jim Boughen (right) estimates at least 300 patients and staff will receive festive fare. Chef Murney Cooney and dietitian Hilary Clarke examine roast beef which will help get the big dinner organized.

More Jail Tacked On

A Pembroke - area prison escapee, serving a five year term for fraud, was given an additional four and a half years in Provincial Court Thursday.

Jack Edward Garreau, 36, pleaded guilty to 18 counts of false pretences in Belleville and Kingston between Oct. 11 and Nov. 13. He was sentenced to three months on each conviction.

Using the name Jack Reid, Garreau passed 10 bad cheks in Front St. shops within the space of one week. Five of them were for ladies' coats valued at under $200 each.

He used a different alias on six occasions in Kingston the month before, obtaining, among other things, a television set. The cheques were inscribed in the name Irvin Tilley of Prince Albert, Sask.

Picton Legionnaires Back Driver Education

BLOOMFIELD, (Staff) — Members of Picton branch 28, Royal Canadian Legion plan to support driver education at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute through the purchase of safety equipment for student use.

Legionnaires Harry' Sisty and Georee Wright, both constables with the Picton police department last night outlined their proposal to school trustees and sought endorsement for their plans.

Mr. Sisty said five items of safety equipment including tests for distance judgement, visual acuity, color vision, field of vision and a portable reaction timer have been suggested for student use. The total cost of this unit will be approximately $310 and legionaires are prepared to meet it if the board gives permission for installation of the equipment.

Chairman James Plomer said he was "delighted" to see legion members take an interest in this aspect of education and he termed it "a very public spirited gesture, indeed." Trustees approved installation of the safety equipment to be purchased by legion members.

Mr. Sisty said the unit could be used to teach from 18 to 20 students at once and observed PECI will have one of the first driver control centres in the province controlled by a school board committee and installed by the legion branch.

The equipment will be provided to the school with the understanding that the unit may be borrowed when convenient, by service clubs for demonstration purposes. Also, the Picton police department will incorporate it in a display at the Prince Edward County fair.

Constable Sisty described it as "a great thing for the community." Fellow police constable George Wright commented that safety is difficult to sell, although thousands are killed annually in car accidents. He said these accidents are collisions caused by human failure, irresponsible drivers and a lack of driver education. The legion branch is wholeheartedly in support of the purchase of the equipment, according to Mr. Wright.

All Take Part In Yule Service At Frankford

The annual Christmas service of the Frankford Free Methodist Sunday School was held recently with the participation of all classes.

Richard Twiddy, superintendent, welcomed everyone and expressed appreciation for the decorations provided by the teen class.

With a program consisting of congregational exercises, solos, carols, and musical arrangements, it was obvious that those who took part in the presentation had put forth a good effort.

A time of fellowship hosted by the church council and the distribution of Christmas treats by Ken Thompson concluded the evening.

New Trustee On the Job

PICTON (Staff) — Picton lawyer William Lane, who defeated school trustee Lloyd Seeley in recent municipal elections, attended his first meeting of the Prince Edward County board of education last night. Mr. Lane is the only new board member this year. He retired from the department to seek election as a trustee.

Best Lights Win Cash

TWEED (Staff) — Christmas lighting in this village was judged last night by A. H. Beech, superintendent of the community centre for the Ontario Hydro Regional Office in Belleville.

Grand prize winner was Clive Kingston, who received $25. Second prize winner was Sean Goulah, who received $20 and prize winner was Mrs. Bernadette Gabourie who received $15.

The four runners-up, who won $10 each were Andy Regan, Ken Marshall, Gil Cotton and Arnold Montgomery.

Eight residences won honorable mention. Their owners are Ralph Smith, Ken Little, Doug Spencer, Walter Bolster, Bob Armstrong, Terry LeSage, Bill Summers and Robert Wood.

Marmora Council Checks Projects

MARMORA (Special) — Marmora village council is looking for possible winter works projects in the event of the provincial-municipal work initiative program. Information on the federal make-work program for this winter has also been received and will be studied for possible participation.

Village council at its December meeting was told that both the old and new waste disposal sites continue to be a problem for the village municipality.

Of special concern is the number of fires at the new site necessitating several trips by the fire department. Under the terms of the agreement, covering which is proving very costly.

Clerk William Shannon was directed to write the waste management branch of the ministry of the environment to state council is doing everything possible to achieve its regulations regarding closing the old site and maintenance of the new dump.

Council also learned that the Marmora arena has been booked solid for the season and that the caretakers, Mr. Auger and Mr. Bedore were doing an excellent job.

Two fire exit signs were ordered for the arena. During discussion it was felt the fire chief's duties should include checking of all public buildings to see there were adequate fire exits and that the buildings were equipped with fire extinguishers.

Bruins Claw Red Wings 8-1

By LLOYD JOHNSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Just when Detroit Red Wings were showing signs of a resurgence they were confronted by Boston Bruins, the Stanley Cup defending champions.

KEN HODGE

The Bruins, stalking the National Hockey League Eastern Division leaders, Montreal Canadiens, were in a mean mood. They clawed the Wings 8-1 Thursday night before a capacity crowd of 15,003.

"They've had the killer instinct for awhile now," said Boston coach Tom Johnson, savoring the victory that moved Bruins within a point of the Canadiens. "They used to be satisfied to get a couple of goals each and sit back—not anymore."

While the Bruins were demolishing the Wings, Atlanta Flames signed New York Rangers' Jean Ratelle. Philadelphia Flyers defeated Los Angeles Kings 6-3 and Vancouver Canucks tied New York Islanders 4-4.

Mike Walton and Ken Hodge led the Bruins with two goals each, while Mickey Redmond was the only Red Wing able to beat John Adams. Phil Esposito, the NHL's scoring leader, deposited his 31st of the season to stay five points ahead of challenger Jacques Lemaire of the Canadiens.

Johnson was also enthusiastic about Adams' work in goal. The victory for the rookie was his sixth against one defeat and a tie.

"I was exceptionally impressed by Adams," Johnson said. "He looks as though he's got confidence and he's getting better every game."

"I guess I have gained a lot of confidence since I began this season," Adams said. "I'm not as nervous as I was. But it's not my nature to get worked up."

The Flames scored three goals in the first period to take command against the Rangers. John Stewart paced the Atlanta attack with a pair of goals.

The Rangers were handicapped, however, through injuries. They played without left wingers Ted Irvine and Gene Carr. Both were hurt in Wednesday night's game in St. Louis.

Irvine will be out for a month with strained ligaments in his right knee and Carr will miss from four to six weeks with a broken collarbone.

The Rangers, meanwhile, have called up forwards Bill Heindl and Jerry Butler from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League as replacements.

The New York team lost two more players Thursday. Rod Gilbert suffered a bruised left knee and Vic Hadfield was cut under his left eyebrow. Both sat out the third period.

General manager-coach Emile Francos was non-committal when asked if he thought Gilbert and Hadfield would be available for Rangers next game Sunday.

"We'll count noses after Saturday and see what we've got," Francos said with a shrug.

The Flyers were grounded by a series of incidents that required them to make an all-day trip to Philadelphia from Chicago. But they still had enough aplomb to humble the Kings.

The game had to be delayed half an hour because of the late arrival of the Philadelphia team which had expected to take a charter flight from Chicago Wednesday. It was cancelled by an O'Hare Airport plane accident in which nine persons died.

Saints Find Way To Halt Jets' Hull

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association profess to have found a way to stop Bobby Hull—and the proof of the pudding is in the eating.

The Saints paralyzed brilliant goaltending and tight checking Thursday night to shut out Winnipeg Jets 3-0 and climb to within four points of the Western Division leaders.

Excellent work in goal by veteran Jack McCartan, a last-minute replacement for injured Mike Curran, who weathered a 32-shot attack, was a big plus for the winners, but coach Glen Sonmor paid tribute to his team's defensive tactics.

How do you stop Hull?

"It's easy," says Sonmor. "Don't give him a chance to wind up."

In other games, Cleveland Crusaders defeated New York Raiders 6-2, Los Angeles Sharks tied Ottawa Nationals 4-4 in overtime and Alberta Oilers edged New England Whalers 5-4.

A crowd of 6,022 turned out to see the game at St. Paul, marking Hull's first appearance of the season in Minnesota.

But Bobby was shadowed relentlessly.

"Whoever was out there just gave him special attention," said Sonmor. "We try to reach him at the same time as the puck and not give him a chance to wind up and fire."

Mel Pearson's two third-period goals provided all the offence the Saints needed.

The Saints said Curran will be lost to the team for a week to 10 days. He has a severe case of tendonitis in his right leg. Minnesota also lost the services of defenceman Mike McMahon for at least seven days. He suffered a broken blood vessel in his thigh at practice Thursday.

The Crusaders closed to within four points of the Whalers, leaders of the Eastern Division.

Gary Jarrett was the big gun for Cleveland, scoring two goals, including the winner in the second period. The Crusaders dislodged the Raiders from second place.

A power-play goal by Bill Hicke at 16:04 of the third period propelled the Oilers to victory at Edmonton. Alberta capitalized on a tripping penalty to Kevin Ahearn.

The Oilers trailed 1-0, 3-1 and 4-3 before they rallied.

The tying goal was scored by Jim Harrison, his second of the season and his 12th of the season. It was Harrison's first scoring achievement since returning to the lineup last Friday from a knee injury that sidelined him for three weeks.

Kings Smash Hull

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barring an unexpected upheaval in the New Year, the Central Junior Hockey League appears to have settled down for a two-division race.

On top are Pembroke Lumber Kings and Ottawa Rangers while trailing in the distance are Brockville Braves, Smiths Falls Bears, Nepean Raiders and Hull Festivals.

After playing every team in the league just once, the Kings laid permanent claim to the top spot with Ottawa never far behind. Hull and Nepean battled against being the last-placed team through early going with Nepean coming out the winner and moving into the shifting battle of the middle three teams. The Festivals never got untracked and have won only three of their 30 games.

So it was Thursday with the Kings hammering the Festivals 6-2 and the Rangers dropping the Raiders 6-3.

Neither winner was seriously threatened in their victory with the Kings paced by Pat Hahn's three goals and the Rangers by two goals from Norm Mcleod.

Fill up the holidays with many happy memories. Our thanks for letting us serve you.

Dixie Lee Fried Chicken peewee minor goalie Bob Hedge (on left) and Kinsmen Club bantam major goalie Bruce Hamilton will be in the nets against American hockey teams in the Tam O'Shanter International Invitational Hockey Tournament. Peewee goalie Don Cook and bantam Mark Meens will share the goal tending duties against teams from Syracuse and Rhode Island in the December 27-30 meeting.

Moira Wrestlers Pinned

Quinte won the meet with a team total of 62 points while Centennial followed with 45 and Moira with 34.

Moira's Paul Hall, wrestling in the 132 pound class, contributed to the Trojan point total with his pin of Centennial's Robert Wellman.

Centennial wrestler John Dworzuk won both his bouts in the 126 pound class as he pinned Moira's Neil Leforte and Quinte's Bob Andrews.

In two close contests, Moira wrestler Greg McCawley won both his bouts by points. McCawley downed the Chargers Tom Green 3-1 and the Saints Davie Danos 3-2.

Tam O'Shanter Holds Christmas Tournament

By AL ZABAS
Staff Sportswriter

The Kinsmen Club bantams majors will be meeting the American competition in the Tam O'Shanter International Invitational Hockey Tournament next week flying the orange and white colors of Belleville.

The Kinsmen will see competitive ice time against a bantam team from Syracuse while the Dixie Lee Fried Chicken peewee minors will take on a team from Rhode Island as well as a Syracuse peewee entry.

The round robin international tournament, which will be held between December 27-30, originally had 12 teams scheduled according to Larry Hughes, director of the Tam O'Shanter Hockey School, but Agincourt peewees and Ithaca (New York) bantams dropped out.

Double teams from Syracuse, Belleville, Trenton, and Picton will be playing the four day tournament while Ottawa and Rhode Island will send bantams and peewee teams respectively.

"The main idea of the tournament," said Hughes, "was to give the boys more ice time, more games with teams that they normally wouldn't play. It's not out to be a big tournament.

"This gives the boys a chance to go on a little trip, to see country they've never seen before. It wouldn't be good for them to lose by a great deal either, so I didn't want teams that couldn't compete."

According to Hughes, the tournament is "an attempt to expanding our program from just a summer time thing to year round activities. I'm hoping that this tournament will be successful."

To the members of the Quinte Planning Area Board and staff, my thanks to you all for your efforts.

To the members of the Lower Trent Conservation Authority and staff goes my appreciation for your co-operation in our efforts to conserve some of our natural environment.

I hope I have added some small contribution towards a better community to live and work in and hope I can continue to serve this community in some small way.

May 1972 be a prosperous and Happy Year for all of you.

May your door be opened wide
